Add to do Thy will with meekness
Thou to whom all my powers belong

There is no good in praying for anything unless you will take to try for it. All the sighs and supplications in the world will not bring wisdom to the soul that fills itself with folly every day, or mercy to the soul that sinks itself in sin, or usefulness and truth to the life that wastes itself in vanity and insanity

—Henry J. Van Dyke

Opinion Wasn't Worth Much

It is told of a popular solicitor that he called upon a brother in the profession, and asked his opinion upon a certain point of law. The lawyer to whom the question was addressed drew himself up and observed: "I generally get paid for what I know." The questioner drew a half dollar from his pocket, handed it to the other and coolly remarked: "Tell me all you know and give me the change"

The Man With Asthma

The Man With Asthma almost longs for death to end his suffering. He sees ahead only years of endless misery with intervals of relief which are themselves fraught with never ceasing fear of renewed attacks. Let him turn to Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy and learn from what complete relief it can give. Let him try it and if faithfully and he will find his asthma a thing of the past.

Kitscoty Farmer Killed By Wagon

Horse Takes Fright, Throws Driver Under Wheels of Vehicle

Ben Hallam, a farmer living south of Kitscoty, was fatally injured Saturday evening when the wagon in which he was driving home from town, was struck by the big motor truck of the Superior Lumber Yards limited. On being picked up it was found that the wagon had run over his stomach and that his body was otherwise badly crushed.

He was taken to the local hotel where medical aid was summoned but he died a few hours after without having recovered consciousness.

Hallam was about sixty years of age and leaves a wife and two sons.

An investigation into the accident showed that the horse was blinded by the lights from the truck and becoming unmanageable swerved from one side of the road to the other.

The truck was stopped but the horse suddenly jumped and threw Hallam. He fell underneath the wheels. The driver did all that was humanly possible to avoid an accident. The inquiry exonerated him from all blame.

The later report goes into A.P.P. headquarters by the Lloydminster constable, does not say that the man was run over, but that he had been under-going treatment for a severely ulcerated stomach and that death was probably due to an internal hemorrhage caused by being thrown from the buggy to the road

Opening Dance Of Season This Friday Night

Under Auspices of Queen Esther Chapter, O.E.S.

What promises to be a gala affair is the dance scheduled for the Community hall this Friday evening when the O.E.S. stage their opening ball of the season. The dance commences at 8.30 p.m. admission being $1.00 per couple. The Mead orchestra will be in attendance and refreshment will be served at midnight.

This will probably be the last dance in the Community hall under its present management, as rumors are current that the C.N.R. Community Club will dismantle the hall shortly, as it is being taken over by the military authorities

High School Boy Victim Of Gun Accident

Frank Welsh Loses Right Arm

Frank Welsh, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Welsh, had the lower portion of his right arm shattered last Monday afternoon while out shooting with Mr. Welsh and younger brother Kenneth.

Frank was in the back seat of the car, when chickens were sighted. He leaned over to draw the gun from the front seat to the back, preparatory to getting out of the car, and in some manner the hammer of the gun caught and the drawn back sufficiently to discharge the shell, the complete charge entering the right arm between the elbow and wrist, and shattering the bone. The accident occurred about fifteen miles north of town and he was rushed to the local hospital where amputation below the elbow was found necessary.

At time of writing "Tex" was progressing quite well and was cheerful in spite of the tragedy; he is naturally left handed. Frank is a grade XII student of the local high school, and had only returned for the present term last Monday, having spent a portion of his holidays employed on a big combined harvester in Islay district

Farmers Advised To Secure Seed Oats Early

One of the most serious effects of the past dry season will be a shortage of good seed oats for next year's crop in some sections of the province. Farmers in these areas are being advised by the Department of Agriculture to lose no time in securing the seed supply they will require for spring

There will be little difficulty in supplying the demand from other parts of the province where a heavier yield of the coarse grains was harvested but it will be necessary to know the requirements of the drier districts as early date. Already a considerable demand has reported from outside the province, and buyers are booking orders for a large quantity of seed oats to be shipped out of Alberta before best spring

In order that Alberta farmers may be assured of their seed supply what grain of a good quality is available they are advised to communicate at once with their local elevator agent so that arrangements can be made for any necessary shipments before seeding time.

SUCCESSFUL BAND CONCERT

The concert given in the Columbia Theatre on Sunday evening last proved to be one of the finest ever presented under the auspices of the Vermilion Citizens' Band The band is in splendid form for the occasion while all the assisting artists gave of their best.

Mrs Lorne McLean, who sang a delightful number by Spross Last season been heard to better advantage and the audience demanded an encore.

In a sparkling pianoforte duet "The Flight of the Ogaios" Miss Joan Craig and Miss Isabell McKone displayed commendable command of the keyboard and their performance received marked approval

Miss Myrtle McDonald, who is the wife of Wilfrid Sanderson, appeared in ballads gave a most artistic rendition, and was obliged to respond to an encore.

An outstanding feature of the programme was the remarkable cornet playing of Mr. W. Townsend, who is a retired leader of the North Battleford band. His solos were rendered with exceptional beauty of tone and execution being perfect in every respect. His technique was of the highest order and the instrument which he handled in addition of an apparently ancient make—was a brass—and in characteristic style by Mr. Tom Waits, who gave a skilful interpretation to the number.

Mr Albert West fully sustained his reputation as a vocalist of unusual ability in the selection entitled "Mavrina" by Oley Speaks which was well received.

The Vermilion Citizens' Band, under the capable leadership of Bandmaster W. B. Elford, gave a highly creditable performance, the "Western World" overture" and the selection "Gems from the Operas" being played with rhythmic precision and unusually good tonal balance.

Noted Girl Guide Leader Will Inspect Alberta Companies

Chinese Massacre Modern

Three Thousand Slain Because They Rebelled Against Authorities

Reports from Central Kansan province stated that Chinese had executed an appalling massacre of Moslems there, the victims numbering at least 3,000. Details were lacking, but it seems the Moslems rebelled against Chinese authorities, whereupon they were slain

According to reports, the executions were carried out under guise of a conference with the Moslems. The victims were separated from their wives and then put to death. According to the reports the Moslems died stoically

It is indicated that the Chinese now fear Moslem retaliation, possibly causing renewed civil war, which in 1918 caused the death of many thousands of Chinese and Moslems in Kansu.

London is now regarded as the centre of the stamp collecting world.

Flowers From Prairie Flourish In France

Wild Cresus Decorates Graves Of Soldiers

The prairie anemone, familiarly called the wild crocus, blooms on the graves of Canadian soldiers in France W. L. Ramsay of Blackworth, Saskatchewan, sent the seed across. Three of Mr. Ramsay's sons went overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Force and two are buried in Flanders fields. Mr Ramsay has had word from Captain J. S. Parker, one of the staff concerned in the care of soldiers' graves, that the anemone seed has blossomed into flower. The mauve of the petals has appeared as dark purple, a change which is thought to be due to oxide of iron from shells imbedded in the ground.

Captain Parker, who homesteaded in Western Canada and knows the wild flowers of the country, writes Mr Ramsay asking for specimens of prairie wild lily—the amaryllis, as it is correctly named. He agrees with Mr. Ramsay that a display of Canadian flowers from the prairies would be an appropriate decoration for the graves of Canada's soldiers and bacteriologist- Fridelmann. Shoenbener and Schloss - have confirmed previous experiments which indicate a cid discovery of anti-cancer serum

The History Of Vaccination

Vaccination Recognized As the Only Efficient Means By Which Small-Pox Can Be Controlled

Sir William Osler, the famous medical man, once remarked that, "There is always a group of individuals in every community at that peculiar order of mind which renders them incapable of sane judgment and who seek in every way to oppose vaccination and re-vaccination, not only for themselves but also for others."

We have found this to be so in Canada, and we have not the slightest doubt that if a small-pox epidemic were to make its ghastly presence felt tomorrow, there would be the usual handful of people to raise a hue and cry against vaccination.

Yet vaccination is recognized by all public health administrators as being the only efficient means by which this disease can be combatted. And it is equally true that vaccination properly performed is absolutely devoid of danger to life or health

Let us look back into the pages of history and find out what was going on before vaccination was introduced. We find that not ten years passed during the seventeenth century without the occurrence of devastating epidemics of small-pox in Europe. Small-pox was the king of diseases prior to the discovery of vaccination in 1798. A French writer, Monsieur de la Condamine, said that it was the cause of one-tenth of all the deaths among mankind.

Macaulay, the English historian, in his history about conditions in his country says: "The havoc of the black plague has been far more rapid, but the plague visited our shores only once within the living memory, but the small-pox was always present, filling the churchyards with corpses, tainting the breath of every street, spared the hideous traces of its power, turning the babe into a changeling, the nurse into a mourner, making the eyes and cheeks of the betrothed maiden objects of horror to her lover."

In fact, Macauley concludes, "Smallpox is the most terrible of all ministers of death."

Mexico was stricken with an epidemic in the sixteenth century, and 3,500,000 of its inhabitants died, leaving scarcely enough people in some centres to bury the dead. The historian Godfrey records that 2,000,000 of Russia's population died of small-pox in a single year. Whole tribes of American Indians were wiped off the face of the earth by the scourge. Before there was vaccination in the British navy, one fifth of all the sailors under the age of manhood, Sir Gilbert Blane tells us in his writings. In 1853, whole races of men in Brazil were red checked when it invaded by the disease seventeen times prior to 1797. In Cronin's history of Devonshire it is said that in that year 18,000 people died of small-pox out of a population of 56,000. The dead were so many that the houses were depopulated, misery was everywhere.

Nowadays, while we encounter small-pox in serious proportions, there is nothing to watch these figures in present day history. If you see, we have plenty of reason to be grateful to Dr. Edward Jenner, the Englishman who gave vaccination to the world.

Vaccination was discovered by Jenner, an Englishman. About 1780, a dairymaid living near Bristol visited a young student named Jenner, Although she was suffering from a mild attack of cowpox, Jenner found that was not possible for her to get small-pox because she had already had the cow-pox.

This little incident had the same effect on Jenner as the falling apple had on Newton. The young student started thinking, and it was not long before he was a world-renowned scientist. As a result of his experiments, six years later, he inoculated an eight-year-old boy from one of his patients who had cow-pox. A mild case of cow-pox ensued with no serious effect. Two months later the boy was inoculated from a pustule of a patient suffering from small-pox. No illness resulted and it was repeated, then time and time again effects, the young scientist Jenner knew that he had discovered something He gave his knowledge to the world in the form of a paper published in London.

On this continent the first vaccination performed was by Dr. Boylston on his own son in Boston. In one year after this he inoculated 247 people, and every one escaped the terrible epidemic that had engulfed New England at that time.

Of course, there was a violent demonstration against Dr. Boylston as might be expected. Even some members of his own profession turned against him. From the pulpit he was railed against and treated with calumny. Every method of intolerance was used, just as they are used today. Ben Johnson was one of the scoffers and he wrote that, "I will ne'er owe my health to a disease." Benjamin Franklin opposed inoculation for his children, but when he lost his own son through small-pox, he became a staunch advocate, and in his autobiography bitterly lamented the fact that he had not had the boy vaccinated.

No one will readily see that vaccination has its support in history, as well as the support of virtually every doctor of standing on the continent. From the time when it was first discovered, vaccination has steadily grown in value to man.

There is an abundance of evidence to be obtained for those people who sincerely want to weigh the facts between the dangers of small-pox as a disease, and the harmlessness of vaccination as a preventive. People of sound judgment will not hesitate which to choose.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

BANANA CUSTARD WHIP

1 package lemon junket.
1 pint milk.
3 bananas.
1 egg white.
cup sugar.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Warm the milk until lukewarm—not hot- and dissolve the lemon junket in it. Have two of the bananas sliced into the dessert glasses; pour junket over them. Let stand in warm place until set; then chill. Mash the remaining banana, add egg white, sugar and lemon juice, beating until thick. Add as topping when ready to

PICKLED BEETS

Pickled sweet red peppers make a delightful garnish for cold meats or salads. Wash and dry peppers thoroughly. Cut a small piece from the stem end and remove seeds. Cut either in thin strips with scissors or into ribbons by scraping knife blade and around the pepper with a sharp knife. Soak well then drop into ice water to crisp. Drain well. Make a syrup, using a proportion of one cup sugar to two cups vinegar. Put peppers into clean, hot jars, fill to overflowing with hot syrup and seal.

Permanent Civil Servants

1,000 Employees Of Federal Government Assist Alaska New Stores

With the passing of an order-in-council, which has an important bearing on the pensions branch of the Department of Pensions and National Health, 1,000 employees in this branch become permanent civil servants. It dates from June 1. The pensions branch of the department has now been made permanent, and the civil service commission has taken this employment established in this work.

About 650 government employees at Ottawa are directly affected by the change, about 450 in Toronto, 200 in London, Ont.; 138 in Vancouver, 55 in Winnipeg, 73 in Calgary, and smaller numbers in other Canadian cities where the department operates hospitals for disabled veterans.

KEEPING FIT FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS

Golden Text: "Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God? and ye are not your own, for ye were bought with a price: glorify God therefore, in your body." —1 Corinthians 6.19, 20.

Lesson: Daniel 1.8-20; Corinthians 9.25-27; 1 Timothy 4.7-12; 2 Timothy 2.1-5.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 68.1-6, 32-35.

Explanations and Comments

The young men who gave up wine and dainties for water and plain fare were strong both physically and intellectually. Their fine appearance was noteworthy; and, best of all, not only were they fatter and healthier for their abstinence, but their brains were clearer and they had more knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom.

The result of the experiment was no surprise to them. A newspaper contains an account of an experiment made in the village of Hickington, England, which was a surprise to the drinkers themselves. Some of the villagers were so bogged by the taunts of the keepers of the beer-shops that they resolved to support the temperance Bill twelve months. At the end of the year the keepers of seven out of the eight beer-houses found that they must have to give up their business, and the advantages to peace and health of the abstainers were evidently so great that many others of the Hickington villagers joined them. Almost the whole village are now members of the "Wetherall Temperance League," as it is now called, for its political character has long been in sight of in its temperance interest.

As the report from the Bible says, drink wonderfully affect body and mind, that intoxicating drinks and sumptuous diet are harmful to both. Insurance companies have recognized this; their tables show that intemperate habits shorten life. Physicians say that alcohol is a preventive. Food-value of beer grains from last year, and also higher prices for the grain crops of this year, are anticipated. See the local Sun Life representative.

The current Sun Life dividend scale produces remarkable results, and will give you greater returns than you anticipate. See the local Sun Life representative.

West Going Ahead

Development Taking Place On All Sides Says C. N. R. President

"There is a silver lining to the cloud insofar as the situation in western Canada is concerned," stated Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, on returning to his office in system headquarters, Montreal, after a tour which took him throughout the western provinces and to the Pacific Coast. "While it is true that the west is not harvesting such a voluminous crop as in average years, and it is also true that some farmers and some districts are hard hit, it -must be remembered that there are districts and farmers in those districts who have harvested better crops than they anticipated a short time ago, and who are reaping the benefit of higher prices from their held-over grain from last year, and also higher prices for the grain harvested at the present time.

"The west has gone ahead and is going ahead; building up on a basis of permanent progress and going from the east cannot fail to be impressed with the same development which is taking place on all sides.

"On the Pacific Coast in particular, the development of trade with the Orient is being closely followed, and there is also a keen realization of the fact that Canada is sharing and will share to a greater degree in the further development of that trade," Sir Henry said, concluding with the statement that he had appreciated the properties of the system in each of the provinces visited and he had found things in good condition everywhere with the officers and employees keenly on the alert to provide the best service to its patrons.

Hanged With Harvest

A census clerk in scanning one of the forms to see if it had been properly filled up, noticed the figures "190" and "112" under the heading "Age of father, if living," and "Age of mother, if living." "But your parents were never so old, were they?" asked the astonished clerk. "Yes," was the reply, "but they would have been if living."

"Are you really a doctor of philosophy now?"

"Yes."

"Well, tell me how to keep my temper when the cleaner ruins my best frock."

When Babies CRY

CASTORIA

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of these little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is not the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

GUARDING SUNDAY IN CANADA.

The Lord's Day Alliance of Canada is celebrating its "Fortieth Anniversary" by a donation wide educational campaign in the interests of Sunday observance. It is the conviction of this organization, as the result of forty years' experience in guarding Sunday in Canada, that such a work of moral reform should, generally speaking, be prosecuted by education rather than force. Its history justifies the policy which was adopted at the beginning and which found expression in the slogan "Education, not dictation, persuasion, not coercion." Even the Lord's Day Act which guarantees a weekly day of rest for the people of Canada, like any such law, upon public approval The Sunday problem today in Canada is essentially a rural one.

The campaign which is being carried out through editorial, radio, educational and publicity agencies as well as by circulation of literature is being assisted by the post office department at Ottawa by the issue of a cancellation stamp to be used on letters passing through post offices of the cities from Halifax to Vancouver during October and November bearing the words "GUARD SUNDAY"

It is interesting to note that in spite of high prices on the open market during August and September the membership has been increased. Certainly there are many farmers who are coming to realize the tremendous advantage the Wheat Pool has been to all grain producers in Canada and are as a consequence aligning themselves with the movement

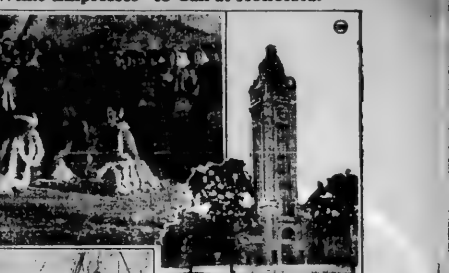
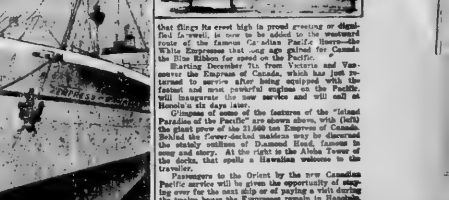
"White Empresses" to Call at Honolulu.



Hon olulu, famous for its lovely Hawaiian dancers, the splendid-physiqued swimmers, wrestling of Duke Kahanamoku, Waikiki Beach and lordly Diamond Head



Out flings the crest high in proud greeting or digni- fied farewell, is now to be added to the westward route of the famous Canadian Pacific liners—the White Empresses that sang age gained for Canada the Blue Ribbon for speed on the Pacific.

Starting December 7th from Victoria and Vancouver the Empress of Canada, which has just returned to service after being equipped with the fastest and most powerful engines on the Pacific, will inaugurate the new service and will call at Honolulu six days later.

Passengers to the Orient by the new Canadian Pacific service will be given the opportunity of staying over for the next ship or of staying a visit during the time the Empresses remain in Honolulu. Visitors to the Islands who plan to leave Jack Frost behind have many options for their return voyage. Several lines have co-operated with the Canadian company, and, after a long lazy winter on the sands of Waikiki Beach, travellers may return to Vancouver by the Canadian Australasian Royal Mail Line direct, or may come back by a Matson Line steamer to Portland, Seattle or San Francisco, or by Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

The straight line

The geometrical axiom that the straight line is the shortest distance between two points is equally true of advertising. Advertising offers the shortest route between seller and buyer.

Reading advertisements saves time. By reading the advertisements in your newspaper you learn of the things you want and need; you learn where they are for sale and for how much. The advertisements enable you to weigh and choose even before you lay down your paper.

Advertisements are money savers because they enable you to secure better quality for the money you invest. They enable your dollar to purchase its full value in merchandise. Advertisements will keep you posted on every development that affects you, your wife and children, your home and your business.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper. The time you spend in reading them represents time and money saved when you buy.

Everyone should read advertisements as he does the news

Home Nursing And First Aid

BY EDNA KELLS.

That an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure is the gospel which the Home Nursing lecturer stresses in connection with the short course of lectures on home nursing [illegible] Conroy. Miss Conroy, a nurse with [illegible] the greater part of her [illegible] Alberta as an [illegible] particularly well qualified for this [illegible] It is not every nurse who is so gifted with tender[illegible] and that understanding sympathy so necessary in her work but to the [illegible] and to the nurse will [illegible] the door through which [illegible] pass

Home nursing is strongly [illegible] the [illegible] Alberta have been received [illegible] the Department of Public Health and it would be [illegible] that many [illegible] would be [illegible] to [illegible] course.

To most communities illness of some kind comes occasionally if not [illegible] people escape the colds and measles, they do well, but babies are sure to come. If not in the home, in the neighbor's home. No hearty boys or girls managed to grow up without catching their fingers or taking an occasional tumble, and it is just as well that mother knows what to do when John Henry has an eye, or Mary skins her knee. Women are wakening to the fact that many of the old treatments were not founded on commonsense, and that science has discovered but few methods of dealing with these conditions. The home nursing lecture or is instructing them along modern lines of handling such ills as they may be called to.

It was in the town of Magrath that Miss Conroy, the lecturer, was "born and bred." In spite of extreme heat and the pressure of harvesters a larger group of women and girls assembled day after day for the home nursing course. Attended steadily and asked many questions which showed their interest was far from superficial. It was learned that some of these women had served two months in both by harvesters, and planned two more to be summoned before the sun set, one realized that they felt the course worth while.

Monday's lecture had to do with the routine care of the sick. More specific directions were included in Tuesday's lecture which consisted of advice as to the care of patients suffering from contagious and infectious diseases. First aid emergency were dealt with in Wednesday's lecture, and on Thursday the lecturer dealt with maternity work.

Miss Conroy stressed also the importance of preventive measures, quarantining contagious cases, sterilization, a pure water supply, and sanitary toilets. She taught the women to make use in nursing of the simple facilities they are likely to have at home.

In 1928, 3911 women and many girls attended Miss Conroy's lectures. This year they have turned out in even greater numbers. A local organization assumes the responsibility of securing a hall and making the necessary arrangements which includes negotiating with the Department of Public Health. Miss Conroy does the rest. In Magrath, the Women's Institute, the first organization under the legislation passed last winter, arranged the course.

Miss Conroy's work is not over when she finishes her lectures. At every point she is asked to visit the schools, look over the nursery arrangements, and make suggestions as to how they may be improved. After the visit she makes a layout of conditions identified that school and tells the women how they may be brought about. Sometimes the teacher has difficulties which call for outside advice. Certain pupils may also be problems beyond the understanding of the teacher. The nurse visits the home and diplomatically endeavors to find out where the difficulty lies, and to remedy it. New Canadians are visited, welcomed and given advice that will help them fit into Canadian ways. Miss Conroy invariably finds these newcomers appreciative of the little attention.

Sometimes Miss Conroy lends a hand to the local doctor in the form of a nurse for very sick patients who are unable to secure one for themselves. Sometimes she is called upon to give first aid to the injured. Sometimes she is called upon to give first aid to the injured. Sometimes she is sought to give advice to people who are taking treatment from a doctor. Time at a distance will not allow of her them frequently. They may be puzzled as to their progress and need a word of assurance that all is going well, or a suggestion that they had better make a point of seeing the doctor at once.

It is little wonder then that her gray car is widely known, and that the lecturer herself is one of the most popular visitors in Alberta.

Reports Theft Of Grain

J. W. Hobbs & Son Have 150 Bushels of Wheat Lifted from Granary

J. W. Hobbs who with a son farms the N ½ of 4-50-6, south of town, reports to the Standard that between Sunday and Tuesday last some 150 bushels of wheat were stolen from a granary on the farm located about three-quarters of a mile from the house. Tracks clearly indicate that a truck was used in moving the grain. This is the second theft of grain from the same farm within the year, the first taking place early last spring when the guilty party was brought to justice.

In a season of small crops, coupled with long illness in the family the result of scarlatina, makes this loss to Mr. Hobbs a severe one, and he feels keenly, and under the circumstances he is offering a substantial reward for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party or parties.

High School Notes

The High School dance was carried through last Friday night. The specially rooms and lobby were tastefully decorated in the school colors and afforded a brilliant scene for the first time. The crowd was not as large as we anticipated, but all seemed to have a good time, especially when the refresh and lunch arrived.

We wish to express our sympathy for Frank Welch and Bob Harper and to extend our silvery hopes for a speedy recovery.

The School is severely crippled this week. With two seriously ill men boys in the hospital and Mr. Markle "wrapped in bandages" we are very handicapped.

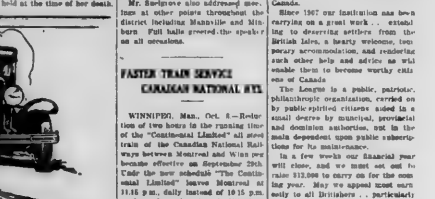
The Cadets have been organized with Art Wise as Platoon Commander, Maurice Fuller second in command and Jack Enstis and Ken Curran as section leaders.

FUNERAL OF MRS. EGO

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ego, who died at the Vermilion District Hospital on Friday evening, Oct. 4th, was held Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Anglican church, the services being conducted by the Rev. S. H. Goodge. The coffin was filled with floral tributes of the district of Wildale, showing the esteem in which she was held.

Favorite hymns of the deceased were sung and a comforting sermon delivered by the vicar. Following the service the funeral cortege proceeded to the Wildale cemetery where the remains were laid to rest in the family plot, amidst surroundings which the deceased had loved so well.

Mrs. Ego was one of the first white women to locate in the Wildale district. She was an native worker in the Wildale W. A., being president for a number of years and which office she held at the time of her death.



Don't buy any car until you have driven Chevrolet

It's all very well to listen to the sales talk of car salesmen, but after all, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. It's all very well to sit back and wonder how Chevrolet can produce a really high-class motor car at such low prices, but after all, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. It is by actual test that you will learn for yourself how Chevrolet has built a number of important advantages into it . . . equip it in the most desirable way . . . and manufactured it and sold it at the lowest price of a year.

That is why we urge you . . . as soon as you can . . . to drive Chevrolet before you buy any car.

If you don't sell yourself a Chevrolet nobody else is going to do it. Please don't feel you are under any obligation to any one. Just come for us to place a Chevrolet at your disposal.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT OSBE.

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Bloine, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous too. Molly, Al Jr., and baby Junior, whom Al adores. Molly becomes interested in John Perry, Al's close friend. Perry begs her to leave Al. One night, after Al has taken Molly home from the Club Bonbo, where he is part owner, she turns on him in rage, saying she doesn't love him. Al believes it is a mood, but Molly runs to spend the night at the Club Bonbo New Year's Eve celebration he calls her. A few bars of Molly's voice answers, but he cannot hear the words, as the phone door flies open.

CHAPTER XVI.

Once more Al sensed the door of the 'phone booth and slammed it hard—to stay shut this time. Then he turned to the phone. He suddenly decided that he must make things up with Molly now—he would cast all pride aside and frankly beg her to do it.

"Sweetheart," he pleaded, "let's start the year over. I don't know what anything I've done, I'm sorry . . . Let's make up.

There was a long silence, then the faint murmur of a feminine voice, whose words he didn't understand. A start of fear shot through him, but he persisted.

"I love you, Molly; you know how I love you. I can't bear to have you cold toward me!"

Now the voice at the other end was stronger; he could understand it. It was not Molly's voice at all, but the maid's. He heard her quick, distraught words come travelling over the wire like bullets.

"Mrs. Stone is not here. She has gone away."

"Gone away!" Al exclaimed. What do you mean?"

"Yes, sir; Mrs. Stone has packed up her things and gone. She left a letter for you."

Packed her things! Left a letter! Al felt the receiver slipping from his numbed fingers. Why, it couldn't be true; it mustn't be true! Through the glass window of the 'phone booth door he saw the gay dancers; the confused sounds of their rejoicing reached him in a tantalizing murmur. He felt as if he were far away from them, completely isolated by his dreadful predicament. Molly had elected to leave him on this night of nights!

He fumbled for the dangling receiver and called again.

"Hello! Hello!" he shouted frantically.

"Yes, sir." The maid was still there.

"Please, Celeste, take good care of my boy until I come home. I'll be there in five minutes."

Again that uncanny pause. and then:

"I'm sorry; Mrs. Stone took Junior with her, sir."

Al neved himself for a last effort. "I'll be right home Then he dropped the receiver. Simply could not tried to open the 'phone booth door. But the dancing crowd had overpowered him now and was jammed in the narrow floor space against the door. Their bodies held it tightly closed, as they swayed back and forth, singing, crooning, dancing, but hardly moving to their tracks Al gnawed at them helplessly. It was as if these carefree revellers were deliberately trying to frustrate him tonight.

Then he sent the door open with a mighty shove, just as the lights, which had been dimmed, went on and the music stopped. The startled outside were still proclaiming the arrival of the new year the couples stumbled over one another and over Al in their hilarity. But he saw and heard nothing. He moved resolutely but quietly through the mass, his eyes straight ahead, as look of strikes tragedy on his face.

They were too side-headed to see that look. As soon as he was recognized they pushed about him clamoring for a song. A band was held up, tendering a glass of champagne, but Al gently pushed it aside and with a girl suddenly threw her arms around his neck and kissed him. As soon as he escaped a man caught him by the arm, calling his attention to his dancing partner and begged Al to meet the "sweetest lil' girl in th' whole world." Al did not smile or pause; he simply moved through them with one consuming thought in his reach home and find out about his boy. Then, finally, some of the more sober revellers realized that this popular master of ceremonies, this man they thought they knew, was like a grim-faced stranger in their midst. And they drew back quietly and let him pass

He reached the lobby and went out into the night bareheaded. The sidewalks were impassably jammed . . . horns were blown ruinously in his ears, a girl threw confetti in his face, blinding him temporarily Somehow he reached the curb and looked wildly about for a taxi. There was none in sight, so he started to run, dodging through the overflow crowd and among the motor cars. Some persons, seeing this bareheaded man, with the hurt intent eyes running as if for his life, stopped and stared wondering what had happened. He reached the apartment house, breathless and exhausted, and the elevator, ran through the hallways, flung open the door of his home. Celeste, the maid, confronted him, an expression of intensity in her eyes.

Al dashed by her, standing in the middle of the drawing room, looking about wildly. The room appeared just the same, but there was a strange silence in the apartment. He was about to rush toward Molly's room or the nursery when he saw Celeste before him again, holding out a letter. He seized it and the maid discreetly retired.

Al had a horrible dread of opening it, but he nerved himself to the task and ripped back the envelope flap. Then he read the fateful message in Molly's distinctively vertical handwriting:

"Al

"I'm leaving—don't try to persuade me to come back. I don't love you—I never did love you. It was hard enough to bear being with you, but I grew into my life. Since then it has been impossible."

Al looked up from the letter with a cry of rage and pain. For the first time he saw the whole situation in one blinding flash. Molly not only failed to love him, but she loved someone else. And that someone was John Perry—suave, immaculately dressed John—who, Al had believed, was his best friend. He realized now that Perry, whom he had trusted implicitly, had betrayed that trust from the first. Then another phase in the letter seemed to throb inside his head—Molly said she had never loved him. She had lived a lie from the moment she said she would marry him!

For a moment this sense of bitter rage and contempt dominated all his thoughts and emotions in him. The sense of being cheated, not only once, but consistently for days, weeks, months, years, made him long to turn on both Molly and John Perry and blast them with scorn. Then, suddenly, his thoughts turned to Junior, and he read on:

"I was going to leave the baby, but he woke up so I was leaving. He held out his arms to me and, after all, he is more mine than yours.

"MOLLY."

Al ran to the nursery. The dresser drawers had been pulled out and their contents were strewn about the floor

Markets For Western Products

The story of the marketing of the grain of the western provinces of Canada is a long, complicated, but exceedingly interesting one. It is a record of one acute problem arising in succession to another as the years passed and conditions both at home and abroad brought about radical but inevitable changes. It is a history filled with heroic efforts, the breaking new trails, the grappling with the seemingly impossible, in the endeavor to solve first one problem and then another, thus removing the difficulties that lay in the path to successful, prosperous western agriculture.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago the chief cause of complaint was the then existing elevator combine, closely linked with the transportation combination. The passage of the original Canada Grain Act, with its provision of the loading platform, went a long way towards the removal of that grievance.

Then, with rapid increase in settlement and consequent production in the early years of the present century, lack of railway facilities resulting in annually recurring blockades, caused enormous loss to the producers. The great era of railway building largely solved that problem.

The elevator problem, involving questions of grading, dockage, charges for services rendered, dispensing of prizes, etc., still remained acute. The result was the inauguration of Government-owned and operated elevators in some provinces and farmers' co-operative elevators in Saskatchewan, the creation of the United Grain Growers, and constant revision and amendment of the Canada Grain Act.

Following the war, and the enormous increase in acreage brought under cultivation by the Greater Production campaigns, coupled with the complete demoralization of world trade, selling prices, and lack of credit and buying power in Europe, and, in particular, the abandonment of the wartime Wheat Board western grain growers found themselves in a serious predicament with a huge crop on hand, to even before the cost of production. With courage and unimpaired initiative western farmers grappled with the problem and worked out their own salvation through the organization of their great Wheat Pools.

Conditions improved, bartering became more scientific, prices somewhat more stabilized. Then came the crop of 1928, the largest in volume in the history of the west, but, owing to unfavorable conditions, one of poor quality. Within two years, too, the "combine" and the motor truck had come very largely into use, with the result that the grain poured into the elevators not only in unprecedented volume, but with unprecedented speed. The building of good roads and motor trucks served to speed up deliveries.

The net result was a situation which, while providing employment on a huge army of harvesters, and an enormous volume of traffic for the transportation companies, left little margin of profit for the grower of the grain. Complaint was almost universal against the Board of Grain Commissioners. It being very generally felt that it was "asleep at the switch," and had not made even reasonable efforts to cope with the situation which had developed. The old Board was replaced by a new one which has the confidence of the farmers and from which better things are expected.

Beneficial as the operations of the Pools have been, there has been developed in some quarters, and notably in Saskatchewan, a feeling that the maximum benefits to be derived from united selling cannot be realized until every bushel of wheat grown in Canada is marketed through one agency, namely, the Pools, and that, human nature being what it is, this cannot be secured through voluntary co-operation, and consequently the minority should be compelled by legislation to throw in their lot with the majority and trade to deliver their wheat to the Pools.

While this agitation is being carried on, a new situation has developed. Owing to a large carry over from the 1928 crop, and the rapid harvesting and delivery to the elevators of this year's crop, and with a manifest reluctance on the part of European buyers to purchase Canadian wheat until a price commensurate with its value and production cost, there is practically no movement of grain out of Canada at the present time. The result is there is an excess of storage in this country and, at the time of writing, elevators filled up, and embargoes on shipments in effect.

The situation is believed to be only a temporary one, and that, as soon as other competing countries have secured their requirements, Canada will be called upon to supply Canada demands, are out of the market, there will be a call for Canadian wheat and a price obtainable acceptable to the Canadian producer.

However, with the steadily increasing yield of the Canadian wheat crop, and increases in other countries as well, western farmers must inevitably take a keener interest than ever before in the whole subject of finding new, developing export markets for their products, and in the whole question of the overlowering Orient call for close investigation and expert study. Such projects as the effect of Canada's Government-owned merchant marine, operated as it is now, as a competitive factor, and the question of rail rates, for consideration as to whether the direct operating loss is not more than offset in national gains and profit through the development of export trade.

Western farmers as never before will find it necessary in their own interests to devote attention through the medium of their organizations to world problems and conditions, the trend of commodities, and the effect which machinery and new channels of transportation must assuredly have upon world food production, distribution and prices.

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Disease Of the Nerves Which Must Be Treated Through the Blood

St. Vitus Dance is a disease of the nerves brought on by a morbid condition of the blood. It is a common disease, and in bad cases sometimes attacks adults. The treatment is this: Nourish the blood, because rich, red blood is the life food of the nerves. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved beneficial in even the worst cases of St. Vitus Dance, because they enrich the blood supply, thus restoring the health-giving tone to the nerves. In proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind we have the statement of Mrs. William Wood, Warkworth, Ont., who says:—"My eldest girl at the age of nine years suffered from an attack of St. Vitus Dance which left her very weak and finally developed into a severe case of St. Vitus Dance. She was under a doctor's care for a time, but received little benefit. We also tried other treatment, but with no better results. In short, no matters worse she was taken down with measles, from which she never rallied in, as she became so weak, and her limbs so trembly that we had to take her to bed in the hand wagon. I thought a change of air and scene might help her. We sent her by boat to Port McNicol, a distance of about a hundred miles. She seemed to improve while there, but as soon as she got home her old strength was gone again. I took her to Sault Ste. Marie, but still no better results. I was distracted to see how helpless she was becoming. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I got six boxes, and they did what neither doctors nor other remedies had even started to do. They built her up completely; the St. Vitus Dance disappeared, she had no sign of weakness and can run and play with the other girls, a thing she could not even try to do for about eighteen months. She walks to and from school, a distance of about a mile, each day. Of course, it is proof of her present good health. I have much to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for, and always recommend them to my friends when I can."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Going To Brandon

Dr. Buckley Is Now Agronologist At Experimental Farm There

Dr. C. F. H. Buckley has recently been appointed to the position of agronologist at the Dominion experimental Farm, Brandon. Dr. Buckley was born in Halifax, N.S. He received his B.A. degree in 1919, and his M.A. degree from the University of Alberta in 1920. On his return to Edmonton he became assistant professor of soil bacteriology, having special charge of the field experimentation. In 1925, Dominion Farm Dr. Buckley will continue the work in breeding investigations which were commenced in 1920. This work is being carried on with a view to developing a cold-resistant, early maturing variety of corn that will give good yields for silage.

Sheep is the great necessities of the farmers, and without peaceful sleep the rebirth will not thrive. This cannot be if the latter be troubled with worms. Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The powders cannot injure the most delicate baby, and there is no more effective for restoring the health of a worm-racked infant.

History In Barnstiles

"Tugs From Canada's Story," by Helen Falk, Is Bound to be a Considerable Aid to Students of History, Particularly to those in our public schools round the age of eleven. Homeopathists claim that their formula and method of taking medicine is more advantageous to patients than the prescriptions of allopathists, and Miss Falk can certainly claim that placing before pupils in schools, in Canada, interesting events in the history of Canada in narrative form will create a more lasting impression on their minds. A great Frenchman, Rousseau, stated that "the book which, to my thinking is the best treatise on natural education is 'Robinson Crusoe'," and it is apparent that the author of this little book realized that children will absorb those incidents connected with the vital events in their country's history, simple portrayals of character, and graphic descriptions of locations, more easily than a page of dry, uninteresting events, were those through nameless, tedious fit its attempts at analysis and redundancy of phraseology.

The many good pictures, the author has successfully endeavored to place the essential facts clearly before the mind of the child, and the whole is told in such a manner which instantly photographs them upon the mind, thus aiding the memorizing of them.

Extreme care has been taken in choosing the most vital and colorful incidents in the history of the founding of the child, and this without diverging from the truth, but as it is written, with the fascinating interest of pupils in Western schools the story of Western development and its descriptions.

The authoress has studiously avoided redundancy of phrasing, the use of words, and verbosity, all of which will be to the benefit of the children for whom it is written. It is the writing of a lady who has a definite person as is readily seen from the sketchy character of constitutional.

Its main educative feature lays in the vivid descriptions of early pioneering days, the struggles and tragedies of the pioneers who laid the foundations of this great nation, which cannot be too emphasized, so we are all prone to ignore the searchless and terrible experience of those days, "lest we forget" than they be of." To forget that but for their supreme courage, patient endurance and sturdy faith the conditions which prevail today, to say nothing of the retention of the country, would not have been possible.

Miss Falk has produced something better than a text book, she has produced a story of real interest, one which will inevitably appeal to the scholars in our schools and prove both an incentive and inspiration for a further exhaustive study of Canadian history, and after all the greatest principle in education is to create a desire for knowledge, to pave the tender thought and pour fresh instruction over the mind.

The illustrations are not indecisive details is more of an advantage than otherwise. By taking periods instead of the individual incidents she is able to fix the main features of transpiring events and the chief characteristics of the participants in them more clearly in the minds of children. By so doing she has reached the happy height of appealing to the sympathy and understanding of her readers, which of necessity must fit them with pride of nationality, desire for achievement, and incidentally a glow of patriotism. Who shall say that some of the children who peruse the book is written may not be stung with some thought whose splendour may impel them to great deeds, and if not more heroic, than those characters whom the authoress has depicted with a sure pen and clarity of insight.

Great interest and intense feeling seems like mechanical mannerisms to those who rise above mediocrity. Yes, certainly Miss Falk has given to the schools something more than a few pages from Canadian history, something more than a text book, a combination of the most essential incidents in Canada's annals, vivid character sketches which impign themselves upon the youthful mind, and best of all a well spring from which her readers can draw inspiration.

The book is splendidly illustrated, and as pictures not only have a great appeal to the young, but are longest remembered, they will materially help forward the objective of the authoress.

A Wonderful Machine

Transforms Music Into Ribbon Of Light and Responds To Every Change

Music was transformed into a ribbon of light and made to write its own characteristics on a cloth screen at Steinway Hall, New York. When the band, dance music, bassoon and the strip rippled smoothly like wave motion travelling along a rope, but when harsh, discordant sounds were made, the shining line writhed and contorted like an agitated snake. The ever-changing ribbon of harmony the line showed distinctive waves, different for each sound, even down to discrepancies in tone too fine for the ear.

The instrument is a development of the Duddell Oscillograph, which has been used for some time to photograph voice and music characteristics. The new device photographs a moving picture for a "still." It is a mirror, vibrating under control of an electrical current from a microphone that sets up the tones to be photographed.

The mirror reflects a beam of light through reversing mirrors. It was devised by William Baird White, acoustic engineer of the American Steel & Wire Co., and C. Anderson, engineer for the Westinghouse Electric Engineering Co.

Music students are given a pattern of perfect sound and attempt to reproduce it in the light

"It seems certain," said Mr. White, "that improvement can be attained in this way, but it also seems certain that no amount of effort will transform a good clerk into a great artist, for one of the things demonstrated is that each artist produces patterns as individual as his signature, and although others may be able to imitate these patterns fairly well, apparently no one else can reproduce them exactly."

The Osloo is designed to calibrate the harmony of musical instruments, and detect imperfections, whether in the human voice or strings, or reverberations of sounding boards. Mr. White said that it is found sounding boards of violins frequently faulty, a fact at some points in the scale than others.

WISE POLICY TO HOLD GRAIN FOR HIGHER PRICES

Toronto, Ont.—Declaring that only a remarkable recovery can provide for a normal movement of crops in the southern hemisphere, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in its monthly commercial letter, says it will be contrary to the present statistical position of the world wheat situation if at the end of the present season Canada is not credited with following the wisest policy in having refused to sell freely during the last two months.

In connection with the bank's comment, it is recalled that two days ago, E. B. Ramsay, general manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, issued a statement at Winnipeg in which he maintained that Western Canadian farmer was not justified in reducing the price of the wheat in hands and insisted that even higher prices are justified for Canada's hard wheat.

Commenting on the small export from Canada on wheat which has resulted in unprecedented congestion at lake head, and ocean port elevators in the east, the Bank of Commerce says it speaks well for the financial position of the western farming community that it has so far not been forced to sell wheat on a declining market.

Refusal to sell at a low price is "as much the privilege of the farmer as that holding by organizations to adopt as it is of the other business interests which barter goods for possible returns," the bank says.

Japanese Envoy Sails For Canada

Says Closest Co-Operation Between Two Countries Is Important

Tokyo, Japan.—Kenkichi Yoshizawa, minister to Canada, iyemon Tokugawa, has sailed from here to take up his duties in Ottawa.

The minister said before sailing, that the most cordial bond had always united Canada and Japan. Now, however, affairs of the Pacific made it important that there be the closest co-operation between the two countries, not only in their own interests, but in the interests of the peace of the world. The government were to be congratulated on their exchange of ministers, he said. He rejoiced in the appointment as envoy of the Canadian minister, Hon. H. M. Marler. The whole Japanese nation welcomed that.

"I am convinced that he will succeed in his position here," the Japanese envoy said. "My present mission is to do my utmost to succeed in Canada. He would attempt to learn Canada's requirements and would tell Canadians more about Japan's ideas, thus contributing his small share to consolidating the understanding between the two countries."

Mr. Tokugawa said he anticipated happily his residence in Canada.

Predicts New Legislation

Resolution By Government To Prohibit Liquor Exports Is Expected

Ottawa, Ont.—The Ottawa Evening Journal says: "Prohibition announcement by Premier MacKenzie King that the government has not the power to prohibit the export of liquor to the United States is interpreted in well-informed political circles to indicate that at the next session the government will introduce legislation to ban the export of liquor across the border.

"This would be done by refusing clearance to shipments intended for American consumption.

"If the government espouses a resolution to prohibit liquor exports, there is no doubt the measure will carry in the house."

Outlines Policy Of Labor Government

Secretary For Foreign Affairs Addresses Annual Conference At Brighton

Brighton, England.—Palestine will remain a national home for the Jews; British evacuation of the Rhineland will be complete by December 14; no pledges have been broken in securing agreement with Russia on exchange of ambassadors; and a new treaty with Egypt will be made when the people of Egypt signify they are in support of any Egyptian government.

These are cardinal points of an outline of the Labor Government's policy on the outstanding foreign and empire questions of the day, given by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, secretary for foreign affairs, at the Labor party's annual conference here. Mr. Henderson's address also included a strong plea for support of the British League of Nations, and the statement that the negotiations had reached the stage where it was hoped that Germany and France would soon be able to join it.

The foreign secretary declared that the Labor government would maintain, of course, be acted in close consultation," the British government, and thereby expressed adherence to the court of international justice at The Hague, "in a form to be determined by the cause of international arbitration."

His signature to the optional clause was not enough, though it provided for compulsory arbitration in international legal disputes, the British Government, said Mr. Henderson, was giving "most earnest consideration" to compulsory arbitration in the case of disputes. When that problem was settled the government would have paved the way for a less dangerous world, reductions in armaments than ever before was contemplated.

Saved Many Lives

Toal Driver Used Ingenious Method To Rouse People In Burning Building

Brooklyn, N.Y.—A handful of toothpicks, carried by a cab driver probably saved the lives of more than 30 residents of a four-storey brick building.

The block caught fire while all the occupants were asleep. The taxi driver, whose name was not learned, was in a restaurant across the street. Seeing the smoke pouring from the building, he investigated and found the hallways filled with smoke.

Returning to the restaurant he grabbed a handful of toothpicks. Going back to the burning building, he went from door to door, pounding on the hallways, pressing the doorbell buttons in and inserting a toothpick to make them stay continuously. The occupants got out of the building, which was gutted by the flames.

Grain Ships Tied Up

Boats On Lower Lakes Have Had Short Season

Montreal — Eleven lower lakes bulk freighters of the Canada Steamship Lines have been laid up in winter quarters at Kingston, on account of continued depression in the grain situation it is announced here. These vessels have been tied up during the larger part of the season owing to a lack of profits during the next two months failed to justify their maintenance in commission.

In view of the fact that grain shipments have been small this season, and more particularly during the last three months, it is expected there will be a heavy movement next year as soon as navigation opens to Montreal. The grain in the country total stocks on September 20 being 149,674,643 bushels in Canadian elevators, and 22,616,658 bushels of Canadian grain in U.S. elevators, and must be moved eventually.

Indians Demand Rights

Northern Ontario Chiefs Base Claims On Treaty Of Utrecht

Sudbury. Chiefs and delegates from the principal Indian Reservations in Northern Ontario are meeting here at a general council to map out measures to secure rights and privileges in the forests where their forefathers roamed supreme. The Indians argue their people are entitled for modern civilized life yet, that their livelihood is bound up in streams and forests and that trapping is practically their only source of revenue. The treaty of Utrecht and a proclamation of George III. are the basis of their claims.

Three C.P.R. Ships Sold

Purchased By Navigation Co. For Vancouver-California Service

Vancouver. — Announcement is made that the Kingsley Navigation Company, Limited, has purchased the three steamers of the Canadian National Steamships service to California, and will merge it with the present sailings between Vancouver and California ports. The three ships are S.S. Canadian Rover, S.S. Canadian Observer, and S.S. Canadian Coaster. The vessels will remain under Canadian management.

The purchase price was not announced.

Plan Junior Police Force

Will Be Similar To Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Ottawa.—Modelled on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police system, a junior police force is to be inaugurated in Ottawa. The force will have no practical work to do at first, acting as a boys' auxiliary—it is not to be recognized by the police department. Formation of the junior corps will, it is hoped, develop juvenile delinquency. Officers of the juvenile court and a local service club leaders are in the movement.

C. N. R. BRANCH LINE WORK IS WELL ADVANCED

Winnipeg.—Considerable progress has been made by the Canadian National Railways on the construction of branch lines on the prairies during the summer, according to R. Dixon, chief engineer of the western lines of the company.

Of the 568 miles of the new line in Saskatchewan and Alberta for which authority to build was granted by parliament at its last session, work has been proceeding on 418 miles, and of these 240 miles have had no work done on them. However, plans are prepared to begin work on the 150 miles of steel have been laid as an easterly direction from the junction with the Cudworth subdivision at Wakaw. There will be a continuance of all work on these branch lines until weather conditions no longer permit.

Although the program was one of the heaviest ever undertaken by the company, only 150 miles have had no work done on them. However, plans are prepared to begin work on the 150 miles of steel have been laid as an easterly direction from the junction with the Cudworth subdivision at Wakaw. There will be a continuance of all work on these branch lines until weather conditions no longer permit.

Foreign Minister Is Dead

Dr. Gustave Stresemann Was Active In World Peace Movement

Berlin. Foreign Minister Gustave Stresemann died suddenly October 3.

Dr. Stresemann had been in ill-health for months, but recently he had so far recovered as to be able to participate in the autumn conference at The Hague on reparations and the session of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

Dr. Stresemann was one of the foremost statesmen of post-war Europe, and with Aristide Briand, French premier and foreign minister, generally was considered one of the most active of the world's peace workers. He was president of the German People's Party, a member of the Reichstag, a former chancellor of the German Republic and the most widely known member of the present cabinet, headed by Chancellor Mueller.

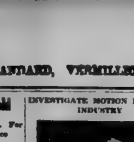
Death came as a result of a heart attack after a stroke of paralysis.

To Test B.C. Coal

Victoria, B.C. At a meeting of coal operators here, presided over by Hon. W. A. MacKenzie Minister of Mines, ways of developing and widening the market for British Columbia coals were discussed, with the result that it was decided to send a 1,000 ton cargo of coal to Ontario, the various collieries in the province to the new laboratory at Ottawa for testing purposes

Killed By a Motor Truck

Toronto, Ont. Crushed beneath the wheels of a huge motor truck, Mrs. Rose Giggins, 21 years old, of 120 Marguerite Street recently arrived in the city from Yorkton, Sask., met instant death as she stepped, with her husband, from a street car. The driver of the motor truck was arrested by police on a manslaughter charge



Prof. Kenneth W. Taylor, of the economics department, McMaster University, who has been appointed by the Federal Minister of Labor to conduct, under the Combines Investigation Act, the preliminary investigation into the alleged combine in the motion picture industry in Canada. This preliminary inquiry is to decide as to whether or not a royal commission will be appointed to delve into the matter, and Prof. Taylor expects to submit his report to the government in a couple of weeks.

Much Impressed by West

Hector Charlesworth, editor-in-chief of the Toronto Saturday Night, and author of "Candid Chronicles" and "More Candid Chronicles," has been travelling over Canadian Pacific lines throughout the West on a combination holiday and business tour this summer. He is here seen in the grounds of the Empress Hotel, Victoria, which he visited for the first time since its construction. He was greatly impressed with the rapid growth and development of the entire city of Victoria.

Church Union In Scotland

Large Crowds Were In Attendance At Ceremonies In Edinburgh

Edinburgh, Scotland.—October 3 was an epoch-making day in Scottish ecclesiastical history. The union of the United Free Church and the Church of Scotland took place in the great Hall of Assembly on Assembly Street.

It was a day of joyful thanksgiving. Church bells were pealed, the school children had a holiday, and the Assembly Halls were brilliantly silhouetted by flood lighting.

The Assembly Hall was transformed into a scene of great beauty and dignity for the celebration of the act of union. Formerly it was a motor car garage, but it held 12,000 persons who represented all aspects of Scottish life, and all the Christian churches of Europe and the Dominions.

Intensive emotion made dramatic the signing of the act of union by the moderators. By this act the churches became merged into the Church of Scotland. Rev. Dr. John White, of Glasgow, had the honor of becoming the first moderator of the new and greater body.

Would Prefer Being Ousted By Britain

But Nova Scotia Hopes To Sell Coal In Canada

Halifax.—If Nova Scotia is to be ousted from the Sperior market in Canada it would be preferable to have it done by British coal rather than U.S. coal, though the result is largely the same for Nova Scotia mines, is a statement issued by Hon. G. S. Harrington, in which the Provincial Minister of Mines declares there is no promise for improvement in the Nova Scotia coal trade in the proposal of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas to organize wheat shipments to England and return English coal in the ships.

Hon. Mr. Harrington coupled his statement with an appeal for a national policy which will secure the Canadian market as far as possible for the coal producers of Nova Scotia and Alberta.

Not Worried Over Deficit

Experts Say Situation In Britain Is Quite Satisfactory

London, England. A deficit of $300,000,000 is revealed in the government revenue returns for the first six months of the financial year, it is announced. But the situation is regarded by experts as being not unsatisfactory, inasmuch as the deficit is $20,000,000 lower than for the corresponding period last year. Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer until a few months ago anticipated a reduction of $60,000,000 in the revenue over the whole year.

Business Still Increasing

Regina. The local post office, which has been claimed as the office doing the greatest business in the Dominion per capita of population in the city, showed a general increase in business for September over the corresponding month in 1928.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA WILL BENEFIT CANADA

Vancouver. Resumption of relations with Russia is one of the most important things which can happen in development, I should say, in the opinion of Sir John Aird, president of the Bank of Montreal, who is at present on a visit to Japan, where he will represent Canada, in Tokio, at the festivities of Prince Hirohito's marriage.

"In resuming relations with Russia, I believe Britain and Canada will get a good part of the trade now being enjoyed by Germany and the United States."

While Russia is not a good nation to associate with it is represented at the congress, Sir John is hopeful that it will take some part. He believes this to be of vital support as a factor in better relations in the Pacific Transportation and trade, Sir John believes, will play an important part in deliberations of the congress. While countries are not bound by the decision of their delegates he believed the meeting will have a beneficial effect on business and relationships.

Retiring Postal Officers Are Honored

Winnipeg Men Receive Evidences Of Appreciation From Office Staff

Winnipeg. — Two postal officers with long and honorable records bade adieu to the officers with whom they have been associated in Winnipeg for months of the financial year, it is announced. But the situation is regarded by experts as being not unsatisfactory, inasmuch as the deficit is $20,000,000 lower than for the corresponding period last year, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, as chancellor of the exchequer until a few months ago anticipated a reduction of $60,000,000 in the revenue over the whole year.

Dog Causes Boy's Arrest

Did Not Bark and Police Figured Burglar Was Known

Toronto, Ont. A 15-year-old boy was arrested charged with the theft of jewelry valued at $3,000 from the home of Samuel Langdon, here. The arrest was brought about by the silence of the Langdon's pet dog. Mrs. Langdon had kept silent while the boy stole the jewelry from a miniature safe.

When Mrs. Langdon told detectives that she thought it strange that the dog had not raised any comment at all at once surveyed their search down to people whom the dog knew. They questioned the boy and he finally confessed, they claim.

British Youth Seriously Hurt

Loses Leg When "Riding Rails" He Route To West

Port Arthur, Ont. Sixteen-year-old Sydney Chapman, new to this country from Whitley, Northumberland, England, yesterday "riding the rails" headed if the "Golden West," was in a serious condition in a local hospital, minus a leg and with his attendants "hopeful he will recover." Young Chapman was found near a track in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards with his severed leg lying 50 yards further down the spur. It is presumed he had attempted to jump from the freight train on which he was riding and had fallen on the rails.

JUDGE DUBUC SETTLES DISPUTE OVER BOARD AND WAGES

Only one case was tried at the district court sittings here on Tuesday. It had to do with a dispute over wages and board. Eldreth, a carpenter, came to Alberta, engaged to do some work for Ernie Hodges. No special arrangements were made regarding rate of wages or for board. Eldreth charged seventy-five cents an hour for his services, claiming he should pay $1.00 an hour, the carpenter deemed it more and stood for the whole $1.00 per hour. Hodges claimed a charge for board should be considered this was all included in the wages. Judge Dubuc after hearing the evidence, also after looking into the matter, also thought each side was somewhat stupid pay his bill and the carpenter $1.00 per hour less board. Mike Morrison appeared for the plaintiff and Jim Dodgson for the defendant.

RED CROSS ON THE AIR

Through the courtesy of the Edmonton Journal, the Red Cross Society is again offering its fall and winter program, entitled "The Friendly Hour" on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, over CJCA. The program is under the direction of Mrs. M. H. Conquest, The Radio Lady, who is one of the well known broadcasters in Alberta, having for the past eight years conducted programs over CFAC and CJCA.

The program consists of echo hour on health education and entertainment. It renews a wide field in its subject matter, the presentation of which is attractive and interesting. The romance of the history of medicine, the wonderful story of the fight against ignorance and superstition and the marvellous modern achievements in sanitation and hygiene, will provide many fine features of this program.

Radio fans on the Red Cross program in Alberta will be given from time to time. The protective care and treatment of hundreds of crippled children in Calgary and Edmonton make a story as true human interest. The vast educational work of Junior Red Cross in the schools will be explained and enforced upon. The kindly service to immigrants and settlers alone with touching tales of the pioneer days and the disaster emergency service will show one side of life of which the world is often in ignorance.

How Red Cross nurses overcome is a story that is well worth hearing

GRAIN THIEVES ARE QUICKLY APPREHENDED

Brothers Sentenced to 6 Months Each at the Fort

Two brothers by the name of Switzer, who farm in the Claymore district, were given six months each in the provincial gaol at Fort Saskatchewan by Police Magistrate Pibble, on a charge of stealing grain from farmers in this district. The grain thefts were from the farms of Mr J. W. Hobble, oldtimer and well known farmer of the Optimist district some six miles straight south of town, and also from Mr. Chas. Maupin who farms further south. Mr. Hobble reported the theft of his grain on Wednesday, and the culprits were taken in charge, tried, sentenced and in the Fort jail on Friday night, which speaks well for the local detachment of the A. P. P

The grain in both cases was removed by night truck and the tire mark on a skiggle at the granary of Mr Hobble was the means by which the Switzer brothers were traced Hobble recovered part of his grain, but Maupin's had already been disposed of

WINNERS OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL'S MEDALS ANNOUNCED

Thirty one Grade VIII, the entrance grade, Alberta students have been awarded the Governor General's medal for the highest standing in their respective classes in the 2% school inspectorates of the province, according to an announcement made on Thursday last by Hon. Perren Baker Minister of Education. The medals were mailed to the recipients on Thursday As a rule there is one medal awarded for each inspectorate, and two each for Edmonton and Calgary, making 29 in all This year, however, there were two ties which forced the number to 31. Of the winners, 27 were girls and four were boys. Of the winners also four were 12 years of age, 17 were thirteen 7 were fourteen, one 15 and two 16 years old

Kitscoty Girl Winner

The winner for the Vermilion inspectorate is Miss Helen Jessie Ives of the Kitscoty town school and a pupil of Mr. H E Moore A Tofield girl in the person of Miss Grace E Jabelli Beer was the winner of the medal for the Wainwright inspectorate, this marking the second medal in the fair "

CAR ACCIDENT NORTH OF TOWN

While coming into town from the north last week Percy McKone had his big Ford sedan up over, damaging the running board and fender considerably The passengers in the car at the time, Mr and Mrs P McKone and baby, were unhurt. The accident happened at night and was caused by a horse suddenly dashing across the road in front of the car Percy swerved sharply to avoid hitting the animal and the car sloughed in some distance on his side The accident occurred about three miles south of Tom Hindmarch's farm

Russell Carroll of the Royal Bank staff has been transferred to the Edmonton south branch of that institution and left Monday night for the scene of his future endeavor.

VERMILION HALL WILL BE ARMORY

Former Community Club Premises Will Still be Available for Social Events

The department of militia and defence have over the C.N.R. Committee's meeting the 15th of this month, the transfer of the building will be made, and soldiers as well as being available to the town's social events as in the past. The armory will house a detachment of the A.M.R. organized in the spring under the command of Major W. B. Lacy

The hall itself which has been the scene of all social events of the town for the past quarter of a century will still be available for all such events and in addition improvements have been made whereby the boys have the use of the hall Tuesday nights and the Citizens only afternoon. The first Monday of each month will also be given the opportunity to use the hall as a meeting place so that the younger generation of the town will profit greatly by the change.

Trainers are being called for some time to come and improvements in the militiaman hall will in no way interfere with any events scheduled in it. A caretaker has been appointed and will reside in the two rooms to the right of the entrance The present quarters will remain so, but an attic will be built in the west end of the armories for storage of squadron equipment entrance to be gained by means of a stairway. The hall proper will not be changed with the exception of interior decoration. The building will be re-shingled and put in first class repair Arrangements are being made for the installation of a piano and other necessary equipment

The newspaper takes that the armory would be closed to the public as soon as being taken over by the department of militia is without foundation and the various organizations may rest assured that they will receive every consideration possible at the department's hands

NEWS FROM ISLAY

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Mrs. H. Marriott left last week-end for Vancouver where she will join Mr. Marriott, who left some two weeks ago for the coast city. They intend spending the winter there.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Houston are to be congratulated on the birth of a baby girl at the Islay Municipal hospital last Thursday morning.

Stewart Bothwell, who has been on a caribou party in the Peace River country for the past five months, was home for a day last Sunday. He left Sunday night to continue his engineering course at the University of Alberta.

Miss Lila Bonner was a visitor to the city last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gould motored to Edmonton and spent several days there during the past week.

There is to be a new restaurant opened up in connection with the Red and White store in the Moore building soon.

About 150 a dozen carloads of Islay folks attended the dance in Vermilion on Friday night and all seem to have had a real good time.

Rev. H. A. Edwards of Jasper and former pastor of the Pleasant Valley field was the special preacher at the Pleasant Valley church last Sunday.

The Young People's meeting this week took the form of a social and was held at the home of Miss Clara Howell. The evening was spent in various community singing and the [illegible] in recitations.

Work in crest is being displayed in the proposed appearance of the S. [illegible] Dramatic Club in "A Pair-[illegible]-ution" on Nov. 15th.

What Is Education?

Educational policies and educational methods are being the subject of world-wide investigation, study and discussion, and particularly so in all English-speaking countries. Perhaps in no previous period has the subject of education received more attention from the masses of the people. To a greater extent than ever before parents are showing a real interest and deep concern. They are in a questioning and questing mood, anxious to know whether accepted policies, systems and methods are productive of the best results.

It is also true that our schools and higher institutions of learning are coming more, and that the bills which have to be met by the taxpayers in order to provide and maintain their school systems are mounting year by year, and already constitute a large percentage of the annual tax levy. The vast majority of taxpayers do not object to this if—and this is the vital matter,—they are obtaining decidedly better results in the education of the younger generation, and all that they have a right to expect from such increased expenditures.

The higher standard of living now so universal as contrasted with thirty, forty, fifty years ago, has the effect of enabling parents to give their children high school and university training to an extent hitherto unknown. Tens of thousands of children now proceed to high school, collegiate, and college who not so long ago would have completed their academic training when they finished with public school. And the demand is for still greater facilities for secondary education, especially for those resident in rural areas and the smaller hamlets and villages scattered all over the land.

The question arises in the minds of many: Are all these young people being truly educated? Are the thousands of young men and women annually gathering from our universities with the right to add B.A., M.A., and other letters after their names educated in the truest and highest acceptation of the word? Or are they merely equipped with certain tools which many of them do not know how to use for their own advancement and for the welfare of the human family?

Dr. George A. Coe, veteran educationist of Northwestern University, and recently retired from Teachers College, is convinced that a good education is something far better than that which will fit one for success in life. A well-educated a youth who has never been mentally awakened, well-educated, yet negligible as far as social well-being and social progress are concerned. Dr. Coe presents what he thinks is a truly educated man, and can be detected, which are worthy of consideration:

1. An educated man is one who is trained to use the tools of human intercourse with readiness, precision, and accuracy. We mean, especially, languages and the rudiments of number.

2. An educated man must be able to study and to think without outside guidance from others. He must be—to some extent—a thinker, not a mere imitator.

3. An educated man must have sufficient knowledge of nature to understand the main processes upon which human life and happiness depend.

4. An educated man knows enough of history to enable him to understand the main achievements of man.

5. An educated man is acquainted with the major resources for intellectual and esthetic enjoyment. He knows nature, literature, music, and the other arts sufficiently to choose superior to inferior enjoyments.

6. An educated man is trained to be useful to others as well as by his trained abilities. His attention is habitually attracted by significant rather than trivial objects, events, pursuits, and enjoyments.

7. An educated man meets the general cultural requirements, but also training for a specific occupation. Focalized activity that is directed toward some sort of efficiency has to be included.

8. An educated man knows and has formed his following the habitual attitudes that are commonly called ethical,—such attitudes as honor and honesty, helpfulness and good-will and co-operation.

9. An educated man knows enough about at least some of the important organizations and institutions of society, such as one's family, one's country, one's church.

10. If there is an inclusive meaning in life, the sort of education that I have been outlining should include some apprehension of, and feeling for, the divine, the ideally educated man will reverence God, and long and know to worship.

Sherwood Eddy, who quotes these "ten points" by Dr Coe, in his recently published symposium on the methods, purposes, and results of American colleges and universities suggests, in order to determine whether one's education is still alive and growing, that it should always be having and growing, not a dead and finished thing, if it is real education,—answering the following questions:

1. Am I learning to study and to think?

2. Am I getting the knowledge that I need most? Am I learning to enjoy things that are most worth while? Am I acquiring esthetic appreciation of the significant values of life?

3. Am I living in the real world or in a corner apart? Am I learning to live by living now; by acquiring some vital knowledges of the world and its real problems, by definitely facing them and beginning to try to solve them now? Or am I reading or postponing life, playing about with its trifles in a thoughtless and unreal academic world?

4. Am I progressing, standing still, or going backward?

WAS ALWAYS AILING, NEVER FELT WELL

Health Restored Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am one of the many who have found health restored through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. Sheriff Hamilton, Cumberland, N.S. "For some years I never felt well. I was always ailing, and thought I would be confined to bed. At the very best I was in an ailing condition. I had no appetite, at all times to do my housework. I was troubled with frequent headaches and dizziness at the least exertion. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me and I had tried several without any benefit that I would always be on hand. I got a couple of boxes and began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally I consented to do so, but without much faith that they would help where other medicines had failed. But in this, to my joy, I was mistaken. I had not been taking the pills very long when I knew they were helping me. As I continued their use I found my appetite improving, I slept better at night, and my strength was gradually returning. I continued taking the pills for several months, when I again found myself a well woman, and I believe that had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I would not be alive. I am pleased

W J Blair of Barrie, Ont. and former federal M P for this riding was a visitor in town on Tuesday

Among those who have rallied to tender their congratulations to Police Magistrate A. E. Kaiser on his appointment is Mr. Harry Ratcliff, of Calgary, who is spending a few days in Vermilion as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McLean. Mr. Ratcliff is extremely optimistic, Kenny Ole just "spudded in" three weeks ago, and states that a producer has been brought in on the Athabasca claim. While very reticent regarding his interests in Wainwright area, he tells us he always enjoys visiting Vermilion, and that he is very pleased to be able to take a little holiday before the prairie chicken and Hungarian partridges are given theirs.

EDMONTON GIRL HURT IN CAR CRASH

Miss Jessie Crawford of Edmonton while returning home by car from Wastason ran afoul of a deep ditch seven miles west of town Tuesday afternoon and besides damaging her car suffered severe injuries. Her bull terrier on the front seat was also cut by glass. A passing car brought Miss Crawford to Vermilion where she received medical attention. It is believed that something happened to the steering gear of the car causing it to switch off the road and turn turtle in the ditch.

Activities Klan Being Watched

No Grievance Here

(Edmonton Journal)

Political action by the Ku Klux Klan in Alberta is not likely to be provincial only in character, but to be commensurate in its scope and influence, declared Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture for the province, in an interview regarding reports that the Knights of the Fiery Cross were organizing in the province.

"I have known for some time," Mr. Hoadley said, "that agents of the Canadian organization had entered Alberta and were organizing in a number of places and in fact discussed the subject some time ago with one of my friends.

"The Klan took an active part in the recent Saskatchewan election because they considered they had a grievance to remedy in the school situation in that province. We have no such situation in Alberta. Everyone in this province knows that our public schools are above suspicion and are strictly non-sectarian.

"What else could the Klan have against our government?

"Anyway if it is an overthrow of the dominion government which the Klan really hopes for, they would hardly be trying to get the same kind of governments in power in the provinces that they desire at Ottawa. Canadian history has nearly always been that the people vote opposite in federal affairs to what they do in provincial."

When it was pointed out to Mr. Hoadley that there were indications that agents of the Klan were organizing through and with the cooperation of another fraternal organization in the province, the minister said: "There are some of us who are members of that other organization, too, and we are not going to sit back and watch them have all their own way."

North Vermilion United Church Undergoes Renovation

The North Vermilion United church, situated some 12 miles south of town and which up until a fortnight ago was doing duty as a state of disrepair is now the most up-to-date and re-decorated little church out and is a pleasing sight as it catches the eye of the passer-by. The little church has been provided in places, round 25, entirely re-painted and new windows put in and the interior re-decorated. The church as it stands speaks well for the thoroughness and the initiative of the people of the north field

The Board of Trade is tendering the teachers a banquet at 6:30 in the high school and the annual dance opens at 9:30 with the University of Alberta orchestra in attendance.

The chief speakers of the Friday sessions will be R. W. Hoadley, D. Diebler, M.A., and C. M. Scarborough of Edmonton. The convention will close with a regular business session

Visitors are welcome to all sessions which will take place in the assembly hall of the high school

Gets Two Months For Theft Of Auto Parts

Thomas Lynch of the Mannville district was arraigned on two charges of theft before Magistrate E. A. Kaiser on October 19th. He was charged with stealing a tire from an automobile belonging to Mr. Hogg, which he pleaded guilty. He stated in his own defence that he thought the car from which he had taken the parts had been abandoned.

DEATH OF FRANK ROBINSON

We regret to record the death at the Vermilion municipal hospital on Tuesday last, October 22nd, of Frank Robinson, a prominent farmer of the Bestwell district, at the age of 53 years and 11 days. Mr. Robinson suffered a stroke about two weeks ago and a little later was brought in to the hospital for treatment. His death was due to a second stroke of paralysis. Deceased is survived by his wife, six sons and one daughter. Four of the boys are at home, one is married, one farming in the same district. His daughter, Alma, is married and lives at Dewberry. The family came to the Turkey Hill district some five years ago from Lacey where they lived for a year when Mr. Robinson bought the Harry Armstrong farm in the N.W. 21-55-5, just east of Bowtell school on the government highway and also section 33. His passing is deeply felt by the community and general sympathy is expressed for the widow and family in their bereavement. The funeral will take place this Friday, services to be conducted at the United Church, Vermilion at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. H. A. Boyd officiating. Interments will be held to rest in the Vermilion cemetery. Pallbearers are to be members of the deceased sons and half-brothers Jas. McIlmoyle, Jr., Hawkhaven, Jim Smith, Wm. Wood, W. R. McCrory and N. McClellan

A. E. Spencer Guest of Board

Battle River M. P. Gives Interesting Talk to Vermilion Group

Discussing the question of immigration in passing at a luncheon tendered him Monday evening by the Vermilion Board of Trade, H. E. Spencer, federal member for the riding of Battle River, stated that Canada was on the eve of the biggest problem of unemployment that it has had to face in years.

People were brought into this country without proper information, and consequently expected far more than they could possibly get with the present result of disillusionment, disappointment and failure, he declared.

Mr. Spencer gave an interesting review of the work of the session at Ottawa dealing with many of the big questions which were debated in Parliament. Dealing with the question of taxation, he thought the immigration was, on the whole, the fairest that was imposed by the government. He felt that the question of the natural resources was on the eve of final solution.

In speaking of trade relations every country, he said, was trying to get trade from the other while every nation's country was putting up barriers to keep the "other fellow" out. It is these economic cross currents he saw nothing but war especially as war internally before a great many years. The prevention of this crisis was a big problem with the governments of the day.

A party vote of thanks was tendered the speaker at the conclusion of his interesting and instructive address

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Italy has accepted the British invitation to a five-power naval conference.

The French cabinet has decided formally to accept the British invitation to participate in a five-power naval limitation conference in January.

To sell British Columbia lumber to New Zealand and Australia, a delegation of mill owners and operators will leave Vancouver December 11, on the Korangi.

John T. Phelan, 60, superintendent in charge of the Dominion Government Telegraphs in British Columbia, with headquarters in Vancouver, died at Victoria recently.

Officials of the Union Terminal Elevator Company, of which W. A. Anderson, Winnipeg, is president, have announced plans for the immediate construction of a one million bushel addition to the Port Arthur plant.

Commissioner Lucy Booth-Hellberg, youngest sister of the late General Bramwell Booth, received orders from General Edward J. Higgins, head of the Salvation Army, to proceed to South America and take charge of the organization's work there.

Canadian railways earned larger gross operating revenues in 1926 than in any previous year. Freight revenue amounted to $415,633,456; passenger revenues to $84,313,982, and total revenues to $562,732,250. The freight revenue was by far the largest ever earned.

French Government statistics compiled at the end of the present bathing season show the surprising total of 30 drownings daily, most of them children who venture beyond their depth. There is a growing agitation for more stringent regulations regarding life guards.

Where Realism Won

Uninvited Guests Took First Prize At Fancy Dress Ball

A plumber and his mate after having attended a burst water-pipe as a big hotel at Harrowgate, Yorkshire, England, walked into the Royal Hall, where a fancy dress ball was in progress. Prizes were to be given for the best costumes. The two were in their working clothes, and, scarried their tools, so they wrote on a card.

"Plumber and his mate," and entered the competition competition. To their surprise they won the first prize. It was not until later that it was learned that they were not guests at the ball.

Recipes For This Week.

(By Betty Barclay)

MARMALADE FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
¼ cup milk.
6 slices bread ½-inch thick.
Orange marmalade.

Beat eggs; add salt, sugar, milk. Spread bread with orange marmalade; put slices together in pairs; soak in egg and milk mixture until softened, and cook on a hot, buttered griddle until delicately browned; turn, and brown on other side, and serve for breakfast or lunch.

HUNTSMAN PICKLES
(From British Columbia.)

Chop 2 quarts green tomatoes, 1 quart ripe tomatoes, 1 medium cabbage, 3 large onions, 3 roots celery, 3 peppers, 1 teaspoon pepper. Sprinkle with ½ cup salt and let stand overnight. In morning drain in colander, then add 3 pints vinegar, 2 heaping cups brown sugar, and one teaspoon mustard mixed with a little vinegar. Cook for about one hour and seal.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper, mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, flatulency, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everywhere won all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Planning To Change Desert Into Garden

French Engineers Working On Idea To Irrigate Sahara

The most stupendous engineering scheme the world has ever known is in the process of being thus-pictured by three engineers of Marseilles, France.

They have spent four years in a preliminary survey and in three years more will be ready to propose a plan which will change the entire map of South Europe, join the Mediterranean islands to the mainland, and 630,000 square miles to the possessions of France and Italy, and turn the Sahara desert into the world's most prolific garden.

At least a hundred plans for irrigating the Sahara desert have been advanced within 50 years, but none has been so thorough as this one. The scheme is to build two super-dams, one at Gibraltar and one at the Dardanelles and bottle up the Mediterranean until it becomes a fresh-water lake, supplied by the European and African rivers. Enormous pumps would be installed to force this water into canals leading to the desert.

Though the engineers admit that they do not expect the governments of Europe to take kindly to their scheme, they seem to be enjoying themselves.

Black Strip Frees Rent

Employment of the principle that black absorbs the sun's rays and heats and heat created the captain of an ice-bound steamer in a lake in Alaska to extricate his ship.

Saskatchewan Farmer Submits Sample Of Victory Oats For Chicago Grain Show

To a Saskatchewan grain grower, James A. Paur, of Langham, goes the distinction of having made the first entry from this province which is noted for the International Grain and Hay Show to be held in Chicago, November 29 to December 7.

According to the exposition's management, Paur's entry, which consists of a sample of Victory oats, will be matched with products of the fields from the farthermost corners of the continent which are sent to compete in this premier crops show of the country, annually held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition.

Already for the 1929 event, samples of three varieties of wheat have been received from New South Wales.

Explanations and Comments

James' Religious Teaching a Call To Temperance.—James 4:1-12. The strict Jews, like the Pharisees in the parable of the Pharisee and Publican, fasted twice a week, on Mondays and Thursdays. The disciples of John the Baptist and the Pharisees fasted, but the disciples of Jesus did not. The former went to Jesus and complained because his disciples did not observe the fast. "Can the sons of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them?" Jesus asked. The friends of the bridegroom conducted the bride and her companions to the house of the bridegroom with singing and the use of musical instruments, and they remained there for a week of feasting and mirth. The Talmud showed them even from prayer and worship during such festivities. "As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast and pray," Jesus said, "but the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then will they fast in that day."

"When Christ has withdrawn from the soul, when times of darkness hide our experiences of the banks Him from the soul, or the strong tide of a clamor seizes upon it, then once overcomes the desire for food, or a failure in doing work, or even a lack of His presence and power with God."—Dr. A. T. Pierson. Not fasting. Fasting is truly Christian when only when it is the natural expression of Christian experience."—Lyman Abbott.

I Am Come That They May Have Life, and May Have It Abundantly.—Jesus came to bring life, and abundance was one of great importance in the eye of the Hebrews. During the Jewish exile in Babylon, when sacrifices could no longer be offered in the temple, the strict keeping of the Sabbath became a chief part of the Jewish worship, and legislation multiplied in regard to the observance required. The Sabbath was the seventh day of the week. The reason why we keep the first day is the one given by Justin Martyr (second century): "Sunday is the day on which we all hold our common assembly, because it is the first day on which [illegible] change in the dark [illegible] made the world; and Jesus Christ on the same day rose from the dead." Said Alcuin, writing at the close of the eighth century: "The observance of the former Sabbath has been transferred very properly to the Lord's Day, by the custom and consent of the people."

One Sabbath day Jesus and His disciples were walking through the grain fields. There were no fences, and the path lay through the fields of grains. As they went along, the disciples plucked the ears as was lawful, as Deut. 27:25 shows; "When thou comest into thy neighbor's standing grain, then thou mayest pluck the ears with thy hand, but thou shalt not move a sickle into thy neighbor's standing grain." The grain was either barley or wheat.

Then the Pharisees complained to Jesus saying, "Behold, why do they on the Sabbath that which is not lawful?" They held it to be unlawful to reap on the Sabbath. In answer, Jesus said: "Have ye never read (1 Sam. 21:6), what David did, when he had need, and was hungry, he and they that were with him?"

On every Sabbath day twelve fresh loaves of bread were placed in rows upon a table in the Holy Place (as symbol of communion of God with men), and the stale loaves were taken away and eaten by the priests. It was not lawful for any one else to eat them. But when David, in his flight from Saul, who was determined to kill him, came to Nob, where the tabernacle was at that time, he induced the priest to let him eat loaves with him appease their hunger by eating the showbread. It was probably a case of Sabbath-breaking, but Jesus regards it as an instance of the setting aside of ceremonial law for good and sufficient reasons.

Invents New Torpedo

Don Manuel Garcia Diaz, Spanish naval officer, is said to have invented a torpedo which can be fired without detection by a submarine Where the old type torpedoes left a noticeable wake after its release, the new one leaves nothing to show its path. Submarines could strike with these without warning and without detection.

Had Loud Snores

Sir James M. Barrie, the noted author, has revealed why he is so fond of Glasgow. Speaking of his younger days, he said there was once a horse show in the Scottish city. "I patronized it and lost a penny. I went back at night, climbed the paling and searched for it. I found three pence. No wonder I have a kindly feeling for Glasgow."

Small aeroplanes recently exhibited at the English Aero Show, and costing $1,700 each, are capable of 85 miles an hour over long distances. They carry only one man.

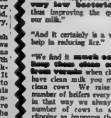
He Asked Them Does It Pay To Clip Cows?



A CERTAIN farmer wanted the facts about clipping cows so he wrote us for copies of these cowsome clipping machines. He wrote them. Now he himself is so pleased with the Stewart clipping machine he sent us the letters which each also tells the clipping machine is a good investment. Here are some of them:

"If short of help clipping reduces time necessary to keep cows clean—and most my since using the machine the cows not had any trouble with lice."

Jordan.

"Before we clipped our cows we had a high bacteria count, since we after we clipped them we had a very low bacteria count and is thus improving the quality of our milk."

Whitby.

"And it certainly is a wonderful help in reducing labor."

Cadahi.

"We find it much easier to keep them clean and dried from their udders when clipped. To have clean milk you must have clean cows. We raise quite a number of heifers every year and to that result always have a number of cows to sell. The heifers are more inclined to approve of the cows that I think they would if we subjected them to the value of an ordeal."

HOW TO CLIP COWS

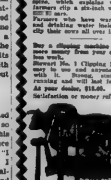
Master, the above several sources of bacteria, cannot collect and get into the milk pail. Clip off into the pail if left on, where, underfoot, flabby and tail to keep clipped short all winter.

Line cows to manger-wise along the barn, which explains why many farmers clip a six-inch width from the middle.

Farmers who have warm stables and drinking water inside, usually clip their cows all over in the fall.

Buy a clipping machine and make more money from your cows—with the least work.

Stewart No. 1 Clipping Machine is sold by dealers everywhere or with 5 ft. 3-strand, single, smooth running and will last for years. At your dealers, $14.95. Satisfaction or money refunded.



Only choice leaves grown at high altitudes go into the blending of Blue Ribbon Tea. That is why its flavour is so uniformly excellent. Insist upon getting it from your grocer—refuse substitutes of inferior quality.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night cafe, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer and makes her famous, too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. When Junior is about seven years old Molly becomes romantically interested in John Perry, Al's best friend. On New Year's Eve Al rushes home from the Club Bonito, where he is part owner and manager of the place, to find that Molly has eloped with Perry, taking Junior. Al is staggered by the cruel blow. Next morning he visits Marcus, producer of the revue in which Molly appeared, in search of information.

CHAPTER XVIII

Marcus handed Al a tiny marked paragraph from the theatrical column of a morning paper. It read:

"Miss Molly Winton, headliner in The Merry-Go-Rounders, the most popular Marcus review of the season, has left the cast temporarily for a much-needed rest. Her place will be taken by her understudy, Suzanne Eastman."

"Temporarily?" exclaimed Al.

"Well, we just phrased it that way in case she should happen to come back. What's the meaning of all this, Al?"

Al stared hard at Marcus. Should he tell Marcus the truth, or should he cover up? It was apparent that Marcus knew nothing of Molly's whereabouts—and that was what Al had come to find out.

"Nothing," answered the young song-writer. "It's just as she says —she's tired out."

Marcus leaned back in his chair, studying Al's face carefully.

"Boy, you're holding back on this. I can tell from your expression that she's done something to you. Has she—has she ditched you?"

"I didn't say that."

"I know you didn't, but—your eyes say it. You look as if you hadn't slept for six months."

Al felt himself sagging, but he suddenly stiffened and exclaimed vehemently:

"Listen, Marcus, don't give me away on this. It would make scandal and I don't want publicity. I want to work it out my own way. But—Molly has left me;"

"Phew! I'll be mum—but when, why?"

Marcus's face softened in sympathy for this stricken man. Here stood his best song-writer, the boy he had discovered and made famous, the lines of his face sharply etched by pain. Al seemed to have aged overnight.

The producer jumped up, ran around the table, put his arm about Al's shoulders.

"Don't let it throw you! It's a tough break, but you were bound to get it some day from that girl."

"Yes, I know it—never! I answered bitterly. "But did you see it coming?"

Marcus producer nodded. "Do you remember that night down at Blackie Joe's three years ago — you insisted that if I bought your song I'd have to give your sweetie, Molly, a good revue job too? I took a long look at Molly and—I decided she was a chester. . . .

Then, when John Perry came along I saw a few things. But I thought he might blow over—there was no use warning you. You loved her too much."

"I loved her too much, that's true," admitted Al. "I trusted her completely, and I trusted John Perry, too. I'd like to get that snake alone just once!"

Rough the feeling of rage returned to Al. Marcus's grip tightened on his shoulder.

"Steady, Al. You don't win this battle that way. Let her go—forget her."

It's easier to say than to do, Marcus. Besides, she's taken my boy, Junior. That's what hurts most."

"I know, I know." Marcus gently led Al toward a chair. "Here, sit down, pull yourself together. And have a shot of Scotch"

The days passed like years. But still there was no trace of Molly and Junior, and no word from them. Finally, Al managed to live through those terrible days of futile waiting, but he was unable to continue his song-writing, unable to fill his part as master of ceremonies at the Club Bonito.

At the end of the week he came to Marcus's office. He approached Billy Cline, his business partner at the Bonito, for a conference. Billy met him that afternoon above the ballroom of the Bonito.

"Billy," Al began doggedly. "I can't go on with this. You know why. I can't appear before that crowd downstairs and go through with my wise-cracking routine. So I might as well get out, beg and baggage."

"Sell out, you mean?" questioned his partner.

"Yes, just that. I want you to buy my interest and I'll disappear. I'm through with Broadway the whole fifo."

"Don't say that, Al," countered Billy. "You've got a thousand more songs in you—every one a hit."

"No." Al shook his head. "It's the end of all that sort of thing."

His partner hesitated. "Well, Al, of course I'll buy your share in the club, but the place won't be the same without you."

"I s'pose that's true, Bill, but my heart isn't in it. You've got to feel gay to be gay—that is, consistently. I thought I could work through this thing, but I can't, so — it's curtains."

Billy Cline studied Al's face just as Marcus had done, trying to think of some way his friend's problem might be solved. But he ended by making a gesture of acquiescence to Al's proposal. Cline knew in his heart that Al was right about himself — a man can't write songs or carry on in the night club racket unless he can amuse the crowd. And Al's face showed he just couldn't.

Cline rose.

"All right, Al. I'll get the books and we'll have an accounting."

As Cline walked away Al picked up a newspaper that an office boy had just left on a nearby chair. He turned it over and—staring at him from the front page was a large photograph of Molly. The words he read beneath that smiling photo horrified him.

Molly's hard eyes in the newspaper reproduction seemed fixed on Al in cynical and cruel triumph. In a two-column box he read:

"Interviewed at her suite at the Biltmore today, prior to sailing on the "Ile de France," Molly Winton, celebrated songstress and late star of "The Merry-Go-Rounders," confirmed the rumor that she is contemplating a Paris divorce from her husband, Al Stone, song-writer and Broadway's favorite master of ceremonies."

That one sentence was enough; Al dropped the paper and jumped up just as Billy Cline returned with the Club Bonito account books.

"What's the matter, Al?" cried his partner, for Al's face was ashen.

"Read this." Al snatched up the paper. "Molly's sailing today for Europe, taking Junior. It means a divorce—we may buy applause, but all I know, they're on the high seas now!"

Cline scanned the article rapidly, but Al interrupted him.

"Have they sailed yet?" he cried in a voice that was almost a shout. "Have they taken Junior away without a word?" Cline turned quickly to the next page of the paper, and began reading over his shoulder. Down the column their eyes traveled to the part about sailings. Finally he read then —"Ile de France 6 P.M." Cline looked at his watch.

"It's three now, Al. You might be able to stop them."

"You mean legally—the police."

"There's just a chance."

"I won't do that. I have my reasons. But I must see Junior before he leaves—you don't know what he means to me, Billy!"

Al grabbed up the phone from Billy's desk and put in a call for the Biltmore.

"I'd like to speak to Mrs. Al Stone."

Molly was superintending the packing of her bags when the phone rang. Junior was playing in the adjoining room of the suite, and John Perry, who had just arrived, was nothing in any way unusual about Molly, smoking a cigarette, his hat and stick beside him. The maid in charge was busy helping her mistress clothes and moved toward the phone

A Goliath Among Animals

Monster Unearthed in Africa Twice Length Of Biggest Whale

Lying under the ground in Tanganyika Territory, Africa, are the remains of a very Goliath among animals, a reptile as long as a street.

Part of it has already been uncovered, and the dimensions of the fossil bones suggest that it must be at least twice as big as the Diplodocus Carnegii, the giant found in Wyoming and now in the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh. A cast of this creature is in the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, England, and as that is 80 feet long, the new discovered monster of Tanganyika must be at least 160 feet long, or nearly twice the length of the biggest known whale.

These creatures, though so big, and called dinosaurs, were not ferocious carnivores (meat-eating animals). They lived on plants, and, although their bodies were bigger than the biggest elephants, their heads and brains were no bigger than those of a horse. The newly found animal's tail must have been 100 feet long, and its body must have stood 30 feet between 20 and 30 feet from the ground.

There remains are of what must surely be the largest animal that ever lived

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

'Once a Mother Has Used Them She Will Use Nothing Else

To once use Baby's Own Tablets is to use them continually, that is as long as there are young children in the home. That is the testimony given us by mothers from all parts of Canada. They all say that they know of nothing to equal the Tablets, that they find them safe and effective, and at the same time pleasant to take.

Mrs. John Hollinworth, Maidstone Ont., writes "I have three children, the eldest fourteen and the youngest nine months old I have always used Baby's Own Tablets for them and have found no other medicine to equal the Tablets as a relief for the many ailments of childhood."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They drive away constipation and indigestion, colds, sore throat, simple fevers and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many Uses For Butter

People Of Thet Use It In Strange Ways

In Tibet where cows and yaks abound, no fresh milk is used. It is all churned to make butter. They burn butter in their lamps, they color it and work it into paste cones on cakes that adorn their altars, they eat it and wear it. Soldiers' rations include about a pound a day, and travellers carry them on a journey, housewives keep them hanging in the kitchen for years if possible for they prize rancid butter as westerners do ripe cheese. In the winter, both men and women smear themselves with butter until they shine and reek with it They feed themselves with buttered tea, a soup made of boiled tea strained through a sieve and then churned with butter and thickened with tsumba a ground barley

His Best Excuse

A gentleman who depends on his wife to make all excuses picked up the telephone one day and in advertently received an invitation for a week-end with a family he wouldn't think of visiting. Caught thus, he had to struggle through the situation alone

"I'm afraid that's out for me," he said, and, thinking fast, went on "Ah—we've got to go to a funeral a week from Sunday."

Says Monkeys Have Language

Naturalist Believes Baboons Actually Talk To One Another

Among many curious discoveries made by Cherry Kearton, the naturalist, during a recent expedition into Central Africa, is one of particular interest: He has found out that baboons have a language of their own and do actually talk to one another.

"You can often see their lips move as if in question or answer," writes Kearton, "and sometimes they seem in this way to carry on quite long conversations."

On one occasion the naturalist was waiting patiently with his camera in a "hide-up" which he had carefully built of stone near a water hole when a large troop of baboons, headed by one old leader, came down to drink.

"Among them was a mother with her baby perched like a little jockey on her back," says Kearton. "She went up to where the old chief was sitting on a stone, exactly like a human being. The mother very gently placed her offspring almost at the old fellow's feet before she stooped to drink. While she was drinking, the old baboon—becoming, apparently, suddenly interested in his task as nursemaid—picked up the baby, examined it and held it on his knees until the mother had finished.

"A few minutes later the monkey, taking it from him, said something which I hope was a word of thanks, and then, with her child in her arms, sat down and entered into what could only have been a conversation.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by creating internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders expel worms and are so beneficial in their action that the systems of the little sufferers are restored to healthfulness, all the discomforts and dangers of worm infection are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured

Rolling Up Mileage

It is calculated that the total mileage now run by cars on British roads is 12 000 million miles a year, the total running mileage of British railways is about 600 millions made a year. The motor mileage is, therefore, about twenty times as great as the mileage of the railways.

Alberta Wheat Pool Broadcast

The wheat situation in Western Canada is being followed with great interest and with varied emotions by people all over the world. While it is the basic food of many millions of people and the chief source of income of millions more. The consequences are interwoven particularly in foreign lands and the producers in settling a fair return for their labor.

What arouses interest in Canada is the fact that our wheat prices have been above the world's parity and refuse to come down. This situation is certain in the face of the fact that Canada is the leading wheat exporting country in the world and even although the present crop is short this year, the 1 crop is still said to have to export possibly two hundred million bushels of wheat.

The present crop in Western Canada has been estimated at from 254 million bushels to 272 million bushels, about half the crop threshed in the Prairie Provinces last year. In the face of this comparatively light crop the total storage is being over-stimulated while the surplus wheat in hands is but little over the surplus of last year. Canada usually has to export possibly two hundred million bushels of wheat.

The world wheat situation has been a subject of much discussion during the past year. The farmers have been urged by the Federal Government to increase their acreage and by the Provincial Governments to increase the yield per acre. The result of this has been a world crop which is the largest in history. The world's carry-over of wheat on August 1st was 340,000,000 bushels, the largest carry-over in the world's history. The world's consumption of wheat is about 700,000,000 bushels per year. The world's production of wheat is about 1,000,000,000 bushels per year. PRIME MINISTER AND PRESIDENT

When you sit at home and listen to speeches by Ramsay Macdonald, prime minister of Great Britain, and President Hoover of the United States the world seems pretty small. On Thursday night the speech of Ramsay Macdonald delivered at Ottawa, was broadcast throughout Canada over the Canadian National system of radio stations, and last evening an address delivered by President Hoover at Louisville, Kentucky, came in over the Denver Colorado station.

Investigations made by scientists have established that Canadian wheat are higher in protein content than practically any of the meats, and remarkably higher than cereals of other kinds. The importance of this fact, from the dietary standpoint is that proteins are not only necessary for energy but they are builders of tissue as well. The Pacific coast salmon that is richest in protein content is the Fink, and not, as may be popularly thought, the more luscious Pacific Railway system by Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the Company, urging all officers and employees of the railway to assist in by selling a good example of lives and the removal of their causes. This has been followed up by a circular letter setting forth in detail how these objects may be accomplished.

"If the English people were well advised they would not be at all loth to invest in Canada," stated Sir William Plender, president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales, a passenger on the Empress of Scotland after attending the international congress of accountants recently held in New York. "One of the best sources of obtaining British capital is Canadian ventures in which Canadian capital is already invested, and the people connected with them of high repute and standing," he added.

Undertaken on a nation-wide movement for the promotion of Canadian products, and to give Canadians an opportunity of buying the goods which in their legitimate heritage, the unique exhibition of Canadian products sponsored by the trade department of the Canadian Pacific Railway will, it is announced, be under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency, General Wolfred Nelson, Governor-General of Canada. His Canadian ministers, Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and Toronto — have been selected for the first season's tour, and it is understood that other cities will be added to all will include a programme which are to continue at intervals during the fall and winter.

Definite steps to control the traffic in deer and moose hides which has become large proportions, have been taken by Chief Game Warden H. H. Bitcher, of the New Brunswick Department of Lands and Mines. Last year 7,000 deer hides and about 700 moose hides were exported from New Brunswick largely to glove manufacturers in Quebec and Ontario and the states of Maine and New Hampshire. A special legislative act has been passed to enable the Provincial Government to control the traffic, the new act will be in force on and after November 1st.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce publicly expresses the opinion that the Wheat Pool is taking a sound stand in its present policy. In its monthly commercial letter the Bank says it is not for the privilege of the farmers and their marketing organizations to refuse to sell on a declining market as it is of the other best interests when bargain for the best "cache returns. The bank's statement is in accord with the Canadian Pool in predicting much reduced world supplies and states that only a remarkable recovery can provide sufficient supplies from the Southern Hemisphere.

The prosperity of Canada is depending on the prosperity of Western Canadian farms to a far greater extent than the casual observer can discern. The position of the farmers on the prairies this year is not altogether favorable one. You read lots of news paper stories of bullish crop yields of 20 to 25 bushels an acre as for every 30 bushels an acre you'd there must be many a every yielding for less than 15 bushels to the acre. With an average yield of 10 or 12 bushels an acre a fair price is a necessity if actual want is to be avoided.

No one should delude himself that Western Canadian farmers are rolling in wealth. Figures recently compiled show that in a survey was carried on 12 000 representative United States farms the average profit was $1,531 in the 12 months of 1928. The average investment in land was $16,415. Deducting six per cent interest on the investment shows the farmer a net profit of $434 for a year of labor. I do not know if a similar survey has ever been made for Canada but it is

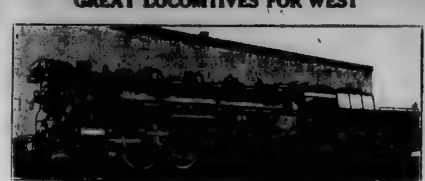
GREAT LOCOMOTIVES FOR WEST



The Canadian National Railways have placed in service on main line runs between Winnipeg and Edmonton, a number of "Mountain Type" passenger train locomotives. These are the largest locomotives ever used on the prairies and they make the entire run between Winnipeg and Edmonton without change. They are capable of hauling a train of 12 steel passenger cars at an average speed of 60 miles per hour.

The locomotive with tender weighs 540,000 pounds. It has a tractive effort of 50,000 pounds, and the cylinder pressure is 250 pounds to the square inch. The diameter of the cylinders is 24 inches, with a 28 inch stroke. There are eight driving wheels with a diameter of 73 inches each. The leader carries 9,500 imperial gallons of water and 15 tons of coal.

The new locomotives will be used on fast passenger trains to be used in the west. An idea of the height of the locomotive is to be had by comparing it with the boy standing on the pilot.

Vermilion Municipal Hospital No. 2

(BY EDNA KELLS)

Vermilion district on the Canadian National railway east of Edmonton, was one of the first to organize for the erection of a Municipal hospital. As soon as the Municipal Hospitals Act was passed in 1918, steps were taken to organize a hospital district, and though the Vermilion hospital is listed as No 2, the district was really organized concurrently with Mannville, which stands at the head of the list. The Vermilion hospital was opened in 1919. Now after ten years' operation, it is past the experimental stage, and to quote a prominent member of the hospital board, the hospital has the support of the people and has no great problems to solve. It has always been able to meet debenture payments promptly and since 1923 has not found it necessary to borrow money to meet expenses. It takes about $22,000 to finance the hospital yearly and most debenture charges, and the board has a surplus of about $11,000 in the bank, sufficient to enable the hospital to carry on for two years under adverse circumstances, if necessary.

The Municipal hospital succeeded a small private hospital which served a purpose, but was not large enough to meet the demand. Hence the promptitude with which the people acted once the government pointed the way.

Though surrounded by hospitals, that at Vermilion serves a large territory and is always crowded. The eighteen beds do not meet the demands, and there are have to be place on sun porches, in corridors, and in wards For some time past there has been a waiting list for the extension of the hospital is there will be but little time when it will keep with its other work. Its value is beyond question. The death rates are low, and the hospital has a record of being about 3 in 500 People are taking greater interest in prenatal care and this is reflected in the facts in both months and babies

The hospital is a three storey brick building with 3 private wards and 4 large wards When possible the low er floor is devoted entirely to maternity cases. The case room opens to delivery and nurse are on the first floor operating room and sterilizing room are on the second floor. Nurses and babies are contented it is placed on each floor. The third & fourth floors are for nurses quarters, and the basement is home keeping facilities nurses' and staff dining rooms

INCREASING VALUE OF CANADA'S MUSKRAT RESOURCES

The increased demand for muskrat pelts, the consequent rise in price and the marked decrease in the catch of supply are the main causes for the increasing interest and growing steady demand for information as to the economic possibilities of raising this fur bearer

To meet this demand and to increase the value of Canada's muskrat resources, the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, through its Natural Resources Intelligence Service has prepared and issued a publication entitled "Muskrat Farming in Canada's Fur Resources." The purpose of the information contained in the booklet is to make possible to a wider knowledge of the essentials necessary for raising muskrat under control either in their natural habitat or in pens.

Canada, owing to climatic and other favorable conditions, is particularly adapted for the production of high quality muskrats and possesses as well thousands of acres of marsh and other moist areas ideally appropriate areas on which they may be prepared. The development of these areas for the propagation of muskrat would undoubt possible a whole or part time occupation for trade for some and materially increase the production and value of Canada's muskrat resources

This booklet on the muskrat will be sent free on request to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service Department of the Interior, Ottawa

The Average Man and the League

With the closing of the tenth assembly of the League of Nations it is well for those, both in the cities and towns, and the country districts, to get some idea of what the League means to the average citizen.

Immersed in our own affairs and the daily complexities and worries of life, it is hard for the man in the street, or the man in the field to realize what the League means to him. All of us are somewhat hazy about world politics, especially in these days when indifferent crops and business complications make us apt to concentrate on our own immediate affairs. Occasionally we hear high sounding phrases glorifying the accomplishments of the League; at other times the sneers of cynics who advise us to go about our business and take no stock in an agency which can never have any beneficial or practical effect on our lives.

Yet the League and what is done at Geneva are of tremendous concern to all of us. A well known Canadian writer has said: "The League of Nations is not the infallible and mighty thing described in superhuman rhetoric by certain orators, the nations do not tremble with fear at its frown, it has disappointed romantic visionaries, and it does a number of things to which little attention is paid. Yet despite all of this, and notwithstanding some failures, the League has more than justified itself. In ten years it has gathered ten wars and become an effective central agency for the consideration of crises and the employment of commonsense arbitration in grave and small disputes."

Some people have thought that the League ought to be able to almost automatically put an end to ill-feeling between two South American republics, or pre-vent a Balkan slaughtering down in Palestine, to the twinkling of an eye. Such action is almost beyond the power of any agency devised by man. Hate, love, of jealousy, avarice, racial and religious antipathy may blaze into wholesale murder at any moment and justice and commonsense are powerless for the moment. But such an agency as the League has time and again proved that once the first outburst is spent, it can prevent the trouble spreading and restore peace and amity by conciliation, and if necessary, the invoking of economic and armed pressure.

The League of Nations in short, has won the respect of the world, not only as an agency that can prevent war, but as a necessity that has grown up with the complexity and interdependence of modern international life.

Canada, like the other nations and the citizens of Canada, in town and country, must stand foursquare behind its efforts if our children and our children's children are to be delivered from those horrors which took the flower of our youth, and made the world a nightmare of strife.

Canada has, up to the present, taken a worthy place in the councils of the League. Other nations have recognized the value of the Canadian contribution, realizing that to a greater extent, perhaps, than most Old World nations Canada's position is an unselfish one, the outcome of a sincere desire to promote world peace in the interests of all, and not chiefly for the purpose of promoting Canadian security or advancing purely Canadian interests.

Canada's future contribution can only be measured by the degree of interest manifested by its citizenship and the support extended by the Canadian people to their Government in all efforts put forth to strengthen the League and enlarge the scope of its humanitarian and peace promoting programme.

Alberta As Oil Producer

Production Now Greater Than That Of Montana, New Mexico and Colorado

Alberta is now producing more oil than the states of Colorado, New Mexico and Montana combined, according to a compilation made by J. S. Dur. Calgary geologist, "He said, "It may be interesting to the oil fraternity of Canada to know that although Alberta is a long way from the ranks of the oil producing regions, it is producing now from its Turner Valley field more oil by far than the combined output of Montana, New Mexico and Colorado; and when the figures are computed into dollars the value of Alberta's production is seen to be more than twice that of the three states in question."

A STOMACH RESTORER

Good Advice From One Who Had Suffered Much

Distress after eating, gas pains in the intestinal tract, pains around the heart, sour risings in the throat and heartburn, are common symptoms of dyspepsia. It is a condition often neglected until it has become a menace to the system. Many people think that the treatment is too drastic. This is far from the truth. Gas in the stomach is caused by the stomach to function properly. If the food is not digested it ferments, becomes sluggish, food lies undigested, gas forms and causes sour risings in the throat and heartburn. Then the bowels become constipated. Poisons are formed in the blood and carried to every part of the body, and these not only bacteria and other germs which cause disease, but also all other troubles having their origin in weak digestion.

The splendid results following the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills in cases like these are told by Mrs. Cushing, a former resident of Kemptville, Ont., but now living at 1 Bond West Bethel, Me Mrs. Cushing says: "I have no hesitation in strongly recommending Dr Williams' Pink Pills For years I was a sufferer from indigestion. Always after eating I would feel pain and fullness in my stomach and other distressing symptoms would accompany the meal. I tried different doctors while residing at my old home and also at West Bethel, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and must say that I am feeling very grateful ever since in the part three days was the matter, I soon found the pills helping me and by the time I had taken nine or ten boxes I was completely restored to good health. Though I am now in my 76th year I am feeling as well and smart as I did at 30, and am enjoying life once more."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

High Quality Seed

Inspection Shows Ample Supply To Meet Requirements

C. M. Stewart, head of the Dominion seed branch at Calgary, states that the 1929 inspection of standards of seeds of grain for members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, shows it to be unusually good. It is expected that there will be an ample supply of seed of high quality to meet requirements for next year. Yields seem to be somewhat higher than had been generally reported. There were also inspections of seed and hay fields viewed, including many in the Peace River country.

Deposits Are Important

British and American Capital Interested in Manitoba Tin

"British and American capital is definitely interested in the possibilities of tin in Manitoba," according to the Free Press Evening Bulletin. "Tin ore has been found in many places, and work now in progress in two or three camps will go far towards proving whether or not it is to be found in commercial quantities. But whatever the outcome, both British and American capitalists intend to be strongly represented in securing of the supreme importance of such deposits"

Some folks take pain for granted. They let a cold "run its course."

They wait for their headache to "wear off" If suffering from neuralgia or from neuritis, they rely on feeling better in the morning.

Meantime, they suffer unnecessary pain. Unnecessary, because there is no need for pain. Aspirin tablets always offer immediate relief from various aches and pains we once had to endure. If pain persists, consult your doctor as to its cause.

Ventured Into Scotland

Three American Women Make Interesting Trip This Summer

Three women in a boat, not to mention the guide, traversed the length of Scotland down the Peace, River this summer to attend the international congress of the Royal Geographical Society. The fair continent of Canada has an allure not since the days of the sturdy settlers who farm its broad stretches but is as common as it appeal to the modern explorer.

Meeting at Vancouver, Dr. Inez Lighting, a doctor of philosophy, from the University of Minnesota; Dr. Lydia Lighting, her sister, a physician from Philadelphia, and Miss Lillian Larsen, a physical training instructor from Casper, Wyoming, took the boat to Prince Rupert, the train to Prince George, and from there their adventures began.

Judge Robertson of Prince Rupert, assisted the party of women to make the final arrangements for the latter stages of their journey, and it was there what is needed on such a trip. Here they had their outer clothing with a small motor attached with which they were to make the trip.

From Prince Rupert the three women made the trip to Summit Lake by truck through the beautiful country of northern British Columbia. Boating for days up the lakes and rivers until the Peace River hit was reached and the delightful experience, Miss Larsen said.

At Port MacLeod an Indian Chief opened his log house to them. "He gave us the best bedroom in a powwow, they danced until the small hours of the next morning. The Indians were the most delightful experience, Miss Larsen said.

Every hotel or inhabited place they came to was a signal for a dance which began early and lasted late.

Open Kindergarten

For Japanese Children

School Has Been Inaugurated At Kobe By Canadians

The first kindergarten for children of foreign residents at Kobe has been opened in connection with the Academy in that city. The kindergarten stands on premises offered to the academy by the Kobe Union Church.

Miss Winnifred Taylor, of London, Ontario, who has specialized in kindergarten work and has recently arrived in Japan, is in charge of this new department of Canadian educational activities in this country. Mrs. A. J. Kentwell will assist her.

The initial enrolment of the kindergarten will be from families representing nine nationalities, including besides Canadian, Japanese, British, United States, Swiss, Dutch, German, Russian and Indian nationals.

H. F. Woodsworth, chairman of the board of the Canadian Academy stated that with the opening of this department for the little children, the academy now has a complete course of educating for a school of its grade, that is, from infancy up to entrance into the university.

The new department, Mr. Woodsworth continued, is the result of a good deal of planning by the faculty, the idea having been conceived some years ago, but for various reasons it has been unable to carry it into practice until now.

It was pointed out that the kindergarten, open as it is to all nationalities, has an important mission in such a cosmopolitan community as that of Kobe, as it can render great service in stimulating international mindedness through the children.

Advertise Your Town

Signs Showing Names Would Be Appreciated By Touring Visitors

In this vacation season automobile tourists must be impressed with the difficulty of knowing what town or village they are approaching, often when within the outer limits, because of the absence of a sign giving the town name, says the Boston Transcript. It is true that rural post offices are obliged to bear the town name, but unless some enterprising board of trade takes the matter in hand, the information regarding the place is kept secret.

This is not enterprise, and worse advertising. Proper announcement of the town or city soon to be reached is information which the traveler often craves, and is always of interest, even though travelling at a speed which takes sight of the attractions necessarily brief.

The Industrial West

Growing Importance Of Manufactures Is Shown By Recent Figures

"Western Canada is no longer merely a wheat and cattle country," says the Winnipeg Board of Trade News Bulletin. "While it is the greatest factor in the world's wheat market, the importance of its manufactures is also steadily increasing.

"Figures issued from Ottawa on the 31st three provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, 2,386 establishments operating with a capital investment of over $270,000,000.

"Of these establishments Alberta is second, with 778, and Saskatchewan third with 731."

BRINGS MESSAGE OF PEACE TO THE DOMINION

Ottawa.—As to the capital of the United States a few short days ago, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, brought to the capital of Canada his ringing message of peace. But he coupled with the word "peace" the words "national honor." Canada, Great Britain, those other nations which composed the British Commonwealth, must not forget that their sacred honor was involved in the crusade for peace. They must remember that fundamental thing—liem were signatories to a pact of peace.

Leaning across the flower-strewn mantelpiece in the parliament buildings, the home of Canada's legislators, the low voice of the prime minister of Great Britain sank to earnest tones as he emphasized his words.

"You and I," he said to the minister across the ocean to sign a pact of peace," he said. "His name already is on that document in black and white. And you have declared that war has been banished from your national policy. In our signature to be a mere screwl of ink upon a perishable document? The signatures of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Australia and other dominions have now become part and parcel of their national honor."

That was the position, and he felt that the British Empire was prepared to perform sacrifices in order to ensure that national honor remained unsullied to the end.

The gathering at which British's Labor premier spoke was one of the most distinguished that he has been faced in his tour of the continent of America. Round the white horseshoe which was the banquet table, representing the prime minister of Canada, the leader of the Conservative opposition, members of the Dominion government and of the privy council from the four corners of the Dominion, and the highest officers of the Canadian militia.

The initial enrolment of the kindergarten will be from families representing nine nationalities, including besides Canadian, Japanese, British, United States, Swiss, Dutch, German, Russian and Indian nationals.

H. F. Woodsworth, chairman of the board of the Canadian Academy stated that with the opening of this department for the little children, the academy now has a complete course of educating for a school of its grade, that is, from infancy up to entrance into the university.

Madame Curie Visits America

Comes To Attend Celebration Held In Honor Of Her Husband

New York.—Thirsty geology about her in wonderment, a little old lady in black came slowly down the gangplank from the liner "De de France," here.

The hustling, chattering crowd on the pier fell silent as her frail figure appeared on the dock above them.

"It's Madame Curie," the whisper ran from lip to lip.

Her steps carefully guided by Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes, who had arrived on the "De de France," and by Owen D. Young, who had come down to meet her, Mme. Curie descended the gangway, co-discoverer of radium, set foot for the second time on American soil.

She came to honor her fellow-scientist, Thomas A. Edison, and attended a dinner given in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light, in Detroit.

Mme. Curie will be the guest of President and Mrs. Hoover, at the White House, October 29 and 30, and will receive while there a cheque for $50,000 raised in this country for the purchase of a gram of radium which it will present to the Radium Institute at Warsaw, Poland, her native city.

"Journey's End"

British Dramatic Presentation Will Furnish Treat For Western Audiences

Regina.—A rare thing in the theatre is a play that appeals to English and American audiences alike. An even rarer thing is a play that will draw audiences and successfully in both London, England, and New York. "Journey's End," which comes to Theatre, Regina, for three nights, beginning Monday, October 28th, has not only done both of these things, but for nearly a year it has been the foremost and undisputed hit in both theatrical capitals.

"Journey's End," is a play by Robert Cedric Sherriff, was originally put on in London, where it took the town by storm. The English critics proclaimed it a praise that can hardly be duplicated in the modern theatre. The critics of Canada's cities, represented by counsel, but so far their attitude has not been disclosed. They probably will support the appeals. A majority of counsel and the cabinet were agreed that the provincial government should appeal by the governments of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the federal government would be represented from other parties interested that sufficient notice had not been given by the Hon. A. K. Maclean, for the Manitoba Government, that the question of the mountain differential rates would be discussed at this time, was disallowed.

The result has been a prolonged discussion on the merits of the British Columbia case and the validity of the separate and conflicting decisions rendered by the board of Railway Commissioners on the

Today, it has been completely restored, and, in some respects, is richer than before.

By virtue of the Versailles Treaty, the Germans promised to restore the Library's contents, and since the armistice they have been busy with the colossal task of replacing the 300,000 volumes, inclusive of 800 incunabula and 300 manuscripts, including one of the eleventh century.

ASK FOR FREIGHT RATE EQUALITY FOR THE WEST

Ottawa. — Complete equalization with the rates to the head of the lakes for grain from the intermediate territories of the British Columbia and Alberta governments in an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from a general order of the Board of Railway Commissioners on the subject. Leon J. Ladner, K.C., counsel for British Columbia, and S. B. Woods, K.C., counsel for Alberta, submitted there should be no preferential rates in the rate basis over the mountains than in the rate basis in any other part of Canada.

Counsel for Manitoba and Ontario, the Winnipeg Board of Trade and the City of Winnipeg, as well as counsel for the railway companies, have given notice of their intention to oppose the appeals.

The cities of Canada's north, represented by counsel, but so far their attitude has not been disclosed. They probably will support the appeals. Ottawa, Ont. Richard Lesage and Paul Paquin, of Montreal, trans-continental canoeists, were welcomed to the capital by Mayor Arthur Ellis. Later a civic automobile was placed at the disposal of the intrepid paddlers and they visited Mayor Lambert of Hull, Quebec.

The unique trip by which the young Montrealers have travelled from Vancouver, and plan to reach Halifax, N.S., some time next month, was temporarily halted here while Lesage travelled by tri to Montreal because of the serious illness of his sister

Itinerary Made Public

Premier King Will Speak In Eight Western Cities

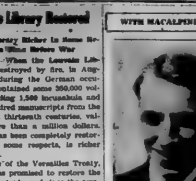
Ottawa. -The itinerary of Premier Mackenzie King's western tour made public. The prime minister will speak at Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Edmonton, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Calgary and Regina.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, is making a tour of inspection of the West at the same time and will therefore accompany Mr. King for much of the tour. Senator Andrew Haydon, of Ottawa, will also accompany the prime minister.

West Buys Eastern Potatoes

St. John, N.B.—Shipments of potatoes from Carleton and Victoria counties, in New Brunswick, are being made to Western Canada, particularly the prairie provinces. The recent ruling of the railways, giving the privilege of bagging the tubers while in transit, is helping the situation and shippers claim the whole New Brunswick crop will find good markets

WITH MACALPINE PARTY



Richard Pearce, editor of Northern Miner, the best known mining editor in Canada, who was accompanying the MacAlpine party on his second trip across the barren lands. On his previous trip he was with "Punch" Dickens, who by his meritorious feat won the McKee trophy.

Arranges Atlantic Flight

Major Kingsford-Smith Plans London-New York Trip Next Summer

Vancouver.- Major Charles Kingsford Smith has pretty well completed arrangements for a non-stop flight across the Atlantic from London to New York next May or June, he said, following his arrival in the city to which he was sent several years of his school days.

"I have one more ocean to cross," he said as he referred to the 70,000 miles his plane, the Southern Cross, has flown since he made his transPacific flight early last year. "We left the Southern Cross in the Fokker factory, in Holland, for an overhaul." he said. "She will be practically rebuilt, but the old engines which have crossed the Pacific and Indian oceans and have served Australia so many trips, will be in the Southern Cross when we start west across the Atlantic."

Urge B.C.-Alberta Highway

B.C. Good Roads League Endorsed a Resolution To Government

Harrison Hot Springs, B.C. A resolution asking the provincial government to complete an inter-provincial highway from British Columbia to Alberta as quickly as possible was carried unanimously endorsed by the Good Roads League of British Columbia here No suggestion was made as to whether the Big Bend route or the Kamloops-Jasper link should be used

The convention endorsed a recommendation favoring renewal of federal aid for highway construction. H. J. Johnston, of New Westminster was elected president for the ninth time.

Ask More Pay For Civil Service

Ottawa. Creation of a minimum salary increase of $150 per year for Federal Government Departmental workers was requested by President C. O. Pelletier, of the Civil Service Federation of Canada when he appeared recently before the civil service commission. A committee and careful consideration of the request was promised by the commission

Women Work Wires

Women make excellent telegraph operators, according to Mr. J. M. Milan, general manager of the extensive Canadian Pacific Lines system, who has been visiting the telegraph offices of the company in Winnipeg. Mr. Milan, who is shown in the picture above, is seen receiving a message from one of the girl operators. Behind him are rows of other girls busily engaged in receiving and sending messages. Mr. Milan says that girls are now a commercial necessity and were sold on the fact. In this country they were fed to under the pool, he said, made more than 60 cents a bushel out of wild oats last year.

Powers Accept Invitation

Will Attend Naval Conference In London in January

London, England. — The British Government has received official replies accepting its invitations to every instance to a five-power naval conference here in January and also expressing a willingness to participate in proposed preliminary discussions of the problems of limitation. The texts of both the Italian and French replies were published. Italy expressed the desire to collaborate in any step calculated to eliminate the dangers of excessive armaments and said its view on the subject was fully well known to require repetition here.

The text of the Japanese acceptance had also been received, but has not been made public as yet.

ALMOST ALL OF THIS YEAR'S CROP IS OF HIGH GRADE

Saskatoon Bank.—This year more than 90 per cent. of the wheat falls within the statutory grades. Protein content averages 14 per cent. and in some cases has run as high as 19 per cent. Each year since the Canada Grain Act was passed "commercial grades" have been fixed for grain in some way damaged. This year no such grades could be fixed, because there was too little of such grain to make a fair sample. This year is the first time since the Act was changed.

These were some of the statements made by Dean W. J. Rutherford, of the University of Saskatchewan, during discussion during his address to the monthly meeting of the local branch of Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists at the University, on the subject of "The Grading of Grain."

The Canadian system of grain grading, though not perfect, was, in the opinion of all the chief wheat buying countries the best system in the world. So much was implied in his address Canada's chief competitors Australia and the Argentine, were taking steps to imitate the western system. The American system was established with too much detail, he explained.

Dean Rutherford believed that eventually the system of sampling grain on the railway tracks would give way to the practice of taking the grade on the delivery at the head of the lakes or at Vancouver More than at open cars to the cars, he pointed out, were to be fed for example, to the Italian's and elevators that stored wheat for sale. A variation of 1 per cent. in essential cases as loaded samples could not be taken with a probe.

On the other hand automatic samplers, devices had been developed which, a continuous series of samples during the unloading of cars, gave an absolutely reliable sample. The sample was kept for a short period, after which it was rejected.

It stressed the point that the grade of wheat should be kept uniform from year to year because millers and bakers were taking advantage of the high quality of the present crop to make changes in their mixtures and a drop in the grade might be the catalogue pioneer Mr. Rutherford said. Dean Rutherford told of some changes in the standards of wheat in other countries following the Australian general elections. The forecast of the new house of representatives is: Labor party, 50; Nationalist, 15; Country party, 10; Independent-Nationalists, 2; Independent, 1, and Country-Progressive 1

Prince Will Represent King

London, England For the first time since the erection of the cenotaph commemorating Britain's war heroes in Whitehall, King George will be absent from the Armistice Day Service November 11. this year it was announced that the Prince of Wales would represent the King and lay a wreath on the cenotaph for him

Dies Accept Invitation

London, England So far 150 children of the Victoria Cross have accepted the invitation to a dinner in the parliament buildings two nights before Armistice Day, at which the Prince of Wales will be present. Many pathetic cases of poverty among these heroes have been discovered.

RESTRICTIONS ARE PLACED ON GRAIN LOADING

Winnipeg —Restrictions had been placed against loading grain for grower's bins on both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways, but the prairie and lakehead grain storage states remained virtually unchanged Prairie elevators held an added million bushels of grain and due to heavy boat shipments lake-head storage dropped almost perceptibly

A new order will restrict loadings for the government elevator at Edmonton, which now holds 1,638,000 bushels in relation to its capacity of 2,500,000 bushels It is stated by Canadian National Railway officials that sufficient grain is in transit to ensure the bins being filled close to capacity. Orders are already in effect against loading for government elevators at Moose Jaw, Calgary, and Saskatoon; the Moose Jaw and Calgary bins are at capacity now.

Private storage in government elevators showed an advance of almost a quarter-million bushels to 9,397,000 bushels, about two and a half million from capacity combined However, storage at all country elevators showed large increases, as for every with the aggregate at 85,-934,000 bushels - - not even half of the country's capacity.

Unrestricted loading and marketing as a result of the conclusion of the two-years' plan for rationing system was reflected in increased figures. Loadings jumped from 976 to 1,317 cars, while marketings from 2,397,000 to 2,644,000 bushels. Unloadings and arrivals of grain cars at the lakehead were relatively balanced and cars awaiting unloadings were reported increased by only five cars to 6,029 cars. Arrivals at the head of Lakehead and Fort William and Port William open 21,000 bushels to 72,841,000 bushels, when seven boats carried out 1,818,000 bushels the largest days' aggregate for some time.

Viewed Dirigible From Air

Prince Of Wales and Prime Minister Used Airplanes

London, England.—The Prince of Wales and Premier Baldwin, during the recent conference in London, viewed the dirigible R-101 making its trial voyage.

Both took off shortly after noon from Hendon aerodrome, London, and toured the home counties in search of the dirigible. They finally found it after circling it and steering it from the air. both returned to Northolt, Middlesex

Bandits Torture Farmer

Hung By His Thumbs and Threatened To Be Burned Alive

Lethbridge - A strange story comes from the border where, about 15 miles from Coutts-Sweet Grass. Steve Churrie, farmer, was hung by his thumbs threatened to be burned alive with distillate and robbed of $200 by

The story has been authenticated by the Alberta Provincial Police, who believe that one of the bandits is the man who held up Fred Richardson at the C.P.R. station here and robbed him of $32, as the bulldog at Sweet Grass took place the morning after.

Labor Wins in Australia

Melbourne, Australia. The announcement of Prime Minister Stanley Bruce in his own constituency of Flinders changes the standing of parties following the Australian general elections. BRANDON REPORTS HEAVY SNOWSTORM

Manitoba Is Blanketed, Attended by A Marked Drop in the Temperature

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30 — Autumn shows, heavy with moisture for almost arid farm lands, continued today to fall in southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Moving gradually eastward from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border, the chill mixture of rain, snow and sleet inundated agricultural areas which have been moisture-bereft for months. Six and eight inches of snow fell in some districts.

At Brandon, in Manitoba, half a dozen inches of snow were reported since the blizzard began yesterday. Nearby towns reported snowfalls as far south as Emerson, on the international boundary, where light precipitation was experienced. Three inches of snow had fallen at Boissevain south of Brandon, early today and the fall had not yet terminated.

CURLING CLUB APPOINTS CARETAKER TEMPORARY

The executive of the Vermilion Curling Club is meeting tonight in Secretary Sutton's office for the purpose of appointing a caretaker for the coming season. The rink building itself has already been put into A1 shape so that the caretaker appointed will be able to concentrate on ice making. It begins to look like a good lone season and the executive again wishes it brought to the attention of the ladies that four sheets of ice are being flooded, one of which will be exclusively for the use of the ladies, hence the advisability for them to organize early and get all set for what should be the town's best curling winter.

The new Anglican church in the Landonville district, which is now nearing completion, will be opened on Sunday, Nov. 10th at 3 p.m., when the Lordship Bishop (pro of Edmonton will conduct the services. The Lord Bishop of Edmonton will also have a Confirmation and Holy Communion service in St Mary's Church, Wellsdale, at 11 a.m. Sunday, November 10th

Miss M. Roseborough Awarded Overseas Scholarship

Miss Margaret M. Roseborough, of Vermilion has been awarded the I. O. D. E. Overseas Scholarship for 1930. Miss Roseborough is taking honors in English at the University of Alberta and will continue her studies in English for at least two years at Oxford. This is the young academic career to the University on an I.O.D.E. matriculation bursary, and is the first student in the province to win both scholarships offered by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire as a part of their War Memorial

In choosing the scholars, the committee of selection gave consideration not only to literary and academic attainments, but also to personal character and physical fitness, so the choice of Miss Roseborough is a people her many friends will be glad to hear. She was also chosen for the Rhodes Scholarship at the University last year, and took to Edmonton's pre-Christmas Convocation which was the first time in the history of the University that a student had received honors in both scholarships in the same year.

The Committee of Selection which met on Saturday, November 2nd, consisted of Mrs. R. Marshall, Mrs. J. C. Neff of Calgary, Miss F. J. Butler of Calgary, Mr. R. C. Wallace and Professor Alexander.

The scholarship worth to Miss Roseborough is up to post graduate level between the ages of 19 and 25 years and is tenable for one year at an British university.

Miss Margaret Roseborough is a daughter of Mrs. S. H. Roseborough, is a graduate of both the Vermilion public and high school. In 1927 she won the I.O.D.E. matriculation bursary and has been attending Alberta University since that time.

The congratulations of the Standard are tendered to this brilliant student.

FORD — BOWMAN

On Friday, October 25th a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bowman, Iowa Berry, Alta., when their daughter Dorothy Dean was united in marriage to Mr. James Hardy Ford son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ford of 10525 176 st., Edmonton. The Rev. I. Thompson, of Islay, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of white georgette encrusted in pearls. Her veil, worn in fashion, was caught up on either side by carnations and her bouquet was a sheaf of pink and white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Iva Bowman, sister of the bride, looked lovely in her gown of orange satin.

Mr. McDougall of Dunkirk was the best man.

Following the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. Mrs. Bowman received in a navy blue ensemble with black satin and Miss Ford in one of black crepe back satin beaded ornaments.

Those present were immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hardy Ford will take up their residence at Hazeldine, Alberta

SAFEWAY STORE STRUCTURE NEARING COMPLETION

The outside structural work of the Safeway store has been finished during the last fortnight in an effort to have all exterior and structural work completed during the present fine weather. This has practically been accomplished, all brick work being finished and the roofing well on towards completion. Next week will probably see the work confined to the interior of the building. The store will contain two rest rooms besides the usual store premises and will be fully equipped with water works, the well drilled at the rear of the premises striking a good supply of water.

The business expects to open its doors on or about December 1st

How To Keep Young

Eat Less, Sleep More, Drink Water, and Laugh

An aged New York man, who has led a busy life, and a good one to boot, offered the following recipe on how to live long:

"When you get old, eat half as much, sleep twice as much, drink three times as much water, and laugh four times as much."

The advice is no doubt good. It recognizes the psychological factor as well as the material. Laughter is one of the most valuable emotions of humanity. It has a physical effect on the body by stimulating certain abdominal muscles, and it has a mental reaction which is a tonic to one's outlook on life.

People growing old, who have not the physical capacity for enjoyment and recreation that they once had, are inclined to sit down and dwell on the past and to contemplate the future somewhat morbidly. The way to keep young while growing older is to read light or amusing literature and to associate with people who have cheerful natures.

As for the other items of advice, it is doubtful if all young or middle-aged people ate less than they do, slept a bit more and drank more water.

Watch your eating, drinking and sleeping and you will continue young until you are quite old.

British Industries Fair

Canada To Be Well Represented At Fair To Be Held In February 17th To 28th

The Deputy British Trade Commissioner announces that the thirteenth annual British Industries Fair will be held next year from February 17th to 28th, inclusive, at London and Birmingham, England. The two sections are complementary to one another, the whole forming the British Industries Fair.

The London section of the fair, which is organized by the British Government Department of Overseas Trade, will be held for the first time in its new home at Olympia. Canadian buyers who have visited the fair in the past will remember that for the last few years it has been known as the White City, in London. Owing to the growth of the fair it has been found that the White City buildings are not now suitable. It has therefore been decided to move the fair to Olympia, which is being newly and splendidly adapted for the purpose by the addition of a four-story building. The new building will not actually be completed until the 1931 fair, but two floors, in addition to the existing building, will be ready for occupation by February next. By means of bridging the galleries and other reconstruction work, there will be ready for the 1930 fair a floor space in the one story building which is believed to be the first of its kind and size in the United Kingdom. By the 1931 fair August last, 800 United Kingdom manufacturers had applied for space and although as much as that number is available, it is believed that the applications for space at Birmingham have been made by approximately 500 firms.

The Empire Marketing Board, which is responsible for the display of His Majesty's Government, will again stage a representative exhibit of food products of the United Kingdom, the Dominion and Colonies, and also of the raw materials of the Empire. This exhibit will be in a prominent position on the ground floor of the existing main hall at Olympia. A separate exhibit will be a separate exhibit by the Canadian Government, and it is quite certain that the Canadian Representative Canadian Manufacturers' section.

Many Canadian buyers are expected to visit this great national fair. The most prominent British firms in all lines of manufacture will be exhibitors. The exhibits are grouped by trades, so that a buyer can go to any section in which he is interested and inspect it without wandering over the wheels of the fair building to discover any particular exhibit he wishes to see.

Canadian buyers who visit the fair each year have on numerous occasions drawn attention to the fact that which they have saved by a visit to the fair fly such a visit they avoid the necessity of making the journey to the United Kingdom to purchase from the various manufacturers in whose goods they are interested. The magnitude of exhibits in both the London and Birmingham sections cover practically every branch of United Kingdom manufacture. Full information can be obtained from the British Trade Commissioner's Office, Dominion Building, Winnipeg, who will be glad to issue invitations on behalf of the British Industries Fair to business men who contemplate making the trip.

Research Work Necessary

The investigation of deposits of natural sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt), in Western Canada, by the Department of the Interior, Mines Branch, has proven up tonnage of hydrous sodium 2.4 magnesium sulphates in excess of 100,000,000 tons, and the results of the study in such that a large amount of research and experimental work is necessary to develop new and commercial plants is necessary in order to derive proper methods of harvesting and drying the salts.

Control Of the Corn Borer

The European corn borer is being brought under control in Ontario, and the grain corn industry is being re-established in the province. The first borer was discovered in Canada in 1920. During 1924, 1925, and 1926 it had spread to such an extent that some 400,000 acres of corn were in the area. Today, systematic control campaigns, under the Department of Agriculture, have resulted in the re-establishment of the crop.

Extra Rich Milk Is Used In Famous Belmonico Cake

Practical foreign recipes are always of interest to the housewife anxious to vary the menu. The luscious cake is decidedly different, and yet is easily made if you have extra rich milk on hand. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk is particularly satisfactory, because it is twice as rich as ordinary milk, taking the place of cream in a cake of this kind. The proper varies in quality; consequently you can count on uniform results in every kind of cooking.

Belmonico Delmonico Cake

½ cup butter.
2 cups sugar.
1 cup molasses.
½ cup black coffee.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon baking soda.
½ cup Borden's St. Charles Milk.
2 cups flour.
1 teaspoon ginger.
Spices.
Cinnamon.
Allspice.
½ lb. raisins.

Cream together half a cup of butter, a cup of sugar, a cup of molasses, half a cup of black coffee, two yolks of eggs, and a teaspoon of baking soda, dissolved in half a cup St. Charles Evaporated Milk. Then add two cups of flour, a teaspoon of ginger, a dash of cloves, cinnamon and allspice, also half a cup of raisins, if desired. Bake rather slowly.

When done and cool, cover with an Icing. Blend the two whites, pour into them, beating constantly, syrup made by boiling a cup of sugar with a fourth of a cup of Borden's St. Charles Milk.

RESPECT FOR RIGHTFUL AUTHORITY

Golden Text: "Let every soul be in subjection to the higher powers."—Romans 13:1.

Lesson: Mark 12:13-17; Romans 13:1-10; 1 Peter 2:13-17.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 5. 13-20.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Teaches Respect For Law, Mark 12:13-17.—The Pharisees had resolved to compass the death of Jesus. How could they accomplish this? They decided to attempt to ensnare Him in His talk, so that they could report something He said to the Roman authorities and then secure from the Roman Governor His death sentence. Craftily keeping themselves in the background, they sent certain Pharisees and Herodians to Him with their object in view. The Herodians were the court party, a small class who resented the Roman rule, but favored it for the sake of the favor of Herod and meant to be on good terms with the government. They were the natural enemies of Pharisees and Herodians, who hated each other, shown best great was their combined hatred of Jesus.

"Teacher," the deputation began, "we know that Thou art true, and carest not for any man; for Thou regardest not the person of men, but of a truth teachest the way of God." By this preamble they hoped that the question they were about to propound was a dangerous one to answer, but they knew He was not afraid of consequences.

Then came the question His enemies wished Him to answer: "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not? Shall we give, or shall we not give?" Caesar was the title given to all Roman emperors; the reigning emperor at this time was Tiberius. The tribute was the yearly tax levied on individuals by the Roman Government. Whatever answer Jesus might give would arouse hostility to Himself, the questioners thought: for if He said that it was lawful to give tribute, the people would condemn Him; and if He said that it was unlawful, He could be reported to Pilate as a rebel.

"Bring me a denarius, that I may see it." Jesus commanded. Strict Jews would not carry a denarius, for they held that the emperor's image upon it avowed of idolatry, but one was easily obtainable from the money changers. When it was brought to Him Jesus asked, "Whose is the image and superscription?" "Caesar's," was the answer. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's." And then Jesus quickly added, "And unto God the things that are God's." While discharging the duties imposed upon them by human institutions, men must never lose sight of the duties imposed upon them by their relationship to God.

And they marvelled greatly at Him, at the one with His answer. He gave an answer that was irrefutable and at the same time evaded the difficult position into which they had thought to put Him, and at the same time by His turned the question away from the realm of politics into that of religion.

Flying Boat Made Hour Flight With 100 People

D.O.-X, huge 15-engined flying boat, which was launched at Altheerhein, Switzerland, last July, has made an unofficial one-hour flight with a human load of 169, the first time in the history of aviation that so many people have been carried at one time in the air on any conveyance. The machine flew over Lake Constance, her motors working perfectly. The D.O.X. can carry 169 passengers and a crew of 10.

The flying boat, which may be used for a trans-Atlantic crossing for the purpose of trying out its engines, was built in the greatest secrecy. She was designed to carry 66 passengers comfortably in her luxurious cabins at 100 it necessary. Her 12 engines can develop a total of 6,000 horsepower (500 horsepower each) and can travel without affecting its neighbors.

The D.O.-X measures 150 feet from tip to tail. Its wings are 10 feet thick and 150 feet from wing tip to wing tip. She is a warning project from each wing and each turret is equipped with two engines of 500 horsepower each. The machine manned by mechanics who walk along a passage on the inside of the wings from one turret to another.

When the D.O.-X was launched, last July, she carried 71 tons of weight and was able to get into the air with the greatest ease after running only 1,200 of 900 yards. Other trials were similarly successful.

One of the features of the 'plane is her three decks, while another is that the machine can fly with only eight motors in use.

Dr. Dornier built the 'plane at Altheerhein, on the Swiss side of the German-Swiss frontier, because of the limitations German aircraft imposed by the treaty of Versailles.

The Improved Glass Substitute

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer. Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer. Sunlight is also stimulating and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most powerful ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, it has not been realized that ordinary glass, even the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest curative and health properties.

Science has established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass you are losing the greatest health giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has rendered available this long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a perfect substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkened stables.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the past few years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAM.

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joy's New York night club within fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a failed singer, and makes her famous too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. When Junior is about two years old Molly elopes with John Perry, Al's best friend, taking the baby. For a week there is no trace of them. Al, completely broken by the blow, visits his partner Billy Cline, at the Club Bombo, and declares he must sell out. He is through with Broadway. Just then Al learns from a newspaper article that Molly is at a New York hotel, preparing to sail for France that afternoon. He rushes to the 'phone.

CHAPTER XIX.

"No," said Molly o the maid, "you go on packing. I'll answer."

She picked up the 'phone to hear Al's voice.

"Molly, is this you? Is it true you're sailing today?"

Molly's eyes grew cold as ice as a look of intense irritation crossed her face. She turned to Perry, putting her hand over the transmitter, and whispered, "It's Al." Perry started, then Molly answered into the 'phone.

"Yes, it's true. I decided to sail today."

The full force of her cold determination was conveyed to it in those words. But his voice came vibrating back against her ear.

"Stone, Molly, you must let me see Junior before you go. That's all I ask - you won't refuse that!"

Again Molly signaled anguish to Perry, pointing to the phone. The racketeer jumped up—so Al was trying to spoil their game! Perry made a gesture of refusal and disproval and Molly turned back to the 'phone.

"There's hardly time" she said. "We're leaving shortly."

Then it seemed to her that Al's voice hardened as he replied:

"The boat sails at six Molly -that gives you time. Remember you've taken Junior from me and you know what he means to me! He's the only thing I have left to live for. I'll be with him only a few moments you must grant me that!"

Al waited in an agony of suspense, while Molly did some quick thinking. She knew Al could make trouble for her if he wanted to do it. She didn't think he would, but if she refused this last request he might suddenly turn ugly toward her. She decided to conciliate him. Besides, for a wonder, she suddenly felt just a trifle sorry for him. After all, he had been an awfully good sport during the three years of their marriage, and he did adore Junior.

Then she became aware of Perry's agitated figure; he was pacing up and down in front of her, gesticulating for her to refuse. But she turned to him and said in low firm tones.

"We must do this for him, John. It won't hurt us. And he's been so decent to me!"

Perry made a reluctant gesture of acquiescence.

"Do as you like. But you can't afford to have him come here."

"No, of course not." She turned back to the 'phone, "I'll have Junior at the 96th Street entrance to the Park in half an hour."

As Al heard her crisp good-by his face was illuminated with joy at the prospect of seeing his son. It would only be a few moments, but it was something—to hold Junior close once more and hear his baby voice. Al glanced at his watch, then remembered Billy Cline, who was waiting mutely nearby.

"She consents, Billy! I'm to see Junior in half an hour! Now I must hurry along."

Cline swung his hand and Al picked up his hat and coat.

"We'll go over these accounts later," called Cline as Al hurried away, but Al was only a hurried wave of the hand in agreement. His thoughts were concentrated on the meeting with Junior.

Cline looked after him, shaking his head sadly. It seemed to him that the downfall and complete collapse of Al Stone was imminent all because of Molly.

"If I were in Al's place," thought Billy, "I'd certainly try to nab that woman at the boat and get the child back. But no, he won't do it. Lose sight of his right to the child, on the baby. And I think he loves Molly too much, even now, to do it." Cline's kindly corner gave a slight set down at his desk, and began to go over the accounts of the Club Bombo.

Al boarded a taxi and reached the 96th Street entrance ten minutes late, but it was the longest minute wait, but he wanted to be on the spot ahead of time for this, the last time. Junior recognized his father when there is no much at stake, imaginative and imaginary fears beset the father's mind.

What if Molly had lied to him, what if she were stringing him along and was even now hurrying with Junior toward the boat? But just when this fear had become so intense that he thought he couldn't endure it a moment longer, Molly's blue Rolls-Royce approached, came to a stop and the door swung open. Molly wasn't in it; a strange nurse-maid stepped out, leading junior by the hand.

Junior looked forward to clasp his boy in his arms.

As Junior saw Al approaching his little mouth opened wide. Then he felt himself caught and lifted high, with his face against his dad's. Then he was

TAG DAYS AND CAMPAIGNS

The public have and will have to bear a certain part of the burden of supporting worthy causes. All these worthy causes are of importance or necessity in our public life. There is one, however which overshadows all those in our national life.

Armistice Day will soon be upon us when it is fitting and right that the minds of all of us be bent on the significance and importance and world-wide import of the event which this day when it occurred was hailed by people of every nationality cannot be measured and the relief to the post-up suffering of our fellows ardently contemplated about the [illegible] Every Canadian or citizen in this glorious land of ours is asked to wear the poppy which is emblematic of this day.

The Canadian Government is endeavoring to provide employment for our disabled men to make these poppies in order to provide a means of employment for them, and in this they spend supplies their families and helps relieve their sufferings for a little while. Each poppy bears the Vetcraft stamp.

The Legion throughout Canada under the leadership of General Sir Arthur Currie G.C.M.G., K.C.B., is appealing to all citizens to remember this day.

INSPECTION REQUIRED FOR FEED SHIPPED UNDER FREE FREIGHT TARIFF

Every possible precaution will be taken by the Alberta Department of Agriculture to prevent the spread of noxious weeds from one section of the province to another under the arrangement recently reached whereby hay, straw and screenings and feed oats and barley will shipped free of freight charges into those districts where additional feed will be required during the coming winter.

Any shipments of this kind, it is announced by Hon. George Hoadley Minister of Agriculture, must be inspected before being loaded, by an official of the Department, and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed in the part of the province south of Red Deer inspection of all such shipments must be made by W. G. Lawrie, 225 21st Av. West, Calgary, and in the northern part of the province inspections will be made by Frank Bowness whose headquarters are at the Field Crops branch, department of agriculture Edmonton.

Farmers who contemplate selling hay or feed for shipment under the provisions of the free freight tariff are advised that this hay or feed can not be loaded until the vendor has secured from one of these inspectors a certificate of its initial entry from noxious weeds, and any person who proposes to ship feed under the free freight arrangement should be well advised to communicate with the inspector for his district at the earliest possible date in order that such shipments may not be delayed for lack of inspection.

It may be pointed out that in addition to the cars originally outfitted in which the free-freight tariff will apply, the following lines have also been included: Irricana to Carseland, Nightingale to Norfolk, Gallinger to Lauriston, Bassano to Dalemead, Gleichen to Lanaden and Longpond to Arrowwood.

"The regulations as originally drafted applied to baled hay and straw, feed oats, threshed or in the sheaf and grain screenings. Feed barley has since been added to the list of feeds which may be shipped into the designated area under the arrangement whereby half the cost of such shipments in horse by the railway company and half by the Alberta government.

10,000 NEW CANADIANS ENTER BY STORK ROUTE

Month of April Shows Good Natural Increase in Population—9,961 Boys and 9,339 Girls

OTTAWA, 31st., Oct 23.—Canada's child immigration agent, the stork, brought 19,300 new Canadians into the country in the month of April according to reports compiled by the Dominion Statistician.

Quebec headed the list with 6,853, Ontario 5,665, Saskatchewan 1,683, Alberta 1,224, Manitoba 1,123, New Brunswick 572, Nova Scotia 871, and Prince Edward Island 174. On a basis per thousand of population Quebec led with 31, New Brunswick 28.2. Ontario came fifth with 21.7

Contrary to popular opinion the baby boys exceeded the baby girls. There were 9,961 boys and 9,339 girls. This ratio was noted in every province but New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. There were 62 girls and 61 boys in P.E.I and 491 girls and 481 boys in New Brunswick. In Ontario there were 2970 boys and 2795 girls

Ontario recorded one set of triplets and Nova Scotia another. Quebec had 21 sets of twins and triplets 14. Toronto's population was increased by 1,911 and Montreal's by 1,532

There were 123 mothers who made the supreme sacrifice and gave his or her life when the hay came. Thirteen of these were in Ontario

KU KLUX KLAN AGAINST KLAN IN ALBERTA, SAYS PREMIER

Premier Brownlee says he is not interested in the reported activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Alberta and knows nothing either of the movement or of steps being taken to oppose it. So far as the government is concerned, it simply isn't a live issue at all

"If the K.K.K. or any other organization observes the laws of the country," the premier declares, "it will not be molested, just as to any political action or effort, I shall certainly not be opposed upon the common sense and good judgment of the public. The government has not given any instructions to the police or any other agency or body to make any investigations in the matter, for no need of such action has arisen."

High School Notes

We now number 134, for two new members, Fay DeFord and Lila Brewster, have arrived

Our patients are gradually returning. Bob Harper still a little shaky about the knees, came back on Tuesday. Frank Welsh is now at home and expects to return to school soon.

Mr Topper was absent from school for two or three days, with a sore hand. He returned on Tuesday, and Grade XII ran no corner subs Trig. and Mechanics.

On Thursday, Oct. 24, the Girls' net-ball team challenged the Biology Class to a game. The Biology class proved that although we take no P.T. we can still play ball. The only thing that bothered us was that Russel Brown played Jenny, the girls' pitcher, to tan him twice. That was inexcusable. The final score was 6-1 in favor of biology class. No further challenge has been received by the biologists.

The masquerade party on Friday, Nov 1st promises a good time. All last year students are invited. Please come in costume There will be games and dancing.

Agricultural School Opens

Over 200 Students Are Registered to Date at Vermilion

In spite of poor crops throughout much of the district which the Vermilion Agricultural School serves, the present year's attendance bids fair to equal last year's record. Over two hundred students have been registered for the regular term, which extends from October 29 until March 28. Fourteen students are attending the third year and 15 British boys are to take a winter's training in practical agriculture.

Accommodations are more than taxed. All available space in the new dormitory is in use, the old assembly hall has been fitted up for use as a residence, and many more are being billeted down town. The dormitory constructed last year by the provincial government at a cost of $200,000 is doubtless the manner that has triumphed over adverse crop conditions and has drawn favorable from all over northern Alberta.

Valuable Addition

The third year, or matriculation class, has already been in operation since October 15. Introduced to this school last year, the third year has proven a very valuable addition to the school's curriculum. The course consists entirely of high school subjects. On completion in May of next year the students write the department of education grade eleven examinations thus completing a preparatory course for entrance to the University of Alberta. Students thus completing the three year's course at the school of agriculture are qualified to enter second year agriculture at the university.

Those taking the third year are Miss M. Fluede, Rosyth; Miss E. Wilson, Vegreville; Ed Barber, Innisfree; R. Johnson, Lamont; H. Mercuris, Vermilion; F. Mead, Vermilion; D. Fulkins, Chauvin; A. Platt, Westlock; J. Clifton, Vegreville; N. Martin, North Edmonton; R. Kiernan, Vermilion; C. Moran, North Edmonton.

The staff of the school has undergone a great deal of change since last spring. The new teachers are as follows: Miss M. Carmichael in residence; Miss Milne, home economics; Mr. Baker, high school subjects, third year; Mr. Norrine, English and mathematics; Mr. Gentleman, instructor to British boys.

Mr. Dixon has accepted the office of dean in the boys' wing.

CITY OF EDMONTON IS HEADQUARTERS OF KLAN DISTRICT

Charters Granted for Branches in Province, Says Grand Scribe

Edmonton was some months ago made the headquarters of a district of the Ku Klux Klan, while a number of charters have been granted for branches in this province [illegible] information to that effect is given in a statement to the Edmonton Journal by H. M. Dyer of Calgary, grand scribe for Alberta.

"I do not think I am by taking any confidence in stating that a number of charters have been granted in this province, and that the grand dragon is absent from the office a little time on an itinerary of planned for that very purpose," says the grand scribe

The klan does not, strict speaking, go into an area an organize, says the official it forms local units in various communities only, the request of citizens there or citizens in the adjacent community. It is a basic requirement of members of the order that they "keep forever secret ... the business of, conducted and the secret of membership names, numbers and locations"

"It is therefore quite natural," says the grand scribe, "that the well informed citizen interview it, however sympathetic, should be ignorant of the formation of various local units just outside his domicile, and that he should be equally ignorant of the establishment of klaverns in the head quarters of a klan district.

The grand scribe plans to visit Edmonton next week.

Mother: "Sammy, when you divided those seven pieces of candy with your sister, did you give her four?"

Sammy: "Yes, mum. I knew they wouldn't come out even so I ate one before I began to divide."

Babies And Public Health Work

(BY EDNA KELLS)

Babies are the first concern of public health work the world over. Give the babies the right start in life, and many of the ills from which humanity suffers in adult years will disappear. Consequently Welfare Clinics are recognized as an important branch of public heath work, and those that have been operating in Alberta have won the good will of many thousands of mothers.

Four nurses were engaged in this work in Alberta during the past summer. They held 121 clinics, and examined 2566 children. Of these, 1098 were babies and 1468 children of preschool age. Only 772 of this number were found free from defects! Surely there is need of such clinics to check this evil.

The nurses in charge of the clinics were Miss Blanche Emerson, Miss E. M. Davidson, Miss C. Lonsdale, and Miss Black. Years of experience, together with special training have made the clinic nurse an expert in this work which is largely educational. It is their aim to bring about an era of better babies and healthier school children.

This year the work extended from Cooks, on the C.P.R. near the Saskatchewan line to Berwyn, on the Northern Alberta railway in the Peace River country. A local organization assumes the responsibility of operating with the Department of Public Health for a visit from the nurse, and makes the local arrangements. The nurse carries her equipment with her and on her arrival, quickly transforms the hall, school, or church to suit her needs. Sometimes the nurse must in pairs enabling them to handle the work with greater ease. At such times one nurse takes the name and age of the child, national ity of the parents, weighs and measures the child and turns him over, with her findings, to the examining nurse. She in turn looks for such defects as children of that age are susceptible to, such as malnutrition, defective teeth, infected tonsils, adenoids, flat arches, ruptures, and eye trouble. If she finds any, she advises the mother as to the course she should pursue, which frequently involves consultation with the family physician.

Diets are considered of the utmost importance, and when breast feeding is impossible the nurse urges mothers to use evaporated milk — a product of the farm. Most mothers are taking a keen interest in diets and many are following scientific methods of feeding and also their children almed in the matter of sleeping Diet slips showing the proper foods for children of different ages are given out and these are supplemented by special advice for individual cases Proper posture, brushing exercises, plenty of fresh air, and sun baths are recommended as a means to better health.

It was a revelation to the visitor to note the difference between a child in perfect health and another suffering from some minor ailment The former sleep well, eat their food with real appetite, are good natured and give little trouble The latter are inclined to be nervous or peevish, pick at their food, sleep poorly, are undersized, and give their mothers trouble and anxiety

At one clinic held this summer in a small town, though harvest was in its height fifty children were brought for examination, and this was not considered an unusually large clinic Of the fifty, twenty four were free from defect It is apparent that nationality does not have anything to do with the health of the children Children of Nordic extraction, the nurses find are usually more placid, larger and healthier than those or many other races. The prosperity or adversity of the district usually is reflected in the children also, though it is not always the most prosperous district that shows the best malnutrition among the children.

"TIP"

(by Saidie O Collins)

'Tis but with the wisdom of love I speak,
Yet I know that beyond the fogs
And shadowy mists at the end of life,
There's a heaven for little dogs

There are plenty of bones both old and fresh,
Just as the Doctor like,
And places where milk, both warm and cold
Is served for their delight

And the water runs clear and cool all day——
How thirsty a dog can become
When his tongue hangs out, so long and red,
After a "4 dog's run"

There are motor cars that dash along
Making a dreadful sound;
Real rusty cars, that creak and whine
And jerk, and swerve, and bound!

There are puddles of mud and shady trees,
And long and scratchy grass;
The Milkman, and the Butcher's cart
And they jump at them as they pass

And the cows and cats just love to be chased,
They just pretend to fight!
You may not believe it, but each run ning cow
Has seven legs to bite!

There are mother dogs with long, soft coats
Where puppy can snuggle down:
There's so much love and so much room,
And it's summer the whole year round.

There is also a lake with a sandy shore,
And ducks that run rich in,
And wait for the doggies to "go and fetch"——
And they shout "Come in for a swim!"

The dogs may bark the whole day through,
When the friendly sun shines bright
And no one says "Hush!" or "You lie down,"
When they howl at the moon at night

There's "Benny" and "Peter" and "Geraldine,"
And "Jimmie Lassie" too,
And "Jock" and "Jan," and "Jim" and "Glad,"
And they all remember you . . .

For they told "Tip" so when they met him that night,
All barking and joyous and glad!
For in the animal heaven, you know, none of the dogs are sad.

So Tip says "I'm happy: there's millions of dogs,
And we bark and fight and play;
There are plenty of bones, and rare old chase,
And I think of you every day."

ACTIVITIES GALORE FOR TOWN DURING THE NEXT FORTNIGHT

Activities scheduled for the next fortnight, starting on Thursday, will keep the town's most ardent amusement hunters in a hustle. Thursday the teacher's convention starts and also the Tractors are convening in the high school That night the pantomorse are holding a dance, after parading of a banquet tendered them by the board of trade. The following night, Friday, the Canadian Legion Post 11 and C. Squadron are staging their Armistice Ball in the Armories. Monday night, Nov. 11th, Bill Eldred's celebrated musical comedians and comedienne present "The Belle of Barcelona" in the Columbia Theatre. Rumors to the effect that the opening night function will take place on Friday, 15th are current and the following Monday sees the St. Hubert's Dramatic Society at the Columbia with their side-splitting comedy "A Busy Honeymoon. Those two home inaugurated with an old widow drive, good picture shows and perhaps a church tea or bazaar should keep the average person busy right up till the end of November . . . and . . . Christmas comes the next month.

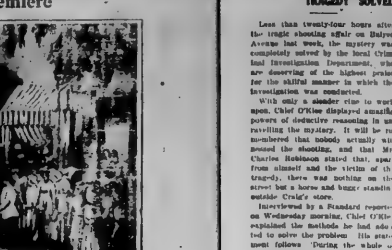
Prize Fight Opera Premiere



When the English Music and Folk Dance Festival is held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on November 18 to 16, the great fight scene from "Carmen" will be the first performance on this continent on November 15 of "Fight the Prize," given by Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams, one of the greatest of modern composers. Written around early 19th century scenes in an English village, the audiences are participating and the setting is peculiarly suited to the Midlands which inspired the composer. The unique feature of the opera is the great prize fight between the village champion and the visitor, being the hand of the heroine. This is one of the most realistic scenes ever put on any stage, and is a fight from start to finish—not. The actor of the crowd, the dramatic judge of the principal, the entertainers of the audience of the two were blended, and with orchestral effects in an ensemble that is a love de force of modern musical representation, leaving the audience breathless and excited as if they were spectators gathered around the ring. In one of the most remarkable curtains ever seen on the theatre, the fight is brought to be played by Allan Jones, a brilliant tenor of Welsh extraction, who has been starring in the Desmond Carr and the Opera Company of Paris. Cast above grouping of the players just before commencement of the fight, with Hook in the centre and his opponent directed for action. Inset, Robert Jones Allan Jones.

OCTOBER 26th, 1913.

The mercury dropped to 2 below zero Monday night. A couple of snow flurries have whitened the ground.

A. F Turner, recently manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, has been appointed to a similar position at Weyburn, Sask.

The Petereon farm about 12 miles northeast Vermilion has been sold for $1000, the purchaser being John Chapman of Laverne, Oklahoma.

Six boys from Vegreville came down this week to enter the Agricultural school. A good showing for one district.

FAREWELL TO MRS. SCARR

In farewell to Mrs. C. J. Scarr, who is leaving Vermilion to reside in Banff, the Women's Institute entertained on Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. M. Wener.

The ladies came in fancy dress and the ghosts, goblins, highland ladies, big chief, Spanish senorina and Japanese lady presented a pretty scene. Mrs. J. W. O. Morrison gave several musical selections, while Mrs. F. G. Hills also came old favorite songs very prettily. Playing games occupied the remainder of the evening.

On behalf of the Vermilion Institute Mrs. Fish presented Mrs. Scarr with a silver butter dish and an appropriate address, which was fittingly responded to. After serving refreshments everyone joined in singing Auld Lang Syne, thus bringing to a close a very jolly evening.

Representatives of the English Folk Dance Society, thirteen in number, are sailing for Canada on S.S. Montrose, October 31st, to take part in the English Music Festival arranged by the Canadian Pacific Railway at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, November 15-18 They party is under the direction of Douglas Kennedy, leader of the English Folk Dance Society. The practice of English Folk Dances has spread to hundreds of thousands in the British Isles, and it is believed that the dancers' visit here will result in the popularization of these dances in Canada.

Approved plans calling for construction of construction within two years will enable the Canadian Pacific Railway to extend the Calgary-Edmonton line through the Battleford and eventually to the fertile farmlands of the vast Meadow Lake area, thus tapping a part of Saskatchewan to the plains region lying towards Calgary and Edmon ton a coast outlet at Vancouver. This construction will open the country of a new page in the history of one of the most progressive agricultural sections of Western Canada.

"The mail must go through," slogan of the air mail service was well illustrated on the night of December 6 Dashed dashed at Coutts on the border from Montreal which bad weather had prevented taking off at Pather Bay on the usual practice. Mails were rushed four miles to the Quebec city port and reached Montreal one hour later. They were delivered by another special plane to the Toronto airport five hours after the Dashes had decided.

Two hundred and forty-eight adult and four teens, valued in all at $15,000, were carried recently by Canadian Pacific Express from Canadian and American ports to England by S.S. Montrose to France. They were all in good shape and represent one of the largest shipments of pure-bearing animals to European breeding farms of record Demand comes from Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland and Switzerland.

For the second time in three years the Investment Dealers' Association of America held their annual convention at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, this October. Over a hundred delegates came out from all parts of the United States and Canada and the convention was addressed by Sir Herbert Holt, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Beaten out of world saving glories three members of the Yankee Baseball Team, R. Shawkey, pitcher; Roy Sherid, pitcher; and G. Dickenrock, catcher, arrived there disappointed on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, Quebec, this October from a football game and the convention was addressed by Sir Herbert Holt, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Three years ago there were only four grain elevators in Alberta big tonnage in the Alberta Wheat Pool Now there are 427 representing an investment of more than $6,000,000. The introduction of combine and auto trucks has speeded up harvesting on the Canadian prairies to a remarkable degree, says an official bulletin.

BULYEA AVENUE TRAGEDY SOLVED

Less than twenty-four hours after the tragic shooting affair on Bulyea Avenue last week, the mystery was completely solved by the local Criminal Investigation Department, who are deserving of the highest praise for the skilful manner in which the investigation was conducted.

With only a slender clue to work upon, Chief O'Rice displayed amazing powers of deductive reasoning in unravelling the mystery. It will be remembered that nobody actually witnessed the shooting, and that Mr Charles Robinson stated that, apart from himself and the victim at the time of the tragedy, there was nobody on the street but a horse and buggy standing outside Craig's store.

Interviewed by a Standard reporter on Wednesday morning, Chief O'Rice explained the methods he had adopted to solve the problem His assortment follows "During the whole of my investigations I never once acted as an officer of the law, the Bulyea Avenue tragedy" is undoubtedly the strangest case I have ever been called upon to handle. As soon as I had collected the necessary evidence available, I realized that it would require extraordinary tact, cunning, and skill to arrive at a satisfactory solution and it was accordingly fortunate that I happened to be at the head of the Criminal Investigation Department at the time.

"From the start of my investigations, I maintained that a man could not be shot down unless a gun had been fired. But who fired the gun? There was nobody on the street who could have fired the shot, and it would not be possible for a person to shoot from the shelter of a store without being observed Obviously, then, my investigations should centre in what was known to be on the street—namely, the horse and buggy

"Finding the owner of the vehicle, I examined the buggy thoroughly, and was not at all surprised to find a gun lying in the back of the seat; and to confirm my suspicions, a gun from which one bullet had been fired. The owner of the buggy admitted that the gun was his property, but swore that he had not fired a shot that morning. He had taken the gun into town with him, thinking he might get an odd prairie chicken on the way, but he had no occasion to use it, and had left it in the buggy while he did some shopping in Craig's store I was therefore, still without a clue as to how the fatal shot had been fired, but as usual in these mysterious cases, it is the apparently insignificant detail which are important

I recalled that Mr Robinson stated that he distinctly heard Mr. Corley's heavy breathing Now, even if Mr Corley was suffering from asthma it would be difficult to hear him breathe from the street — unless the door of his store was open. I interviewed Mr Corley, who remembered that the door was open at the time, and that just before he heard the shot he had been trying to put a halt-spring in a clock He also recalled that before he had completed his task the spring flew out of his hands and he never found it again

"It struck me immediately that it was more than a mere coincidence that a boy containing a load-gun should be standing outside the door of Craig's store; that a spring on which Mr Corley was working should fly out of his hands, that his door of his store was open—and that the victim of the shooting collapsed just outside the door. And further investigation proved that here was the solution to the tragedy. When the spring flew out of Mr. Corley's hands, it passed through through the open door and struck the trigger of the gun in the buggy. The gun was thus automatically fired; and, as it was pointed towards Corley's store, the unfortunate man, who happened to be passing at that precise moment, received the fatal bullet.

"I am satisfied that the mysterious message found in the stranger's pocket bad no bearing on the tragedy, although I shall not cease in my efforts until I have deciphered it. No doubt it was a mere coincidence that the number 111129 (in thirds) What does it mean? Somehow, I feel confident that I shall solve this, too, before the next issue of the Standard appears."

Every time one man puts a new idea across he finds ten men who have thought of it before he did. But they only thought

A BAD COLD . . . PERHAPS

Joan and Mary always walked to and from school together. Now Joan was on her way to call for Mary at the chum They had almost quarrelled the afternoon before Joan couldn't understand why Mary was so cool to her. Then, suddenly, Mary remembered an officer of the law, the Bulyea Avenue tragedy" is undoubtedly the strangest case I have ever been called upon to handle. As soon as I had collected the necessary evidence available, I realized that it would require extraordinary tact, cunning, and skill to arrive at a satisfactory solution and it was accordingly fortunate that I happened to be at the head of the Criminal Investigation Department at the time.

The National Value of Radio

When the automobile began coming into use 25 or 30 years ago, it was looked upon as a luxury for the rich, another means of providing for their entertainment and catering to their enjoyment, but not to be regarded as a new means of transportation for the great masses of the people. Yet within the short span of a quarter of a century the automobile has revolutionized our habits and modes of living until today the family that does not own a car is the exception rather than the rule. At first it was the common practice to criticize the farmer who bought a car; now it is recognized as a practical farm necessity. What was to be a plaything of the rich has become the most popular means of transportation, and is seriously challenging the railways as carriers of freight for the shorter haul. The automobile, too, has altered all preconceived ideas in road-building and the value and necessity of good roads.

Within even more recent years has come the discovery of the radio. This, too, was accepted at first as more or less of a plaything, something to provide pleasure in the form of musical entertainment in the home. Its value in this respect especially in rural homes and in towns and villages of enjoying the advantages which the large cities possess in the way of concerts and theatres was quickly appreciated. Then came the broadcasting of grain and other market quotations, weather forecasts live news bulletins, and information of general interest and value to the rural dweller, hours and days in advance of the time he would otherwise receive the same. As a result, within recent years, radio has been installed in tens of thousands of homes.

In a very notable way the value and influence of the radio has been extended in the last two or three years through the linking up of a number of stations, through which programmes of great national merit are made available to all parts of the continent, even the world. One such chain after another has been created, but beyond one or two attempts, notably the Dominion-Provincial broadcast during the Diamond Jubilee celebrations, we have not had the benefit of Dominion-wide Canadian programmes, but have had to depend largely on United States stations.

This, however, is now changed, and the people of Canada is being favored with Dominion-wide broadcasts sponsored by large Canadian corporations, equal in every respect to the best that is presented in the United States. These Canadian programmes are now available every week and the finest symphony orchestras and artists of the large Eastern Canadian cities can be heard in Western Canada hence Not only so, but some of the outstanding musicians of Great Britain are being brought to Canada to broadcast over these Canadian chains.

In the past when outstanding statesmen like Rt Hon Ramsay Macdonald visited Canada, a comparative small number of people in Ottawa, Toronto or Montreal had the privilege of hearing him. On his recent visit to Ottawa, when he was the guest of the Government of Canada, at a state dinner hundreds of thousands of Canadians from Halifax to Victoria, listened to his inspiring address in the Houses of Parliament. His plea for international goodwill and world peace his insistence that these could only be achieved through a "will to peace", on the part of the people themselves, was listened to by hundreds of thousands and received by them as a direct personal message, couched in homely language, and reinforced with all the earnestness of which Mr. Macdonald is capable. In other words, the Prime Minister of Great Britain was enabled to talk, not merely to President Hoover and Premier Mackenzie King, but to untold millions of people in the United States and Canada.

The national, yea, international, value of such addresses cannot be correctly estimated. The radio has become one of the most powerful factors in breaking down the suspicions, the fears, which exist and develop across international boundary lines. The fact that statements can thus appeal direct to the masses of the people, their own and those of other nations, must prove a tower of strength to the cause of true democracy and better world understanding.

Even so, the radio is still in its infancy What wonders it will yet unfold to us in five, ten or twenty years, can hardly be imagined. It may bring improvements as vast, as television with the broadcasting of moving pictures and current happenings, and other developments as to make the radio achievements of today seem very crude indeed.

An Interesting Collection

Valuable Documents Presented To Library Of Toronto University

A collection of historic documents illustrations, maps, autographs and letters has been presented to the library at the University of Toronto by Henry Sproat. It includes the first example of typography in Upper Canada, a speech made by Sir John Graves Simcoe, a proclamation made at Niagara in 1795, and letters from Sir Isaac Brock, William Lyon Mackenzie Bishop Strachan and many other Canadians famed in history.

Origin Of the Farthing

The English farthing gets its name from "fourth thing." Pennies bearing dreds of years ago were made of silver metal then today. They were also marked sterling pence and down The was that they might be broken in two, if something was wanted that was only a "half-penny." This again could be broken for something costing the fourth of a penny

"Thermola" Has Tone Quality Similar To Cello Or Violin

Now you can be a musician without ability.

All that is necessary is to hum a tune, wave your hands over a gadget invented by the Radio Corporation of America, and you get a fine musical effect.

The new device is called the "Theremin" and has a tonal quality similar to the cello or violin. It was displayed at opening of the radio world's fair recently, having a place in the exhibit because it is operated by two antennae.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Health Restored Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am writing to express my gratitude for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me," says Mrs. W. J. Dowling, Tottenham, Ont., and further says: "I was so badly run down that I felt that life was a burden. The doctor said my trouble was heart trouble, but the medicine did not help me. My face was sallow; my lips bloodless and the least exertion my heart would palpitate so terribly that I would have to lie down. My feet and legs would swell, and I was afraid to leave the house for I was in a decline. In this condition I was induced by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes, and to my delight the first time I had used them I began to feel better. I got a further supply and by the time I had taken them I felt myself growing stronger. The color returned to my cheeks and I felt a new interest in life. To make a long story short I am feeling fine, for which I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I cannot strongly recommend to all weak girls and women

Demonstrates New Form Of Rejuvenation Operation

Austrian Surgeon May Throw Light On Eternal Quest For Youth

Man's eternal quest for youth held the attention of a group of surgeons from the American College of Surgeon's clinic recently, after Dr. V. D. Lespenasse, Chicago, demonstrated a new form of rejuvenation operation. Although the college has not given official sanction to this type of surgery, the operation IS causing comment.

Philosophistotomy, meaning "cutin the love," is the name by which Lespenasse forms the basis of Dr. Lespenasse's new technique. The surgeon joins certain nerve fibers of the abdomen causing the blood to follow a different course and thus, it is claimed, revitalizing the organs. Previous operations have not involve the transplanting of glands or the use of glandular extracts.

Dr. Lespenasse, in 1922, performed a rejuvenation upon Harold F. McCormick, prominent Chicagoan. The surgeon said that his method had passed the experimental stage and has been used on many patients.

Dr. William A. Osborne, Melbourne, Australia, dean of the faculty of medicine and chairman of the clinical research committee of the University of Melbourne, was amongst those awarded honorary fellowships.

Poor Little Boy Was Very Ill With Summer Complaint

Mrs. Ray Fisher, Lebret Sask., writes: "For over a month, last summer, my little boy was suffering from summer complaint. For North Is Favored

Air Mail Rates To Arctic Cheaper On Continent

To Canada's far northern outposts, Alberta and Hudson's Bay, that is absolutely remote from communication of any kind during the long, white months of winter, aeroplanes manned by aces of treacherous aerial trails, soon will be winging their way on regular schedule, carrying to the trader, hunter and trapper, mail and merchandise from the "outside" and returning speedily with the pelts and of the great wilderness — furs — for the world markets.

Commenting on the proposed aerial service, which is scheduled to start with the departure of the first 'plane from Edmonton on November 20 northward bound, Thomas Rowcliffe postmaster in Winnipeg, points out the new air-mail parcel rates will be the cheapest ever in force in North America. There is, of course, no competitive service to consider and this is the paramount factor in low air rate. It will be cheaper to send a parcel from Winnipeg to Herschel Island by air than from Toronto to Montreal. The rates range from 25 cents per pound to Fort Providence and 75 cents per pound northward compared with the charge of $1.50 from Eastern Canada.

Capt. Leigh Ashton-Smith of Aklavik and Herschel the air-mad schedule call for three flights, November 26, January 21, and March 26, while the local and trading posts "in between" weekly and monthly service, depending on distance, will be maintained

Ready-Made Medicine.—You need no physician to prescribe for you if you have at hand a bottle of Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For coughs colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles it is invaluable; for weak, languid, listless, sprained or unsurpassed; while for cuts, sores and the like, it is an unquestionable healer. It costs no testimonial other than the use, and that will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

A Tip To Fishermen

All Fish Color Blind and Goody Files Its Act Attract

That all fish are color-blind is the assertion of Dr. Thomas Hall Shastid, Dartmouth noted wild life research worker.

"The fisherman who attempts the lure of the brightly colored trout flies," Dr. Shastid declared, "is foolishly working against an established principle of nature.

"Neither black nor white exist in the scary brook trout or grayling. All colors to them are a dull gray wall."

Sir John Martin Harvey

Appearing In Western Canada In "The Lonely Road" and "The Only Way"

For his latest success, which still be presented at the Grand Theatre, Edmonton, on Monday and Tuesday, November 4th and 5th, Sir John Martin Harvey has gone to the modern Spanish. The title is "The Lonely Wolf." From the pen of Angel Guimera, the play presents to Sir John a remarkable character study. Manuel Alcala has not been altogether displayed on his recent Canadian tours.

The present tour of Sir John across the Dominion will be the sixth All-Canadian Tour that the actor has undertaken. On this occasion he will give the farewell performance of his great play "The Only Way," which has won so deep a place in the affections of Canadian players There is little need to dilate upon the performance of Sir John Martin Harvey as the dissolute Sidney Carton, who lays down his life for the lady he loves. Most probably all those who have not seen the play, and also all those who have already seen it, will be present, for the occasion promises to be an outstanding the present Canadian Tour. Miss de Silva will appear in her original part of Mimi, and Sir John will bring with him a particularly strong Company, which includes many favourites who have already won thousands popular in the Dominion, and will be warmly welcomed when they appear at the matinee and night of Wednesday, November 5th.

CONTINUAL dosing upsets children's delicate stomachs. Vicks is applied externally and therefore cannot disturb the digestion. It acts in two ways:

(1) The body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors which are inhaled.

(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like a poultice.

Toronto Doctor Hayes Important Announcement At Meeting

Cyclopropane, a new anaesthetic gas which does not interfere with the normal functioning of the body, was discovered by G. H. W. Lucas, of the Toronto University, Department of Pharmacology, at the eighth annual congress of anaesthetists in Chicago.

Lucas said the gas was in an experimental stage, having been administered only to animals as yet, but gave good hopes for its early adoption by hospitals.

Needless Pain!

Headache, people take Aspirin for it. Neuralgia, they take Aspirin for it. Colds, 'flu, they take Aspirin for it. Sore throat, they gargle with Aspirin. Rheumatism, they take Aspirin. Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; and it is based upon the fact.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regret neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism, as unavoidable pain must endure. Get a physician on your case with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief.

Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

TRADE MARK REG.

STOCK EXCHANGE STAMPEDE WORST PANIC SINCE 1914

New York.—The remarkable era of avid public speculation in stocks which has swept over the country during the past five years, came to a climax in the most violent stock upheaval of selling ever experienced on the New York stock exchange and other leading securities markets.

Not since the war panic which resulted in closing the exchange for 17 weeks in 1914, has Wall Street seen such a dark and trying day, and never in financial history have securities markets been thrown into such a tumult. It appeared for a time that the stock markets would be unable to function at all and that trading would have to be suspended, but the leading exchanges managed to keep their doors open, and after a brief collapse and lag of one hour traders galloped and had to be called at the office of J. P. Morgan and Company, and a reassuring statement issued from that financial house by Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, finally checked the disheartening slump and started the upward the market from a complete impasse.

Scores of important stocks tumbled from $15 to $70 a share, paper values vanishing at the rate of tens of millions of dollars a minute. The official statement prompted large operators who were reaping millions in selling like mad to short. Then came a rush of buying that sent prices soaring.

Total sales on the stock exchange reached the astonishing figure of 6,894,680 shares, surpassing by more than 50 per cent. the previous record of 4,246,000 reached in March 29. The ticker registration service fell hours behind transactions and traders who were unable to get quotations from the floor proceeded to guess at intervals when a few stocks were sent out through the bond market ticker.

Closing prices revealed a price loss of hawse among quoted values, hundreds of shares selling at or near low levels for the year, and more than $20 to more than $100 below the record prices reached in recent months. Nevertheless, at no time during the time of the closing gong was found to be substantially above the bottom levels of the day, and the statement of the house of the terrifying early hours of the day have been regained.

Attempts Life Of Italian Crown Prince

Assailant Said He Intended To Fire Into Mussolini

Brussels, Belgium.—A shot was fired at Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy, as he was driving in the tomb of Belgium's unknown soldier. The prince, uninjured, ignored the incident, and police arrested the assailant immediately. Infuriated, the crowd stormed the police station, demanding that the man be lynched.

The prince's assailant told the police he is an Italian named Enrico Dirosa, and was born in 1904. He said he had intended to fire into the air as a mark of protest. He arrived from Paris and was in possession of identification papers from that country.

The attempt was attributed in Rome, to resentment of anti-Fascist in Brussels against condemnation and execution recently, at Pola, of Vincenzi Gastone, Lago-Sforza "executor," who fired on a line of voters last election day.

Will Release Doukhobors

Ottawa.—Thirty Doukhobors now in jail in Saskatchewan, are to be released on ticket of leave, Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor-general, announced on request of Hon. M. A. MacPherson, attorney-general of Saskatchewan.

The Chinese Free Masons of the World in their convention at San Francisco pledged $100,000 for a peace temple in Shanghai.

Urges Free Speech

But Way To Deal With Communists Says Miss Macphail

Toronto, Oct.—Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's only woman member of parliament, in an interview referring to trouble between the local police and Communists, said:

"My opinion of the way to deal with the matter is to let the Communists have free speech. In the words of some one who spoke about Hyde Park, in England, Queen's Park might be a real safety valve for Toronto embarrassed Communists. The police have been making themselves the laughing stock of all thinking people. It is the silliest business I have heard for some time."

Renews Arts Competition

Eight Prizes Are Again Offered By Lord Willingdon

Montreal.—Lord Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, has instituted Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, by letter of the renewal of the Willingdon arts competition, inaugurated last year. Eight prizes in all are offered with a view of furthering and encouraging cultivation of art and literature. Four prizes of $100 each are offered for competition in music, two in literature of $100 each, one in painting of $100, and one prize in sculpture of $300.

Receive Severe Sentence

Chinese Dealers In Narcotics Given Long Jail Term

Vancouver, B.C. — Traffickers in drugs received severe sentences at the close of the fall assizes, when Mr. Justice D. A. MacDonald sentenced Chew Chew, 25-year-old Chinese, to seven years in the penitentiary, a fine of $1,000 and 10 lashes. Chew was convicted of selling opium and morphine in his possession.

Ng Gar, alias Jang Shee, 55-year-old Chinese woman, convicted of a charge of selling opium, was sentenced to seven years imprisonment and fined $1,000.

Will Investigate Tariff

Advisory Board To Discuss Applying Of British Preference

Ottawa.—The reference from the Minister of Finance to the tariff advisory board to investigate the fifty per cent. British content provision in the preferential tariff applied on cotton goods from British countries to Canada, will open here on November 7. This was decided by W. H. Moore, chairman of the board, following a conference lasting all forenoon between members of the board and representatives of the British high commissioner's office.

League Receives Notes

Geneva.—The secretariat of the League of Nations has received from the Canadian Government for registration, the Canadian publication, notes exchanged August 2 and September 19, 1928, by Canada and the United States with reference to the agreement for the exemption of shipping companies from income tax.

Less Unemployment in Britain

Montreal. While unemployment is a serious question in Great Britain, it is not so manifest as one might expect, according to A. T. Weatherald, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways who has just returned from a trip abroad. The country as a whole, has the appearance of growing prosperity.

Will Be Guest Of Honor

North Battleford, Sask.—Premier J. T. M. Anderson will be the guest of honor at the annual rally sponsored by the Board of Trade, which will be held here Tuesday, November 12. More than 2,000 people attended the rally last year when farmers from all parts of the district came in for the day's entertainment.

Relief Fund For Miners

London, England.—The fund for relief of distress among the families of unemployed coal miners has been reopened for the coming winter. Various gifts have already been collected and altogether about $2,500,000 will be spent. The distribution of relief will take the form entirely of clothing.

Sailing November Thirtieth

Tokio.—The Japanese delegation to the London naval conference in late January, will sail from here for Seattle, on November 30, proceeding from that city to Washington for a visit with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson before going to London.

Munich, Germany, was founded by the monks.

ITALIAN MINISTER TO CANADA MAY BE APPOINTED

Ottawa.—The appointment of an Italian minister to Canada was forecast in cable despatches received here, that Augustino Fernan Di Ruffino, Italian consul-general here, would soon be transferred to Philadelphia and that he will be succeeded in Ottawa by Count Delfino Rogeri Di Villanova, counsellor and senior secretary of the Italian embassy in London, England.

The despatches forecasting that Italy contemplates following the example of the United States, France and Japan by appointing a minister to the Dominion has created considerable interest in government circles. Some time ago there was a similar report with respect to Germany. The Department of External Affairs would make no official comment with regard to either report. Our prairie soil is not like your soil down here, because when we get rain it goes into the ground and does not wash away. It's remarkable, open season, and we may get good rains yet, but if we do not there will be some good feed cropped in the spring and good rains in May and June will put the crop in perfect Fall is the only time to sow winter in Canada. "It is quite possible," he is quoted as saying, "but it may not be for some time yet."

To Take Over Branch Lines

Statement Made That C.N.R. Will Operate Cranberry To Sherritt-Gordon Branch

Winnipeg. Announcement is made that the branch line from Cranberry to the Sherritt-Gordon mine at Cold Lake will be taken over by the Canadian National Railways at the end of November.

It is expected that when the branch is taken over there will be a triweekly passenger service to and from The Pas and a daily freight service.

H. MacLean, president of the Dominion Construction Company, stated that work on the branch had been completed well ahead of schedule.

Local mining men believe that the taking over of the line by the C.N.R. will lend great impetus to mining in Northern Manitoba. Work on many promising prospects have been held up, they state, because of the exorbitant cost of taking machinery into the Cold Lake mining area by winter trails.

Believes Draft Satisfactory

Manitoba Cabinet Discusses Agreement For Return Of Unemployed

Winnipeg.—Tentative draft agreement for transfer of natural resources will probably be satisfactory to Manitoba, believes Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. The Dominion minister conferred with members of the Manitoba cabinet on the first occasion for informal discussion of the draft.

Reports certain modifications suggested at the conference, the draft was considered to meet with the approval of the Canadian Press. Every member of the cabinet was present, with the exception of Premier John Bracken. who is absent in the Old Country on application of the Manitoba Power Company for extended pulpwood limits is to be considered at a conference to be held on Mr. Stewart's return from the east.

Spirit Of the West

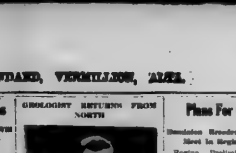
Nothing To Worry About, Newspaperman Tells Easterners

Toronto.—"The spirit of the west is steady and hopeful," said Thos. Miller, of the Moose Jaw Times, here for the meeting of the directors of the Canadian Press. Mr. Miller is a well-known western newspaper man and was a charter member of the Western Associated Press when it started in Winnipeg, 27 years ago. Also he farms himself on a corn-dairy scale, having harvested in three sections, nearly 2,000 acres, under cultivation in Saskatchewan.

"This is not a bad economic crop for the west," he said. "Some 250,000,000 bushels of high-grade wheat. There was a great saving in operating cost, because not only did we not import a single harvester, farmers garnering the crop with their own binder, the combiner harvester now widely in use being in part responsible. Of course, there are cases of individual hardship, some farmers not even saving seed, but these are being taken care of by municipal and farmers' organizations, and it is unlikely it will be necessary to ask Ottawa for financial help as was the case some years ago.

"We expect to sow the same acreage and the sentiment of the west is behind the Wheat Pool in refusing to sell at bargain rates, proof lying in the fact that farmers not in the pool are also holding wheat for a rising market.

...coming to next year, there were good rains east of Regina a fortnight ago, but not in the Moose Jaw district. The outstanding thing for us is the season has been the remarkable shutting on summerfallow needed to spring wheat, where not a drop of rain fell throughout the growing season, and yet a six to 12 bushel crop was reaped. Our prairie soil is not like your soil down here, because when we get rain it goes into the ground and does not wash away. It's remarkable, open season, and we may get good rains yet, but if we do not there will be some good feed cropped in the spring and good rains in May and June will put the crop in perfect Fall is the only time to sow winter in Canada. "It is quite possible," he is quoted as saying, "but it may not be for some time yet."



Fears for the safety of Geoffrey Gilbert, above, geologist with the Dominion Explorers, have been allayed by the news of his arrival at Fort Simpson. He was to have been picked up by the MacAlpine party and for a time it was not known whether he had been forced down with them or was awaiting their arrival. Harry Dickins brought him and three others out during an unsuccessful flight to locate the MacAlpine party.

Plans For Convention

Dominion Breeders' Association To Meet in Regina Next Month

Regina. Preliminary arrangements for the convention of the Dominion Breeders' Association, to be held in Regina, on March 24 to 28, 1930, were given attention by the Saskatchewan Livestock Board, at a recent meeting.

A committee in take charge of these plans was appointed. It consists of C. M. Learmouth, J. G. Robertson, D. T. Elderkin, and R. A. Wright.

These Canadian Breeders' Association meet in Toronto customarily, having met in the west previously only once. That was in Calgary a number of years ago. They are meeting in Regina, in 1930, on the invitation of the Saskatchewan Livestock Breeders and the Regina Board of Trade.

New Claimant For Earldom

Third Man Is Disputing Claim Of Alberta Rancher

London, England.—The dispute over the right to the earldom of Egmont, and the extensive estates near Ringwood, in Hampshire, has been complicated by the appearance of a third claimant, namely, R. Perceval Yorke, a solicitor of Hazlehill, Lancashire. He claims to be a descendant of Hon. Philip Yorke Perceval, brother of the fifth earl, Frederick Perceval, of Priddis, Alberta, is at present disputing the earldom with Albert Edward Perceval, 66-year-old baker of North London. The Alberta man was believed to be the first person claiming the late earl's life and on the death of the earl came to England and for a brief time occupied the estate

Freight Rates Hearing

Board Of Railway Commissioners To Consider Case: East and West

Ottawa. Two important hearings before the Board of Railway Commissioners will likely take place this fall, when the request of the maritimes for lower grain rates over the transcontinental railways and that of Alberta in connection with coal rates will be presented

No dates have yet been fixed for these hearings, and as yet no formal application has been received from the maritime provinces. It is expected, however, that these will be set within the next day or so.

Have No Political Rights

Mexico City. The Department of Interior has ruled women have no political rights in Mexico, and hence cannot vote in the presidential election November 17. His ruling was in answer to a query of women's clubs in the state of Coahuila.

GRAIN STORAGE CRISIS BELIEVED TO BE NOW OVER

Winnipeg. The grain storage crisis has passed Yawning bins at country points contain more than enough storage space to accommodate the big marketed portion of the 1929 crop, farmers' deliveries are falling off and the car supply situation is improvement to the base head and lake head basis are being kept level and grain is coming steadily eastward.

Authentic observers of the western storage situation report that the crisis ensure is ended. The feeder bank on a retail basis, now during the distribution of the crop, is that the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific companies have contributed to the handling of the crop. Fall wheat in the Prince Arthur and Fort William elevators might seem to find its overflowing and that the yards would be crammed with loaded grain cars.

But the current bushels of wheat reaching the head of the lakes are not actually passing farmers' hands, especially the aggregate quantity [illegible] After a short [illegible] the movement to the head of the lakes will be [illegible] low range for the past few years, considerably more than 2,000,000 bushels a week. Deliveries of the grain are declining to [illegible] the long range for the season, and considerably less than the 3,000,000 bushels a week delivered during the first month of the crop movement.

With grain delivery falling off at the present rate, considerably a month of time before movement to the lake head will show a corresponding drop. Handlers of the grain are the set of having no [illegible] grain at hand in terminal elevators after the lake shipping season closes in November that is necessary to accommodate their winter needs. It is more economical storage in local elevators on the greatest possible extent.

Zinc is one of the metals of which Canada now produces a heavy exportable surplus, the last four years having witnessed a rapid increase in the spread between domestic production and consumption. According to figure published by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, the output of zinc last year amounted to about four times the domestic consumption. British Columbia accounts for much the greater part, with Quebec as the other main contributor. Incidentally, the growth of production has converted zinc from a minor to a highly important item in Canadian mineral production, the value of the output last year exceeding ten million dollars.

His own, ongoing simultaneously from a 10-passenger airplane, demonstrated the possibility of safe descent from a dizzying plane. The demonstration was made at Roosevelt Field, New York.

Lowest Infant Death Rate

Report Shows New Zealand Has Record—Canada On Second

"New Zealand's the best place in the world to be born. Babies born there have more chance of living than those of any other part of the globe."

That is Sir Carrick Robertson's way of expressing the fact New Zealand's death rate among infants is the lowest on record for any country.

"However, grown people don't fare much better in New Zealand than in other first rate countries," Sir Carrick added. "In the man's health conditions are good, but we have some diseases that are peculiar to certain parts of the country, and these are quite a problem.

"Goiter is, perhaps, one of our worst diseases. It is caused from a lack of iodine in the soil, and there was a good many sufferers in New Zealand when I visited. The younger generation is be ng protected in a certain extent by being fed iodine regularly at school and many of the adults are instilled anti to combat the disease. Cancer, too is just as insidious in New Zealand as elsewhere."

Caught Him Off Guard

Plaintiff Lost Damage Case Through Cleverness Of Lawyer For Defence

A legal friend of mine told me the other day a good story illustrating the value of cross-examination in the hands of an expert at the game. At the time when the present Lord Birkenhead was plain Mr. F. E. Smith, he was retained by a tramway company in a running-down case. The plaintiff, a man of the laboring class, had had his arm injured, and he proclaimed that the injury was permanent and prevented him from working. If his case were correct, it was a case for heavy damages. Mr. Smith, however, was convinced that the man was exaggerating. The difficulty was to prove it. After several more or less irrelevant questions had been put and answered, Mr. Smith said to the plaintiff quite casually: "Would you mind showing the jury how high you can lift your arm since the accident?" The man, apparently with some difficulty, raised it to h's shoulder. "Thank you," said Mr. Smith in the same casual tone of voice, "show us how high you could lift it before the accident." Up shot the plaintiff's arm, well above his head! The future Lord Birkenhead's insight into the human mentality had won the tramway company their case.

Canada's Bound Position

Prosperity Due In Large Measure To Agricultural Development

"We are all primarily conscious of the fact that this country is measured by any of the yardsticks by which the prosperity of a nation can be gauged, is a very prosperous country, notwithstanding disturbing stock markets and a rather unusual grain situation, both of which are, we hope, temporary," stated E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at a dinner given in his honor by The Albertan Chamber of Commerce.

"There is, perhaps," continued Mr. Beatty, "one point in which we can attribute all the improvement in Canadian conditions in the last few years, that is the fact that we have eminently still an agricultural country and that when providence ordains that our crops shall be large we are almost inevitably prosperous."

Lighted Arrows Show Direction Of Liners

Visible Signals May Largely Diminish Chances Of Disasters

Big lines of light in the future may warn each other as regards the direction in which they are steering by means of large lighted arrows displayed on the bridge, following experiments carried out by the Royal Dutch line.

There have been many collisions owing to the international signals by which ships have vertical lights passed between approaching vessels, the vessels approaching each other on the high seas.

The new optical system installed on the steamship "Batavier V" consists of three arrows conspicuously placed on the bridge. One is horizontal, with the point to port another is horizontal, with the point to starboard, and the middle one vertical, with the point upwards. When lighted, the arrows signify respectively: "I go to port," "I go to starboard" and "I continue my direction."

Both Dutch and British authorities are closely watching and if approved will be adopted by all ships.

WORLD PEACE THROUGH MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

Golden Text: "They shall not hurt nor destroy in all My holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah as the waters cover the sea."—Isaiah 11:9.

Lesson: Isaiah 2:2-4; 11:6-10; 19. 23-25; 25:6-9; 27:12-13; Ephesians 4:4-6, 13-19; John 4:20, 21.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 96:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

Isaiah's Prophecy Of Universal Peace. Isaiah 2:2-4.—In the midst of foes within and foes without, at a time when the fear was overwhelming that Assyria would capture Judah, the prophet Isaiah had his vision of a time of universal peace. "It shall come to pass in the latter days"—thus his prophecy begins. The expression "the latter days" has the progress meaning of "future time." In the far-distant time, Mount Moriah, on which the temple was built (the mountain of Jehovah's house), which was the center for Jerusalem, shall be established on the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills." "Interpret the words figuratively," says Bennett, "the house of Jehovah will become so great that it will be the center of the world's life." The metaphor may be based upon an ancient belief that there was a mountain in the middle of the earth, on whose summit the gods dwelt."

Out From Jerusalem shall God issue into it"; the time will come when other nations will submit to the supremacy of Israel and will say, "Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of Jehovah, to the house of the God of Jacob; that he may teach us universal dominion: "and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths."

"Jerusalem, Isaiah tells us, shall be so filled with the knowledge of God in light of the world, the true source of law and justice, that this hitherto unfulfilled this prophecy, though not possibly in its literal fulfillment, is actual Jerusalem is a little grey city, much resembling in appearance, of fighting in the uplands of Palestine; but the prophet is not thinking of its directly, whatever our Christian world has of faith or vision today, Jerusalem is the city and holy of those who have walked its streets. Only in this sense can we say that the Lord's house has been exalted above the hills."—Canon Glover.

Therefore they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks, for to that glorious future time shall come the stirring up of the soil, but it was only a small piece of land, always resembling a sword in shape, and could well have been made out of a sword.

Then I dipped into the future far as human eye could see;
Saw the vision of the world and all the wonder that would be.
The war drums throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled
In the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the world.—Tennyson.

Nature's Speed Artist

Insect Sins Of Bee Travels 815 Miles Per Hour

The fastest known bird is the spine-tailed swift which reaches a speed of 220 miles an hour over the mountains of Asia; the tarpon, of Florida, the fastest fish, attains 132 miles in an hour; and the Indian cheetah, the speed not animal on legs, is credited with 70 miles an hour. Man has beaten all these records; but he is still second to an insect, a fly by the name of Cephenomyia, recorded to do 815 miles per hour.

When BABIES are upset

Baby Eis and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden fear of diarrhoea—Condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children—nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your own home—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't wait till you're overpowered by it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

New Scheme To Aid Settlers

"British Family Reunion Association" Formed To Assist Emigration

With the object of giving a powerful stimulus to the immigration to Canada of British colonists who can be satisfactorily settled, an entirely new organization has been created by the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway.

The name of the new body is "The British Family Reunion Association." Its activities will extend throughout the Dominion, and it is expected that the heads of the Canadian Pacific, the Hudson's Bay Company, many other organizations and industrial Canadians will be found in this effort to supply new emigration.

The heads of British families in Canada, while earning enough to properly support their families here, are unable, within a brief period to have sufficient money to bring their families to Canada, due to the fact that they have had to support themselves here and their families in Great Britain at the same time, will be assisted. Then there are families who have become comfortably established in Canada and who desire to have their relatives brought over from Britain to avail themselves of the opportunities which Canada has to offer, not only for the sake of the latter but also for their children. The new association is designed to assist in the fulfillment of both of these the one and the sentimentes of the other.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a talking picture star, and they have a son, too. When their baby, Junior, is about two years old, Molly elopes with John Pierpont, best friend, taking the child. A week later Al learns she is at a New York hotel, ready to sail for France that afternoon. He calls her on the 'phone, and begs for the chance to say goodbye to Junior. Molly consents, but Junior is taken to the park entrance. It is a tragic farewell, for Al adores his boy. Junior says, "Do you feel bad, daddy?"

SYNOPSIS XX

"I'm all right, Junior," said Al. "Yes, I don't feel bad. I'm awfully happy to see you. I'll tell you something — you're going far away to another country in a great big boat. Take care of mother and don't let anything happen to her. Be good to her, Junior—just the same as daddy again; we must both wait for that time."

In the distance the nurse-maid was consulting the chauffeur as to the time. He looked at his watch and decided that there was just time to get to the hotel. Al looked up to see the severe-faced nurse standing before him.

"I'm sorry," she said firmly, "but it' time for the young gentleman to return to his mother."

Junior turned on her quickly. "But I don't want to go."

The nurse tried to smile, but Junior continued with baby sternness. "If you take me away so soon I won't like you."

Al rose, gathering Junior in his arms. "Sh-h—Junior. It isn't nurse's fault that we have to go. You must be a good boy, every day, every day." Then Al turned to the nurse. "I'll bring him over to the car. Will you please wait with him?"

The nurse preceded them, while Al made that one hundred-foot walk to the last as long as possible. Would this really be the last time he ever saw Junior? The nurse preceded them, while Al made that one hundred-foot walk to the last as long as possible. Would this really be the last time he ever saw Junior? Perhaps not, but there would be a strapping youngster the next time they came together. If no his adorable baby memories, from

Al sat with his arm flung across the top of the bench and his head buried in his hands. He felt that he could not bear to face the life that moved around him, so steadily and relentlessly, that went unto itself and ignoring his despair. He heard the automobiles of the motor cars up and down the Avenue, carrying women home from shopping tours, bridge parties and tea dates, carrying men home from offices. Finally he heard the footsteps of pedestrians. They passed only a few feet away.

Many curious glances were directed his way. He had been a down-at-the-heels derelict of the great city he could have sat for hours in a subway car instead of taunting any notice at all, but it was unusual to see a fashionably dressed man with a silk hat and topped walking stick across his lap sitting on a bench just outside the playground. He felt the curious eyes staring despair. Two girls, passing close by, giggled, believing Al was drunk. But when he raised his eyes and stared at them vaguely they rejapsed into silence and hurried away.

Finally he stood up and turned back toward the bench where he had sat with Junior. Reaching it, he stepped close and touched it. He must always remember this bench, the scene of his good-bye to Junior. He took note of the fact that it stood beside a single bare oak limb with a curiously gnarled trunk.

The winter day was darkening rapidly; nurses from the fashionable houses along the Avenue were bringing home their baby charges who had been playing all afternoon in the park. There was a procession of them — babies in perambulators, little tots of two, three and four, carried in their nurses' arms or toddling along beside the women. Many were dressed similarly to Junior. Al rose hastily and left the park. He stood, slightly away from the sidewalk, peering eagerly into the little faces, listening to the chatter and childish laughter. These youngsters — they were going home to happy mothers who loved them and were united.

How uncanny it was, thought Al, that the least provocation of babies passed him just at this time, when he had lost Jun'or. He stood like a statue until long after the last youngster disappeared and the last remonstrating tone of the chatting French nurses had died away. Then he turned toward the city's skyscrapers. already ablaze with light in the distance. He said hesitatingly, "I'm going home—reach-ing into the cold blue winter evening sky! Home was empty, but it was a comfortless emphasizing the pain of his loss.

He waited slowly, asking himself the why of his father's tragic fate. Then Al, afraid of breaking openly, quickly passed Junior to her in the car. The motor purred, the door closed, the Rolls-Royce started to move. Al saw Junior's face, dim in the limousine's interior, gazing at him in, wide-eyed, troubled wonder.

Al was small'g. It was a desperate effort, but Junior must remain for him that way. As the car gained momentum the baby face grew rear window; then, for a brief moment, and he knew it. Without pause he would be continually whirling his arm encouragement.

He had plenty of money — that didn't worry him. And he knew he would be well away every-evening the bad earned as a revue singer. She was amply able to provide for Junior. Besides, John Pierpont had made himself rich as a boone racketeer. No, the money angle could be set aside.

Holland Builds Largest Locks

Third Longer and Half as Wide Again As Panama Canal Locks

The most important of the numerous canals in Holland is that which since 1876 has connected Amsterdam, Holland's second seaport with the ocean. With the gradual increase in the size of the ocean-going vessels, says the Netherlands News Bureau, this canal had to be widened and deepened until at present it is, being, according to its dimensions, to the same class of large, internationally known artificial waterways as the Panama and Suez Canals. The North Sea canal has only one set of locks. These separate the turbulent waters of the North Sea from the calm, unruffled surface of the waterway and the many gratifying smaller canals and ditches The locks are located at the end of the canal near the town of Ijmuiden. One of the important fishing centers of Holland

As the canal has grown so have the locks These in use at the present time admit ships of 20,000 ton registered tons to enter the canal and this reach Amsterdam every afternoon Increasing steadily especially of the modern liners made imperative the construction of new locks which would be able to accommodate ocean vessels of any size. The locks have been under construction for a number of years and are expected to be ready early in September.

They will be the largest locks in the world, in length they exceed the locks of the Panama Canal by one-third, in width they would be the largest ships afloat, the Leviathan and the Majestic will be able to enter these locks without any difficulty. The preliminary depth of thirty-eight feet will give to the canal a profile with an area of well 14 000 square feet. This is more than the Suez Canal and a little less than the Panama Canal.

The gates weigh nearly 1,200 tons each. They are opened by rolling them back into recesses, and the chamber gates in case of necessary repairs the recesses had to be fixed for a dry dock There are two gates in the wester end of the lock chamber, one of which can be used as a reserve lock to replie either of the other two The lock chamber can be filled in less than seven minutes When the tide is very high it will take a little longer The whole lock is operated electrically

Sixteen Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 6th, 1913

Mrs. N McClean and her mother were badly injured last Friday from being thrown from their rig while driving into town. A portion of the harness broke and the horse ran away.

Reed & Yeaghist are erecting a warehouse on their property on Main Street. They propose to build a brick block on the site next summer.

Anthony A. A. D. Francis of Vermilion and Pearl E. Somerhorn of the same place, were united in marriage on October 30th at the Presbyterian manse by the Rev W F Allan.

On November 4th, by the Rev Fr. Gautier, Adolph Blodeau was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mary Rhodeau.

Word from Ottawa contains the information that a site has been purchased at Vermilion for a public building. The location comprises lots 21 and 22, block 4 and the price is stated to be $10 000. The new building will provide accommodation for the post office customs office and dominion lands office and cost in the neighborhood of $75 000. A handsome block tower will be a feature of the building.

The public in the vicinity of the town are tressed over and already the shears are busy.

The pay of rural postmaster was recently increased from $30 to $50 a

Provincial Training School, Red Deer

(BY KING KELLS)

Sunshine floods the rooms of the Provincial Training School at Red Deer, creeping into every nook and corner as if anxious to lighten the way for those unfortunate ones whose lives are not as others' lives. It smiles on the beautiful gardens that they respond, putting forth a special effort to create a pleasant atmosphere for the boarders in the school, 155 in number.

They are a happy lot, in spite of handicaps, for there they enjoy equal status, which is not possible in their own homes. Sometimes they go to spend a holiday with their families but they are always glad to get back to the school. Last summer a camp was established at Sylvan Lake, and the boarders were taken for an outing which they enjoyed immensely. Dr W. J. McAllister, the medical superintendent, was anxious that they should have this experience. It means a great deal to them to have an opportunity to get the mental complex of agreeable experience, he says. It gives them food for thought and helps to make them satisfied. And so he arranges little outings from time to time, for those who are able to go under supervision, from the school. It may be a hike, or a visit to the fair; attendance at church in town, or a movie show; or perhaps if they are taken to Chautauqua. No matter where, they enjoy the treat and return home more contented.

Put all is not play at the school. Parents send their children realizing that there, if anywhere, they can have training that will make them useful in later years—training they cannot get in public school where they are in competition with others of normal mentality. Thirty per cent of the children are capable of being trained, and that which is given them not only tends to develop their mentality but to overcome awkwardness of movement. Sense and vocational training, regular hours, proper food, exercise and recreation, all play their part in this good work.

The girls have a vocational training teacher, but at present there are not a sufficient number of high grade boys in the school to warrant the engagement of a special teacher for them. The only training they get is that which they receive from the men who supervise their field work.

Study and recreation are nicely blended, school work being carried on under a regular schedule adapted to the mentality of the student. Some of the students attain to high as grades four and five. Others are more clever with their fingers than with books and learn to do hand work more rapidly than they take to study.

Recreation is provided for winter and summer. Church services, and picture shows are held in the gymnasium where physical drill is conducted in winter and in bad weather in summer. Tennis court, bowling green, baseball, football, and basketball grounds, a playground for the small children, and a skating rink for winter, are all available.

The children appreciate kindness, and respond to kindness in every instance, says Dr. McAllister. They like to be encouraged and noticed. While they do not understand ill treatment, they naturally resent it. Every child in the school, possessed of the slightest mentality, recognizes the doctor, and the pleasure reflected in their faces when they greet him, gives the impression that they always receive kindness at his hands.

The building is carefully planned with a view to giving the best service conditions necessitate. A new wing under construction, will provide better school rooms for sense and vocational training, and additional dormitory space. A dormitory being built outside for the big boys will take them out of the main building and give opportunity for the admission of others of more tender years.

South Side Residence Burns

Property of W. J. Fish — Originally Built by A. E. Filkie

Fire from an unknown cause completely destroyed the residence of Walter Fish in Pittsville at 5 a.m. Saturday morning. The alarm was turned in from the residence of Wm Waldenberger by a college student who had arrived on the east bound train. The fire when noticed had already completely engulfed the building and was far past subduing.

The house had been vacated only Friday and some furniture including two stoves, was still in the house. Mr. Fish had left the house at about 10:30 Friday evening after cleaning and packing a few odd things, and had a fire in the heater while doing this. Some rubbish was also burnt in the stove. The house was completely destroyed, and was partially covered by insurance. A kitchen range and a heater were also destroyed. Fortunately the strong wind blowing at the time was from the west, so Mr. Fish's dray horses were in the barn to the west of the house and residences adjoin the property on the north and south.

The house was a landmark on the south side, being one of the first built. It was originally owned by Albert Pitkie, now of Des Moines, Iowa.

NEWS FROM IRLAY

The W. A. of the United Church held their annual bazaar in the church on Friday evening, and realized $51 from it. An orchestra was in attendance during the course of the sale Mrs. J. Gould was the fortunate winner of one quilt and Mrs. W. Jones of the other.

The Islay teachers, Miss Clement and Mr Simpson, are going to attend the convention this Thursday and Friday in Vermilion, consequently the schools will be closed from Wednesday evening until the following Tuesday morning.

A number of the younger people from here attended the Halloe'en masquerade in Kitscoty on Thursday night of last week.

Miss Clements, our junior room teacher, had a Halloe'en masquerade party for her pupils on Friday afternoon. Bobby Kean won the prize for the best costume.

Edmund MacFadden has just completed the building of his new house some four miles north and west of town. He is now engaged in furnishing it.

Eli Coombs has given his new house a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon and Kathleen motored to Bretton last week and returned home by way of Lloydminster, from the school.

It may be a hike, or a visit to the fair; attendance at church in town, or a movie show; or perhaps if they are taken to Chautauqua. No matter where, they enjoy the treat and return home more contented.

Put all is not play at the school. Parents send their children realizing that there, if anywhere, they can have training that will make them useful in later years—training they cannot get in public school where they are in competition with others of normal mentality. Thirty per cent of the children are capable of being trained, and that which is given them not only tends to develop their mentality but to overcome awkwardness of movement. Sense and vocational training, regular hours, proper food, exercise and recreation, all play their part in this good work.

The girls have a vocational training teacher, but at present there are not a sufficient number of high grade boys in the school to warrant the engagement of a special teacher for them. The only training they get is that which they receive from the men who supervise their field work.

Study and recreation are nicely blended, school work being carried on under a regular schedule adapted to the mentality of the student. Some of the students attain to high as grades four and five. Others are more clever with their fingers than with books and learn to do hand work more rapidly than they take to study.

Recreation is provided for winter and summer. Church services, and picture shows are held in the gymnasium where physical drill is conducted in winter and in bad weather in summer. Tennis court, bowling green, baseball, football, and basketball grounds, a playground for the small children, and a skating rink for winter, are all available.

The children appreciate kindness, and respond to kindness in every instance, says Dr. McAllister. They like to be encouraged and noticed. While they do not understand ill treatment, they naturally resent it. Every child in the school, possessed of the slightest mentality, recognizes the doctor, and the pleasure reflected in their faces when they greet him, gives the impression that they always receive kindness at his hands.

The building is carefully planned with a view to giving the best service conditions necessitate. A new wing under construction, will provide better school rooms for sense and vocational training, and additional dormitory space. A dormitory being built outside for the big boys will take them out of the main building and give opportunity for the admission of others of more tender years.

Vermilion Man Wins Fortune in Sweepstake

It does not fall to the lot of many to receive a return of forty-seven thousand dollars on an investment of fifty cents, but this is exactly what happened to a Vermilion resident this week. A few weeks ago, the gentleman, who does not wish his name to be divulged, bought a ticket in a sweepstake conducted by the Hot Dog Manufacturers' Association in connection with a famous race. A percentage of the funds raised is given to the Home for Orphaned Hot Dogs; and this gentleman, being charitably disposed, bought his ticket, and thought no more about it.

He was astonished, therefore, when he found a cheque for forty-seven thousand dollars in his mail on Wednesday morning. The vastness of the sum staggered him, and he wondered what he would do with so much money. After giving the matter considerable thought, he came to the conclusion that, as he was a member of the Agricultural League he could not conscientiously spend it on himself, and decided to use it in the assistance of some worthy cause.

He had always been an ardent admirer of the president of the Canadian National Railways, and had often applauded the government for compelling Sir Henry Thornton to eke out a bare existence on a beggarly pittance of seventy-five thousand dollars a year; and so he resolved to send his winnings to Sir Henry so that he might be able to buy the necessities of life.

He was on his way to the bank to purchase a money order when a chance meeting with a friend resulted in the loss of his entire fortune. In the course of their conversation the friend casually asked him if he had bought a ticket for "A Dam Honeymoon"—the play which is to be produced at the Columbia Theatre on Monday, November 11th. "Good heavens! I forgot all about it," he replied. "I saw the last play staged by St. Saviour's Dramatic Society, and I simply must see this one." After departing from his friend he was accosted by a stranger who had overheard his remark. "I happened to hear your conversation just now," remarked the stranger, "and I regret to inform you that every seat has been sold for the night of November 11th. However, I have a ticket which I would sell for a consideration." "Great Scott, man! I would give all I possess to see that show. How much do you want for the ticket?" asked our lucky sweepstake winner. "I figure it's cheap at forty-seven thousand dollars," replied the stranger.

Without hesitation the money was handed over. Chuckling over the good bargain he had made, our friend Hot Dog in a fool's paradise until next morning, when he discovered that he had been swindled. The ticket was a ten cent one; for, as a matter of fact, the seat sale for this hilariously funny play does not commence until To-day, Nov. 12th. Readers are requested to take warning from the misfortune of the sweepstake winner, and are advised to buy their tickets early next week for "A Dam Honeymoon." The play will be produced at the Columbia Theatre on Nov. 18th.

History was made in Canada when Chief Buffalo Child Long-lance, the illustrious Indian, of the Sarcees, met and greeted in all friendliness Chief Thomas Deer, of the Iroquois, at Caughnawaga Indian Reserve, near Montreal, recently. There is no record of these tribes ever having met before in Canadian history. The Ottawa Citizen in commenting on Paul Tyson, head Indian guide for the Hunt Shirt Tours at Nipigon Camp, Northern Ontario, writes: "Neither could speak a word of the other's language and conversed through the medium of English."

Judges of the annual fishing contest, held at French River, Nipigon and Devil's Gap (lake of the Woods) hunting camps, have announced the winners as follows:— W. H. Graf, of New York, and Frank S. Sloman, of Chicago, tied for the trophy at French River with a 20-lb. 5-oz. muskinonge each; R. Lane of Hammond, Ind., won the Nipigon trophy with a 7¼-lb. speckled trout, closely followed by Mrs Graf, of Kansas City, with a 7-pounder and A. R. Smith, Jr., of Chicksaw, took the Devil's Gap trophy with a bass weighing 5 pounds, nine ounces.

The distinguished visitors from Canada and Japan to Washington in the near future, Right Honble. Richard Bedford Bennett, K.C.M.G., C.B., first minister to represent the Emperor of Japan, when he presented Premier Joseph Tsuneski Hayashi with the insignia of the Japanese Order of the Rising Sun, will have with the arrival of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, at Vancouver recently. His party accompanied by Tom Fukuyama, Japanese consul-general both of Montreal and Ottawa was driven where the former later delivered his credentials.

What is regarded as a record movement was made recently at the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevator No. 7 at Port Arthur when in 4½ hours, 250 000 bushels of wheat were transferred from the elevator to the hold of the steamship Lesbois. The average periods during the loading of the ships there with wheat was carried like a torrential golden river from the elevator at the rate of 2.664¼ bushels per minute.

Five different steamships have now sorte to carry Canadian products to the Antipodes from the port of Vancouver, states a recent trade review issued by the Royal Bank of Canada. The review adds that in a period when the other great ports have had difficulty in procuring their per war volume of trade, traffic through the port of Vancouver has experienced steady growth. From 177 vessels whose ships in 1913 the number increased to 1,344 in 1928. During the past year total trade of the port had a value of $240 000 000.

The largest grain bag crop on record in Southern Alberta is being harvested by the Desmond district, writes Geoffrey Abbott in the Herald. Seven acres were sown to super bags this year, 2 500 more than in 1928, and the crop will exceed 4 000 bushels. Last year's crop was 2 000 bushels, and this year's production

The Financial Things Seen This Week

Can Mine selling at 20¢ and go over the 25¢ mark before the week is out? Is the president interested in the Dominion Bank? Is Imperial Bank's rights worth $2? When a mark with distinguished face and bristling moustache replaced the other belonging to a certain other, the words "Empire Trust Company" were found on the letterhead of the staff wood with the new signing in astonishment for full three hours before they realized that the straight was none other than Chief O'Kiley, of the local Criminal Investigation Department. It was evident that the Chief was strongly moved by emotion, but, after the Bitter Ender had restored first aid in the form of a healthy dose of bitters the mixture with a concord wine, he partially regained his composure.

Questioned by the Editor as to the meaning of his severely behaving, the Chief explained that the terrific mental strain of the past two weeks had been too much for him. Since the terrible shooting tragedy on Bulwer Avenue he claimed he had not spent a wink that every minute of his time had been spent in trying to decipher the mysterious message which had been found in the unfortunate victim's pocketbook. But at last he had found the solution, and the exhilaration of victory was responsible for his abnormal actions.

Pressed by the cub reporter of the Standard to give an account of the manner in which he had arrived at the solution of the baffling problem, the Chief finally acquiesced.

"Go to sweat. The dirt-dong of damp hotels, Gypsy Girl; 111129 (in thirds)." Now was I to discover the meaning of this cryptic message? For men in this foundation of ours have been called upon to face such a gigantic task and few men could have accomplished it. It did not take me long to discover the meaning of the first three words. 'Go to sweat' was obviously the same as 'go to see.' The word 'dirt-dong' naturally suggested a connection with the theatre of Mars and so I tentatively substituted the word 'Bell.' So far everything was smooth sailing but then I encountered my first real difficulty. What was meant by 'damp hotels'

Applying the words 'moisture' and 'humidity' but neither of these words seemed to be associated with hotels. And then I experimented with the word 'wet.' Now, in a province where rain is unknown the word 'wet' could only be used in connection with the Sale question, and investigation led me to the startling discovery that there were some degraded persons in Alberta who drank beer as not a few some, and, moreover, that certain hotels sold the obnoxious fluid in place called 'bars.' The words 'damp hotels,' then might possibly be changed for 'bars.' I made a mental note of the word, and proceeded to tackle

What Are Our Hockey Prospects?

Last week the Vermilion Observer carried a column article on the hockey situation in that town, and stated that Vermilion was for one, and one only senior hockey, and that the so-called amateur hockey would be no game for them after leaving the brand of pastime they were trusted to last year. It also states that Vermilion and Lloydminster had on foot a three-team senior league, the third team representing either North Battleford or Edmonton, but that the prospects of Edmonton having a team in the league were very slim indeed, as they delighted in the steam power variety in that city. In the event of Edmonton not joining, North Battleford probably would make the third team in the league. Every little thing was then lined up satisfactorily, as the report stated that Vermilion would not be represented in the league. The proposed three-team league of our neighbors will probably not materialize to the functioning point. The Elks of Vermilion are not going to handle that team this year, as two substantial dollars in a row have given them enough to worry about. If the western club could not pay expenses playing to Lloydminster and Vermilion, what would it do on a long trip like the one to North Battleford? In all probability Lloydminster will hook up with a Saskatchewan circuit this winner in the event of Vermilion not entering a league along this line. In our opinion it would be a young calamity if we weren't represented in an outside league—as long as amateur hockey prevailed the Vermilion boys were at the top of the heap, but this semi-pro stuff spelled our downfall.

However, it is high time that some organization work was started along hockey lines. Work on finding the rink is going on, so shaking has been started on the sloughs and small lakes. The annual curling meeting was held last night, so why not a hockey meeting presto?

DEWAR — MORGAN

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraser, Minburn, on Saturday evening, November 2nd, when their daughter, Fay Jeanette Morgan, became the bride of Gregor Dewar of the Agricultural college, Vermilion.

The Rev. T. J. Stainton performed the ceremony beneath an arch of evergreens and white bells. The decorations were in white.

Prettily gowned in pearl blue satin crepe and carrying pink roses and maiden-hair fern, the bride was attended by Miss Muriel Marshall of Vermilion, who wore an ensemble of blue velvet and white satin and carried pink roses and maiden-hair fern.

Mr. R. W. Davis of Vermilion was the groomsman.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. T. J. Stainton.

After the ceremony a buffet supper was served to the guests by the bride's mother, assisted by Mrs. A. Dewar.

The bridal couple received many useful and beautiful gifts. The bridesmaid's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch; to the bridesmaid and the groomsman suitable momentoes of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewar will make their home in Vermilion

FIRST UNITED CHURCH HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

The anniversary services in connection with the United church were held on Sunday, Rev. W. H. Pike of Edmonton being the special preacher Services were held in the morning following the Sunday school when Mr. Pike spoke on "The Courageous Christ" and in the evening his subject was "A Christian Debt." Large congregations were present both morning and evening.

The choir rendered special music on both occasions.

On Monday evening Rev. Mr. Pike gave a very interesting lantern lecture, the subject being "Foreign Alberta."

Ramsey MacDonald Goes Home With V.C.'s

Completing his hurried Peace mission to the United States, the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, sailed from Quebec Friday, October 25th, on the 11 and an Pacific liner Duchess of York which made a special call at the Ancient Capital.

He is shown above on the quarterway surrounded by a group of Canadian V.C.'s, who sailed on the same ship as guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and to whom the honour was given. November 9th, by H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, to wearers of the coveted decoration.

Although the ship sailed at 7.45 p.m., the embarkation was made in bright artificial daylight created by powerful "sun arcs" which enabled newspaper cameramen to make the next part of the message. Who was the mysterious Gypsy Girl mentioned? I pondered over this for many days, and almost gave up the task of deciphering the words, when I suddenly remembered the fascinating Gypsy Girl who was brought from Vienna last spring to take part in the musical comedy "Pickles," and whose name I recalled was 'Gona.' Perhaps this was the solution. I jotted the name down.

But, even if I was correct so far, I was still faced with the problem of solving the hidden meaning of the numbers which completed the message '111129 (in thirds).' This was a real tickler, but after many fruitless mental postures to the utmost, I spent many tedious hours trying to find the meaning until I eventually conceived the brilliant idea of dividing the dates in thirds' The number 111129 thereby became itself into '11-11-29' which was evidently a date. The total result of my efforts then left me with the following partial solution. 'Go to sea: the hell of bars Dona. 11-11-29.' It required little further research to see that this was merely a phonetic rendering of the following message "Go to see the Belle of Barcelona, on the 11th of November, 1929."

I might add that I have discovered that this opera is a comic comedy in the most ambitious production ever staged by local talent; and I strongly urge everyone in this district to see it without delay, and reserve a seat at Long's Drug Store."

Nick Hawarliuk Takeu By Police

Alleged to Have Passed Stolen Check at Myrnam

An alleged attempt to pass a stolen check resulted in the arrest on Saturday at Myrnam Alta., of Nick Hawarliuk in connection with the robbery of the Myrnam post office on Friday night. Upon preliminary hearing Hawarliuk was committed for trial and he was taken to Fort Saskatchewan on Saturday to await trial

According to information received at provincial police headquarters at Edmonton on Tuesday morning, the Myrnam post office was broken into Friday night, the robber taking about $200 in cash and a check for about $80

Hawarliuk, a farmer of the Myrnam district is alleged to have attempted to cash the check at a general store in the town the following day. The store proprietor immediately notified the A.P.P. constable there and an arrest was effected.

Myrnam is situated north-east of Vermilion.

MORE TENNIS COURTS FOR NEXT SUMMER

Two Now Under Construction

The past season has without doubt been the most successful one in the history of the Vermilion Tennis club, both from point of interest and enthusiasm in the game and also from a financial viewpoint. The club, besides paying all current year expenses has practically rebuilt the town's courts, wiped off $160 carried over from 1928, and has now under construction two more courts which very little work will put into shape for the 1930 season, and will then accommodate more members. The work on these courts will be completed early next spring as the present extreme dryness makes the obtaining of a smooth surface impossible. The club has now on hand a substantial bank account to its credit sufficient to finish the work started this fall.

A one hundred membership is anticipated next season

THE SELLERS OF SEALS

This month there has come into the local office of the Red Cross Society in Edmonton the annual shipment of Xmas seals to be sold for the benefit of the little crippled children in the provincial under the Junior Red Cross in Calgary and Edmonton

It is a stupendous task getting rid of such a large quantity and would be well nigh impossible were it not for the splendid band of eager young Canadians and scientists who make it their especial pride and privilege to merchandise these attractive stamps.

When every Red Cross Junior member begins business as a seller of seals he puts himself in touch with a great united effort that extends from coast to coast in every province in Canada where they are Juniors working to keep their pledge of service to the sick.

Alberta Juniors have long been famous for their remarkable efforts at Christmas time, or rather earlier than that, for it is necessary that seals be sold for parcels and letters that are going on their errands of good will across the seas to the Motherland or to other parts of the world. It is an easy matter for readers to decide that in so far as they are able, (and surely all can do this small courtesy) they will patronise the little merchants who are earnestly trying to dispose of packages of seals

A little imagination helps the purchaser in the picturesque thought that this seal money, though small in itself, is part of a great and worthy effort made by the children of the province to assist those who are unfortunate as to be patients in hospital, and who thanks to Junior Red Cross, are getting the chance they need to be made well and whole.

MINBURN DISTRICT WELL IS "SPUDDED IN"

Oil drilling is likely to start on an extensive scale in the Minburn district from reports received in the city. It is claimed that a heavy duty rotary drill has already been delivered on the ground and that initial operations will commence a few miles south-west.

The company is said to have erected camp buildings and has a water well completed while it plans to spud in 24 No 1 shortly.

Another report is that a strong British company has obtained holdings in the Minburn area, south-east of Brick Lake and will start drilling for oil with in a short time—Edmonton Journal.

TWENTY-THREE IS MOST POPULAR MARRYING AGE IN LONDON

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 31.—Twenty-three is the most popular marrying age among women, according to the Registrar-General's review for the year 1928. In 280,228 marriages in England and Wales 30,91 brides were that age.

Fifty-seven girls married at the age of 15, 4,454 at 16, and 7,119 at 17.

A feature of the year was the large number of men who married women much older than themselves. Twenty-one women of 30 married youths of 20. There were cases of 30 marrying 17, 38 wedding 19, 60 and 61 wedding 20, and 17 women between 40 and 51 married men of 22. Other cases were 9 to 34, 57 to 71; and women of 70 and over took husbands 35, 37, 66, 71, 72 and 76.

Preference for the third quarter of the year is again shown by bride and bridegroom. This has been the rule during the present century. It used to be the fourth quarter. Last year the number of weddings in the September quarter was more than double that in the fourth quarter.

Commenting on this report, the Daily News says: "The old convention which insisted on the disparity being on the other side is passing away, as well it might. It is one of the inevitable effects of the more fashions and healthier lives of the women that it is becoming increasingly difficult to differentiate between women and their grown up daughters. They look as youthful. They can take an almost equally energetic part in dancing and games. The main difference is in their maturity, their sympathy and their poise."

"FRESHIES" NOW FULL-FLEDGED COLLEGE BOYS

Initiation Held Last Saturday

The freshies of the Agricultural college were fully initiated into the mysteries of college last Saturday morning when they were made to "ride the goat" by the second year members. Canada Among the Nations

Canadians of all classes can hardly fail to feel a thrilling pride in the rapid strides forward made by their Dominion in the realm of international affairs. Since that fateful day in 1914, when the world was plunged into war, and Canada at once, and without the slightest hesitation, took his place in the front rank of the Allied hosts, the growth of this country in world estimation and influence, has been one of the remarkable features of the international situation.

Hardly a year has passed without witnessing some new advance step taken, or some noteworthy achievement added to the record, revealing Canada's new and higher status in the councils of the nations.

Constantly, but eloquently, Sir Robert Borden outlined the Dominion's growth in international stature within the short space of the last two years in a memorandum prepared and submitted by him to the Institute of Pacific Relations now in session at Kyoto, Japan. Since 1927, when the Institute last assembled, Canada had adhered to the multilateral pact for the renunciation of war, has given adherence to the optional clause in the statutes of the Permanent Court of International Justice, has exchanged ministers with France and Japan.

Canada, too, has all'gned itself whole-heartedly with Premier Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover in their fine effort to promote mutual understanding and goodwill between all sections of the English-speaking world thus paving the way for a larger measure of world disarmament, and making an immensely important advance toward the goal of permanent world peace

Nor has Canada confined its efforts to the signing of treaties and the making of gestures. When the unfortunate incident of the "I'm Alone" arose, in happening which in days gone by might have pre-pitated almost immediate war and certainly a feeling of hostility containing the seeds of future trouble Canada kept cool, and through the medium of diplomatic correspondence between Ottawa and Washington, a basis of arbitration was quickly and mutually arranged to the satisfaction of both nations. Speaking of this correspondence, Sir Robert says

"If diplomatic correspondence on the subject between Canada and the United States is admirable in tone, and the questions of fact and law presented are set out lucidly and temperately on each side"

In the Assembly and Council of the League of Nations, Canada's voice is always heard in support of all measures calculated to make for peace. This Dominion is a real leader at Geneva in all efforts to promote international understanding and goodwill, and in the devising of ways and means to remove causes of suspicion and irritation.

Co-incident with the rise of Canada as a factor in international affairs, the foreign trade of the Dominion has been steadily and substantially increased until now this country can boast of the second largest world trade per head of population. Canada's ministers at Washington, Paris and Tokio, are reinforced in the work of creating international goodwill and prestige for Canada by a large and steadily increasing number of trade commissioners in all parts of the globe.

Canada's strong position can be made stronger through the united sympathy and effort of the Canadian people. Sir Robert Borden, while voicing unqualified praise of the anti-war pact, declared that the peace of the world cannot be secured by a declaration of international policy, nor can it be maintained by force. The same foundation which assures ordered liberty and justice in a modern civilized state must be created on an international scale if peace is to endure.

The education and idealism of the people, their intelligent respect for law, and their determination to maintain order and justice against crime and lawlessness—these, Sir Robert said, were the foundations upon which stable government rests. In the world there must be an international public opinion upon which will be established between the nations the enthronement of peace right and justice

Canada, no less than other countries, has everything to gain through the development of such an international public opinion. Only by the maintenance of peace can Canada's great foreign trade continue to prosper and grow. The development of an international public opinion must begin within each national unit and spread through the whole body of humanity.

Canada has that international viewpoint. It is growing stronger, and every true Canadian will exert himself or herself to foster it. It is one of the greatest things in the nation and to the world today.

Commander Atlantic Liner

Ronald Stuart Was First Canadian To Win the Victoria Cross in British Navy

At least one Canadian holder of the coveted Victoria Cross "worked his way" to England for the Prince of Wales' dinner on Nov. 9, and none can deny that he earned his passage. This is Commander Ronald Stuart, V.C., captain of the Canadian Pacific liner, "Duchess of York," the first Canadian to win the Victoria Cross in the British Navy.

Commander Stuart brought the C.P.R. steamer "Princess Marie" to the Pacific coast on her maiden voyage last year and was later promoted to command of the fleet Atlantic liner which he now sails.

England Not So Slow

When Necessary Can Show Other Countries What Speed Is

The distance between Paddington and Swindon, in England, is seventy-six and one quarter miles. The Great Western Railway of that country has announced that it has cut the time of one of its passenger trains between these stations to seventy minutes. That looks as if these English trains are operating at about sixty-six miles an hour.

Sometimes we think that we are masters of all the speed on this side of the water. When our trains average fifty miles an hour we consider that we are not letting any grass grow under our feet.

Not long ago a British aviator went out and flew a complete at a speed of 300 miles an hour. That was the fastest time ever made by any kind of vehicle capable of carrying a human being

It must be admitted that when the Old Country people set out to make fast time they are in a hurry. It is quite erroneous to harbor the opinion that they are slow They have a leisurely way in certain affairs, but to others they are speedy.

Safer To Stand Up

Stressful End Assuring Experience At Theatre to Body

You don't have to believe this, but a gentleman returned from abroad says that an American girl studying Italy went into a moving-picture theatre and noticed little notices that she was sitting just behind some other than Il Duce Mussol si himself. His visit was incognito, and necessarily so, for no one recogn'sed him in the half light of the cinema. He was enjoying everything hugely until, in the midst of a newsreel, a portrait of himself in heroic pose was thrown on the screen. The spectators, of course, all arose, cheering wildly, all save Mussolini himself, who sat through the demonstration, dignified, like he had been, obviously, a rather nice person—whether to stand up and risk being recognized honoring himself, or to remain modestly seated. After the excitement was over an old Italian lady who had the seat next him leaned over and said: "Signor, that's how we all feel, but it's safer to stand up."

NERVE TORTURES

A Condition From Which Both Men and Women Suffer

Hardly any condition of ill health causes greater suffering than that of shattered nervous systems. And often, the nervous state of little children is shown for the sufferer, from the mistaken idea that their nerves can be controlled. Men and women with nerves worn out and exhausted feel irritable and are blamed for ill temper, when it is their pitiful nerves that poor health is the cause. The tired, over-busy wife and mother whose household cares have worn her thin; the breadwinner whose anxieties and responsibilities melt him a shadow. The first thing I found to help me was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I found my nerves steadied, my appetite and sleep grew less frequent, and I became stronger and more hearty. I found the pills for some time and found that they enrich the blood, build up the nerves and are a fine medicine for both old and young."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Demonstrates New Serum

Young Military Doctor Discovers Substitute For Blood Transfusion

The efficacy of a new serum, which is said to take the place of a blood transfusion, was demonstrated at the Pean Hospital, Paris, where the life of a motor-cyclist was saved after he had been given the new treatment. The serum is the discovery of a young military doctor stationed in a branch of the hospital at Tantinain, in Haaut, Indo-China.

Before the serum was tried on human subjects experiments were conducted in Paris at the Pasteur Institute. The serum was injected into a dog from which much of the blood had been drained, and the animal immediately revived and took food. The motorcyclist was successfully treated when he had already lost two quarts of blood.

New York Paper Makes Manly Reference To His Sincerity Of Purpose

Though he modestly puts away the personal aspect of it, it has been a distinct triumph for Ramsay MacDonald, the man. His bearing has been perfect. Not one slip in act or speech did he make while he was here. Deeply impressive has been his striking sense of the high mission on which he came, and which he hopes will lead to all-embracing benefits throughout the entire world. His eloquence has been that of elevation of mind and nobility of purpose. One detects strings his arm around the one clear note of a passion to secure established peace on earth through international good will honorable means. Such speaking as his, coming to a climax as it did in his Guildhall address on Friday night, has seldom been heard in any country from the lips of a citizen of another.—New York Times.

New Grain Loading System

New and Improved System To Be Put In Operation At Montreal

A new and improved system of grain loading will shortly be in operation in the Port of Montreal. The first of two mechanical grain loaders is being erected on shed 8, one of the berths allotted to the Canadian Pacific Steamships, and the second will be set up shortly afterwards. It is expected that further improvements along this line will be part of the fall building programme.

(By Betty Barclay)

VEGETABLE SOUFFLE

1 cup left-over vegetables.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 teaspoon sugar.
½ cup milk.
3 eggs.
Salt.
Pepper.

Add the flour to the butter which has been melted in a saucepan, and blend until smooth. Add the water slowly, while stirring to keep smooth. Cook one minute after stirring ceases. Then add the milk. Pour the mixture over the eggs which have been beaten light. Add salt and pepper. Add mixture to the vegetables which have been placed in buttered baking dish. Bake in slow oven until souffle is set —about 60 minutes.

LEMON CATSUP

Grated rind of 6 lemons.
Juice of 6 lemons.
1 tablespoonful horseradish.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon white mustard seed.
2 teaspoons celery seed.
4 cloves.
Five blades mace.
Few grains red pepper.

Mix ingredients; boil thirty-five minutes, and bottle while hot. Let stand five or six weeks to ripen. Serve with fish.

Another thing that the world needs is an alarm clock which will come right back and ring again after you shut it off in the morning.

Cost Of Keeping Clean

Ten Cents Of Every Dollar Goes Toward Shielding Rest Days From Dirt

Ten cents of every dollar spent by the average American family is for the purpose of keeping clean, a survey of this little American's cost of daily life by Ronald Miller, New York statistician, shows.

Reading his calculations upon a family of four, Miller, in The American Magazine, estimates that $1,000 a year is the least price of cleanliness that can be quoted. Of this amount $460.35 is the minimum yearly total for personal and household cleanliness; $426 for the services of cleaners whether employed directly or indirectly, and $72.80 for civic cleanliness.

In personal household cleanliness the statistician includes soap, polishes, shaving equipment and materials, hot water for washing or bathing, haircuts for husband only, toothbrushes and dentifrices, handkerchiefs, towels, linen and power or upkeep for whatever cleaning devices that may be used. The housewife is granted, under the second group, $5 each an hour in the rate, and two hours a day for 300 days in the year. Whether or not she receives any actual pay, the work is still chargeable since it is time which she might employ for cash profit. Likewise, says Miller, the cleaning of railway cars, automobiles and even the grooming of 19,000,000 horses that still exist in the country, ultimately becomes a charge upon the individual. "Food and shelter lead in the cost of living," says Miller, "but the cost of cleanliness is higher than that of clothes, education amusements, owning an automobile and many other things that figure more prominently in the household budget."

Noted Western Writer Passes

Mrs. Charlotte Gordon, Of Calgary, Was Well-Known Author

Mrs. Charlotte Isabel Gordon, known throughout Canada by her pen-name, Charlotte Gordon, died recently at her home in Calgary, following an illness of one month.

Mrs. Gordon, who was the wife of A. J. Gordon, was one of Calgary's well known woman writers, for besides the fame which came from the publication of her novel, "Red Gold," she was equally noted for her many magazine and newspaper feature articles. Last July she had the distinction of representing the Alberta branches of the Canadian Authors' Association at the annual convention of that organization in Fredericton, N.B., and the choice was a popular one, as in both the C.A.A. and the Women's Press Club, of which she was also a member, she also was known as an ardent worker.

Mrs. Gordon was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Melvin Toombs, who now resides at Vancouver, and went to school at Stonewall, Man., where her father was the editor of a newspaper. She married Mr. Gordon when he was living at Carman, Manitoba, and soon afterwards they moved to Vancouver, later coming to Calgary to reside in 1917.

LIQUOR CONTROL FAVORED BY VOTE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax.—In a plebiscite on the issue question the number of Nova Scotia voters who expressed a preference for government control and sale exceeded by more than 28,000 the number of those who indicated their desire that the present prohibition law be kept.

Both Dr. H. R. Grant, leader of the prohibition forces, and J. H. Winfield, heading the government control campaign, interpreted the figures as indicating the defeat of the prohibition law.

Two questions were before the voters but thousands voted on only one. The questions were whether the prohibition law, known as the Nova Scotia temperance act, should be continued or whether a system of government sale should be set up.

With only 45 small polls unheard from out of a total of 1,127, the figures were:

For the temperance act, 61,672.
Against, 56,024.
For government control, 89,737.
Against, 61,280.

The vote will be interpreted officially by the government.

President Of St. Mary's said he would wait for more complete information before making a statement.

Only five Province and Prince Edward Island of the provinces of Canada now have prohibition laws.

Upholds Alberta Court Ruling

Privy Council Says Certain Victory Bonds Liable To Death Duties

London, Eng.—The judicial committee of the privy council dismissed with costs the appeal of the Royal Trust Company against the government of the province of Alberta.

The decision upholds the Alberta court ruling that succession duty is payable on certain Victory Bonds, portion of the estate of the late Mrs. Hull, such bonds being "legally situate" within the province of Alberta.

The ruling is important as establishing liability of Dominion government bonds to succession duties taxation and it is understood the province of Alberta is a large financial gainer by the ruling.

H. P. McKillan, K.C., of London, and Attorney-General Hon. J. F. Lymburn of Alberta, represented the province and Geoffrey Lawrence, K.C., London, and H. G. Noal, of Calgary acted for the trust company.

General Higgins Asks Transfer Of Salvation Army Property

London, Eng.—A writ on behalf of General Higgins, the new commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, asking for transfer to himself of Army property now held in the names of 19 gentlemen, the late General Bramwell Booth has been issued.

The writ was served immediately on General Booth's executors, Mrs. Booth, Commissioner Catherine Booth, his daughter and a solicitor, Russell. The situation at present is that while all property of the army in Great Britain is controlled by General Higgins, its ownership remains in the hands of General Booth's executors.

Dominion Statistician Settles Controversy Of Long Standing

Ottawa, Ont. Every one of Canadian nationality is a Canadian: every one born in the Dom nion is of Canadian birth; and every one whose family has been of three generations residence or more in Canada is a Canadian "in a special sense," according to a report issued by R. H. Coates, Dominion statistician.

The report would seem to settle a controversy of long duration as to just what constitutes "a Canadian."

New Position For Dr. Gunn

Victoria.—Dr. W. R. Gunn, at present associated with the health of animal section of the Federal Department of Agriculture with headquarters at Ottawa, has been appointed livestock commissioner for British Columbia, according to announcement by provincial minister of agriculture, Hon. Winnipeg.—E. R. Ramsay officially leaves the post of general manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers and takes over the directorship of the Board of Railway Commissioners. No successor to Mr. Ramsay has been appointed. He will continue to act in an advisory capacity on any matters which have come up during his tenure of office.

Dunning Will Come West

Ottawa, Ont. Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways, will join Premier Mackenzie King on the latter part of his western tour and return with him to Ottawa. Mr. Dunning will meet Mr. King at Regina, when the prime minister is returning, and will be present at the various meeting held on the eastward journey.

VICTORY FOR FERGUSON FORCES IN ONTARIO

Toronto.—Premier G. Howard Ferguson, with his Conservative government in power and in greatly increased army of supporters, is now more solidly entrenched as the dom nant political force in the province of Ontario.

Their ranks shattered by the defeats inflicted by the Conservatives in rural strongholds they regarded as invulnerable, only a corporal's guard of opposition strength will face the government when the legislative assembly, the 18th in the history of the province, convenes for the session. Premier Ferguson based his appeal to the people.

In giving the Ferguson government a mandate to administer the affairs for a third successive term, the people of Ontario gave the administration a decisive endorsation of its policy of government ownership and control of development in the province.

The sweeping victory which exceeded the hopes of the most optimistic government supporters was a ringing answer to the prime minister's declaration that he was willing to stake his political life on the government's policy of sale to the public of liquor by the government—the issue on which he was returned to power in the 1926 general election.

The standing as compared with the 1926 election follows:

Party	1929	1926
Conservatives	82	77
Liberals	9	21
Progressives	1	11
U. F. O.	1	15
Ind.Conservatives	1	0
Ind.Liberals	1	0
Deferred	1	5
Doubtful	3	0
Total	113	112

The landslide that swept the Ferguson administration into power gave at least 83 supporters in a house of 113 members carried down to defeat five cabinet ministers, including Hon. Hull, such bonds being "legally situate" within the province of Alberta.

The ruling is important as establishing liability of Dominion government bonds to succession duties taxation and it is understood the province of Alberta is a large financial gainer by the ruling.

H. P. McKillan, K.C., of London, and Attorney-General Hon. J. F. Lymburn of Alberta, represented the province and Geoffrey Lawrence, K.C., London, and H. G. Noal, of Calgary acted for the trust company.

Edmonton Students Hear Unusual Lecture

Former German Officer Gives Address At Edmonton Military Academy

Edmonton, Alta.—With a former commander in the Imperial German navy relating his own experiences in the battle of Jutland, famous naval encounter of the world war, the Edmonton military academy heard an unusual lecture here.

Erich Alexander, who fought as a German officer in all the major naval engagements of the war, and to whose initiative the academy formed, came to Alberta two years ago, and is now a progressive farmer in the Bellevue district.

Albertan Wins Huge Sum

Quebec. — George Kowalchuk, of Hackett, Alberta, and James Westcott, of Springvale, Mass., won the first two prizes each amounting to $79,399.50 in the Army and Navy Veterans' sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire race at Newmarket, England. The sweep was arranged so that each horse was drawn by two ticket holders. Both of these men drew Double Life.

Arab Buyers In Jerusalem

Jerusalem.—Two hundred Jewish shopkeepers of the old city submitted a petition to the high commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, declaring that an organized Arab boycott of Jews was still going on and Arabs etc were said to be watching the entrance of Jewish shops destroying all goods purchased there by Arabs.

May Abolish Capital Punishment

Question Is Now An Issue In British House Of Commons

London, Eng.—The House of Commons adopted an amendment for appointment of a committee to report on the possibility of abolition of capital punishment.

When debate opened on a private member's resolution for abolition of the death penalty, Right Hon John R. Clynes, secretary for home affairs, expressed government sympathy with the idea, but said the question of an alternative to such punishment was the rock on which all projects for abolition had split.

He agreed with the amendment finally adopted for study of the matter, which he hoped might lead to some practical result. In the course of the discussion Lady Astor expressed great disappointment in the attitude of the minister. She had broken a ten-year custom earlier today by appearing at the afternoon session without a hat as most of the other women have done regularly.

Solved His Problem

Immigrant Out Of Work Broke Window To Get Jail Term

Saskatoon, Sask.—Failing in his search for employment for the past month and being without friends in this country, Joseph G. Jackson, immigrant, solved his part of the unemployment problem by throwing a brick through the plate glass window of the government liquor store on Third Avenue

The crash of the glass evidently went unnoticed at the time and Jackson hunted up a sergeant of the police and told his story, and was taken to the police court by a police escort on his guilt and stated that he fully expected to go to jail and was not disappointed for Magistrate Brown sentenced him to six months in Prince Albert.

Received News By Radio

And V.C. Ho r In Isolated Settlement Will Attend Prince's Dinner

Winnipeg.—Word of the Prince of Wales' dinner to be given November 9, in honor of all those who won the Victoria Cross, reached a little settlement 100 miles from Salmon Arm, B.C., recently. Major J. McGregor, stationed at the little settlement, received the news over the radio.

Major McGregor, whose valor on the field of battle while serving with the 2nd Canadian Rifles, earned him the V.C., lost no time in setting out on a hurried trip to New York from where he sat on the R.M. Olympic for London. He raced 100 miles by auto to the railway station at Salmon Arm, where he arrived only fifteen minutes before his train left.

DOMINION STATUS FOR INDIA WILL BE CONSIDERED

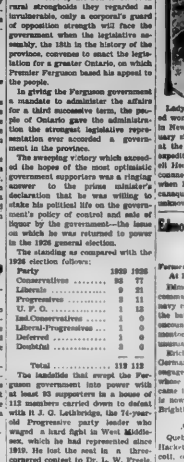
London, Eng.—A London newspaper published what purports to be a summary of the report of the Indian central committee, appointed under Sir Nathan an Hary Peel, members of the Indian round table conference will begin their work in co-operation with the Simon commission on statutory reform The commission has concluded its work after a month in London and is ready to submit a unanimous report to the viceroy of India, which will be left divers a meeting pub. ishes

The newspaper report however states that the commission has not recommends something like Dominion status for India and full autonomy for the provinces.

The newspaper continues that the report recommends formation of an Indian federation similar to that of Canada and Australia, and also recommends the summoning of a conference in London to discuss the future constitutional development of India.

It was assumed that pending the decision of the British government in regard to recommendations that may be made by the Simon commission, the provisional order will make no distinct promise that will indicate the policy of Great Britain

Favorite Star Goes C.P.R.



Travelling from Winnipeg to Montreal by Imperial Limited, crack Canadian Pacific Flyer, Colleen Moore, smiling Irish actress, opened her eyes to more than average wideness as she got her first glimpse of the prairies and the Rest from the luxurious compartment of a Canadian Pacific train de luxe. She told interviewers that she had been in a condition of amazement all through her trip and the word "wonderful" was continually on her lips She is shown here stepping from the train at the Windsor Street station Montreal, just before receiving an ovation from her countless admirers who gathered at the depot and later at the theatre where she appeared in person.

CANADA OFF GOLD STANDARD FOR SOME MONTHS

Montreal The Montreal Star says that "because of the stringency which has existed in Canada for money and in order to protect Canada's position Canada has been unofficially off the gold standard for the past six months. At the verbal request of the Minister of Finance, the banks have refrained from shipping gold, although Canada's money has been at a discount which made it profitable to ship gold to New York

"Although the condition has been in existence for some time it was not generally known that the finance minister of the Dominion had taken the step which investigation now shows that he had The situation is one which is regarded as being extremely acute although it is believed that the condition will right itself in the ordinary course of events.

"In acting as he did, the finance minister was assuming unusual powers for the purpose Although the practice was to ship gold under the circumstances, Ottawa acted in order that the stability position of the country might be maintained during a period of abnormal strain

"Canada is the only one which is regarded by financiers and economists alike as being extremely acute and serious—so much so should not be arrived at hastily When the move was made to place an embargo upon gold some six months ago Canadian banking circles were charged by the purpose of private manipulators using American money and demanding gold for Canadian bonuses.

"The entire financial structure of the Dominion would have been greatly endangered if the movement of gold had been placed in the position where he would have been forced to refuse gold in payment for Canadian currency. The huge profits which could have been made by the transfer of gold back to New York would be one who were in a position to take advantage of the situation.

"The financial results of the crash in the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges throughout the world will be about an alleviation of the demand for New York funds. The drastic reduction expected in funds from New York will be one of the main factors in bringing about a substantial betterment in the Canadian gold," the paper concludes.

MARWAYNE HOLDS AN ENTHUSIASTIC SCHOOL FAIR MEETING

Marwayne, a thriving new town on the C. N. Railway Company's new line, fifteen miles North of Kitscoty held a most enthusiastic meeting in connection with its school fair, on Thursday, November 7th, in the fine new two-room school.

On motion, Mr. Fred Marriott was made chairman of the meeting, and Miss Kent the secretary After a few preliminary remarks regarding the success of the 1929 school fair, the chairman called on Mr. S. C. Hodgert of the Vermilion school of agriculture staff, who has charge of the school fairs operating under this institution, and the speaker outlined the aims and objects of school fairs in general and the Marwayne School Fair in particular. Reviewing the progress of fairs in Alberta it was shown that they have proven most successful in their achievement, with the school fairs being held in as many centres and approximately 25,000 children taking part.

These fairs are conducted jointly by the Departments of Education and Agriculture and are meeting a very decided need

Mr. Hockert announced the results of the 1929 school fair, giving Miss Marie Grazel the free week's scholarship at the Vermilion School of Agriculture, Miss Grace Kent as alternative and Miss Margaret Cowe as next in line. For the boys Conrad Mariott won the scholarship with Leslie Hinchcliffe second and James Barnett third. The prize of books awarded by the Department of Education to the child winning the highest number of points in school work, was won jointly by Miss Florence Blake and Miss Jessie Charlton, while the Diploma from the Dept. of Education went to Elmer Wilmer school and that from the Dept. of Agriculture to the Trim school district

On motion of the address a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker and a vote of commendation of the Government's assistance also this line of effort was ordered drafted and sent to Mr. H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and to Mr. John Ross, Deputy Minister of Education at Government Building. Edmonton.

It was decided unanimously, to hold a school fair in 1930 and the following officers of the Marwayne District Agricultural Fair Association were elected: President, Mr. Fred Marriott; Vice-President, Mr. G. Kent and Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. J. F. Tweed, the present secretary of Marwayne's splendid new school.

Each of the fifteen schools that are expected to take part will appoint their representative on the committee by at their annual board meeting in January

Vermilion Mourns Death Of The Rev. James Henry Bell, B.A.

President Citizen and Town Postmaster for 17 Years

Barely has the town of Vermilion been plunged into deeper mourning than when it became generally known on Thursday evening that Postmaster J. H. Bell had passed away, and everywhere the word was received with profound regret For seventeen years he had been an outstanding figure in the post office, whose service to the public had always been his first consideration, and made him a very desirable man when information was required The passing will be a severe one to not only his family but to the whole community

The late Mr Bell was born in Belfast, Ireland 6 years ago, and came to this town to Canada. Entering Mcgill university he took the B.A. degree with high standing, continuing with a theological course for the ministry and also a course in medicine with a view to work in foreign mission fields. Deciding to remain in Canada he became rector of the Anglican church at Alberta, Que., but three years later was appointed to the large charge at North Wildwood. He remained for eight years, and was afterwards rector at Quinton, Que., for nine years. In 1921 he retired and came to Vermilion, taking up a large farm west of town. A year later, when the town showed signs of rapid development he was appointed postmaster and the faithful discharge of the many duties there has earned for him not only high praise from the postal authorities, but also from the public in general

He is survived by his widow, Bessie—Almsley, Irvine, Upton, Rodney and Barry, of Vermilion, and four daughters Mrs G. V. Harding, wife of Rev. U. A. Harding, M.A., L.Th. vicar of St Augustine's, Bradford England; Patricia, governess of the Chinese Princess, Tokio, Japan, Charlotte and Joy, of Vermilion.

In a beautiful setting and surrounded by a wonderful display of flowers the body lay in state in J. Waring's funeral parlors until the service which was held in the Anglican church on Monday afternoon. The Rev. G. A. Mercouse with the vicar and the choir of the church, led the procession followed in solemn procession from the parlors to the church, the pall bearers were Messrs. Fred Marriott, Vice-President of Marwayne's splendid new school.

Each of the fifteen schools that are expected to take part will appoint their representative on the committee by at their annual board meeting in January

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD ON SUNDAY

The annual Armistice Memorial service under the auspices of the Canadian Legion Post 11 was held in the Vermilion Theatre Sunday afternoon at two-thirty while not equal to the of some previous services, was very satisfactory.

Promptly at 3.30 p.m the local war veterans, followed by the ladies of the Legion W. A., and boy scouts, buglers and Wood Vale, paraded on the theatre where the service was conducted by Rev. H. Lovell making a welcome reference to the late Rev. Bell. The hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was then sung by all. Wood Vale buglers then rendered the last Post and Reveille, after which the address was given by Rev. Lloyd of the Vermilion United church several well known hymns were sung for the occasion. A prayer by Dr. Finnis and the singing of the National Anthem brought the service to a close Mr. H. J. Greig acted as chairman.

New Ruling Bars Younger Women From Canadian Senate

The Ottawa Evening (Citizen says: "The Sapper vote is a very material factor now in Canada elections and much the larger portion of enfranchised women come from this class, but they are debarred from the Senate despite the decision of the Privy Council as to women's eligibility for senatorial office.

"Among the qualifications for the Upper House, it is found, is one prescribing that anyone appo nted must be of the 'full age of thirty years.' This rules out the really young women. There is no such prohibition in the House where one of twenty-one can be seated, provid ng she can get elected."

Crossed River On Skis

Vienna Man Claims Speed Of Twelve Miles An Hour

A most amazing spectacle recently greeted the spectators on the London Embankment, when, without any warning, they suddenly came across two men, clad in bathing suits, attempting to cross the Thames by means of water skis. It did not take many minutes for a wandering crowd to collect, and then, urged on by cheers and laughter, the two men, Ludwig Franz Hruby and Frederick Michael Mitter, both from Vienna, set off on their journey across the river Styx.

The skis were made of basket-work frames, and covered with waterproof. The wearer carries a small paddle with which he propels himself along. Apparently they answer their purpose well and the two wearers claimed that they had achieved up to twelve miles per hour on the river Danube.

Washable Shoes

Cotton Footwear Could Be Made Comfortable This Summer

It won't be long now until the ladies will take their shoes off, give them a few scrapes on the washboard, and hang them out to dry.

Washable cotton shoes were among the most interesting exhibits at the fashion show of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers held in Boston, Mass.

The shoes in addition to being washable, will be much lighter and more comfortable than leather, exhibitors said. They are made of sateens, cretonnes, cordalvis, fallie-new cotton fabrics — and will have beels built on thin leather soles. The uppers, in pastel shades, will be bordered with a fringe of bouerair embroidery.

Precision In Leveling

Only Slight Error Made In Running Line Of Levels Half A Mile

In a line of prac sc levels run across the continent from mean sea level on the Atlantic to mean sea level on the Pacific, the engineers of the Geodetic Survey of Canada obtained an apparent difference of elevation of only about six inches. On the assumption that the mean sea levels of the two oceans are the same, this indicates that only the above slight error was made in running a line of levels 3,647 miles in length.

Tests For Air Pilots

Prospective Pilots Must To Pass Rigid Examination Shall Nearly In States

Can you stand on one foot fifteen seconds, with your eyes closed and the other leg bent backward at the knee, and not fall? If so, and if your ears are healthy and your gait shows no disturbance, you have passed the equil-brium test given aripiane pilots. The old whirling chair has been discarded.

But that doesn't mean the prospective pilot's physical examination is ended. More than 50 physicians over the United States, under the direct on of Dr. H. L. Bauer, of the Guggenheim Fund for Aeronautics, are seeking to protect passengers against accident due to any physical defect on the part of the pilot.

First comes the eyes, defects of which cause 75 per cent. of the rejections for inattnaon. The pilot's eyes must have depth perception for a flier constantly must judge distance in taking off and landing. The muscle co-ordination is necessary.

"Lack of co-ordination and the ability to maintain simple visitor," says Dr. Bauer, "is likely to cause fatigue. Fat gas causes headaches. Fatigue causes inattention. Inattention causes carelessness."

Color vision is important, too, because pilots must be able to recognize navigation lights and other signals. Shades of brown and green, and the ground indicate the character of the terrain by day. In reaching a field of vision is essential because a pilot must be able to see objects out of the corner of his eye while looking straight ahead. Then general physical examination is thorough, with the nervous system drawing special attention. After a pilot is once examined and passed, he is required to take physical examinations semi-annually.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

RICE CUSTARD BUTTERIES

2 eggs.
2 cups of milk.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cup sugar.
1½ cups cooked rice.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat the eggs thoroughly, yolks and whites together. Add the milk, salt and sugar; stir in the rice, cocoanut and vanilla, and turn into a baking dish. Place in a pan of hot water and bake twenty to thirty minutes in a moderate oven—about 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

TWO EMERGENCY SALADS

Cabbage Fruit

Peel oranges, removing all white skin. Cut into one-fourth inch slices and then into segments. Cover mixed pieces with finely-shredded cabbage, sprinkle with sweet orange segments. Serve with French dressing.

Cheese Ball Salad

Peel oranges and divide into segments, leaving all white inner skin. Arrange on salad plates covered with lettuce. Garnish with balls of cream cheese rolled in grated orange rind.

There is no poisonous ingredient in Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Nothing that is used without danger or injury.

Unnecessary Questions

Policemen of London are secretly complaining that they must be too versatile. In a recent police examination they were asked, among other things, how they would remove a stained floor in a house, and a three-legged stool or arrange a film show for children between 10 and 15.

Eco records indicate that animals tend to live longer if they are well cared for in captivity than those that live in a wild state.

Explanations and Comments

Racial Prejudices Must Be Overcome, Acts 10.1-18.—There Was a Roman centurion at Caesarea, Cornelius by name, a very devout man who feared God, and was generous with the poor. One day in a vision he seemed to hear an angel saying to him, "Your prayers and alms have gone up for a memorial before God," and bidding him send to Joppa for a man named Peter. At once Cornelius sent two of his servants in search of Peter. Meanwhile he had a second thirty miles west of Jerusalem.

On the morrow as the servants were approaching Joppa, Peter went up on the housetop to pray. He was hungry, and while waiting for food to be prepared, he fell into a trance. In that trance Peter beheld a great sheet resembling a great sheet let down from heaven by its four corners, and in it all manner of four-footed beasts and creeping things and birds, and he heard a voice bidding him kill and eat. "Not so, Lord, I have never eaten anything that is unclean or unclean." Peter exclaimed, horrified. Peter had carefully observed the ceremonial law which prescribed what animals could be eaten and what they should be slaughtered.

God in his Reproof Of Persons, Acts 10.17-35.—While Peter was pondering the meaning of the vision, the servants of the centurion arrived. Peter called them in and lodged them over night, putting at once into practice his understanding of the vision, for they were to him another race, whom once he would have called unclean. The day following Peter went with the messengers to the home of Cornelius. He took the precaution to take with him six brethren, for he felt he was doing a venturesome thing. On the following day Cornelius Caesarea was on the second thirty miles from Joppa. On reaching there, he found Cornelius and many Gentile kinsmen and friends of the latter awaiting him. Cornelius told about the vis on which led him to send for the apostle, and added, "Now therefore we all are here present in the sight of God, to hear all things that have been commanded thee of the Lord."

And Peter opened his mouth and said" (these words indicate the solemnity of the occasion and the weightiness of the message): "God has no favorites, and he who reverences Him and lives a right life in any nation is welcomed by Him."—Moffatt's Translation.

Spectacles For Color Blind

Special Glass Absorbs Rays Troublesome To Weak Persons

Spectacles through which a colorblind person can distinguish colors like people with normal eyes, are being promised, at least for some varieties of color-blindness, by new glass materials perfected by Professor Frans Weigert, of the Technical College in Berlin. The materials resemble ordinary glass but contain the new chemical elements neodymium and praseodymium. In thin sheets of lenses like those used in spectacles, the new glasses seem absolutely free of apparent. Examination with a spectroscope discloses, however, that certa n rays of light are absorbed and a dark strip into which white light is separated by that instrument are missing after the rays have passed through the new glass. The glasses absorb these rays, the particular ray which is troublesome to those with certain chemical compositions of the new glass. The rays chiefly absorbed happen to be orange and yellow ones the German physicist reports, standing in the spectrum between the red and yellow and green, parts of the colors most troublesome to color-blind individuals. The removal of these troublesome rays by the new glasses acts, it is found, to increase the apparent contrast between red and green so that spectacles of the new glasses would be the means the distinct on of those two colors easier for people who are color-blind.

Exact Distance Important

Astronomers Must Know How Far Away Sun Is

The distance of the sun is to be measured through work at the University of Cincinnati in co-operation with the Royal Observatory of Berlin. The latest computation, accepted by astronomers, places the mileage at 92,- 900,000, believed to be within 50,000 miles of the exact distance.

The way bother about fifty thousand miles?

"Because," answers Dr. Jermain G. Porter, director of the Cincinnati Observatory, "most important of all the problems presented by astronomy is that of finding the size of the sun le. For this distance is our measuring rod by which we determine the exact extent, not only of our own system, but of the vast outlying universes as well.

Astronomers use a planet as a stepping stone to help them reach out with more accurate computations &o- ward the sun's exact position. They get a measurement of the distance to a nearby planet, and use that as an aid. In the present measurement, Eros, the latest planet discovered, found only a few years ago, and but 14,000,000 miles away from the earth is the stepping stone. Eros' next years of preparation are necessary.

It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. Try cure the cause of any pain you meet consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Aspirin for immediate relief.

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. For a tablet or two of Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. Indeed, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches to check colds. To ease a sore throat and relieve the influenza. For relieving neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Aspirin might be harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago.

The Singing Fool

By MURRAY BALL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, is loved by Grace Parrel, the cigarette girl, but he does not know that. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and wins fame as a composer of popular songs. Their baby, Junior, is about two years old. Molly slopes with John Perry, Al's best friend, taking the child. Molly consents to a test farewell between Al and Junior before she sails for France. After this takes place at a park entrance Al walks towards the center of the city, completely broken by his tragedy. He has lost his wife, friends, his child, his home, his self-respect and his self-confidence. He has also lost his job. He has become a singing waiter who knows his own value. He loves his boy too much. He'll live for that boy—you'll see. He may slip terribly, but hope for his boy will keep him going somewhere, somehow. We can't tell—he has no plans and is waiting for fate to have gone on a world cruise to forget, or he may have gone to the western country for a while.

So the conjectures passed from mouth to mouth, up and down the White Way. But Al was still in New York, living in a cheap hotel, wearing shabby clothes, his money in the bank, forgotten. He was a shadow of his former self. He walked the streets by day and night, occasionally turning in to sleep. But always he stayed away from the fashionable streets and the Broadway section. He developed a terrible dread that he might meet his old friends and he kept a constant, furtive lookout for familiar figures. If he saw one he quickly changed his route, turned the corner and disappeared.

He was still searching desperately for a plan whereby he could rebuild his life on some new basis. But that could not be done, because he was definitely of the night club life. He had won a name for himself while still in his teens—the cabaret life was the only one he understood. He could wander—alone—through the Ghetto, along the waterfront, through Little Italy. He made friends with old characters—fish peddlers, pearl buns, old Irish cabbies. But always he was drifting downward.

Then came the day when he happened to glance across the street and saw a face he knew. Surely that was Grace, who used to be a cigarette girl at Blackie Joe's place near the Village. As she stared intently at him she dodged rapidly round the nearest corner

Grace's eyes followed Al in astonishment as he hurried around the corner and disappeared. At her first glimpse of him she had not been sure of her identity; it was a year since she had seen him and during that year he had almost become a different person in appearance. His fine self-confident walk was gone, his clothes were old and nondescript, his face was thinner and the cheerful buddy glow in his eyes had vanished.

Nevertheless the man who stared at her in sudden recognition for a moment was Al—she was sure of it. She walked back to the corner and followed the direction he had taken. But either Al moved faster than she or he had darted up an alley, for she saw no sign of him. Thoughtfully she retraced her steps, her mood and expression sobbed by the tragic problem of the sight she had just witnessed. So that was Al, bravey, wise-cracking, generous Al—the man who had been the hero of her girlhood days years ago, the man she had loved so devotedly! That was the pathetic, ragged waiter whose rapid rise to fame had been one of the romances of Broadway and whose disappearance had been apparent. Examination with a spectroscope discloses, however, that certa n rays of light are absorbed and a dark strip into which white light is separated by that instrument are missing after the rays have passed through the new glass. The glasses absorb these rays, the particular ray which is troublesome to those with certain chemical compositions of the new glass. Wins Asquith Cup

Miss Pearl Miller, a New Canadian To Be Awarded Coveted Trophy

Miss Pearl Miller, 19, a new Canadian, is this year's winner of the silver challenge cup presented to the pupils of Asquith school by the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith. The trophy is awarded annually to the most proficient pupil.

Miss Miller, now attending Saskatoon Normal School, came to Canada from Russia in 1924, and was then unable to speak English. From August, 1925, to June, 1926, she attended public school in Saskatoon, and covered the work of grades 1 to 8 in that time. In 1926 she moved to Asquith, and took her high school work in the next three years.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS WIN GREAT PRAISE

Many Mothers Always Keep Them in the House

Thousands of mothers state that they know of no other medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets—that they always keep the Tablets in the house to relieve the many childhood ailments, or if sickness does suddenly grip their little ones they feel safe with such a remedy at hand

Concerning the use of the Tablet, Mrs. Denis Pelletier, Tignish, P. E. I., writes: "I have nothing but praise for Baby's Own Tablets. They are the only medicine I have ever given my two little ones and I am glad to state that the Tablets have always kept them in perfect health. I feel safe with the Tablets and will always keep a box in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and stop fever and make the cutting of teeth painless. The Tablets are absolutely safe being guaranteed free from all injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

True Friendship Is Rare

But Few People Make Any Effort To Retain It

We should never let a friend go out of our lives if there is any possibility help it. It mi nded standing arises let them be quietly and kindly brought to the light and sincere treasure to be thrown away lightly. And so many people are half careful to keep them.

Some lose them through inattention, failing to maintain the high standard of manners which first attracted one to the friend. Others lose them through carelessness, failing to remember the little courtesies that are the oil that keeps the wheels of friendship running smoothly.

Discovered That Great German Flying Boat Fitted With Engines Of British Design

When the great German flying boat sailed over Lake Constance the other day with the record human load of 169 persons, the world of aviation properly hailed it for what it appeared to be—a new triumph in the air for Germany. But all the story was not told at once. Germany may not claim all the triumph. The great craft is fitted with twelve engines of 523 horsepower each, of the British Jupiter design, made in German workshops under British license.

Little, if anything, appears to have been as d sbout these engines until an aviation critic in Great Britain came out with the warning that the flight in question "throws Britain further beh nd in civil aviation and makes Germany the leader of commercial flight throughout Europe." Then the truth was told. As our Canadian correspondent in London says: "The curious British mentality which finds Britis h backward in b-ands of ways and foreign countries much more go-ahead has received a rude shock from the first news about these engines." Once mmns John Bull has shown himself to be a poor advertiser—Victoria Daily Times.

Send Mail By Rockets

Claimed That In Short Time Mail Will Be Carried By Rocket From Berlin To New York

It is confidently asserted by the German Professor Oberth, that in a short time mail will be sent by rocket from Berlin to New York by a single propulsion. This means that letters thus sent will arrive in New York almost at the hour they left. The matter is taken so seriously that the American ambassador to Germany was prompted to see that special attention to the fact that our government will insist that life and property be not endangered by the rocket's landing. I cannot say what guarantees would be required, but if Professor Oberth asks permission for about a rocket to America the state department must be informed. As the Ame ...an ambassador, Mr. Schurman, is a man of broad intelligence it may be assumed that his acceptance of the possibility of such a feat is not ridiculous.

Rockets are, seemingly the newest toys and instruments of a scientific age which prefers to leave nothing to the imagination. Rocketeers will soon be joining racketeers in the search for peace and to turn the incredible into the common-place

RAE — IRVING

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr and Mrs. R. H Rae when Miss Jessie Jeffrey Irving, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wm. Irving of Vermilion became the bride of Richard Martin Rae, son of Mr. and Mrs J. H. Rae of Edmonton. The Rev. T. R. Graham of Hamirk, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony.

The bride was charming in a gown of apricot crepe satin, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. She was given in marriage by her father. Mr. William Irving, and her bridesmaid was Miss Jean Fleming living who was erected in mauve and carried a bouquet of carnations and fern. Mr. Lloyd Rae attended the bridegroom. The wedding march was played by Miss Deller.

Following the ceremony a reception was held when light refreshments were served. Mrs. R. Case and Mrs A. B. Argue shared the honors and those assisting were Mrs R. Dandy, Mrs J. Robertson, Miss Eunice Rae, Miss Hazel Hargraves and Miss Jessie Calbert. Many beautiful gifts were received by the bride including a silverton service from a group of the bridegroom's friends. CAR IS DAMAGED ON EAST HIGHWAY

Two gentlemen from Marwayne driving a Chevrolet car all signed to "take off" from the corner west of Bowsill school. While the car did its best to respond and probably stayed in the air for several yards it eventually came to grief in the right fast ditch and repused there until Saturday morning when it was taken in charge by a local garage. Neither of the car's passengers were hurt.

High School Notes

About two weeks ago the girls and boys basketball teams went to Mannville and suffered defeat at the hands of the players there. The scores were: girls, 6-2 in favor of Mannville and boys, 5-0 in favor of Mannville. The defeat was followed by a delightful banquet with the Mannville pupils as hosts and hostesses. All claimed they had a fine time.

Two days later the Mannville teams came here. This time the girls' score showed in favor of Mannville, and the boys' score showed a tie game, 2 all. Several of the Mannville players stayed to attend the masquerade party in the evening.

This party was a "howling" success. There were fine costumes (and no-costume to suit) and a pleasing touch was added by the presenting of four prizes by the teachers The judges' decision was won by Madelon McLean, the ladies' comic by Jean Baker, the gentlemen's fancy by Carman Long, and the gentleman's comic by Clifford Gates. The judges were Mrs. Markle, Mrs. Topper, and Miss Addison. There was dancing and cards

We regret to announce that Ruby Sharp has left the school. We will find her a loss in athletics and in our school life. We wish her happiness and success in her new home on the Athabaska.

Caroline Grosh has returned to take up her work in the school. Pearl Welsh is also back. Glad to see him.

Owing to the delaying circumstances, the Lit. has been postponed till further notice.

We had an enjoyable holiday while a public school convention was held in the school. Hurrah for all conventions.

We wonder what possessed certain high school students to go bathing in the Battle River on Thanksgiving day.

What we want to know is, where Russell Brown got his beautiful pocket-knife?

The Mannville girls' soft-ball team came down on Wednesday this week to play our girls. The game was a brief one but was the finest we have yet seen for quality. Final score was 8-3, favor of Vermilion. Referee: Mr Addison.

Here and There

A slight set-back was experienced by one of Mercedes racing engineers in the making of the Dutch Grand Prix, a week-end trip from Harwich. Six holders of the Victoria Cross, Britain's most coveted and most meritorious of war awards, were on the vessel, which was under the command of Captain Stenzel, himself a V.C. They were on their way from Canada to London to take part in the dinner by the Prince of Wales to Victoria Cross men from all parts of the Empire, which is to be held November 5. Other V.C.'s traveled on Canadian Pacific liners Empress and Empress of Scotland.

The stage is being rapidly set for one of the outstanding developments in Canada in a decade when the English Folk Dancers and exponents of English folk dancing will hold a festival at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, November 13-16. A British opera by a British composer of world-wide fame will be produced for the first time on this continent when "Hugh the Drover," by Dr. R. Vaughan Williams, is put on during the festival, and Canada and Canadians will be introduced to a whole new world of art and beauty.

The old hospital served a good purpose in quite or its limitations, provided one care for patients coming long distances, stormy cold weather and bad roads. But now, with the Queen's Jubilee Year celebrations coming so near, we feel that it is entitled a hardship and they are already asking for relief in the form of a subsidiary hospital."

While hospital facilities are limited the Lloydminster hospital has one lounge at which it is very proud. This is a tiny park where patients may exercise and get the air. Little walks have been made through this grassy-floored beds laid out in rock places, and a rustic border thrown across a wide, dry ditch, summer or winter. Lloydminster Municipal Hospital

Unique In Two Senses

(BY EDNA KELLS)

Unique in two senses is the Lloydminster Municipal hospital. It served the people of two provinces, and those who are treated there incur no obligations other than their doctor's fee and any prescriptions which may have to be filled at a town drug-store When the hospital was built it was felt on the part of wisdom to provide for the maintenance entirely by taxation, in view of the unusual condition obtaining. Lloydminster is situated on the boundary between Alberta and Saskatchewan, on the Canadian National Railway, and the hospital is operated under the Border Areas act. The plan of finance has received considerable satisfactorily, the only difficulty the board has experienced arising from inadequate hospital facilities.

The hospital is a brick building with accommodation for 23 beds according to government regulations, and a frame annex with ten beds for convalescation. An average of 46 patients per day were cared for in this 32 bed hospital during 1928. During three cases were booked after in the month of June, 1929 (of these 42 were patients and 11 babies. Twenty-six babies were born there in May, and 105 in the first ten months of the year. Mortality rate is low.

For more than two years now, an agitation to build a new hospital has been afoot. The idea of the Municipal hospital board was to ask for $100,000 to be raised over the whole district, 854,545.45 from Alberta, and $45,454.55 from Saskatchewan. This would build a hospital with 60 to 65 beds and leave the present hospital to be used as a nurses' home. The governments of the two provinces agreed to this apportionment, but the rural municipalities on the Saskatchewan side disagreed as to the apportionment among themselves and the town of Lloydminster. Hence delay in building. Now steps are being taken to bring the situation to a climax, and the outlook is hopeful.

The Lloydminster hospital board hopes eventually to get a good, modern hospital. The people are also looking forward to the happy day when they will no longer have to take long journeys for surgical treatment which could be given more nearer were proper facilities available People living within a radius of 35 to 40 miles will be benefited as they have not been, when the new hospital is built. The old hospital served a good purpose in quite or its limitations, provided one care for patients coming long distances, stormy cold weather and bad roads. But now, with the Queen's Jubilee Year celebrations coming so near, we feel that it is entitled a hardship and they are already asking for relief in the form of a subsidiary hospital.

DOG CARRIES MESSAGE 3 MILES TO OBTAIN AID FOR WOUNDED MAN

MANNA, Ont., Nov. 8.—Once again man owes his life to the intelligence and faithfulness of a dog.

Andrew Rytiski, 32, accidentally shot himself, when he drew a revolver from his holster while hunting at an isolated camp at Pine lake. Realizing his predicament and knowing that he could not reach the nearest trapper's cabin himself, Rytiski scribbled a note and fastening it to his dog's collar, ordered the animal to proceed to the nearest camp, owned by Thomas Hughes.

The dog ran through three miles of bush and swam a river to reach Hughes' cabin. Hughes, with the animal leading the way, reached Rytiski camp and after rendering first aid, brought the man to his own camp. A railway speeder brought the wounded man to Nakina and he was later rushed to Port Arthur by train.

There will be a dance at Bowtell school on Friday evening, Nov 15th Admission 75c Refreshments free. Everybody welcome 37-0

That Dry Well

The human body can live without food for six or seven days if there is plenty of water to drink, but it will not live three days if deprived of food and water. Water is essential to the proper growth of the body and to its proper functioning. Not just water, but pure water, is a necessity.

We have finished one of the driest seasons for many years. Sloughs and ponds are dry all over the province. Wells are either very low or quite dry. Under these conditions water has to be used from where it can be found, irrespective of whether it is known to be pure or not. Already several cases of typhoid fever have been admitted to city hospitals from country points. Typhoid is a water born disease.

Again when moisture is any quantity does come, the well will fill and much of the water will be surface water—surface dirty and impure. Before using water from an untested source, boil and chlorinate it. Before boiling the water, fill a well corked bottle and chlorinate and send a sample to the Health Department to be tested. It is worth it, and costs much less than six weeks in hospital with Typhoid Fever or Dysentery.

Chlorine can be had from the Sanitation or water may be had free from the Canadian Red Cross Society, 407 Civic Block, Edmonton.

Curling Club Holds Enthusiastic Meeting

A meeting of the Curling Club was held in the town hall on Wednesday, Nov. 6th, with President Duncan in the chair. The fees for 1929-30 were set at $11.25 and knock out competitions were decided upon. Rules and programme as in 1928-29, except that the season will commence with Five Ends vs Vice-President competitions in place of the mixed spiel. The club will affiliate with the Alberta Curling Association.

J. A. Morrison and W. Waldenberger were appointed ice committee, and dates for the annual spiel were left to the executive to set.

All rinks must be filled before they can be placed on a draw. Rinks were nominated as follows: Rodgers, W. F. Ellsworth L. Cooper, S. H. P. Craig, J. A. M. Duncan, W. H. Fallow, A. Kaiser, A. E. Knoll, Iw. J. J. Lons, F. C. Long, O. E. Long, H. P. Morrison, J. A., McKee, J. A., Morrison, H. B. Parker, H. B. Patton, W. E. Waldenberger, W. Whibby, C. L. and Wright, G. W. D. Bell, Dr. Clarke, E. Dixon, T. Minns and E. Ide. Several art were also nominated but with drew their names. Any member desirous of skipping may do so provided he makes up a complete rink and hands same in by Nov. 15th, the date set for the purchase of all rinks to be handed the secretary.

The officers of the Club for 1929-30 were elected at the annual meeting immediately after the close of the 1928-29 season last spring. They are: Hon. President — Major Fallow; President — W. H. Duncan; Vice President — Dr. Bell; Second Vice-Pres. — J. A. M. Craig; Secretary-Treasurer — W. E. Sutton; Executive — Dr. Clarke, E. Curley, J. A. Morrison, K. M. Stewart and C. L. Whibby.

All four sheets of ice will be flooded and doubtless one will be eligible for the Bells provided the necessary flooding is commenced and if the weather is as it usually is the Club should have about the best curling season ever enjoyed in Vermilion.

Vermilion Trustees Oppose Passing Of New School Act

United Church Y.P.S. Conference

A conference of the Young People's Society of the United church was held on the evening of November 7th in the church parlor. This took the form of a basa supper followed by a short programme interspersed with community singing in which all joined heartily. Miss Gwen Dunsmore gave a very amusing comic reading and Miss Muriel Curtis sang a very enjoyable solo.

Rev. R. H. Hibbert, secretary of Young People's work for the province of Alberta, then addressed the gathering on the importance of young people's work, calling upon all the young people to take a live and helpful part in their Society and in church work in general. He stressed the point that they are not working alone but in conjunction with all other young people engaged in the same work all over the world.

After a short intermission devoted to the discussion of a few Y. P. S. problems, Mr. Hibbert gave a very enjoyable and instructive lantern lecture on a trip he took last year to the tenth World Convention of Sunday School Workers held in Los Angeles, where about eight thousand delegates from all over the world gathered to hear some of the world's most famous religious workers lecture on various phases of their work, and to discuss their problems together.

Owing to the fact that many of our members were out of town for the Thanksgiving holidays, and others being kept away by other circumstances the attendance was not all that could have been wished for, but all who were present had a thoroughly enjoyable and profitable evening. The meeting was closed by all joining hands and repeating the Mizpah benediction.

ALLMEAT DIET TESTED

Meat may live comfortably in the temperate zones on a diet exclusively of meat without impairment of health or efficiency. The years experiment by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian Arctic explorer, and his companion, Karsten Andersen, was recently quoted to prove the fact that an allmeat diet is not injurious by Dr. E. F. Dubois, director of the Russell Sage Institute of Pathology of New York, before the 13th International Congress of Physiology in that country.

The experiment was carried on in New York while Stefansson and Andersen were confined in hospital and other sedentary work and were taking only moderate exercise. They were under observation in the metabolism ward of the Bage Institute for a few weeks, then continued the diet themselves while they went about their affairs in the city. Both returned for observation at the end of the year. Dr. Dubois outlined the effects of the all meat diet as follows:

1. The general health of the subjects was excellent.
2. Neither of the men on the meat diet gave evidence of decrease in mental or muscular efficiency.
3. Careful tests failed to reveal any damage to the kidneys.
4. The blood pressure was not affected.
5. There was little change in weight.

The diet at both men included beef muscle, tongue, liver, kidney, brain, fat and bone marrow, veal, lamb, pork and occasionally tenderloin of chicken. They drank meat broths, black tea and water.

Wins Much-Prized Trophy

Judges of the annual fishing contests at French River, Biglow and Devil's Gap (Lake of the Woods) Bungalow Camps have announced through A. G. Spencer, general tourist agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, winners of the trophies for the past season at the camps. Outstanding among these is W. H. Duncan, of Toronto, who tied with Frank S. Hinson, of Chicago, for the French River trophy, each with a 50-lb. muskellunge. Winners' name and weight of catch are inscribed on the permanent trophy, the latter being a finely mounted specimen of the fish which is the subject of the competition. Lay-out shows Paul Cameron, otherwise known as Chief Blackbird Wabenakiahsko (Burning Deer) Head guide of the Bigelow Camp, exhibiting the mounted specimen trout which is the subject of the contest there; and also W. H. Graf, winner of the Devil's Gap trophy. French River this year; with his 50-lb. capture.

Resolution Against Proposed Measure Is Almost Unanimous

At the annual convention of the Vermilion Inspectorate Trustees' association held here Thursday last, a resolution was passed expressing an almost unanimous vote against the passing of the proposed new school act.

The opinion was expressed that the present act could very well be improved to meet the new conditions and it was also felt that it Alberta did not copy so many of the innovations of the American system of education there would be no need for any drastic change in the school system. It was declared that the new act was only another evidence of the strong tendency in this province to adopt departures in educational lines from the other side.

Another resolution was passed suggesting that the department of education undertake a bureau for the supplying of teachers so that districts instead of advertising in the papers could apply to the bureau and get the teachers they desired.

Mrs. Yorke of Provost, represented the Provincial Board and addressed the convention favoring consideration for the new act. She felt that while it might not be ideal, the objectional features in it would eventually be ironed out to the satisfaction of everybody. Inspector H. B. Parker also addressed the gathering.

Norman McClellan was elected president with Low Shrigley, Vermilion, as first, and Mrs. Imbodin Hamilton, Manyville as second vice president. C. E. East, William Hanson, M. Tweed, D. F. Long and W. H. Gordon were named directors. H. F. Long was appointed secretary.

THE LATE MR. BELL.

The passing of Mr. J. H. Bell, for the past seventeen years the postmaster of Vermilion, creates a vacancy in the public life of the community that will be hard to fill. He gave unsparingly of his time and energies to the service of the public not only as postmaster but as director of the agricultural society, the board of education and other kindred associations carried on for the betterment of things in the town and district. His genial nature in the past was known only to a very few of his most intimate friends, and then only from the knowledge gained by a family life from November to times of dire distress. Next to his home the welfare of the church of which he was a member was dear to his heart and in church matters he was not at all backward in the new pond in all denominations and extended to them the right hand of good fellowship. Many a family did the same — Mr. Bell made mistakes; but who has not? No one answering the responsible position he held could not fail to have the one and make the other, but no one could be more conscientious, more courteous and more considerate of the feelings of any one seeking his counsel than was the late postmaster. He was a man of outstanding ability, rare judgment and a keen sense of humor. His genial personality will be treasured by the memory of everybody. Interment in R. B. Parker plot addressed by the gathering.

Norman McClellan was elected president with Low Shrigley, Vermilion, as first, and Mrs. Imbodin Hamilton, Manyville as second vice president. C. E. East, William Hanson, M. Tweed, D. F. Long and W. H. Gordon were named directors. H. F. Long was appointed secretary.

Educational Convention Largely Attended

The eighth annual convention of the Vermilion Inspectorate Education association was held in the Vermilion high school on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 7th and 8th, with a registration of 112

The convention was conducted by the Rev. Gerald McComas, rector of the Vermilion Anglican church. Mayor W. A. Fallow then extended welcome to the teachers on behalf of the town of Vermilion, which was replied to by H. L. Tweed, principal of Marwayne school. J. W. G. Morrison, M.L.A. chairman to Vermilion school board, gave a short address of welcome in which he spoke very briefly on the inadequate training that teachers received in consideration of the very heavy responsibilities they were called upon to assume. He also spoke of the present day tendency of parents to shift the whole responsibility of the training of their child upon the teacher. J. G. Brady replied to the address. Rev. H. A. Boyd conducted the morning programme with an address on "Christian Education and World Civilization" in which he dwelt upon the moral and religious education of the child in connection with the modern advances in science and invention.

The afternoon session opened with an address by Dr. Kerr, M.P. for Peace River B.A., on "Arithmetic in the Grades." Mr. Parker dealt with the subject in a very professional manner pointing out general mistakes that he found in his schools and gave easy methods of how to correct them.

Prof. James Adams, of the University of Alberta gave a very outstanding address on "The Modern Drama." He pointed out that the greatest change that had taken place in modern society was that women were giving equal status with men. He also showed its influence on modern drama in comparison to the drama of the Elizabethan period. Dr. Blanchard gave his lecture by readings from the drama "The Divorce Bill."

Following the afternoon session the teachers were guests at a Board of Trade banquet in the Vermilion high school auditorium, followed by a short programme in which Mr Harper, president of the Board of Trade, spoke a few words of welcome to the teachers which were replied to by J. B. Tupper president of the convention.

The following artists contributed to the programme: Mr T. Watts, a solo; Mr Elford, a humorous monologue; Miss E. Lipsey, an instrumental solo. The teachers were then guests at a dance given in their honor by the principal and staff of the Vermilion School of Agriculture.

The Friday morning session opened with a very helpful address "The Aim and Development of the Art Course for Grades 7 and 8" by R. W. Bradley M.A., art inspector of the Edmonton normal school, followed by an address on Junior Red Cross and The Alberta Teachers' Alliance.

At the business session, the following officers were elected for 1930:

Hon. President, O.W. Gorman, Chief Inspector, Vermilion; President, Mr. Mallory; Vice President, Mr. Simpson; Sec-Treas., E. M. Stewart; Auditor, V. Winters; Executive: H. B. Parker, B.A., I.P.S., M. E. Moore, Miss E. Smith, Miss J. McDonald, J. C. Brady.

The following resolutions were introduced and carried:

1. Resolved that the teachers of the Inspectorate go on record as being favorable in the principle of the proposed changes involved in the new School Act.

2. Be it resolved that arrangements be made for a questionnaire for 1930 convention.

3. Be it resolved that the secretary be remunerated to the extent of $15 for services.

4. Resolved that the thanks of this convention be conveyed to the Vermilion School Board for the use of their excellent new high school building.

5. Resolved that the thanks of the convention be conveyed to the staff of the Vermilion School of Agriculture for their very enjoyable dance.

6. Resolved that the thanks of this convention be conveyed to the Vermilion Board of Trade for the hospitable treatment of the members of the Association through arrangements of the boarding accommodation, excellent banquet, and transportation to and from the school buildings.

7. Be it resolved that the Association hereby express appreciation for the commendable work of President J. B. Tupper, executive and committee in arranging the 1929 programme.

Enthusiastic Audiences Greet Players

Probably no event of recent years has caused so much excitement among the people of Vermilion and district as the forthcoming production of "A Busy Honeymoon" on Monday next, November 18th, at the Columbia Theatre. This riotously funny production has already been played before enthusiastic audiences at Wainwright, Claresholm and Islay; and from each of these places a veritable avalanche of letters and telegrams of congratulation has poured in on the management's mail with praise in no unmeasured terms. The play has been staged and built by Mr B. E. Berry, the energetic stage manager, control lured exactly to the general effect.

The story of the play is admirably adapted for the introduction of many sparkling musical numbers, and these have been rendered by the principals and the chorus in a manner both was appreciated to the full by a responsive audience. The principals of the cast, without exception displayed talent of a high order, while the male quartette accorded them by the well balanced chorus was a notable feature of the production.

As the Belle of Barcelona, Emily McLeod surpassed all her previous efforts in musical comedy work, the other cast members assigned to her part affording her ample opportunity to display her fine voice to advantage.

The difficult role of a prim English governess was played with exception al skill by Barbara Hill, who gave a most discriminating interpretation of the part. Her acting throughout was splendid, and there is to be sincerely hoped on making such a successful debut.

Agnes Northcote, as the ambitious Susan A. Maxwell, acted in a most commanding manner, her work in this third act being especially effective.

Ida Hamilton, in her first appearance as a principal, Anne Andy, who played the part of Mercedes, took the audience by storm. Her acting was marked by splendid, and there is to be sincerely hoped on making such a successful part to play. Tom handled it with unusual ability, and excelled him self in the interpretation he placed on the character.

Master Matt Brimacombe's name appears in the cast of a play the as Grace expert in new noise likewise his acter acting, and they were not disappointed on Monday evening. Her part made up as a typical Spanish Maid did some splendid acting in the role of Pedro, a plantation manager, his song "A Wonderful Manager" depicting down the house.

James Adam made an ideal Captain of the Marines, and gave a very fine performance.

Minor parts were assigned to Vesta Hewhert, Myrtle McDonald, John Watts and Wilbur Burton, all of whom filled their respective roles in an efficient manner.

The catchy musical numbers, and the splendid voices of the chorus added to his addition the success of the production. Those who failed to attend the character will miss a remarkable production, and be deprived of a real polished performance.

Jack Marble is perfectly at home in any part on the stage but in Journalist if he has ever been given a better advantage than in the role of the lavender Pink Bulletin was seen and he "put over" from start to finish. The charming duet "Honeymooning" in which he and Harmony with Anne Andy, was one of the "hits" of the evening.

At Lake de Montevu Tom Waldenberger is of his best. He put over his part to play Tom handled it with unusual ability, and excelled him self in the interpretation he placed on the character.

Musical Comedy Finest Staged To Date

GREETED BY CROWDED HOUSE

The Columbia Theatre was packed to the doors, many people being unable to gain admittance on Monday evening when "The Doll of Dreams," a musical comedy by Charles Ross Chaney, was presented by a cast of thirty local artists. It was a splendid production throughout, and was undoubtedly the finest amateur play ever staged in Vermilion. The costumes were gorgeous in the extreme while the elaborate stage setting designed and built by Mr B. E. Berry the energetic stage manager, contributed greatly to the general effect.

The story of the play is admirably adapted for the introduction of many sparkling musical numbers, and these were rendered by the principals and the chorus in a manner both was appreciated to the full by a responsive audience. The Problem of Narcotics

The evil of narcotics is one that strikes both directly and indirectly at the home.

There are about 6,000 drug addicts, or dope fiends, as they are more commonly called, in Canada. They consume, and here is an even more startling figure, about $50,000 worth of drugs every day.

The danger from the widespread use of narcotics in Canada, is that drug addicts breed drug addicts; each one is an agency of evil who will try to pull other victims into the mire in which he finds himself.

The four main drugs that have sent Canada are opium, morphine, cocaine and heroin. Opium is the juice of the white poppy, cultivated mainly in Hindustan and Asiatic Turkey, and thickened by evaporation.

Opium would not be so important to us, but for the fact that other drugs that are used most extensively in Canada, come from opium.

About one hundred and twenty-five years ago, a French chemist found that he could produce another drug, morphine, which was named after the god of sleep, Morpheus, from opium.

Sixty-five years later another chemist, this one an Austrian, found by experimenting with cocoa leaves that he could produce cocaine.

Just thirty years ago, a German chemist found he could take from opium still another drug, which was called heroin. It is three or four times stronger than morphine and is blamed largely for the increase in drug usage on this continent since the war. At first heroin was not believed to be habit-forming, and was used on that assumption. But two years after its discovery, it was found to be as bad, if not worse, in getting a grip on its victim. It has been recommended by the medical profession as but of all necessary for their purpose. But it continues in use throughout the world, a dangerous drug, without any redeeming feature or excuse for its existence.

All these three drugs, morphine, cocaine and heroin, are white powders, bitter to the taste and soluble in water. All are deleterious, both mentally and physically. The habitual use of any of them will bring death with lingering certainty. Opium is the slowest to kill, morphine, the next, while heroin is the most rapid of all.

For example, to compare the drug habit with the liquor habit; five ounces of alcohol is considered a fatal dose. Five ounces of morphine taken at one time will kill fifteen hundred men.

Chemistry has given us these drugs, and passed them on to the medical profession. The doctors used them, with the exception of heroin, in moderation, and for many years, with the knowledge of heroin in moderation, and for many years, with the knowledge of heroin in moderation, and for many years, with the knowledge of heroin

A Whist Drive and Dance will be held in the Memorial Hall, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion, on Wednesday, Nov. 20th at 8:30 p m Prizes on view at Stephens Limited.

Anyone who was laboring under the delusion that either C Squadron of the 1st A.M.R. took over the Community Hall as an armory, there would be no room for dancing there, on account of the men living in it, or because they had their horses in it, or because a partition was put in down the centre of the hall, or any other peculiar idea, can find out now from any of those who were at the Armistice Ball on Friday last that they were quite wrong, and that they missed an extremely pleasant dance with excellent music in consequence of believing what is commonly called "rumor." However, they can make up for it on Friday, 29th November when the Sergeants are holding another dance 9th the same orchestra on hand. Dancing from 9 to 2. Book this date.

W. Nelson Gourlay was the pianist in the University orchestra which played at the dance in the College gymnasium last Thursday evening.

Mid the gleam and dazzle of a myriad lights one catches a glimpse of a lady dressed to represent a lily, or perhaps a violet; across from her is the Queen of Kerys dancing with Satan himself. The negro boy is dancing with the gypsy girl, when suddenly the lights go out, only a few red and green remain . . . This continues a scene at the grand Masquerade Ball to be held in Isley hall on Nov 22nd. And don't forget, folks, there's a costume prize of five dollars in gold, a two dollar prize for the gayest colors and many smaller prizes. Novelties, paper hats, serpentines and confetti given away. The committee of the dance don't miss it! $1.00 per couple; extra lady 25c.

INDUCTION SERVICE AT ST. SAVIOUR'S

The Bishop of Edmonton, the Rt. Rev. H. A. Gray, D.D., spent Sunday last in the district holding Confirmation and dedicating the new church at Landseville in the parish of Rev S. H. Gendge, and in the evening His Lordship motored over to Vermilion in order to induct the new rector of St. Saviour's, the Rev. Gerald McCombs, M.A. A very large congregation was present, and in an inspiring address the Bishop stressed the necessity for hearty co-operation between the rector and parishioners, and the importance of developing a deep spirituality in the individual as well as in the corporate life.

At the Bishop had to return to Edmonton to keep an important engagement, he left by train early on Monday morning.

Lieutenant Governor Visits Vermilion This Friday

Great Welcome To Be Extended - Ambitious Program Has Been Arranged

The town is to have the honor and pleasure of a visit from the Honorable William Egbert, Lieutenant Governor of the province of Alberta, Le Morrow (Friday), who graciously accepted an invitation, extended several weeks ago, by the board of trade and kindred organizations to come to this very important portion of our fair province as an honorable guest. An elaborate and ambitious program has been prepared for this outstanding occasion and no efforts have been spared to make the short stay of the Lieutenant Governor here one that will be long remembered by every one.

The order of events for the day, together with the various times set, are published below as a guide for the citizens so that all may join in an enthusiastic welcome. The Standard understands that the official reception to His Honour, weather permitting, is scheduled to take place in the park, near the depot, immediately upon the arrival of the afternoon train, when the high school cadet and Mr school students will be assembled to the number of some four hundred

Wiebe's Mill Now In Operation At Myrnam

Is Fully Equal to One Here

The Wiebe Flour and Grist Mill at Myrnam was set in operation this week, and from the output did what is reasonably called a roaring business. The mill itself is fully equal to and in some points exceeds that of the same company located here. It is, however, rated the same, a 125 barrel a day mill The building contains of four stories but is slightly lower than the local mill, at the same time it possibly appears larger as the engine room is notably taller. The power for the Myrnam plant is supplied by a 1634 cylinder engine and a 4x16 boiler, these according in power and size the engine and boiler of the local plant. A generator has been installed and the mill will be fully fitted by its own power W R Wiebe is at present managing the northern business while the machinery was installed by Mr J. W. Newlove, head miller, who is still on hand at Myrnam until everything is in perfect running order

FINED FOR STEALING WHEAT FROM MILL

John Stepinuk appeared before Police Magistrate Pilkie on Tuesday Nov. 12th on a charge of stealing wheat from the Wiebe flour and grist mill. He was proven guilty and fined $25 and costs or two months imprisonment. The former punishment was chosen.

The accused was proven guilty by means of millet which had been placed in the wheat for identification purposes as wheat had been disappearing quite regularly from the mill. It seems, the accused being suspected Mill Inspector Hall with the wheat and left one of the week end and he returned being made of the pails previously mixed on Tuesday and the attendants failed to notice the millet in the wheat.

13,394 IN CANADA GET OLD AGE GRANT

Alberta Has Paid Out $14,516 Since Last August

OTTAWA, Nov 20—On September 1, the last date for which figures are available, there were 13,394 old age pensioners in Canada made up of 7,726 males and 5,668 females. Since the inception of the old age pension act a sum of $13,390,000 has been disbursed, the federal and provincial governments sharing equally in the distribution.

British Columbia, the first province with which the operation of the act had 6,214 pensioners and has received $1,550,000 in pensions. Manitoba has 1,747 pensioners who had received $401,000, Alberta, where provincial training act became operative on June 1, 1,416 and $14,516. Ontario, the largest province, which has not as yet a federal scheme had one male pensioner who drew $51.

No pensioners have yet been paid on account of the province of Ontario

WHAT NEXT?

The Standard understands that a new member of Parry crossing is to be made their appearance in the north country, being liberally sprinkled all the way from Dewberry to Derwood. These crossings are said to be made of thick lumber and range around three feet high with the same width. They are painted red with a W on each of the three upper extremities. In most cases they were nailed to handy posts near road intersections, but in some instances they were driven into the ground. A lot of them have already been put up mysteriously—been taken down, and no doubt for whom they were real fancy crosses. This item is not so interesting in itself, it's real purpose being to elicit a "real" editorial from Ben Horton of the Vegreville Observer

For Automobile Protection

Olds' Penitentiary Inmate Patents Anti-Collision Safety Device

An invention by an Ohio penitentiary prisoner may make automobile theft more difficult than it is at present.

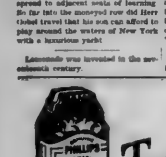
Lawton Hileman, 32, of Akron, serving a sentence of from seven to 15 years for burglary has filed with a patent attorney an application for a patent on his dual auto control ignition.

When the motor is stopped, it automat cally locks the ignition, steering wheel and starting switch. The mechanism can be enclosed in a box six inches square and four inches high and mounted beneath the dash board.

Started In Small Way

Adolph Ochs, millionaire freak-farmer laid the foundation of his fortune in a little sausage-shop in Brooklyn, near a public school. He fostered a taste among the children for piping hot "pups." The reps spread to adjacent seats of learning. So far into the money had rounded Herr Ochs' treat that he soon can afford to play around the writers of New York with a luxurious yacht.

Lenzoonda was invested in the nevsbench century.



Many people, two hours after eating, suffer heart-burn as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with druggists. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acid and gas. The symptoms disappear in two minutes. The excess acid is then harmless.

Swine Judging Competition

Sponsored By Agricultural Department Of the Canadian National Railways

Robert Hornby and Joe McCallum, young farmers of Armstrong, will represent British Columbia in the Dominion Championship swine judging competition to be held under the auspices of the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways, at the Royal Winter Fair, in Toronto, early in December.

They earned this honor by being awarded the Provincial Championship in the tests among the Canadian National Boys and Girls Swine Clubs of British Columbia. In the finals at Toronto, they will compete with teams from every other Province in Canada, the largest entry since the competition was inaugurated in 1928. Should they win, they w ll be presented with medals and will become the holders for one year of the trophy awarded by W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, and they will have the distinction of being the champion swine judges of Canada.

The Boys and Girls Swine Clubs were started in 1925, by W. D. Robb, C. W. J. Black, Director of Colonization and Agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, for the purpose of encouraging mixed farming and improving the quality of swine. All boys and girls under twenty-one years of age are eligible, and the movement has grown from six clubs in the first year, to more than two hundred. Every province is now represented and the competitions can be regarded as truly Dominion-wide. District competitions are held first and the district winners compete in a Provincial Championship test, and the winners in these latter competitions are given a free trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, and a chance to compete for the Dominion title. So far, Ontario, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan have won the Robb Trophy, one team being two girls

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

MARMALADE GRIDDLE CAKES

(Serves 4 or 5 when 18 cakes)

2 cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoons sugar.
1 egg
1½ cups milk.
1 tablespoons melted butter.
Orange marmalade.
Extra sugar.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add beaten eggs and milk. Beat thoroughly and add butter. Drop by large tablespoons on a hot greased griddle. When puffed, full of bubbles and cooked around the edges turn and cook on the other side Spread cakes with orange marmalade. Roll up like jelly rolls. Sprinkle with sugar and serve at once.

VANILLA RICE PUDDING

1 package vanilla junket.
½ cup single sugar.
1 pint milk.
1 cup boiled rice.

Prepare rice in bottom of dessert glasses, sprinkling maple sugar over it. Dissolve junket in lukewarm milk, and pour over rice. Let stand in a warm room until firm, but not chilled. Any left-overs of cereal, etc., may be used instead of the rice.

Gas Supply For Saskatchewan

Eagle Butte Oil Company, At Cypress Hills, May Solve Problem

The prospect of a natural gas supply for the cities of Regina and Moose Jaw and for towns and villages extending westward as far as Maple Creek, has been given a most reasonably closer with the announced intention of the Eagle Butte Oil Company to spud in a gas well early in the centre of the Cypress Hills gas field, about 280 miles west of Regina and close to the Alberta boundary line.

The development of the Cypress Hills gas field is being proceeded with in anticipation of the marketing gas in Saskatchewan. According to the government engineers it is believed that the Cypress Hills field offers the closest supply of gas which can be transported to this market. A pipe line from the Cypress Hills would reach the town of Maple Creek first, and then proceed to Moose Jaw and Regina, with branch towns and cities along intervening route.

The whole problem has been carefully examined by competent engineers and has been pronounced feasible. Independent engineers have been retained by the City of Regina, after an exhaustive examination of possible sources of supply, to announce the operations of the Eagle Butte Oil Company, Limited, as the most likely to result in the discovery of an adequate supply of gas for the Saskatchewan market.—Free Press.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 24

THE HEBREW PATRIOTISM

Golden Text: "He made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth."—Acts 17.26.

Lesson: The Book of Jonah.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 55.1-7.

Explanation and Comments

A Great Command Disobeyed and Punished, I. Jonah 1. 1-3.—The word of Jehovah came unto Jonah, the son of Amittai, telling him that he ought to go to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it. Nineveh, the capital of Assyria, was on the Tigris River, 800 miles from the Gulf of Persia.

Jonah was a native of Gathhepher, about 20 miles north of Nazareth in Galilee. He was therefore a subject of Jeroboam II, who reigned over Israel forty-one years. He lived, probably, in the days of Amos, who began to prophesy two years before the earthquake mentioned in Amos 1. 1. Jonah's prophecy is recorded in 2 Kings 14. 25. He was the first prophet to the Gentiles. Jonah was a Hebrew patriot. He loved his own people and his own land. He was a strict Jew, and hated the Gentiles. He knew that Jehovah was the God of the whole earth, and that he was merciful, but he did not want Jehovah to be merciful to the Assyrians. He knew that Jehovah was angry with the sins of Israel, and that he would punish them by the Assyrians, but he did not want Jehovah to punish his own people. He knew that Jehovah was angry with the sins of Nineveh, and that he would punish them, but he did not want Jehovah to punish them

Plebiscite on Beer Parlors May Be Included in Provincial Campaign

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 18.—Liberal chieftains, assembled in the city Monday to greet Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King and after members of the dominion cabinet, have practically been assured the no federal election is planned for the coming year of 1929, and that the nation's appeal may be expected by the middle of 1931, according to information from authoritative sources available today.

The word has also been passed out that the next provincial election may be expected in June 1930, this being indicated from reliable U.F.A. sources at Edmonton.

Federal ministers and other office'ers gathered in the city will admit no considerable alarm over the political situation in Saskatchewan where the Liberal government was last month defeated by a coalition of Conservatives and Independents. From observations during their trip through the northern part of the province, and from information gained from contacts in the city of the south, leading Liberals think that Liberals hope to retain practically all of the Saskatchewan federal seats in the next election.

With regard to the Alberta election anticipated next June the opinion is held by many men in the political in the city that a plebiscite on the question of abolishing the sale of beer at Provincial government stores will be taken when the U.F.A. government goes to the polls.

Prohibition forces in the province are understood to be organizing with this object in view and no effort is to be made at the next session of the legislature to have the government promise a vote on the question.

The process of snatching the laurels from the brows of California is going right on in Canada. "Our Lady of the Snows" is belying her name in the mild climate of Vancouver Island, British Columbia.

Announcement has been made recently that the second annual Empress Road and Motor golf tournament at the Colwood course, Victoria, will be held from February 17 to 23 inclusive, a time when the country north of the 49th parallel is popularly supposed to be fast deep in snow. Photographs included in above lay-out will show th's popular belief to be a fallacy as far as the Victoria course is concerned.

The mid-winter tournament was placed in the Canadian sport calendar last February under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway and proved a great success. The Victoria fixture is a purely amateur affair, handicap, of course, open to men and women, competing in three sub-sections. The main trophy is the E. W. Beatty challenge cup, at present held by T. L. Swan and Mrs. Roy Peterson, both of Victoria, although a large list of other prizes is being posted. The competition is open to all Victoria in above lay-out will show th's popular belief to be a fallacy as far as the Victoria course is concerned. visitors in that city, and in view of the entry list all links in the vicinity of the city will be pressed into service.

Enjoyable Affair At Cold Lake

A very enjoyable evening was spent Thanksgiving Night at the United church, Cold Lake, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. An excellent programme was arranged and carried through which was thoroughly enjoyed by everybody, both young and old people. The ladies spared no pains to make it a success.

After the programme and a splendid supper, games were provided and lasted until midnight Mr. G. E. Hill rendered the programme. Every thing was free; it was optional if any one wanted to give, and the givers were not lacking, which proves how they enjoyed the evening. Fifteen dollars and forty-five cents was found on the bed at the door when the box was opened, which will go towards raising a piano which is necessary in the Ladies' Aid. Mr. Davies acted as treasurer and he would not be able to be there so he had a call to Edmonton. The programme ended with "O Canada." followed by Recitation "The Farmer" by Robert Sinclair; musical selection, Clarence Nelson, song, Mrs. W. Tinsley "The Far Land"; recitation "Mother Mine my Sweetheart" by Miss Rayerson; duet "Where Are You Going to, my Pretty Maid" by Rosa Hill and Grace Nolan, dialogue comic (two boys) before same "I'll Say So" by Mrs. G. E. Hill; Recitation "A Peep at the Gate." Mrs. F. McLeod, duet "Thanksgiving," Annie and Mabel Nelson; concert piece by Misters Nelson & Co.; song "My Task" by Mrs. W. Finlay; song (comic) "What is Man without a Woman," G. E. Hill; quartette "Rosaria." F. Vosbenner, I. Thompson, B. Aaron, B. Rhyerson, musical selection Misses Rose de Lange, Mabel Nelson, Mrs. Foster, recitation, M. Nelson; quartette "Maple." Misters Nelson & Co.; "God save the King."

Spawn Ripe on Cold Lake is over Mr. Mostyn's ice for Pups' Fishermen are now getting it is ready to shovel switch of fish, and spawn this time—real Fish fry!

The refined grade is now within two miles waiting for the end steel. Landseekers by the hundreds are streaming through Cold Lake in Chevrolet coaches and Sprying. This is the busiest fall for many years that Cold Lake has seen.

HOW RED CROSS DOLLARS ARE MADE

There is generally a special story attaching to the money that finds its way to the Headquarters of the Red Cross Society. The large donation often has a most interesting history, and represents the united effort for months, or even the whole of a year of the faithful and patient Red Cross workers in some small sewing group that meets for the purpose of working for the great fall event—the Bazaar.

Office records show many remarkable achievements along this line and the small town, disdained by the hoodlum passerby is often able to put to shame the larger cities in the real service, the type that counts.

Gems relating from one hundred dollars up have been received at Headquarters, because several busy women fared who can accomplish so much for other persons needy child, ren as the woman who has her hands full; have up-bound, and planned at her a really splendid entertainment, which in its turn followed a truly excellent sale of work.

Glittering, serious, all such come to the Red Cross net, when the local committee goes a-fishing. Tag Days and membership drives that are representative of much toil on the part of self-sacrificing workers, all add their quota to Red Cross funds.

The appeal of the crippled child and other work finds a ready response in many hearts, and gone indeed is the district that cannot do something once a year.

Vegreville To Raise $1,500 For Hockey Team

While hockey seems to be very much of a dead issue here at present, hockey fans in Vegreville are all "hot up" and are out to raise some $1500 to assure themselves of some worthwhile hockey for the season which is now right on us. Both Lloydminster and Vegreville had representatives at the league meeting held in Edmonton a short time ago but their applications —along with that of Camrose—were turned down on the plea that players could not get away to make the necessary trips. Assurance was given the town representatives that a good by number of games would be arranged between the Edmonton senior hockeyists and outside teams. Also according to the Observer, nothing now remains but to work up the Vegreville-Lloydminster-N. Battleford league. This will leave Vermilion, with the largest srcnn of them all, sitting by itself with local league. Although from this distance it looks rather uninteresting to think of nothing but local hockey all winter, it might prove a blessing in disguise, for to form a civic league all the young and promising players would have to be included; they are thus thrown in with players of senior calibre and get excellent training which they would not get if we were represented in a senior league. It is easy to see that with young players, of which Vermilion is amply blessed, and whose merit has been proven in more than one instance, that next season—semi-pro. or amateur—Vermilion will be able to hand-pick its team right at home.

This local league stuff sort of gets under your skin. Why, we have the key history of this town has the same raised so much enthusiasm and drawn such large crowds as when Vermilion was represented by two local teams —playing in an outdoor rink at that.

Vegreville puts their hockey from a slightly different angle, and they are absolutely right—and that is for the advertising value of a good team to a town is represented. It's a cinch that business men of the town and district wouldn't dig in to the tune of $1500 if they thought that the district as a whole was going to derive no good from it, and the advertising value is what Vermilion will lose if it isn't in an outside league. Vegreville-ites are all excited now, and they have a right to be. Their association has started on two railway stations and on the government post office. The town's business men think that now is "it" as far as they are concerned and they are going to make the best of "it."

ADVERTISING LASTS 20 YEARS.

Advertising is often pictured as ephemeral and of fleeting value, but a recent experience of one of the big motor companies indicates that it may be more permanent than has hitherto been suspected.

An enquiry has just been received by the Oakland company in response to an advertisement published in a popular magazine during 1909. In those days, when automobile owners were few and far between, advertisements usually carried coupons to be sent in in the history. The coupon from the 1909 advertisement was sent in by a prospect in Galena, Kansas, and was sed for further details regarding the Oakland "Forty" runabout which boasted the then new feature of a rumble seat.

Failing to tear off the coupon, the inquirer had sent in the whole advertisement, the balance of which depicted an Oakland "Forty" with a driver enclosed in duster, goggles and cap. His grandchildren apply passengers were of the early Gibson or snapwaisted species.

Approximately 2,000,000 acres in new agricultural land have been "broken" in the past three years in those parts of western Canada served by the Canadian National Railways, according to Dr. W. J. Black, the Company's Director of Colonization

"NATIONAL FISH WEEK" NOVEMBER 22nd TO 29th

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—"Canada's National Fish Week" should serve to emphasize to the people the exceptional food value of fish and the present importance and great potentialities of the Dominion's fisheries" said Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in a statement which he made today in reference to the selection of the week from Nov. ember 22nd to 29th as the Canada-wide fish week for 1929. "Scientists and dietitians," Hon. Mr. Cardin went on, "have uncovered facts in recent years which show that fish are among the best of foods because of their richness in vitamins and other elements, which are great aids to sound body-building and are also protectors against certain diseases, especially, perhaps, in children. And Canada is fortunate in that her commercial fish are waters are not only enormous but are inhabited by food fishes of a quality unsurpassed anywhere in the world. It is an anomaly among nations that food fishes imports in per portion to the purity and coldness of the waters in which they live, and judged by this standard Canadian fish are at least equal in quality to the best that are taken anywhere.

"Up to the present time the per capita consumption of fish in Canada has not been large, much less, for instance than the consumption in Great Britain 140-rest factors have contributed to this condition. Today, with improved methods of preserving and distribution bringing virtually all of the many varieties of Canadian fish within the reach of the people all over the country, and with scientists and health authorities bearing increased testimony to the high value of fish foods, we should be a steadily larger consumption of fish in all parts of the Dominion. Most varieties of our fish are obtainable in different forms—fresh, dried, pickled, smoked, canned so that fish may be on the table at any season of the year and may be prepared by the housewife in many different ways. It is to be said also that, in many cases at least, fish are cheaper than other foods. From the standpoint of purse as well as health and strength, it is a good rule to have fish frequently on the family menu."

C. W. L. Hold Successful Supper

The ladies of the C.W.L. held their chicken supper in the Brunswick hotel dining room last Saturday evening and served literally the whole town with supper. The evening's business was a think that now is "it" as far as they are concerned and they are going to make the best of "it."

CHAS. "S" AT CHURCHILL MAY NECESSITATE GUARD ON FORT PRINCE OF WALES

THE PAS, Man. That it might prove necessary to place a guard over the ruins of the three-year-old Fort Prince of Wales at Churchill, was the statement made here by Hon. Charles Stanfield, Minister of Naval Affairs of Canada's Arctic port.

Two hundred years ago, occupants of this region of the Province of Hudson's Bay Company's activities carved their names on the rock walls. Now with the steady increase of visitors to Fort Churchill the walls at the old fort are being marked up by new names desirous of the Department of the Interior to preserve the ruins as the pioneers of the north left them.

"I imagine the department will put a guard over the fort," Mr. Stanfield said. "It is perhaps the most interesting relic left to us of early Canadian history, a history that dates back that of any city on the prairies or the middle United States. Churchill was built and the capital of the western half of the continent from the Arctic sea to Oregon before there was any in being at Fort Garry or Regina. The Fort stands as a monument to the men who built it as a link with the 16th century in this country and must be preserved."

On the completion of the new Canadian National Railways hotel at Jasper Park pioneers will be able to leave their trains enter the hotel and board a transatlantic steamer without once having to go out from under a roof.

Bananas, oranges, grapefruit, pineapples, ginger, cocoanuts and other West Indies products were included in a heavy cargo brought to Montreal by the R.M.S. Lady Somers, of the Canadian National Steamships' West Indies passenger service.

BUILD COTTAGES FOR BRITISHERS.

The problem of housing British immigrant families come to Canada to settle on the land is being met, to some extent at least, by the offer of the Canadian National Railways to build cottages for the Britishers at various points on the prairies so that the new arrivals may secure a home at a nominal rent of three dollars a month. This offer has been approved by the Overseas Settlement Board of the British government.

British people, forming the bulk of the immigrant tide into Canada, often suffer because they are unprepared to cope with the conditions in the farming districts of the Dominion which are so different from those prevailing in the Old Country. On the other hand, immigrants from Europe, especially the northern parts of Europe, are accustomed even before they embark for the voyage overseas to the solitude and rigours of a life where settlement has left much of the country untouched.

The cottages to be built by the Canadian National in the three prairie provinces will stand on a fenced plot of land averaging from one half to one acre in extent. They will be served by good roads and as near as possible to the local market place and school. They will be furnished with stoves and simple furniture.

It is understood that the families will occupy the cottages only during their first year in Canada, while they are obtaining preliminary experience in farming conditions.

Local plays and amateur theatricals certainly get the same hundred per cent support of the people of the town and district, both "The Belle of Barcelona" and "A Busy Honeymoon" were greeted by overcrowded houses —and they were presented just one week from each other. The complete blue ruin prophet is hard to believe who's seen 1000 admissions are paid to see their prized and high class productions in a town this size in a short period of time

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Last Tuesday, Nov 19th, instead of holding the regular meeting the Boy Scouts went to the College where they were defeated at volley ball by the high school team.

FLOUR PRICES IN PROVINCE DROP 40 CENTS

Wholesale flour prices took a drop of 40 cents a 196-pound barrel in Edmonton, Calgary and other parts of Alberta on Saturday. This week late effect immediately and carried the price level down to $6.60 per barrel.

Recent decreases in the price of wheat are responsible for the fall in wholesale flour costs, according to dealers. They point out at the same time that flour prices have fluctuated a great deal and have not yet reached a stable basis. Bread prices will not be affected by reductions having been recently given by the bakers

Play Drew Full House

"A Busy Honeymoon," presented by the St. Saviour's dramatic society on Monday night at the Columbia Theatre, was greeted by a packed house. The audience was most appreciative, the actors taking their parts extremely well. Several new players made their debut with the cast. The synopsis of this comedy is briefly as follows:

Queen Louisa of Dolovia wishes her daughter Alma to marry the Archduke of Wiener Schnitzel for political reasons. Alma secretly sleeps with Augustus, Crown Prince of Strudelburg, and they come to New York for a "quiet honeymoon" but find it the opposite as persuade a porter and a stenographer to impersonate them while they go to Niagara Falls for a really quiet honeymoon. The play tells of the muddles the impersonators get into, the excitement of getting rid of an anarchist, and also the Archduke, who unexpectedly turns up and will not believe the stenographer is not the real princess and wants to marry her.

The characters of Louise was taken by Mrs. Marian Gaston who, although making only a short appearance on the stage, impressed all by her enactment of the royal personage. Miss daughter, Princess Alma, one of the most prominent parts in the cast, was taken by Miss Muriel Marshall She carried her part well and was pleasing to all at times. The characterization of the Duke of Wiener Schnitzel was taken by a newcomer to Vermilion stage, Fred Babcock, who carried out his haughty enactment of a self important Archduke on the occasion. Harold Copping, another newcomer, took the part of August, Crown Prince of Strudelburg, in a commendable manner.

Don Taylor, after an absence from the company's cast, came back with an Irish brogue and a servant's uniform and scored a decided success as Terry Rafferty, hotel porter and prince pro tem. Don was possibly the hit of the comedy, but had his life made miserable by his wife Maggie, which character was taken by none other than Miss Dorothy Bury Miss Bury suits herself to any character or situation and while not on the stage for any great length of time, her every appearance was greeted with laughter. On June Callahan, stenographer and princess pro tem, it is hardly necessary to comment, as Lucy Emslih, well known to local theatre-goers as actress in her part, acted the part with confidence and reality. Her interpretation of the character was complete, and she may add this appearance to the list of her stage successes. One of the real finds of the play was Leroy Jones in the lead, the difficult role of Ignatius Pospodzo as a demented Greek hero and patriot. His actions and facial expressions were exceptionally good. Gene Jones made a good impression in his first appearance here with a leading role to Johnny Martin, newspaper reporter. The parts of Trevan, Princess Alma's maid, and Grozza, the house detective, were respectively by Mrs Ethel Gould and Harold J. Reid, both newcomers to the local stage, were well portrayed and would not have been improved upon. Miss Dulcie Walker as Cuticura Brown, a colored chambermaid, had a big laugh from the crowd when she made her appearance in the Princess' rooms and was prevented by Trevan from leaving. She gave the impression that she could have carried a better part very well.

The school orchestra has been dramatic service appeared at Mayburn, and will grace the stay for the week time this Friday night at Mannville.

High School Notes

On Friday, November 15th, the Literary Society held its first meeting. Art Wiebe, president, presided. After "O Canada" the first item on the program was a current talk by Hugh Craig, accompanied by Fred Brimacombe. They received a fine ovation. Albert Duncan distinguished us by failing to appear for his month owing solo. A sextette of girls in costume sang "A Vagabond Lover" in fine style; they, too, received an encore and responded. Clifford Donnelly was the accompanist, and he then gave us a fine piano solo and responded to an encore. Marwood Brimacombe's talk on the Boy Scout Jamboree was the interesting thing of the afternoon. He told us of the platform performance in England, of the grand rallies and several other impressive occurrences. It was so good indeed, that he got an encore but failed to respond. We closed with "God Save the King."

On Monday evening the high school team played the Scout team a game of volley-ball at the College, and won. It was a very exciting game. Mr. Taylor refereed.

There are now 127 pupils in the school.

The girls have moved inside for P. T lately. The Biology class intend starting discussions shortly. Look out for snakes and grasshoppers!

Ruby Sharp writes that she likes the Athabasca country very well. Mr. Sharp will probably attend high school there.

The Cadet Cup which the boys won at Cochrane last summer, arrived last Friday. By the same token we wonder what possesses Art Wiebe to take possession of a broom and dust pan to gather up the sawdust which "somebody" spilled on the front steps.

A new and hitherto unknown route to the Rocky Mountains has been discovered through a pass into British Columbia over the western boundary of Jasper Park, Alberta.

V. S. A. Embarks On Banner Year

The Vermilion School of Agriculture has opened again with a registration of one hundred and seventy-five students. Considering the year, this number exceeds the registration expected by Principal Elliott and the staff. All are looking forward to the school making a record this term such as it has never attained before. More than forty boys and thirteen girls have returned for their second year. Sixty boys and thirty-five girls are taking the first year course.

The third year has a registration of thirteen boys and two girls. Students are beginning to see the value of taking the third year as a means of obtaining a diploma in the University. This course consists of high school subjects and is of value to those who have not had an opportunity of obtaining a high school education. Without this course it is almost impossible for a person that is past the average high school age to obtain an entrance if he has not had the required number of units before hand.

Several changes have been made in the staff. Miss Storey, of the Soldiers' Settlement Board has taken Miss Reid's place as matron and Mr Dixon is the dean of resid-nce in charge of the boys' wing. Mr. Baker is filling Mr. Perrie's place in the third year class. Mr. Horsian teaches English and mathematics and Mr. Cormack has taken an extra subject or two Miss Rie and Miss Moline are filling the places formerly occupied by Miss Edwards and Miss Williams.

School activities are now running along their regular courses again. Committees have been chosen and each is getting a start with its regular work for the school during the term. The "Radio" has been heard once and a Lit. period was held Friday afternoon. The principal item on the period was a debate put on by the third year. The subject was "Resolved that the Dominion Government should at this time inaugurate and execute a campaign to attract agricultural immigrants." A. Platt, B. Kiernan and Miss Mason upheld the resolution and V. Durda, B Johnson and N. Martin took the negative viewpoint. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

Sports day was held Saturday afternoon. A ball game was played between the first year and the seniors. The freshies were beaten, and a second game played the following week decided that a big bunch from the crowd when she made her appearance in the Princess' rooms and was prevented by Trevan from leaving. She gave the impression that she could have carried a better part very well.

The school orchestra has been reorganized and we have every reason to believe that before long we will have an orchestra that we can claim with pride against any other in the district.

We would like to remind the citizens of the district of the event that is coming on November 22nd. The Board of Trade has invited the Lieutenant Governor to visit this town. A banquet will be given in the high school at six o'clock, which will be followed by a broadcasted program from the College. We met the wire at six o'clock and had it till 10:30. The Lieutenant Governor will give an address and W. B. Elford will entertain with musical selections from "Pickles" and "The Belle of Barcelona." Five dive dollar scholarships will also be presented to students of this school who have taken last term. Be sure to tune in to CKVA at 9 o' clock and hear the broadcast.

NEWS FROM ISLAY

Mrs. W. L. Roebuck is substituting as teacher in the Poplar Heights school north of Vermilion, as the regular teacher, Miss Mitchell, has gone to her home in Marshall, Sask., having received the sad tid-ings of the death of her mother. Mrs. Roebuck is substituting until Dec. 1st.

St. Saviour's Dramatic Club's play "A Busy Honeymoon" which was presented in Moore's hall Wednesday or last week, was greatly enjoyed by a crowded house.

The Y. P. S. debate was postponed from Tuesday, 19th to the Tuesday of this evening owing to the small attendance at the regular meeting. The meeting consisted of business and community singing. The debate will be held this Tuesday, 19th and is open to everyone to attend. Mr. W. Roebuck is taking Mrs. Roebuck's place on the debating team.

Mrs. Wendell Landelle went to Edmonton last week to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Ernest Rooks, which took place Friday.

Mrs. W. Gould, Sr. returned to her own home Wednesday after spending three weeks with her son James.

Mr. Calnanch Sr. left Monday, Nov. 11th for Winnipeg. He will later go to Port Arthur where he will spend the winter months.

Will Muir went in North Edmonton by car on Friday and returned this Tuesday.

Mrs. Tarrant of Pleasant Valley is visiting Mrs. M. W. Bell of Kenilworth.

The Masquerade dance to be held in Moore's hall on Friday evening 22nd, is creating a lot of interest, and by all appearances a big crowd will be on hand.

Aaltje Rooks

Mrs. Aaltje Rooks, beloved wife of Ernest T. Rooks, passed away in an Edmonton hospital on Wednesday morning, November 13, aged 32 years. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband, her father and mother, Mr and Mrs. F. Doolaman of Kilsyth, Alberta; one sister, Mrs W. Landelle, Islay, Alberta; and five brothers, Jelte, William, Tim, Tjerk and John, all of Kilsyth. The funeral service was held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Foster's Funeral Home, Edmonton.

HOSPITAL BOARD MEETING

Minutes of the last regular meeting of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital Board held on Saturday, 9th inst., all members being present.

The committee composed of J. J. Hope and A. J. Morrison, who were elected at the last meeting to look into the matter of fire escape from the nurses' quarters, reported that they considered there was no need for this escape as there are two means of exit at the present time. It was moved and adopted that this report be accepted.

Mr. W. J. Elliott, principal of the Agricultural College, waited upon the Board relative to the granting of a special rate to any of the students who may have reason to use the hospital. Nothing was decided upon, however, until such time as further information was received from the Department.

Upon the request of Mr. McClellan, representative of Vermilion Valley M. D., it was moved and adopted that the Chairman and Secretary sign an agreement with the M. D. Vermilion Valley the same as with the M. D. of Grizzly Bear.

A communication was received from T. Rea asking that he be granted the ratepayers' rate in connection with his hospital account in that he was the authorized agent of the Junerior Lumber Yards at Clandonald. It was moved and adopted that "Mr. T. Rea of Clandonald be rebated $40.50, he having been overcharged for hospital service."

The following motions were moved and adopted: That the financial report of the Secretary be accepted. That the Secretary and Chairman issue a duplicate cheque for one lost payable to J. F. Harts Co. That Mr. Hope and Mr. Jardin be appointed delegates to attend the Municipal Hospitals Convention to be held in Edmonton on the 19th of November. The following motion was passed to be sent to the convention wire to the difficulty that is experienced by all Hospitals in the collection of accounts: "That all unpaid hospital accounts after a period of twelve months from the date of discharge from hospital be filed with the secretaries of the municipal districts and municipalities from which the party comes, and that same be a charge against such party's property the same as taxes."

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid: J Wartin $12.90; Northern Hdwe. $9.37; Mrs. M. Daley 15.84; H. Stone 58.70; P. Burns Co. 20.90; Craig Bros. 119.65; E. Davies 71.05; J. A. UNEMPLOYED LISTS MOUNT STEADILY

About 1,219 Men and Women Without Work in Alberta

Steadily increasing unemployment in the province is shown by the weekly analysis of the labor situation issued today by the Alberta Employment Service for the week ending November 16.

There are at present 1,219 unemployed men and women and the lists of provincial government's employment bureau alone. This number is made up of 1,112 men and 107 women.

During the past week Edmonton placed more men in jobs than Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Drumheller put together. Edmonton's placement was 248 men, while Calgary placed 69, and the balance was taken care of by the other three provincial labor centres.—Journal

Travelling Clinic Ends Successful Season

(BY EDNA KELLS)

After concluding the most successful season in its history with a clinic held at Ground, the Travelling Clinic operating under the auspices of the Provincial Department of Public Health has returned to Edmonton. Since May 27 when the first clinic was held at Gunsay, forty-one communities have been given relief, 4412 examinations were made by Dr. R. T. Washburn, superintendent of the University hospital and head of the clinic who performed 1496 tonsil and adenoid operations, 147 minor operations and 32 circumcisions. In this work he had the assistance of Dr Margaret Gwen in all 1000 anaesthetics, including 142 for tooth stone, were given by Dr. Dwen The dental section was equally busy. Dr. Haycock, gon nment dentist, and Dr. H A. Gilchrist of the University of Alberta, made 1273 dental examinations, put in 1150 fillings, and extracted 2125 teeth. The nursing staff, including the Misses Olive Watherston, Agnes McLeod E. M. Davidson, and Anna Young rendered valiant support to doctors and dentists.

It is three years since the travelling clinic was organized. Prior to that time a few scattered clinics had been held on request, when the district nurses found conditions obtaining which should be remedied, and for which there was no other relief. In the winter of 1928-7 the Department of Public Health received so many requests for a visit from the clinic it seemed advisable to organize it as a regular phase of the work. Of the success of the effort there is no question. As Hillspring, in Southern Alberta the year, 241 examinations were made and 122 operations performed. The Editor of the Cardston News speaking of this clinic said that it was one of the finest re-commendations the Government of Alberta public health service had. The majority of the people who attended would no doubt-like have had service from any doctor, he said. This applies in many cases

This year the Clinic revisited some of the places where service was given in 1927, and found that as a result of the first visit, interest in the work had greatly increased. Children were brought in greater numbers, some for examination and treatment, others who had been operated on the year previous for a check up Still others who had been operated upon since the first visit of the clinic were brought for a general check-up, and that the doctor might confirm the parents in their opinion that they had done the right thing. That was a source of gratification alone it proved that the clinic was attaining more than one of its objects.

The high light of the Travelling Clinic work is the educational side. Here Dr. Washburn and his staff have perhaps find an a child suffering or defect on which parents or child have not been aware. Defects in hearing and vision should be corrected, that a normal chance of their own and other children's condition would be attained. Many of these defects are to the family doctor. Thus does the clinic attain one of its objects Doctors leave the large towns at no point in touch with their local doctors and of regular health examination

There are other instances which the clinic serves, and some of these are subtle—tending to create a greater content. The convalescence of institutions are brought to people living in isolated settlements and the feel less cut off from the world. The importance the percentage plays on good health is interpreted to the Nova Canadian, and he is quick to take advantage of were ers' means offered him. Privileges which they could not otherwise afford are placed in the disposal of those who are struggling to establish themselves, and this over comes a feeling of resentment which they might develop

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR EARLY CURLING SEASON

Prospects for an early curling season are about 100 per cent right now as ice making under Clarke Wilson is well under way and a good beginning has already been obtained. Judging from the present weather indications will go on apace, on the river. It is to get your rinks made up and in the hands of Secy. Sutton as soon as possible, for a complete make-up is to complete their rink while rumor says that an "all-star" rink will be a feature on the ice.

This Better Age

The work of a clever cartoonist has for some time past been syndicated to newspapers in America, under the general title "So This Is Progress," wherein he depicts by way of contrast conditions of fifty or more years ago with those of today, as, for example, a party of present-day tourists in a high powered motor car speeding at sixty miles an hour along a highway on which at every vantage point unsightly billboards invite you to chew this gum, smoke that cigar, or use such and such a soap in contrast he presents the earthbound and beauty of a tramp through the woods, and by brooks, and rivers rambling through the countryside. The work of this cartoonist leads one to wonder sometimes whether the vaunted progress of this age is progress indeed, amazing machinery, industrialized mass production, insane speculation in, after all an advance upon the more leisurely life and enjoyments of the last century

Such a picture is, however one-sided, inasmuch as while it points out drawbacks of today, it fails to visualize the great achievements and gains to humanity as a whole, and already there is an awakening public opinion to the need for the preservation of beauty and leisure, and emphasis is laid on the fact that these need not necessarily be lost in order to make advancement in other directions

Recently another artist presented two companion pictures in a single drawing which he labelled "This Is Progress" One picture was a reproduction of the famous painting "The Doctor," presenting the family physician with the bandage of a dying child in a workman's humble cottage, intently watching the child but apparently powerless to stay the ravages of the disease which was slowly taking the life of the child before the eyes of the agonized parents. The companion picture presented the medical scientist of today at work in his laboratory with his scientific instruments locating and studying those deadly germs and bacilli which, it is now recognized, are the cause of most disease. Then in vivid colors he showed the child, no longer a victim, but on the canvas of disease This is progress and a truer, because a more lasting picture of the achievements of the twentieth century

Despite the fact that there is much to criticize in the regimen of this mechanized age, with its drawbacks in the merging of the individual artisan into the cogs of a huge industrial machine and the increasing worship of the almighty dollar, the standard of living is higher and higher, and more beauty lost in one way is found and multiplied in countless other ways The average workman in our cities and manufacturing towns is now better paid, better dressed better housed, and with shorter hours of work, and under more sanitary conditions, has more time for leisure and recreation than in any previous period in the world's history His children are enjoying advantages in education and opportunities in life he never had in his youth

The riches of the world's best literature, formerly reserved for the favored few, are available at low cost through the modern printing press for every home The beauties of the world's finest music are no longer reserved for the rich and the gifted, but are broadcast by radio to be captured in millions of homes, no matter how isolated they may be In the last century the man with a horse and buggy for pleasure or business belonged to the select, today the man without a motor car is the exception, not the rule The telephone is an instant call in the humblest home, even the pioneer settler's sod shack, and the radio is in the mining prospector's cabin

From the toil and drudgery of the farm are disappearing with the advent of power machinery and electricity. Soon, even in this last Great West, high power transmission lines will be carrying electricity into the farm home to bake and cook, chop feed, operate the churn, pump water, and perform numerous other tasks. Even in advance of this, small gasoline engines have done the work on many farms. The telephone, the radio, the motor car and better roads, have already well-nigh annihilated the loneliness of farm life, while educational facilities and medical services are no longer remote

So, notwithstanding certain drawbacks and losses, the world advances, progress is real and altogether worthwhile, life becomes richer and fuller, standards rise higher and higher as God and nature designed that he should.

Coins Within a Coin

Quaint Old Silver Pieces Were Made To Feet Highwaymen

I was shown the other day a curious coin which was given to a friend of mine by a collector It is an American silver piece, about the size of a crown, dated 1616, and it had been in my friend's possession some time before it was discovered that it real had. Investigation showed that it had been made into a box of which the two halves were cruised and carefully packed in two specially-equipped Canadian National express cars for their long journey to the seaboard.

One hundred and twenty-five of the items were supplied by the B.C. Cronyism ranch at Quilchena, British Columbia, while the remainder of the 10 present are from the All Star Ranch and the Winnipeg Fox Company, both of Winnipeg Sweden has been one of the largest importers of Canadian-bred silver and black foxes, but in the past the animals have been secured largely in Prince Edward Island and other eastern ranches. During their journey, the foxes will be under the care of M Holmin and Nils Klasbeck, partners of the Swedish import ing firm.

On the completion of the new Canadian National Railways hotel at Halifax, passengers will be able to leave their trains, enter the hotel and board a trans-Atlantic steamer without once having to go out from under a roof

International Amity

Ramsay MacDonald Says That Peace Pins Cannot Fail

The unanimity of the British people for international amity will prevent the defeat of the naval disarmament proposals, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald said at Leicester, England, in delivering the freedom of the city. Referring to his American trip, MacDonald said:

"The journey was made successful, not by anything I did, but what the people of the country did. There are no parties in Britain. It is united, both in prayers and hopes. I feel that such tremendous moral backing cannot possibly be defeated.

"I was on a mission of good will—a mission not only to promote active good will between the United States and Britain, but I hope and pray, a good will that will spread healing and inspiring arms around the earth."

HOUSEHOLD CARES

Fall Heavily On the Woman Who Is Run Down—Thin Blood Means Trouble

To the woman who has her household work to do and her family to attend to, there is no greater drawback than weakness. Many a woman keeps on with her household duties when she is feeling ready to drop. Her head aches, she may be dizzy, she has no appetite, she has little relish for food, and always feels tired and worn out. She has a poor blood — thin, watery blood, and she badly needs the health help that only Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her. The fact that hundreds of grateful people the use of these pills promptly restores health and strength is proof positive. Among the thousands who have found new health in this great tonic medicine is Mrs. John W. Mcdonald, Cardigan, P.E.I. Mrs. Mcdonald says:

"I can most strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was run down in health that I was unable to do my housework for a long time. I became nervous, I never got better, as I had tried different kinds of medicine with no benefit whatever. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I did, and to my joy I found they were just the thing I needed. I took six boxes of the pills and found myself restored to my old-time good health.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate resistance that will help you to ward off illness. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment now; or you can get the pills by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To Attract Tourists

Yokohama plans an effort to compete with Shanghai for the title of "Paris of the Orient." As a first step in the scheme to attract more tourist trade to Japanese port city, Mayor Ozaki has installed electricity into the farm home to bake and cook, chop feed, operate the churn, pump water, and perform numerous other tasks. Even in advance of this, small gasoline engines have done the work on many farms. The telephone, the radio, the motor car and better roads, have already well-nigh annihilated the loneliness of farm life, while educational facilities and medical services are no longer remote

No, notwithstanding certain drawbacks and losses, the world advances, progress is real and altogether worthwhile, life becomes richer and fuller, standards rises higher and higher as God and nature designed that he should.

Needless Pain!

People are often too patient with pain. Suffering when there is no need to suffer. Why endure headache that Bayer-Aspirin will relieve? Why ache all over. And know it would bring him immediate relief?

The best time to take Aspirin is the very moment you first feel the pain. Why postpone relief until the pain has reached its height? Why hesitate to take anything so "strong" Aspirin?

Read the proven directions for checking colds; ending a sore throat; relieving headaches and the pains of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

You can always count on its quick comfort. But if pain is of frequent recurrence see a doctor as he may know the best way to relieve it.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach, belching, nausea, etc., are due to too much acidity (hyperacidity). When the stomach is overloaded with acid, food is irritated, digestion is delayed and you have that miserable, uncomfortable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows.

Artificial digestants are not needed to relieve this condition. Just get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take it in water (half a teaspoonful to a glass). This sweetens the stomach by neutralizing the excess acid and there is no waste, as no pain. Bisurated Magnesia is powder or tablet form. Carter's brand is unsweetened, is harmless in its action, and is the form of Magnesia generally prescribed by physicians. It is used by thousands of people who never suffer heads with an acid sour stomach.

Will Preserve Old Fort

Changes At Churchill May Necessitate Guard On Fort Prince Of Wales

That it might prove necessary to place a guard over the ruins of the 100-year-old Fort Prince of Wales at Churchill, was the statement made by Hon. Charles Dunning, Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals, at Churchill, the walls at the old Fort are being marked up by new names despite the desire of the Department of the Interior to preserve the ruins as the pioneers of the north left them.

"I imagine the department will put guards over the fort," Mr. Dunning said. "It is perhaps the most interesting relic to be found in Canadian history, a story that pre-dated that of any city on the prairies or the Pacific Coast. Originally Churchill was Churchill and the capital of the western half of the continent from the Arctic Sea to Labrador before there was any Selkirk, or Fort Garry, or Regina. The Fort stands as a monument to the men who built it as a link built the 18th century in this country and must be preserved."

WANT COPY OF PEACE PACT IN EVERY SCHOOL

Winnipeg.—Proposals to have a copy of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact pinned in every school in the Dominion, which have been endorsed by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, are meeting with the approval of educationists in the western provinces and will be considered by provincial governments as soon as formal notification of the project is received.

Under the plan, the federal government would furnish sufficient copies of the peace pact for use in the schools, but as school administration is a provincial matter, the provincial governments would have to undertake the placing of the copies in the schools.

"I see no difficulty in carrying out such a plan," stated Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education for Manitoba, to the Canadian Press. "The government of Manitoba would be glad to co-operate, but it is a matter for the local school boards to decide."

Mr. Hoey said intimation would be sent to the various school boards in the province by his department, of copies being available and he thought most schools would take advantage of the opportunity to secure a copy of the pact.

The British Columbia government will co-operate in the plan, it has been intimated by the minister of education for that province.

Speaking at Ocean Falls, B.C., recently, where he unveiled a copy of the pact in the High School there, Mr. King said he would like to see copies of the pact in all churches he well as schools.

Alberta Town Burned.

Property Destroyed By Flames Not Insured

Edmonton.—Fanned by a driving wind which sprang up suddenly, a bush fire swept over and destroyed the thriving little town of Rochfort at an estimated loss of $188,000. No lives were lost but several citizens suffered burns.

Practically all of the town's 200 inhabitants are homeless, many without clothing and all without food. The entire business section and all residence were burned. Thorhild is 53 miles north of Edmonton on the A. and G. W. line.

Decline In Grain Receipts

Vancouver, Montreal and Churchill Figures Are Indicative

Ottawa.—A decline of 112,731,353 bushels of grain is indicated in the receipts at the ports of Vancouver, Montreal and Quebec for the current year ending Nov. 6, compared with the figures for the corresponding period last year. At the same time deliveries from these ports dropped 102,656,427 bushels.

Total receipts at these Canadian ports amounted this year to 188,-388,157 bushels, compared with 267,-997,410 bushels for the same period of 1928; deliveries amounted to 188,-388,840 bushels as against 261,045,-267.

Fire Damages Seminary

Loss To Quebec Institution Estimated At Half a Million Dollars

Three Rivers, Que.—Fire swept through the oldest wing of the Seminary here, destroying that section of the institution which was erected in 1670 and was one of the oldest educational institutions in the province. No lives were lost, although several of those caught in the building were taken out with difficulty. The damage was estimated at half a million dollars and the fire was the most destructive to strike the city in the last 30 years. Numerous valuable documents and books were destroyed.

Proposed Alaskan Highway

Negotiations Of United States Consul With Premier King At Victoria

Victoria, B.C.—Appointment of a joint committee consisting of two United States and two Canadian representatives to thoroughly inquire into the proposed highway through British Columbia and the Yukon territory to Alaska, was mooted at a conference held here between Premier Mackenzie King, Premier S. F. Tolmie, and United States representatives, including Major Malcolm Elliott, president of the Alaska roads commission, and members of the United States consular service.

The need for a thorough investigation of all angles of the project was stressed, and it was decided that the United States to take it from there to Fairbanks and thence to Valdez, Premier King intimated he would need further information before he could give definite decision on the matter, but said he would give it his full consideration.

A SHORT LINE FROM WINNIPEG TO HUDSON BAY

Ottawa, Ont.—The report of the engineers of the Canadian National Railways who have been surveying a short line from Winnipeg to Hudson Bay will be strongly in favor of the extension of the line now running north between Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba and connected with the Hudson Bay Railway.

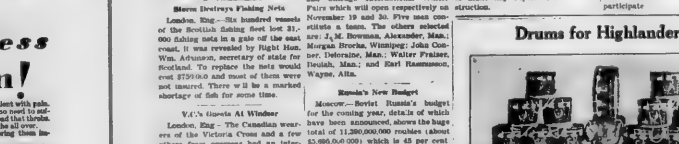
This information was received from Montreal recently. The report is not yet completed and will not reach the hands of Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, for several weeks.

The engineers, it is understood, will not only favor the central line to the north because it would clip hundreds of miles off the present rail distance between Winnipeg and Churchill, but they will point out another vital factor in Winnipeg's northern outlet, Port Nelson. This factor will be the desirability of providing an air line from Winnipeg to the mining fields of Northern Manitoba.

The central line could be run northward from Winnipeg. It could proceed along the shortest possible line to connect with the Hudson Bay road, or, if it could proceed north along the narrow strip of land between Lake Winnipegosis and Cedar Lake, finally to make contact with the Hudson Bay Railway about midway between the present terminals. This route would run up to Flin Flon and Sherritt-Gordon. This would give a short cut to the bay and also an air line to the mineral developments.

The cost of extending the central road to Hudson Bay would be in the neighborhood of $8,000,000. It must be understood in regard to this report that the Canadian Government is not committed to build such a line of railway. This inquiry was made because Mackenzie King, members of parliament requested Mr Dunning to assist them in this matter Mr Dunning agreed, on the express condition that it be understood that the government would not be committed to make any expend tures on construction.

Drums for Highlanders



This handsome set of drums has been presented to the 48th Highlanders Regiment, of Toronto, and is the gift of Lieutenant F. M. Ross. The regiment is allied with the world-famous "Clay Gordons" and upon its flags are inscribed many battle honors, prominent among them being Ypres, Festubert, Somme 1916, Vimy Ridge, Hill 70, Amiens, Canal du Nord etc. The regiment was organized in 1891

The drums were made in London, England, and were shipped to this country by the Canadian Pacific Express Company on S.S. Duchess of York.

BANKS TO TAKE ACTION TO EASE CREDIT SITUATION

Montreal.—Reassuring indication that in the opinion of the banks of Canada, definition of stock exchange the Canadian markets has reached its logical limit to and that the banks are prepared to step in for the relief of the interests of stabilization was forthcoming when the leading banks acting together announced that they would advance 1 per cent on call loans on brokers on stocks selling over $30 and 50 per share on terms to the trade

In taking this action to ease the credit position for the brokers the banks will be protecting a large number of small clients for whose operations they have been the marginal factor in many cases providing the necessary capital.

How great effect this contribution action is is anticipated will be even greater in its moral effect than the actual aid rendered, great as this will be

Tuesday's action of Canadian banks in reducing the required margin for brokers' loans to 30 per cent. and call loans to 50 per cent. was a step to remedy a condition which has been developing for some time. It is a step in the direction of restoring confidence in the stock market and in the investing public generally.

Sir Edward Peacock, vice-president of the Bank of Montreal, thought it a help full gesture by the banks and would fulfill its apparent intention of relieving pressure among the public and of having a general restoring effect

It will have no effect, however, on call money loans, which will remain at the same margin requirements as and of customers by brokers, and brokers will continue to ask the same margin percentage of clients as before.

Advocates Free Trade With Great Britain

Proposed Resolution To Be Discussed At Coming Session Of Parliament

Ottawa.—Free trade with Great Britain within five years' time is aimed at in a proposed resolut on placed on the order paper of the House of Commons by W. R. Fansher, Progressive, Last Mountain. The proposal, which will be discussed at the coming session of parliament, reads:

"Whereas, Great Britain has for many years been Canada's best customer for agricultural products, particularly wheat and wheat products and

"Whereas, the tariffs of other countries are fervently manipulated detrimentally to the export of Canadian products, particularly those of agriculture; and,

"Whereas, in international trade it is imperative for any country to buy as much as possible from the country to which she sells, thereby reducing transportation costs to the minimum; and,

"Whereas, for the general good of Canada, we deem it advisable to foster trade with the Mother Country in the fullest extent, thus keeping trade within the Empire

"Therefore, be it resolved that in the opinion of this House that every endeavor be made by the Government of the British preference as contained in our draft schedule, be renewed and, further, that the time be fixed when the British preference shall be progressively increased so as to have free trade with the Mother Country within a period of seven years

Protests Against Exclusion

Chinese Consul Would Like Discrimination Against Nationals Removed

Brockville, Ont.—A suggestion, that the present exclusion of Chinese immigrants to Canada, was unfair, owing to Chinese national honor and that the act of 1923 should be amended to permit a small quota of Chinese immigrants to enter Canada annually or else to attract a gentleman's agreement with China similar to that now in force in the case of Japan, was made before the Rotary Club by Li Tehsin, Chinese consul-general at Ottawa. He expressed a hope that the Dominion government would soon see its way clear to remove the present discrimination against Chinese nationals and predicted that with such restrictions removed, a tremendous impetus would be given the already increasing Canadian export trade with China.

ATTITUDE TAKEN AS TO ENTRY OF MENNONITES

Ottawa, Ont. — Widespread misinformation of what has occurred in regard to the proposed movement of 3,000 Mennonites from Russia to Canada, exists in Saskatchewan Letters received at Ottawa from residents of that province, as well as the language used by various organ nations in passing resolutions dealing with the question, indicate that the attitude of the Dominion Government in the matter has not been fully understood

Hon Robert Forke said that the Dominion would not put up a cent, toward their passage money or their maintenance in Canada after arrival Nor would he permit them to enter Canada, unless the Mennonites were in Canada guaranteed to keep them and to prevent them becoming public charges Insofar as passage money is concerned it is believed that Canadian Mennonites are prepared to put this up if the $1,000 up and the Mennonites themselves have not got it then they simply cannot come to Canada.

Herein The communist news-paper the Red Flag publishes a confidential letter written on Sept 8 by Lazar Kaganovitch, of the soviet agricultural bureau to the foreign office at Berlin It deals with the position of German peasants in Mennonite villages settled in Russia but are now leaving the soviet's large numbers of them have started for Canada

According to the letter there is no prospect of the Soviet government abandoning its policy of socializing agriculture for the sake of a few hundred thousand German colonists or for the sake of any other group of peasants many It is officially admitted the letter was stolen and an investigation has been started to discover how it came into the hands of the Communists, who are using it of course, as derogatory to Russia

COLD SNAP STRIKES IN ON THURSDAY

After enjoying summer weather until Monday the recent dip of the thermometer to below zero rears as a rude shock to most people of the district However, after getting down near the 4 below mark on Tuesday night and 16 or so on Wednesday, the cold suddenly abated Thursday after noon and the steadily rising thermometer read 12 above at time of going to press Most of the districts in Western Canada were treated to some fall of varying depths of from 1 to 8 inches during the week, the fall Vermilion had being the lightest reported.

Hon. Geo. Hoadley Proposes Community Park and Improved Highway

VERMILION ARTISTS ON THE AIR

Two important announcements were made by the Hon. George Hoadley at the public luncheon held Friday evening in the assembly hall of the school of agriculture, in honor of the official visit of Lieutenant Governor Dr W H Egbert to Vermilion on Friday Both intimations are of interest to the town and district of Vermilion

One was that the government proposed to approach the organization interested next summer with the view of having the grounds of the Vermilion Agricultural society moved near town and the give a wider use of the school grounds besides providing more land for its purposes The main highway would be swung north and come into town directly from the west The other was that the government proceed to set apart a portion of their land for community recreation purposes.

It could be used for all kinds of public and sports and in this and every facility would be accorded by the government though the school This would mark an entirely new departure but one in accord with the policy of the government to make life in the rural areas as enjoyable as possible Another matter stressed by the minister was his hope that in the near future facilities would be provided whereby the young men and young women of the province would be accorded the same advantages at the dominion experimental farms as was given at the different schools of agriculture

Important Mission

To say no reason why the knowledge, information and experience gained at these farms should not be made available to the people engaged in the pursuit of agriculture. In speaking on the question of public health the minister hoped that the teaching of dancing would be done in the public schools of the province. He said this, not for the sake of dancing, but that dancing properly taught would tend to give the finest balance and poise that it ought not obtain otherwise. He stressed it from the health point of view

Speaking on the Vermilion school of agriculture he said that a new club building was to be put in for the convenience of the students of Vermilion who had been using a room at the school as the only available place for social recreation.

This man said that nowhere had he seen a more beautiful location for a school than the bank of Vermilion

Lieutenant Governor Pays Tribute to Vermilion Talent

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
EDMONTON
November 20th, 1929

Dear Mr Eldord,

I wish to thank you very much for the wonderful concert you arranged for my visit to Vermilion last Friday. I had hoped to hear you after the concert, but owing to the lateness of the hour I missed you and I want you to know how much I enjoyed the whole concert.

Vermilion is very fortunate in having so many musical people within its boundaries and I am sure your efforts are very much appreciated by the citizens I have heard several people in Edmonton who also enjoyed the programme by radio.

Yours very truly,
W. EGBERT,
Lieutenant Governor

Indigestion

What some people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick or so effect, so harmless, so efficient.

Use tasteless spoonful in water sometimes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no bad after-effects. Once you learn the fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Do yours now—why this method is so easy.

To be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Western Canada's visible wheat supply on November 15 of this year, showed an increase of more than twenty-five million bushels over that of a year ago.

The United States has notified Great Britain of its acceptance of January 31 as the date for the first meeting of the London naval conference.

Dr. Lan Sylvester said to be the oldest practising physician in Canada, died at his home in Bowt Quebec, at the age of 83. He has been practising since 1887.

Meaning Of Totem Poles

Used By Indians As Monument Of Important Events

Roy Swasta and Chri Cuisine use the word totem without, perhaps, quite real zing its origin and meaning. Totem poles are used by many native tribes in various parts of the world, as monuments of important events and tombstones of the dead. To the Alaskan Indians, however, the totem stands for the an mal ancestor from whom he believes his tribe is descended, and it is connected with all his religious and social beliefs.

May Export Gas To United States

Alternative Proposition In To Convey Surplus Gas From Alberta To Saskatchewan Points

While the special federal commission invest gat ng the problem of disposing of the enormous surplus of Turner Valley natural gas has not yet reported, intimations are being broadcast that the report will favor export of the surplus to United States points rather than to Saskatchewan.

If the commission reports to that effect, there is bound to be an outcry from c'tizens in Saskatchewan which are looking anxiously for a supply of natural gas from over the Alberta border.

The nearest market on the American side of the line is Great Falls, Montana, some 100 miles south of the end of the natural gas line from Calgary to Great Island. Two companies and gas companies producing natural gas who wish to market it argue that this is much closer than any poss ble market in Saskatchewan

On the other hand, it is known that the Dakh tsetrets are dying for gas in the Cypress Hills on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border line. Already one big flow has been struck there. If sufficient field is uncovered it is the intent on of Rich and his associates to construct a 300-m le pipeline to Swift Current, Moose Jaw and Regina. This is not an excessive distance as the total mileage of the Calgary-Turner Valley-Bow Island system is already more than 200 miles.

Another factor in favor of the gas line is now constructed from Cypress Hills to Moose Jaw and Regina, the Calgary-Edmonton pipeline in Canada, did not do business in Borel Quebec, at the age of 83. He has been practising a med cine since 1887.

The trip to the Brit ish West Indies of their Excellencies, the Governor-General and Lady Will ngdon, while designed primarily as a rest and holiday, assumes also the aspect of a good-will journey.

Big Mineral Discovery

Deposit Of Copper and Nickel Ore Attracting Attention To Saskatchewan

The whisper of a great discovery has gone out all the way from Winnipeg west, and the representatives of mining organ zations large and small, are rushing to ascertain the facts. Right in northern Saskatchewan where the Dominion Explorers, Ltd., are reported to have found the richest deposits to be the mineral discovery of the current year.

Members of the Dominion Explorers Organization have been brought in from different parts of the country and have been flying away to one fa-d direction, and the indications are the discovery will be found extensive and fortified in regard to holdings in the new district before rival claim-stakers are upon the scene.

Domin on Explorers being a Lindsay organization, has had the experience of dealing with big finds in such deposits. Sherritt-Gordon has been a case in point where the mineral bearing fractures and mineralized belts three miles 'n length. In regard to the new discovery in northern Saskatchewan, which, while not so extensive in area, is richer in copper and nickel ore, the opinion has reached it difficult to prevent a certain amount of data l eaking out. Outstanding features now definitely known are the h g width of the deposit and the particularly great length—the surface being a close duplicate of Sherritt-Gordon—with the strength on both sides, comparing with Gordon is copper and zinc, the deposit found by Dominion Explorers is copper and nickel.

Samples of the ore from the new discovery have been exam ned by engineers and practical men in the classroom in combination with plain mineralogy lecture.

Creation and Canada

The Development Of the Boy Jesus, verse 40.—Like every one who has ever lived, Jesus entered the world as a helpless infant, and like all normal children, His powers developed gradually. He grew, grew and became strong, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him.

Oh that I may grow!
What though Time cuts furrows in my face,
My heart may ever add grace unto grace,
Green with added days still keeping pace.
O that I may grow!"
—Maltbie D. Babcock.

Jesus At Twelve Years Of Age, verses 41-50.—When Jesus was twelve years of age His parents took Him to Jerusalem to keep the feast ival to attend the Passover. Three times in this chapter (verses 41, 42 and 43), Joseph is referred to as the father, or father, of Jesus. Dr. Garvie explains that "Joseph is rightly described as one of Jesus' parents, for in the home he provided for and protected Him, filled a parent's place, and played a parent's part. To him also God had committed a trust and task." The Passover began on the fifteenth of Nisan, the first month, and lasted several days; it was a journey of eighty miles from Nazareth, their home in Lower Galilee, to Jerusalem.

When Joseph and Mary started home again, the Boy, unknown to them, tarried behind in Jerusalem. They went a day's journey toward Nazareth before they missed Him, for they had supposed Him with kinsfolk or acquaintances in the same caravan. They journed in a company of many others returning to Nazareth and were lowmen. The boys and young men probably walk ng together in groups, and the girls and women by themselves, many of whom were riding mules. "I question whether there is ever a pilgrimage made from Jerusalem to the Jordan at the present day without a reunion of children and parents equally prolonged." Thompson. They spent part of one day hunting for Him in the caravan, another day in going back to Jerusalem, and on the third day they found Him in the temple, listening to the teachers and asking them questions as deep, that all around were amazed at His understanding and answers.

Son, why hast Thou thus dealt with us?" his mother questioned, adding, "Thy father and I sought Thee sorrowing." "How is it that ye sought Me?" asked Jesus, expressing that they did not know where to find Him. "Knew ye not that I must be in my Father's house?" Mary said, "My father and I" distressing Joseph and harnett, but Jesus spoke of His Father in heaven. His answer may indicate that He almost Jewish Boy's interest in the temple, but by-an-by in the Boy's home at His divine origin from country. Italy, and that I should be about My Father's business." Mary did not forget these words and put these sayings in her heart.

BRITAIN TAKES A FIRM STAND ON REPARATIONS

The Hague—Deadlock again seems to threaten the vexed question of reparations. Great Britain is firm in her opposition to the Young plan evolved at the recent conference of experts in Paris, and France, Italy and Belgium seem equally determined to oppose any change in the scheme.

Right Hon. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, outlined the British position and said his country had sacrificed its own interests in the utmost limits and would yield no further. Mr. Snowden made his statement before the financial committee of the 1929 conference of The Hague, gathered to consider the Young plan.

While he hoped the [illegible] would not regard it as offensive, Mr. Snowden said he regretted he had been given to any of his arguments and none of his figures had been challenged.

The British Government, he said, did not accept the view that the plan was indivisible. If that were so there would be no need for a conference. Great Britain, he declared, would not accept the shares in the reparations receipts allotted to her by the committee of experts, she would not consent to the division of annuities between the various additional parts, and thirdly would not approve of continued deliveries in kind.

Mr. Snowden did not consider it a sacrifice on the part of France to give up annuities which she would have received. If sacrifices were to be talked about, he would have something to say about Great Britain's sacrifices.

Not a single country had made anything approach the sacrifices made by Great Britain, he continued, but the British had never complained. Great Britain had given up reparations, and thirdly would not approve of continued deliveries in kind.

Mr. Snowden did not consider it a sacrifice on the part of France to give up annuities which she would have received. If sacrifices were to be talked about, he would have something to say about Great Britain's sacrifices.

Not a single country had made anything approach the sacrifices made by Great Britain, he continued, but the British had never complained. Great Britain had given up reparations, the basis of her material interests had been endangered but to support Young rights in defense of world security. She willingly did that, willingly sacrificed her blood not in her own interests.

No country had been fast with Great Britain's war debt which now amounted to $37,500,000,000 or more than double that of any other nation in the war. Excluding her debt to the United States, Great Britain's war debt was $32,500,000,000. At the end of the war, the Allies owed Great Britain $10,000,000,000, which France owed $3,000,000,000 and Great Britain claimed only $1,120,000,000 from that country. Italy owed Britain $2,000,000,000 but Britain only claimed $280,000,000, but the Young plan reduced this to $200,000,000.

The British taxpayer would be burdened for the next sixty years with the debt owed to Britain by $60,000,000. The Young committee, Mr. Snowden argued, had no right to interfere with the British taxpayer.

Mr. Snowden contended the payment of reparations is ked by Germany affected Great Britain's export trade disadvantageously.

He emphasized his stand that the British delegation would have a decision on the points raised before the committee could proceed any further or discuss any other matters.

"I have behind me the unanimous support of my government," he added, "and of the British people, irrespective of party, and, I believe, of all the people of Great Britain. I speak quite definitely on this occasion, compromise on the matter. The House of Commons would never ratify the Young report in its present form."

Railroad May Be Sold

British Columbia Likely To Get Rid Of Pacific Great Eastern

Victoria, B.C.: "The Pacific Great Eastern head may be expected to be removed from the politics of the province within a very short time." Hon. H. P Pooley, attorney-general said, speaking at the Esquimalt Conservative picnic at Shaw Point.

The Pacific Great Eastern is owned by the Government of British Columbia. A survey of the line and its territory is now being made jointly by the province, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

Tokyo: Japanese dispatches from Manchuli, Manchuria, where representatives of Russia and China have been discussing the situation arising from Chinese seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway, reported that the negotiations had broken down.

British Airship May Be Zeppelin's Rival

Huge Machines Nearing Completion Will Be Much Faster

London, Eng.—Cabled reports from Lakehurst that the Graf Zeppelin's successful trip to America probably will be followed by the establishment of a regular trans-Atlantic airline brought considerable speculation in London morning papers as to the possibility of British competition.

Greater speed or at least a cut in elapsed time of the trips was held to be a necessity for success of such a line and the hope was expressed that two British giants now nearing completion, the R-100 and R-101 would prove much faster.

Sir Dennis Burney, M.P., head of the company which built the R-100, in a talk with the Daily News opined that the Graf's time did not give enough reserve for fast steamers and an airship to be successful must be able to do a trip in sixty hours against a head wind. This would imply a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour.

Resignation Of Grain Board

New Members Will Be Appointed At An Early Meeting

Ottawa.—All the members of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada have resigned, their resignations to take effect August 15. On the date the names of the new commissioners will be given out.

Announcement of the resignation of the members of the grain commission was made by Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, at the close of a cabinet sitting here.

Mr. Malcolm said that the new commissioners will make its own selections for the posts of assistant commissioners after it was appointed.

The resigning members of the grain commission are: Chief Commissioner S. M. Boyd, K.C., and Commissioners Matthew Snow and [illegible] Bracken.

The present board will also consist of three commissioners, but four assistant commissioners will also be appointed.

New Administration Has Assumed Office

Task Ouith Before Premier S. F. Tolmie At Victoria

Victoria, Right Hon. Arnold Alexander Aaglia, P.C., Chief Justice of Canada became administrator of the Dominion of Canada when he took oath of office in the office of Premier S. F. Tolmie, of British Columbia here. Following the installation His Excellency issued a proclamatio announcing his assumption of office as administrator of the Dominion. A second proclamation appointed Hon. Mr. Justice F. R. Mignault, of Montreal, as deputy administrator, invested with authority to sign documents of urgent character.

Eight Killed In Riots

Date Will Not Have Effect In Calcutta Death Rate

London, Eng.—Calcutta dispatches to The Daily Mail said eight persons were killed and 20 injured in a fight between jute mill strikers and mounted police at Naihati, 240 miles north of Calcutta.

A strike has been in progress for several weeks in the area, a spokesman, compromise on the matter. The House of Commons would never ratify the Young report in its present form."

Patrol Ship Returning

Ottawa.—The Canadian patrol ship "Bootbie," has reached the mouth of the Mackenzie river on the completion of her patrol of the Arctic waters, it was announced here today. The vessel left Esquimalt on August 3 and is now heading south, bringing out Inspector A. H. Joy, of the Canadian Mounted Police, who recently completed a northward patrol of 1,800 miles.

Drops Freedom Of Seas Issue

Toronto.—A special dispatch to the Mail and Empire from Washington says: President Hoover has dropped the freedom of the seas issue out of his disarmament program, not only on the theory that it does not jibe with the Kellogg anti-war treaty, but because he believes naval parity with Great Britain is the easy way to get freedom of freedom of the seas

The "I'm Alone" Case

Eminent Counsel For Canada and United States To Act As Arbitrators

Ottawa.—Canada has elected Eugene Lafleur, D.C.L., LL.D., K.C., eminent counsel of Montreal, as Canadian arbitrator in "I'm Alone" case. The government of the United States has appointed William Van Devanter, associate judge of the Supreme Court of the United States, as its member.

Announcement of the selections was made simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington.

At the same time, the Department of External Affairs at Ottawa, announced that John F. Hend, K.C., of the Nova Scotia bar and legal adviser of the department, had been appointed Canadian agent in the case.

Counsel for the Dominion of Canada in the case are Dr. W. Teed, K.C., of Toronto, and Aime Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal.

At the Department of External Affairs it was announced recently that there would probably be a lapse of some time before the arbitrators in this Canadian case actually open sittings, Counsel for both parties will have to get to work on the case, and there must be an exchange of pleadings, which may occupy considerable time.

It not until the preliminaries have been disposed of will there be a definite decision as to the place or place where sittings will be held. It has been taken for granted that some of the sittings at least will be held in Washington, but there is a possibility that there will be others.

PER CAPITA SALE OF LIQUOR IS IN EXCESS OF $10

Ottawa, Ont. — Liquor sales in 1928 through provincial government stores totalled $107,694,264 rather more than $10 per capita over all Canada.

Figures on the liquor traffic in Canada, covering sales in eight of Canada's nine provinces, were released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Government control is in effect in all provinces excepting Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Total government revenue from the liquor traffic during 1928 amounted to $72,560,049.

Of the total, $49,800,291 rolled into Dominion coffers, while the remainder $22,750,261 accrued to the provinces. Actually, the latter figure does not include all profits of liquor control boards.

Less than one-third of Saskatchewan's total liquor board revenues appears under ordinary revenue. Profits from liquor sales are diverted to municipalities does not show in British Columbia's.

Ontario and Quebec record by far the highest revenue totals among the provinces, their combined total aggregating $45,000,000 or more than one-half of the Dominion's aggregate. Ontario's revenue amounted to $8,120 290, and Quebec's to $37,000,000 with a total of $2,760,000, and British Columbia with $2,752,229, are next, though the former total actually includes the revenue for 15 months.

No single province among the remaining more sparsely settled ones for 1928 amounting to more than $1,000,000 Manitoba, however, had a total of 900,000 gallons, which would have been much larger but that the breweries in that province are permitted to ship beer direct to permit-holders. Other provincial revenue totals are: Saskatchewan $1,000,000; Brunswick, $330,077; Nova Scotia, $244,291.

Seven provinces are represented in the figures of liquor consumption by provincial liquor control boards: Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia being omitted. Ontario's total is double that of the next highest, Quebec, amounting to $48,985,- 582 of the Dominion aggregate of $107,694,264. Quebec is next with $24 229 633 British Columbia and Saskatchewan are the only other provinces whose sales ran ground more than $10,000,000, the former reporting $13,594,916 and the latter $11,- 936,336.

Canadian Authoress Dead

Native Of Winnipeg Well Known To Public Few Years Ago

Chicago, Ill.—Mary MacLane, a successful author 15 years ago, died August 6, in a lonely room on the fringes of Chicago's black and tan belt. She was born in Winnipeg, Mar. in 1881.

Author of "I, Mary MacLane," "Men Who Have Made Love To Me," and other romantic writings, Miss Mary MacLane had virtually disappeared. It was some time after her death before it was realized that she was the Mary MacLane whose own romantic adventures as set forth in her books had stirred the imaginations of the reading public of a few years ago. No one was at her bedside as she died. Her body was found by the proprietor of the small hotel where she had lived for the last four years. Her death, a doctor's certificate said, was due to natural causes.

Miss MacLane's retirement about six years ago was believed to have been caused by disappointment. It came after the sale of her new b.o.k had fallen off and financial reverses set in Ill-health added to her troubles

To Halt Liquor Smuggling

Federal Government To Co-Operate With U.S. In This Connection

Ottawa. The Dominion Government is studying ways by which it can more effectively co-operate with the United States in the suppression of liquor smuggling across the border. The question was again brought before the cabinet at a recent session

At the conclusion of the meeting Premier W. L. Mackenzie King said:

"Since United States have become active themselves in preventing liquor smuggling, it seems apparent that further measures of co-operation should be considered by the Canadian Government." The Prime minister indicated there might be an announcement in a few days of new negotiations in the way of co-operation in suppressing the traffic

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN DRAFT TREATY WELL RECEIVED

London, Eng.—British military occupation of Egypt, except for the Suez Canal zone, is abandoned and other important and far-reaching reforms agreed to in the new Anglo-Egyptian draft treaty, details of which were issued from Downing Street by the foreign office

The proposals are a great advance on anything hitherto offered as settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian problem, being considered even more favorable than was the draft treaty of 1927, which was rejected by the Egyptian Parliament under the influence of the followers of the Nationalist leader Zaghoul Pasha. The new terms which Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, has negotiated with the Egyptian Premier, Mohammed Pasha Mahmoud, in general way follows the lines of the abortive treaty of two years ago, but makes important concessions to Egypt

The British occupation will cease and British troops will be withdrawn to the Suez Canal zone.

The British Government will use its influence to induce Great Britain to consent to the abolition of the capitulations or extra-territorial rights and will assist Egypt to enter as a member of the League of Nations

Further assist Britain recognizes the protection of foreigners in Egypt is a matter affecting equally the Egyptian and foreign governments and the question of the future of the reserved" points of the British Government two years ago, but it is now admitted that this will be established the concern of the Egyptian Government. The new treaty of 1927 will give Egypt a greater measure of real independence rather than ever before to propose.

The immediate concession on the part Britain's part is the withdrawal of British garrisons to the canal zone. This was refused in the negotiations with Earnat Pasha by insisting on the right to maintain there secretary of state for foreign affairs held out this as a possibility ten years hence

Mr Henderson in a note to Prime Minister Mahoud, stipulates that these new proposals must first be approved by the newly elected Egyptian Parliament before they can be submitted to the British Parliament for approval and embodied in the treaty

WOMEN IN SENATE QUESTION TO BE DECIDED SOON

Ottawa. Brief comment on the reference to the Privy Council as to the eligibility of women to sit in the senate of Canada, was made by Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor-general, who returned to Ottawa after an absence of two months While abroad Mr. Cannon represented the Dominion in a number of cases before the Privy Council. Mr. Cannon explained that he did not appear before the Privy Council in connection with the reference to determine the right of women to sit in the senate The case had been argued by Hon. Eugene LaFleur and Hon N. W. Rowell, K.C.

"As the case is now pending, I cannot make any comment thereon," said Mr Cannon. "I may say, however, that the question before the court is not whether women should be appointed to the senate, but whether, under the present wording of section 24 of the B N A act, women may be appointed to that body. The principle of the admissability of women to the senate is not discussed, but the government seeks from the highest tribunal in the empire the method whereby they could be appointed. The question will be fully argued by the two learned counsel and judgment in the matter has been reserved."

Tammany Hall Fighting Election Of Congressman La Guardia

New York.—There are 392,222 foreign born Italians in New York City, and 410,721 whose parents were foreign born. They are the reason why Tammany Hall is snapping into action, dropping its forces and getting set for a devastating fight against Fiorella H La Guardia, who was grudgingly handed the nomination for Mayor of New York at the Republican city convention.

Congressman La Guardia is a formidable campaigner, His verbal attacks on rum runners have the bull whip. For months he has been indefatigably at work, fanning up his political fires from bootblacks to bank officials

New Manitoba Industry

Plant To Manufacture Explosives May Be Built Soon

Winnipeg. The Manitoba Free Press publishes the following:

Rapid development of mines in northern Manitoba has led Canadian Industries, Limited, to consider its plans for the manufacture of explosives in that district, and to purchase approximately 1,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Lake Selkirk 18 miles north of Winnipeg, upon which to erect an explosives plant. The enterprise involves the investment of approximately $750,000.

Date of construction of the plant and the number of mining employments, but it is expected that work will begin early next spring and the plant will be producing before the end of 1930."

Lieutenant Governor and Party

Referring generally to the work of schools, he said: "They are there to help the young men and young women to meet the challenge of our day as to whether they can be more seven eighths than three fourths, and who can say they would attribute their position to the upbuilding of everything that appertained to the welfare of the province. I think they will."

Dr. Egbert Congratulates People

His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor spoke briefly congratulating the people of Vermilion on the splendid progress manifested by them. He did not think there was a province in Canada that had made as progress as Alberta had in the 24 years of its existence.

An hon. progress is made we need your cooperation in order to progress more rapidly, all round, so far Egbert is concerned, he would go on the same stand still. The city men and young women to take hold in any splendid movements as may have in Vermilion for the great good of life there, co-operation is keen and success as applied to be made. There is a great need for advanced education. You young men and women should of citizenship first. It was not have that in the province to have as in the smaller communities. You must develop your spirit and mind towards one ideal, so that the progress of the province as a whole may be marked than that of the past and we can build up a strong people with high ideals and high purposes of life."

Referring to government, he said the master is good or bad government rested with the people. The Province would will come about as "we make it way."

"We must if there is expanding and to those who come after us, to even bring about to best to go forward the upbuilding of the country, the and the life of the state. You must resist the various organizations that are trying to control the country and the life of the state. You must resist the various organizations that are trying to control the country themselves. The places where these organizations are active are the places that are forging ahead in our province today," concluded the lieutenant governor.

VERMILION ARTISTS BROADCAST

After the speeches what was probably a feature of the evening followed that is being the broadcast of the musical program given by Vermilion artists under the management direction of Wm. B. Eldred. Mr. Sons in a room the size of Vermilion is sufficient talent found to broadcast a program, and that it was "par. excel" is shown by Dr. Egbert's letter in this issue, which states that he has received numerous complimentary remarks on the quality of the program given. This speaks volumes for Vermilion's musical artists, and any Bostonese or any who were in the audience will be of the same opinion. Selections taking part were Mrs. L. N. McLean, Mrs. Heather Muir, Miss Amy, Miss Myrtle Mitchell, Mr A. M. Weir and Mr. J. W. Mackie. General choruses were also given from the musical comedies "Pickles" and "The Belle of Barcelona," and the Vermilion Flapper Band rendered several fine selections. The broadcast was made possible through CKLA, the University of Alberta broadcasting station.

Further in the evening, Lieutenant Governor Egbert and party were guests of the Vermilion board of trade at a banquet in the Empress Hotel. Fifteen were set for 75 and all lodges were filled. H. W. Harper presided. His Honor occupying a seat at the right and Hon. M. Hoadley at the left.

The president expressed the sympathy of all present at the illness of Mrs. Hon. R. G. Reid and trusted Mrs. Reid would soon be on the way to recovery.

Short addresses were made by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, the Hon. Mr. Hoadley, and J. F. McMullen, President of the Edmonton chamber of commerce in referring to the district provided. Dr. Egbert said it would do credit to the best which could be found in Alberta. He heartily congratulated the people of Vermilion upon the splendid spirit of progress they showed.

It was a big day for Vermilion. The party expressed themselves repeatedly as all the evening that they had.

Sea Plays Crew

On finishing the assembly hall of the school of agriculture Friday evening, where a large crowd had gathered in on hand to the Lieutenant-Governor and party, under the spectacle of a large crew burning in the night sky. The crew was away greeted them. It was the first time many of them had seen anything like it. The crews had this old away for two or three hours. It made a sort of sun-inspiring spectacle

C.N.R. Community Club Elects Its Officers For 1930

The C N R Community Club held a meeting Monday night and elected the following officers for 1930:

President — C. D. Brown
Vice President — A Liddiatt
Secretary — W S Grierson
Treasurer — H P Reid

The executive of five members was also elected.

The club decided to affiliate with the C N R. Recreation league and to undertake an extensive program of athletics as well as social activities.

The citizens of Vermilion will be entitled to become associate members of the club which will in the near future erect a rink for rink sports, as basketball tennis lawn bowling etc.

It was decided to hold a 1% annual banquet and dance in the club rooms and will be announced later.

Ladies Curling Club Organized

The meeting to organize a Ladies curling club which was announced in last week's issue was held on Tuesday 26th in the town hall. There were about fifteen ladies present, and the following officers were elected:

President — Mrs. J. J. Knoll.
Vice President — Mrs. F. C. Lone
Secretary — Mrs. E. J. Barthorpe

The ladies were interested and said they would start ice right, and hold a full season of curling will be enjoyed.

Fire Boys Elect Officers

The Vermilion Fire Brigade held their election of officers in the Fire hall on Tuesday night last, which resulted in all the old officers being re-elected for another year.

After the regular business was transacted, the meeting was turned over to Mr. H Scott, convener of the social committee. Light refreshments were served, after which speeches were made by the officers of the brigade, members of the council, and several of the ladies. The committee responsible for the evening was an ideal one. Mr. H. F Spencer, M P for this riding, in which he outlined the progress allowed in the opening of Parliament mentioning many of the good points contained therein and pointing out how they have been handed down from the earliest days of our country's history. To many of these present these were quite new and interestingly interesting.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to F. Spencer and the singing of the National Anthem.

Lloydminster Enters Saskatchewan League

A low team Independent Hockey league comprising Saskatoon, Lloydminster, North Battleford and Biggar came into existence last week at a meeting held in the Board of Trade office, Saskatoon.

It will be interesting to local fans to learn that Jimmie Hebbirt, for the past two years a member of the local team, will line up with the Lloydminster Elks this coming season.

WEIGHT ARTIST MISSES GUESS ON WILLINGDON

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—Lord Willingdon weighed himself at the Royal Winter fair yesterday, paid a quarter for it and won a box of candy because Lorne Carter, weight guesser, missed his guess.

Lorne doesn't miss very often, but he told his vice regal patron when he handed over a box of candy "You are tended for that time." His guess was 173 pounds.

"Overeat included" inquired his excellency.

Fairly said Lorne.

"You're needing it," laughed the governor general and the vice-regal party failed to register beyond the 160th pound on the shining brass dial.

Lectures On Health Topics Drew Crowds

(BY FIONA KELLY)

Audiences that do not have to be coaxed or bigger or better-behaved! Audiences whose attendance is not due to the fact that someone has been indefatigable in getting tickets! These are the encouraging audiences that greet F. T. Cook, lecturer to the department of Public Health of the Alberta government, when he visits Ukrainian settlements in these districts many schools operate through the summer. Mr. Cook visits these schools in the afternoon and announced that he will hold a meeting at night. That is all the publicity needed. Night rooms and with the Ukrainian people, grandfathers, grandmothers, some of whom have not yet mastered the English," fathers and mothers, young and old, children.

Sixteen meetings were held in the course of a recent trip through the Two Hills country, and more than 2,000 people, or an average of 100, attended. The fact that summer work was running did not deter the people from attending the meetings which were held at Two Hills, Myrnam, Kinsella school, Plain Lake, Desjardins hall, Slave hall, Krasnohora school Pelecha hall, Fedorah, Waugh, Red Water, Smoky Lake, Hadway Centre and Kaydumik. Two meetings were held at Two Hills. At Myrnam the lecturer was engaged until two o'clock in the morning answering questions.

Mr. Cook devotes his time to lectures on health topics through the country in as far as he can be covers the whole field of public health, stressing the importance of health education — and of health practice. Much of his work is done among the local children, more among adults. In rather more than two months last winter he addressed two school children, two or three hundred people in rural districts and small towns, as well as students in the Camrose normal school.

Sometimes Mr. Cook is accompanied by A. M. Zaltzman, inspector of rural statistics and health. On these occasions, Mr. Cook was in charge of the meeting, gives his address in English, Mr. Zaltzman then translates it into Ukrainian for the benefit of the old people who have not learned English and everyone listens patiently to both lectures. Moving pictures illustrating the subjects they deal with are then shown. Questions are asked and answered, and everyone goes home content with an evening well spent.

It is not necessary for the Canadian lecturer to have a translator with him always. It is remarkable, Mr. Cook says, how comparatively few Ukrainians there are who cannot follow his lectures in English, and of course, the experience helps him drive home his points.

Referring to his educational campaign, Mr. Cook pointed out that, whereas in the past the farm was the safest place to live, it is now the most dangerous. The country is worse than it was—rather better, in fact, but the cities have made such great strides in medical health work they have outdistanced the country. His aim is to teach the people of the small rural towns and rural communities to do for themselves what is being done during for the cities in the way of securing pure water and milk, proper sanitation, proper methods of sewage, and general health education.

In his travels through the Ukrainian settlements Mr. Cook finds few babies, but many children. The people are apparently content with the freedom accorded them, and are demonstrating on making homes, trying to be modern in every way. He has stayed in many Ukrainian homes and found they compare favorably with the average Anglo-Saxon homes. The women are good cooks and good housekeepers. In his travels he has seen scores of homes equal in appearance to those of the better Anglo-Saxon settler. Farm yards are well arranged, showing taste, industry, and an appreciation of sanitary practice.

VERMILION MAN HAS CAR STOLEN

Pilfered Auto Plunges Down Bank of River—Held by Tree

A wild surge of joy riding nearly ended in death for a quartet of young Edmontonians, when the car they had stolen started down the river bank at Saskatchewan ferry and 112 street at midnight Tuesday.

Only the fact that the car lodged against a tree 20 feet down the bank saved the lives of the disbelieved men and women who crowded out of the car and ran away, with one of the women hysterically screaming, shortly after the car had plunged over a bank more than 200 feet high.

Murdock McKinnon, Vermilion, reported the car stolen at shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday and police recovered it on the side of the bank, when someone who saw the car lodged on the brim but the car had phoned the police at midnight.

Police know it was the same car when they found a string license in the name of Edith McKinnon, Vermilion, on the steering post of the car.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Express Thanks and Appreciation

Vermilion, Alberta,
November 27th, 1929.

The Editor,
Vermilion Standard
Vermilion, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Vermilion Board of Trade and the Town of Vermilion we wish to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the broadcasting programme put on in honour of the visit of His Honour Lieutenant Governor Egbert by Mr. W. B. Eldred, the artists under his direction and the Vermilion Citizens' Band. We wish to sincerely thank Mr. Eldred and each one of the artists who so kindly contributed to this splendid programme, and the members of the Band for the splendid selections rendered by them. We understand that several people in Edmonton and outside points who listened in on the musical programme were very much pleased with it.

In this letter we also wish to voice our hearty thanks and appreciation to Lieut. Colonel Watson in charge of the arrangements in connection with the visit of the Lieut. Governor during the city. Lieut. Colonel Watson did a lot of hard work and his arrangements were carried out like clock work.

We would also extend our sincere thanks to the members of the various committees and others who assisted in making this occasion a success and also to those citizens who kindly placed their automobiles at the disposal of our guests and the artists who took part in the broadcasting programme. We are also greatly indebted to Major V. C. Casey for his work in connection with the guard of honour which is to be commended on the fine showing made by it.

Many complimentary remarks were made by our guests regarding the reception given them here and the excellence of the banquet tendered them. We thank Mr. Cuttord for his efforts in connection with the banquet which left nothing to be desired.

Our appreciation must also be extended to Mr. Elliott and the staff of the Agricultural College for the use of the Dormitory for the broadcasting programme and the dainty refreshments served afterwards to our guests and members of the Executive of the Board of Trade and their wives.

Yours truly,
H. W. Harper, President,
Vermilion Board of Trade
W. A. Fallow, Mayor,
Town of Vermilion.

High School Notes

Three cheers for the Lieut. Governor. He gave us a holiday on Friday afternoon. The Cadets and the high school girls were reviewed by His Honor at the rink.

A Glee Club has made a beginning under the leadership of Mr. Markle. Temporary arrangements have been made for Tuesday and Thursday practices. We have had only practice and as a result "Mama's in the Cold, Cold Ground" is heard all over town.

We are having Lib. programme on Friday, Nov. 29th. Lantern slides form the chief attraction.

The executive have announced that a concert will be held sometime in December to assist in paying for the piano. Watch for further announcement.

Work has begun on the play for the year, "A Kiss for Cinderella," by J. M. Barrie. It will be produced early in the new year.

The Cadets have moved into the school for P.T. Snow and rifle don't harmonize.

Really, we wonder who this mysterious marceller is who operates on high school students! First Russell Hayden with a real fine permanent and then George R. is she cheaper than anyone else?

Art Wiebe is turning musical. We heard him performing with great success on a harmonica.

Art and Russel say the Editor missed it) that the funniest thing seen this week was Marwood Brimacombe trying to crown Queen with his head backwards. At least Art says that it was on backwards. Maybe Marwood didn't know whether he was coming or going.

"Say it with apples." Canadian Pacific Express Company issues for the benefit of girls by Santa Claus to friends in Great Britain and Europe to send several pound Christmas and New Year greetings to apple-growing areas of Canada this year. With the present heavy apple crop of Canada the fruit can be bought at a reasonable price and the quality is of the highest. Special arrangements before the close of navigation on the St. Lawrence cost will be considerably reduced.

Over 200 officers and men of the 6th Canadian Mounted Rifles (first cavalry regiment, formed in Toronto at the outbreak of the Great War), are holding its first reunion since the war at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, November 29 next. The unit is proud of the fact that it still has in its ranks T. Holmes of Toronto, youngest Victoria Cross holder in Canada who captured an enemy machine gun post singlehanded at Passchendaele.

An apple tree, over a hundred years old, which stands by the cemetery and having this year produced 42 barrels of Cabbie Piggin apples, is attracting much attention in the orchard of Downey Morton, Maryville, King's County, New Brunswick. Mr. Morton picked apples from the same tree 75 years ago and it was then a fully grown tree. Today he believes it to be well over the century mark.

The arrangement existing between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian Northern Scotia with regard to English immigration which has proved unsatisfactory, will be continued for the coming year with the same arrangements. At least Art says that it was on backwards. Maybe Marwood didn't know whether he was coming or going.

Superior greeting conditions in British Columbia are given as the reason for a shipment of 9000 pigs to Kamloops cows and ewes from Montana recently made to the Vancouver Live Stock Exchange for distribution to sheep raisers in the Kamloops and Cariboo districts of British Columbia.

The farm of Gustav Kiesel of Wetaskiwin that won the trophy donated by the Canadian Pacific Board of Trade for the best field of wheat in the northern half of the province of Alberta as well as the cup donated by the Alberta Government for the best farm in Alberta, has yielded 42 bushels to the acre on a 103-acre field and graded No 1 hard. Kiesel is another farmer to the ranks of those without capital and has made a striking success.

The British Empire Settlement Association has just been created by the Canadian Pacific Immigration, Colonization and Development Department, which is to be a financial organization grouping and industrials to promote interested British settlement in Canada. It has also considerably large blocks of farm lands in Canada for sale and settlement. Its aims and activities relate chiefly to the Province and others outside. It will work with the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian Pacific Steamships and will be responsible to the Dominion for passenger movement.

MOISTURE WILL FREEZE IN.

The new snow and rains which have fallen during the week in this district are probably without a precedent at so late a period in the year. The snow which formed a fairly heavy blanket over the earth and was dissipated by the last heavy rains, has soaked well into the ground. As a consequence, an entirely different outlook has been revealed in relation to last spring seeding conditions. On Tuesday the entire country presented the appearance of a typical wet spring day. Following a particularly dry summer and a fall devoid of rains, the depth of the recent moisture has been largely absorbed by the ground where it will be conserved until spring.

A TIMELY PROPOSAL.

The statement made here Friday evening by the Hon. George Hoadley minister of agriculture, of the intention to acquire additional acreage north of the school of agriculture and dominatory site for a park and community purposes, will meet with the hearty support of everyone interested in the beautification of our province. That these magnificent buildings should possess well laid out and commodious grounds in themselves is quite apparent if their beauty is to be seen and enjoyed to the fullest advantage. At present the surroundings are very constricted, though of most pleasing appearance, and this has been a challenge to extensive landscape planning.

The Standard can see no objection in the way in the matter of handling, about successful negotiations with the Vermilion Agricultural society in the substitution of a like amount of land nearer town to that which would be diverted from the present acreage. The deed of course under which the 24 odd acres were acquired from the C.N.R. provided against the sale of any property that was not used at the time. This agreement would hardly interfere with a policy of giving and taking where such a change of layout is involved. The swinging north of the main highway from the west end of Main Street beyond the proposed block of property intact to be fully utilized to the very best advantage for an attractive residence and park plan.

BUCKINGHAM HOCKEY PICTORIAL MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

The editor has just received a copy of the Buckingham Hockey Pictorial which has just been issued and is published by George King, 84 Victoria St., Toronto, well remembered as compiling the elaborate History of Hockey several seasons ago. The present pictorial which is in a miniature form of the previous one is, nevertheless a very interesting one, though as it is featuring a complete history and pictures of pictures of Stanley Cup champions, world's professional from its inception in 1894 to the present date, also the Allan Cup Champions (Canadian Amateur Senior) from 1909 to the present time and the Memorial Cup Champions (Canadian Amateur Junior) from 1919 to present date, there is also the latest professional hockey rules, a picture of the Boston Bruins present world's professional champions on the front page, besides a variety of other interesting features that are worth while to the average hockey fan. The Pictorial sells at 10 cents and any information with reference to same can be had by writing to the Buckingham Hockey Pictorial, 84 Victoria St., Toronto.

BROKEN TOYS WANTED!

Yes, lots of them!

Gather up all the broken toys, dolls, etc., around your home and also around your neighbors—providing they don't object — and take them, mail them, send them, but somehow get them to Commissioner Dan Taylor, who will see that they go into the Boy Scout Toy Repairing department and have been started in order to fit all broken toys and then give them to poor children who will otherwise have no Xmas this season. The time is short, so don't delay in shipping in your toys. Never mind whether it is only one article or a dozen, discarded toys, leave them with the S.M. or leave word with him and he will have the boys call any place in town and gather them up.

ALBERTA DOESN'T WANT MENNONITES SPRING, ANY TIME

Alberta Government Makes It Clear Russians Not Desired

SEND WIRE TO FORKE

Can't See Why Case Is Being So Strongly Urged by Ottawa

A wire, since from Ottawa that the settlement of Russian Mennonites in Alberta might be postponed next spring has been brought to light in the provincial capital. Premier Brownlee is of the same opinion still as to the undesirability of such immigration into this province and existing conditions.

Hon. Robert Forke was asked to the effect that information more than sought by the sponsors of the Russian movement as to Canada's willingness to receive these immigrants in the spring. As a result of the inquiry Ottawa would have been referred, and he has asked whether Alberta would take a percentage of that number.

Premier Brownlee's answer to Mr. Forke is that the Alberta government is unable to see why the question for consideration of the Mennonites' case should be so strongly urged, in view of the fact that Germany has already received them from Russia and has agreed to care for them.

Furthermore it is pointed out, there is no assurance that Alberta's unemployment difficulties will be solved in the spring, since that will depend largely upon the farm labor situation that may then obtain and the crop prospects.

The settlement of even a reduced number of the Mennonites cannot therefore be agreed to, so far as this province is concerned until it is clearly seen that the unemployment problem has been overcome, says Mr. Brownlee's wire back to Ottawa.

Guards Against Gas Explosion

New Invention Works Danger Signal and Fans Away Fumes

After the numerous gas explosions which have occurred recently in London, it was only to be expected that something would be invented to make this possibility of explosion a thing of the past. And now we hear of a little device which does away with any danger of gas escapes.

This wonderful little invention is not very impressive to look at, being just a little cylinder shaped instrument only about seven inches high, which can be fitted wherever there is a possibility of leaking. But it only needs the very minutest escape to set this gallant little sentinel in action, when it works a danger signal, gets in touch with the nearest telephone exchange, and informs them in power of the exact locality of the escape.

Not content with this warning, the trustworthy little cylinder sets in action a powerful fan to keep away the fumes!

Indians Have Protested Against Bay Railway

York Factory Braves Say It Will Affect Fur Trade

One of the most unique protests ever made to the building of the Hudson Bay Railway has come from the Indians at York Factory. During a recent two days' "talk" of the council, which is held annually after treaty payments, the paying agent was officially requested to stop "these people" building a railway to Churchill which they say will affect the fur trade in the York Factory region.

The request was made with all solemnity, and the paying agent was up against quite a problem, according to the version of his affair which has reached The Pas. However, the agent told his red-skin friends that there was little chance of the tracks to Churchill being torn up for their sake, at the same time assuring them that the government would not allow them to starve on account of a fur shortage.

The Indians accepted the agent's promise that he would do all he could for them, but they are far from being pacified about the Bay railway.

The York Factory tribe claims that the white people living at Churchill will stay white fcxes from coming further down the coast and thereby the chief standby of their fur catch would be cut off.

The protest of the Factory Indians has caused discussion in the north and has again refused the problem of further aid to the Indians in time of stress. The fur catch has been light all over Manitoba in the past few days, and several of the Indian tribes have been in distressing circumstances.

Voyage To the Antarctic

Famous Vessel Of Capt. Scott, "The Discovery," Starts South Again

Equipped with the latest gear, the good ship "Discovery," famous vessel of Captain Scott, left the Scott Polar Company docks at London, England, recently, on another voyage to the Antarctic Her first destination is Cape Town, where Sir Douglas Mawson, commander of the expedi tion will join the vessel.

Sponsored by the British, Australian and New Zealand Governments, the expedition will study questions of scientific investigation of the south polar regior begun in 1911. Sir Douglas is a noted explorer with much experience in Antarctic exploration he was with Sir Ernest Shackleton on the Nimrod expedition of 1911-14.

Frederic Torben Race

A prediction that man will be without toes in 500 centuries was made at Buffalo, by Dr. Albert Johnston, of Chicago, in a scientific session prior to the opening of the National Convention of Chiropodists and Podiatrists. Dr. Johnston thinks shoes are causing the loss of the arch in the foot, and for modern purposes, a solid stump with a single hinge will survive, he said.

The "Horse" Wasp

An unknown writer sent a play to Dumas saying the dramatist to collaborate with him. Dumas wrote back in a rage. "How dare you propose to poke together a horse and an ass?" By return post came the author's reply. "How dare you call me a horse?"

Dumas was so much impressed by this ready wit that he acted for the play again.

Ancient antics obtained their pig-nuts chiefly from the rocks and sands.

Explanations and Comments

The Proclamation Of Cyrus. Ezra. 1:1-4.—Cyrus is called king of Persia because he was of Persian descent and Persia was the most important of his conquests; originally king only of Elam, he conquered Media, Persia, Lydia and finally Babylonia. He was the first year of his reign in Babylonia that God stirred up his spirit to the gracious thought of allowing the exiled Jews to return to their own land. Cyrus' own ulterior motive was, no doubt, to secure the gratitude of the Jews and to build up in Judea a friendly buffer nation between himself and the Egyptian power.

By heralds and by written edicted doubtless Cyrus sent a proclamation throughout all his kingdom—as far as Media, Josephus tells us. It was his policy to claim the favor of the gods of every people, and he began his proclamation thus: "All the kingdoms of the earth hath Jehovah, the God of heaven, given me; and He hath charged me to build Him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah." (See Ezra 5.5-5). "For an outsider he came to a wonderfully sure understanding of the sort of position that would be taken by the Lord of the Jews."—P. J. McConnell. The duties of the Jews to return their religious rather than patriotic; the building of the Temple was their main object. Cyrus did not order them to go, he merely decreed that they might return and build the house of Jehovah. And he further decreed that the native Babylonians as well as the Jews who remained should help the exiles with gifts of silver and gold, and with goods, and with beasts, as well as with voluntary gifts for the temple.

The Response To the Proclamation. Ezra 1.5-11.—The majority of the Jews preferred to remain in the land of their exile, but the hereditary leaders of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, some also from Ephraim and Manasseh, 1 Ch. 9.3), prepared to depart, and their neighbors strengthened their hands with gifts, as Cyrus had directed.

Co-Operative Wool Growers

Heavy Consignments Expected This Year From All the Provinces

"This is going to be a heavy consignment year for wool from all provinces," said H. J. Tisdale, of the Canadian Co-Operative Wool Growers, upon his return from an extensive tour of the west. After a month in the principal sheep raising centres, Mr. Tisdale estimated that the total of western shipments to the Wool Growers this year will not be much over around 2,000,000 pounds divided as follows:—British Columbia, 400,000; Alberta, 1,500,000; Saskatchewan, 200,000, and Manitoba 200,000 pounds.

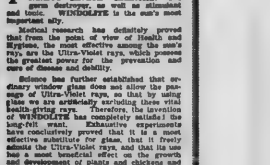
WINDOLITE
MADE IN ENGLAND
The Improved Glass Substitute
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and tonic. Its most important ally is fresh air. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the cream, fresh air, sunlight and the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using it you are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE is completely void of these life-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enables for the first time to have healthy light instead of dark rooms in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last few years created a revolution in gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and has been a big need to domestic and household requirements.



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light that strong windows fly to admit. It contains healthy bounce, broadcast and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for conservatories, schools, factories, hospitals, sanatoriums, hot houses, glazed overhead and greenhouses, etc., etc. —will not crack or chip,—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE measures 14 sq. ft. Weight about 1lb to 1.25 sq. yds. The transparency of WINDOLITE is superior to certain WINDOLITE and in fact to ordinary glass.

Price $1.20 Per Square Yard, f.o.b., Toronto.

Can be obtained at all leading Hardware, Paint, Oil and Glass Merchants.

Uses Canadian Hat

King George Offers Visits to Scenes Of Ex-Service Men

Those Canadian ex-service men who were stationed in the vicinity of Windsor Castle during the war and who were responsible for the erection of the Canadian Hut on the edge of the Castle Gardens, learn with satisfaction of the use to which it is pledged which is being derived from the structure at present.

The hut, since it is right to the spirit of boredom which afflicted a number of Canadian soldiers who were stationed there during the cold months of Winter, 1916-17, has been used as a reminder of their stay in the district. The idea was approved by the King and the hut was placed at their disposal in the forests.

Today the King is using the hut in his recreation hours. Princess Elizabeth has taken possession of it largely as her playroom. In the afternoons the Princess and her governess, the Lady Rose and Queen several times have "casually" called upon her for a cup of tea.

Recipe For a Delicious Uncooked Salad Dressing

To add tastiness to the salads and green vegetables which are both healthful and delicious at present, the following salad dressing recipe is much prized:

2 eggs beaten until light.
1 teaspoonful salt.
1 teaspoonful mustard.
½ cup sugar.
1 can Eagle Brand Milk.

beat vigorously all the ingredients but the vinegar, for five minutes. Add vinegar, stir well and set aside for a few hours to thicken. This dressing will keep for weeks.

Quebec Bird Snow In June

Bird life played an important part in snow in the month of June. The Clouds dam in the Lake St. Peter region handed the fur trade a two-inch fall during the 20 days of the month. Thetford Mines ranged to the Labrador coast employed workers recording traces of snow, it also registered the hottest day of the century in Canada, the mercury soaring to 96 degrees on June 30.

The Singing Fool

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, is loved by Grace Dwyer, the cigarette girl, but he doesn't know it. He marries Ruby Winters, a ballad singer, and when success comes to her—power of popular song. When Little Sonny Jim, baby, is about four years old Molly escapes with John Perry, Al's best friend. She and Perry take the child Al adores and sail for Europe. Al, completely broken by the loss, disappears from Broadway and becomes a derelict. One day Grace Farrel sees him on the street, but he runs away. She finds a home for him, wh ch ends his habit. But the image of Grace remains vividly in Al's mind.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Something of Al's old generous spirit toward Grace returned as he thought of her. He remembered the expression had been yesterday as she stared at him from across the street. Yet his feeling toward her was not strong enough to overcome the resistance of b a desire to separate himself from the old life.

In spite of all that, however, the memory of her face remained in his mind. Previously, the only memories that brought him up sharply about three o'clock one morning before a house that seemed strangely familiar. Surely he must have been there under his earliest triumphs. Only a few years had passed since those happy go-lucky nights, but the time seemed like a century.

He stopped before the heavy, bolted door. It was a fine old mansion, stronger than the one Al had known. The many raids of the prohibition agents had forced Blackie to take additional precautions; his place was better guarded now.

Al knocked against the panel set high in the door and presently it opened. A strange face gazed at him, and the eyes became more suspicious every moment, as their owner looked h m up and down, noting h s dishipated clothes.

"Is Blackie Joe home?"

"Who wants to know?" asked the guard curtly.

"I do. I know him."

There was a pause, then: "G'wan, best it! He's got no time for the likes of you!"

The panel closed with a slam. Al nodding listlessly, began to descend the stairs. He shrugged his shoulders —it didn't matter.

Inside, Blackie had been standing fairly near the door. "Who wants me?" he called, after the aperture was closed.

"Oh, just some bum," sa'd the doorkeeper scornfully.

Blackie nodded and turned to look over his dance floor. But as he did so there was a faint stir of curiosity in his mind. A bum—well, what did the bum want?

He walked over to the door and looked upon the panel. At the foot of the stairs, clearly silhouetted against the light, he saw a familiar figure.

At first Blackie's did not recognize the figure at the foot of the night club stairs so Al Stone, his old singing waiter. But the familiarity of the pose was striking enough to make Blackie throw open the door and call, "Hey—you!"

At that, Al turned, so that his face was illuminated by the light at the head of the stairs. Now Blackie's was sure—he came rushing down the stairs to wring Al's hand.

"Hello there, old pal!" Blackie almost shouted in his delight. "We've been wondering where you were. And to think—that you let you get away!"

Al stared into the face of his former boss, smiling faintly. It seemed to him that Blackie would never relinquish that vigorous grip on his hand. A thrill of pleasure shot through Al—it was good to have someone at last who really glad to see him, who beamed on him in the most friendly fashion imaginable. That hadn't happened to Al for months. He glanced away to hide his embarrassment at his slightly moist eyes.

Blackie misunderstood. He said nothing. Blackie's new he was dealing with a man who was not only bewildered, but had definitely lost his grit for carrying on in the battle of life. The arm inside Al's coat sleeve began to shake.

As they stepped inside the doorkeeper stared in amazement to see Blackie—Blackie employer—walking arm-in-arm with this bum. What on earth did it mean?

It was well toward daylight and only a few customers remained in the main d sing-and-dancing room.

"Come back to my office," suggested Blackie. "We'll have a good talk."

But Al stopped, scanning the familiar room as if he expected to find the ghosts of his former triumphs there. His eyes took on the look of concentration that is habitual with one who try to escape the world and consume only with themselves. He forgot that Blackie was standing beside him, looking solicitously into his face. . . . Yes, there was the table where Molly and Marcus and the others sat on the night he sang "Always" to Molly. There was the old door leading to the bar. The floor above had ended, but the orchestra was playing and a few couples were dancing.

"Come," repeated Blackie, and Al followed him toward the private office.

They sat down, facing each other. "Have a cigar, have a drink?" suggested the night club owner, but Al shook his head. Then Blackie became silent.

"Now, boy, I wish you'd tell me all about it. What happened to you — where have you been holding out all these months?"

"Oh, here and there—just wandering about," Al replied noncommittally.

"I see, I know that. But do you know that Marcus has been after you? And a couple of song publishers have been paging you all over town."

"Yes, I know it, came the strangely passive answer. "I'm not interested in all that. I told Marcus I was through and I meant it. I really don't know why I came here tonight—just happened to look up and saw your entrance. Couldn't stay away from the old place forever, I s'pose."

A hopeless feeling stole over Blackie. This was just the shell of the old Al; Black's felt how strong that apparently listless resistance of Al's would be to any come-back. Nevertheless, he leaned forward and said earnestly.

"Al, you don't have to tell me how you feel—I know. It may seem strange to you, but I was knocked out once myself, in the same way, by a woman. For a while I thought there was no use living; then the day came when someone gave me a good stiff talking to. I decided to fight my way up again, and I did. I decided I wouldn't let one blow put me down for the count!"

"Blackie, the reformer," murmured Al. An expression somewhere between a smile and a sneer curved the corners of his mouth.

Blackie leaned back in his chair, head, but determined not to show it. In the old days Al could never have made a sardonic and bitter rejoinder like that.

"Do you still love Molly?" Blackie asked incredulously.

"No!" The sharp denial was the first show of spirit Al had given. Blackie nodded in approval. Then Al seemed to th nk that some further explanation was needed, for he said to me and first I had to clean her out of my mind. I did that—then I tried to find her. But I couldn't get interested. It was no use."

Just then a waiter stuck his head in at the door and said that a customer wanted to speak to him. Blackie rose.

"I'll be back in a minute, Al. Make yourself at home—I'll be right back."

Workers Helped By Science

Ore Detector Located New Body and Furnished Work For Discharged Miners

The practical ways in which science helps working people is demonstrated again in England in a land mine in Derbyshire had "petered out." Two young schoolmasters invented an ore detector, just about the time a hundred miners had been discharged. With the detector they located a new lead-body, 1,000 feet under the surface. They figured it was worth about $250 000. The mine owners, having faith in science, put the miners back to work again, located the ore body through a tunnel and now the mine is working full blast Public ions continually promise miracles to help working folk. Science performs the miracles.—Vancouver Sun

Thousands Of Wonderful Specimens Found In Northern Alaska

Another chapter in present-day knowledge of a "golden age" of Eskimo culture, more than a thousand years old but newly discovered, has been added by Henry B. Collins, Jr., Smithsonian scientist, on his return from a five-month exploration of Northern Alaska. Mr. Collins, an artificial "mess" of refuse, but it up 20 feet in the centuries of existence of a thriving village on the south east coast of St. Lawrence Island, he found rich material of the most ancient and highly developed Eskimo culture known.

Thousands of specimens of ivory trade bone implements, ornaments, pottery, and wooden artifacts were also found. Centur es ago a village had been erected on the flat tundra of the beach, he said, and as kitchen refuse accumulated, old dwellings were abandoned and new ones raised on the artificial foundation. How long the process kept up no one knows. Finally the village was on solidly for its total depth, grew higher until, in 1878 and 1879, famine and epidemic wiped out the native population.

Through the 20-foot layer the scientists dug their way, coming at last to the covered in 1826 by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, noted Smithsonian anthropologist, and Diamond Jenness, of the National Museum.

Implements and ornaments are distinguished by graceful, sweeping lines of decorat on, so that they make modern Eskimo work mechanical in comparison. Some objects are so old that their use is unknown, but the present-day native. "It is a peculiar and fresh culture," Collins said, "strange because the father back we drive, the richer it gets Modern Eskimo art, in contrast, is in a degenerated state

"The ancient people impressed strongly that the original home of all Eskimo culture lies in the west in Alaska or northeastern Siberia. The culture is distinctly older than the oldes found in Canada and Greenland, Collins said. Just where and after the Illuminate origin of the ancient art. There is no explanation for the relics in regard to perhaps the introduction of the use of iron, with which the later and more merchan ral ornamentati n has been fashioned."

Some Human Ostriches

People Have Earned Living By boasllowing All Kinds Of Articles

There are on record amazing feats of people who can swallow almost anyth ng with absolute impunity who glory in it, make a mania of it and some who even earn a livelihood by it.

A Stratford, England, telegraph operator died some years ago as in the Essex County Lunatic Asylum from asphyxia. He had small-wood stones, pebbles, screws, and sovereigns.

Even more voracious was the individual who died at the London Hospital at a later date, and was given'd in the title of "The Champion Ostrich"

He had in him forty pieces of curiously pieces of tinfoil, a tea pot en one iron ring, three pieces of leather a leather strap, 9 inches long, 12 inch es of string, with bits of cork attached, and an immense quantity of odd lengths of string, cotton and paper

Another human ostrich made h s stomach a ve table dust-bin by consuming over two pounds of broken lamp chimneys, nails, tacks, screws, and tumblers.

Could Well Believe It

An old lady, up from the country stood in a busy thoroughfare, looking at the ceaseless stream of traffic, then at the notice, "Pedestrians cross here."

"Humph!" she was heard to mutter; "and I shouldn't blame 'em if they were downright angry."

She "What would you do if I should cry?"

He "Hang out a sign, 'Wet Paint'"

Long Lived War Leaders

Four Who Bore Heavy Burdens Have Become Octogenarians

For months before his death Stresemann was a man broken in health, anxiously watched by relatives, friends and physic ans, kept to a rigid diet, sent to bed early—he was an invalid, indeed, ere he had reached his fiftieth birthday. Hindenburg, on the other hand, celebrated his eighty-second birthday, which fell on the day before Stresemann d ed, by going on a hunt ng trip, which was cut short by the Minister's death.

Ten years of peace killed Gustav Stresemann; three wars—one almost terrible in history, in which he was the supreme leader on one side—have proved insufficient to lay Paul von Hindenburg low. Can it be that we have heard far too much about the nerves of war, far too little about those of peace? It would seem so—at least in so far as the longevity of war leaders is concerned.

Today, fifteen years after the outbreak of the World War, and eleven years s nce its close, there are four men who can proudly boast that, despite having borne heavy burdens of leadership between 1914 and 1918, they have nevertheless become octogenarians. Hindenburg is one—of the others, two are military men, Joffre and Mackensen—and the fourth is a civilian who was at the head of his country's war-time government at a time of acute crisis—Georges Clemenceau.

Erect Snow Fences On Main Highways

Roads Will Be Protected From Snow Drifting

More snow fencing will be in service this winter among improved sections of Alberta main highways. Work is now under way on the erection of 21 miles of it, in addition to the 12 miles put up last year by way of experiment. The latter is being re-erected in substantially the same locations as before, with only minor changes.

The total 33 miles of storm fence will give a long stretch of the main roads throughout the province protection against snow drifting of winter rome this year. A careful check was kept last winter on the effects of the initial fencing erected by the department of public works, and the results were found to be on satisfactory that additional and increased mileage was decided upon for this season's program.

The main type of fence as before is being erected. It is picket fencing wired together and standing four feet high on seven posts. The cost, with posts, is about $570 per mile.

Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, says that those fences along the main roads have gone a long way to solve the problem of keeping the roads clear during the winter months, and already there has been one case, in even this deferred summer season, where a piece of road near Calgary was saved from a heavy snowdrift by the existence of a snow-breaking fence.

The rest of the work is provided for out of the government's appropriations for highways maintenance.

Tiger Of France Passes After Gallant Battle

Twice Premier of France, Newspaper Man, Doctor, Clemenceau Dies at Age of 86 Years.

PARIS, Nov. 25—At 1:45 yesterday morning the Tiger died. Georges Clemenceau, statesman, journalist, doctor, duellist, twice premier of France, gave up his unequal fight only after his physical powers had been completely exhausted. It was the last fight of one who had spent the greater part of fifty years in fighting, the "terrible old man" whose influence has been dominant during half a century of French history He was 88 years of age.

The story of Georges Clemenceau is in large part the story of France from the public triat-country of the second Empire, which ended in 1870, to the rebuilding of Europe after the World War. It is also the story of a vivid and unforgettable personality

V.S.A. News

The first few days of last week were comparatively quiet and uneventful. The hoops basketball league was started and a few games played. Everyone is waiting for the hockey season to open, but the mild weather lately has not permitted any work to be done on the rink.

We were very fortunate Friday afternoon in having Mr Brown from the University with us. He came down to manage the broadcast and brought with him the equipment to give us an illustration of the 'talkies' We believe this is the first instance of the 'talkies' being shown in Vermilion and the V.S.A. is quite proud of the fact

The program in the evening was the principal item in the lieutenant-governor's visit. The gymnasium was filled nearly to capacity. Everyone that attended must have realized that Friday was indeed a day to be remembered for Vermilion.

Rev. W. Michelson Of Kinsaird Died Sunday

News of the death of Rev. William Michelson, of the Kinsaird Mission south of Kitscoty, Alberta, which occurred in the Lloydminster hospital early last Sunday morning, was received in the city today by Rev. Dr. D. G. Solving Canada's Economic Problems

A country possessed of the vast extent and great variety of natural resources which stretch east and west across Canada from sea to sea, and north and south from the international boundary line to the Pole, has a responsibility not only to its own people but to the world at large. The heritage with which nature has endowed the Canadian people is one of the richest, if indeed not the richest, on this globe. It consists of some of the greatest fisheries in the world, the greatest forests, the greatest water-powers, tens of millions of acres of the most fertile agricultural lands, while hidden below the surface and in the rocks lies what is now being recognized as probably the world's greatest store of mineral wealth —coal, iron, nickel, gold, silver copper, zinc, tin, asbestos, and scores of other minerals required for the use of mankind.

Save, and except some of the more precious stones, and those things which are alone the product of tropical countries Canada enjoys possession of practically everything needed to build up and maintain the great industries of this and future ages. Possession of such a storehouse of wealth imposes a great responsibility on this Dominion, but it also presents a great opportunity.

How are the Canadian people developing these enormous reservoirs of potential wealth? What are they doing with them? While the country was still young sparsely settled and the people comparatively poor, the trees of the forests were cut down and shipped abroad as logs, rough sawn lumber and pulp-wood. But now Canada is the leader in paper manufacturing country in the world and the producer of much fine furniture.

For years Canada's great tonnages of nickel copper and zinc ores was shipped in other lands to be refined and manufactured for use in industry; but now huge refineries are being established in which these ores will be processed at home. While, owing to its enormous grain production, Canada is and will long continue to be a big exporter of wheat this country has been forged rapidly ahead in the industry of milling, sending the finest flour in ever increasing quantities into the markets of the world.

A similar story can be told of the development and use being made of other of our natural resources. There is this, however to consider. Some of Canada's mineral wealth is of low grade, and much of its value results from the fact of its enormous quantity, as, for example the lignite coal of the west. So, too, the large iron deposits of Ontario are difficult and expensive to work for commercial use. But are we, for these reasons, to neglect them and abandon the wealth they might bring to Canada, and lose the benefits which prudently developed they would confer upon the Dominion?

These very difficulties are a challenge to the people of Canada. They are a test as to our fitness to be entrusted with the heritage which is ours.

Up to the present time Canada has devoted too little attention to, and been too niggardly in its public expenditures upon scientific research. Rather, as a people, we have been inclined to take the easier way and seek to protect our interests by artificial means, or been content to accept minor profits from the sale of raw products, rather than through scientific research and experimental expenditures find solutions to our problems and greater wealth for our country Perhaps this was natural, even inevitable, in a young country. But that day is passed if Canada is to be true to itself

The Dominion Government, the Ontario Government, several huge corporations universities, and private individuals of wealth, are, in the aggregate, providing millions of dollars for the most modern buildings and laboratories and the finest equipment are being provided Already important results have been achieved. It is confidently believed that a type of rust resistant wheat has been developed while the National Research Council has demonstrated where and how tariffs and trade conditions in Canada and elsewhere will cause to develop pulp trade An Ottawa despatch tells how it has revolutionized Canadian practice in the markets of the world.

Magnesite is used in furnaces or other places where great heat is required It came originally from Austria, but the war gave Canada a chance and deposits in Quebec were developed After the war Austria regained her power in California, and the United States tariff shut Canada out of that market Canada lost the business. The owners of the Quebec mines appealed to Ottawa and the Government, declining to impose tariff protection, turned the problem over to the National Research Council. The scientists of the Council developed new production methods and today Canadian magnesite has not only got its markets back but is beating the California product in the United States, where it commands a higher price because of its better quality

A similar story can be told about a Saskatchewan clay-work ng plant. It was steadily losing money Then the Saskatchewan Government stepped in, and Professor Worcester, of the University of Saskatchewan, was assigned to the problem. He discovered a proper mixture of clays, with the result that the plant in question is now making money, has enlarged its build ngs and added to its equipment, and is today supplying a large proportion of certain types of fire brick and k-ensitive arch i te used in Western Canada, but which formerly had to be imported from the United States.

Scientific research has great things in store for a country like Canada It costs time and money to prosecute it intensively, but it will repay a hundredfold The Canadian people should not regard it as a hobby, or a fad, but a sound business proposition, and be prepared to support their Governments and scientific bodies in largely extending the scope of such research.

Normal Period Of Married Life

Insurance Statisticians Have Worked Out Scale

Insurance statisticians, after months of research, have worked out to one normal point the per od which newly married couples may expect to live together—long out the possibility of divorce—but becoming a major factor.

It was announced recently that the man of 33 and a woman of 30 may expect to live together 27.3 years before death, in the normal course, separation them.

A woman's expectation of life at 30 is 33.3 years: that of a man at 33 is 30.5 years. The typical couple is 32.6

Western Canada Fisheries

Opening Of H.B. Road Will Extend Fishing Grounds In the North

With the opening of the Hudson Bay Railway next year, new areas will be opened up in Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan not only rich in minerals but in fish. There are numerous lakes and waterways adjacent to the new railway which will enable commercial fishing operations to be extended. Millions of pounds of fish are caught in the many inland lakes in Western Canada, much of which is shipped to Chicago and New York, as well as to markets in Canada. The principal fish in these lakes are whitefish, sturgeon, trout, pickerel and tullad.

RADIANT GIRLHOOD

Comes Through Rich, Red Health-Giving Blood

A girl with rich red blood is full of health and vital nerves has the foundation of an active, healthy life. Allow her to become weak and deficient and pronounced ill-health and general weakness may be the result. Many women quite ought to be in the very prime of life are languishing in misery because their aches back and side aches, easily tired and breathless, because of anaemia which stealth ily attacked them

But fortunately there is a remedy which can make new blood create rich red, worm-out women and debilitated girls plump and radiant and beautiful as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are gratefully by thousands of women who have restored them to robust fitness This effective tonic and nerve restorer helps make new blood and drives the bad blood that specifically puts on the pale cheeks and lips. Miss Ethel Laird, Bancroft, Ont., a tired weary woman soon becomes strong, full of life, new blood courses through the system. Color comes to pale cheeks and lips, her portitude increases; her nerves are steadied, and the full glow of health returns. Thus she becomes vital and active again, newly surrounded, and these pills have done and can do Miss C. J. Collings, Bridgetown, N.S., says: "For several years I was greatly distressed with pains in the back and sick headaches. I got all kinds of medicine but did not sleep well and had a poor appetite. I had been doctoring, but did not get much relief. My sister advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking six boxes I felt like a new person. I can now eat without the p ls again"

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Opera Costumes Auctioned

Many Valuable Ones Were Worn By Famous Artists.

Ten thousand costumes, with enormous quantities of scenery and fittings belonging to the British National Opera Company, were recently sold at auction in London, England

There were costumes Carmen who wore, Lady D'ana Cooper who wore the ling of "The Virgin Queen," dangled with pearls and rich with gold lace and jewels. This gown alone cost $1,000 to make, and was married with a reserve price of $200.

Long Standing Asthma. Many have been relieved of long standing asthma and have tried so many so-called remedies that they think there is no real help for them They should read the letters sent by the manufacturers of Dr. J D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy to such hundreds of cases as desperate as their own Even in long-neglected cases this simple preparation brings prompt help.

STEWED CELERY

Scrape some fine, delicate, white stalks of celery, wash repeatedly, cut that no sand adheres, and after cutting them into even three-inch pieces, cook for several hours in boiling water with a pinch of salt and a bit of butter. Then stew the piece of celery for 20 minutes on the fire with browned flour, two chicken fat, half teaspoon sugar, some pepper and beef broth. Dust some flour over the dish until done with half cupful of cream.

German Chaps Invention Of Pillow That Prevents Snoring

The Hamilton Spectator says that a German has invented a p low that prevents snoring.

This should be good news for long suffering wives who have been afflicted with snoring husbands. Men, of course, have never been troubled by wives who snore, because women do not snore, they say.

How to cure or relieve the eternal puzzle of what to give him for Christmas. If it is more blessed to give than to receive, how good will the gift of one of these pillows not make the wife feel.

And how the receiver of such a gift, bearing with it, as it does, the genius is at that it is a very appropriate gift, and must surely be a horse of another color. Because we have never yet met a man who admitted that he snored, and even one who was even gu lty of murmuring in his sleep.

Surely, if that inventor can produce a pillow that will stop children talking or walking in their sleep, or even will react upon it in such a manner as to cure habitual snorers, he should be a benefit to humanity.

Chilblains Frost-Bite

A remedy for those most troublesome of Winter skin afflictions, chilblains and "frost-bites," Zam-Buk is speedily effective. It takes out inflammation and reduces swelling in a wonderful way and soothes the fiery tingling irritation.

Where the chilblains are broken and have a sore blistered surface, Zam-Buk is doubly valuable because of its great healing power. Its rare-killing properties and its balm-like antiseptic purifies place Zam-Buk for above ordinary ointments.

Prospecting In the West

Large Number Of Claims Staked and Recorded During Past Year

Some idea of the amount of prospecting being done in kootenay and adjoining Saskatchewan may be obtained from the number of claims staked and recorded during the past year. In 1928 there were 7,336 mineral claims recorded in The Pas mining district, 1,400 in the Cold Lake district, and 2,118 in the Flin Flon district. There are at present over 30,000 mineral claims recorded in Manitoba and northern Saskatchewan.

ASPIRIN

PAINTS A VIVID WORD PICTURE OF NORTHLAND

Toronto.—A vivid word picture of Canada's new northwest development and a vision of great strides in transportation by air, land and sea that would centre about Churchill as its northernmost, marked the address of John W. Dafoe, managing editor and vice-president of the Manitoba Free Press, before the Empire Club here.

Speaking at the club luncheon at the Royal York Hotel, Mr. Dafoe told of new developments in Canadian transportation through the utilizat on of the northwest passage, with Churchill as the terminus of the new water route, a saving in freight rates and distance would be effected and the bonds of empire more closely drawn together.

With the growth of the great northern army stretch ng westward as far as Flin Flon a new line of railway communication rapidly rolled one another, he foresaw a new work of air ships leading to Europe and Asia with Churchill as the central junction point on the North American continent. As direct results of the new water route, he said, the enormous mighty shipments of grain moving through the northwest passage to the world would mean a saving of $10 a ton in transportation charges.

Mr. Dafoe said some "in the air," the King may yet consider tak ng a trip himself, but, one feels sure, there will always have to be a satisfactory settlement of two matters before this can take place. First, w thout a doubt he will be accompanied by the Queen, and second, he will fly only if his subjects are absolutely certain of the safety of the flight.

PROBLEM FOR LEAGUE CREATED BY MENNONITES

Ottawa, Ont.—Cables advisos received from Geneva, Bern and Warsaw indicate clearly that the exodus of refugee Mennonites from the Soviet republic rapidly is assuming greater proportions and that while there has been no suggestion that Canada should consider taking more than 6,000 of them, the number that will have to find new homes somewhere in the world may reach the staggering total of 100,000 persons. The 5,000 Mennon ites who gathered in the environs of Warsaw a few weeks ago and concerning whom the Canadian government was approached by the German foreign office, appear now to have been but the advance guard of a constantly swelling, stream of Mennonites. It is claimed that the entire Mennonite population of Russia, estimated at 150,000 persons is becoming steadily alarmed by the events of the past few years and is facing starvation unless rescued by the League of Nations or the governments of Europe.

Hon. F. Haines, the head of the refugee commission of the League of Nations, has communicated by cable with the Canadian government and it has stated that the League will intervene in aid of the homeless Mennonites and he is confident that food and shelter can be provided in Europe and at the expense of the League until such time as

This appears to remove any immediate danger of these people dying of starvation or exposure.

From what can be learned here, the Mennonites are not leaving Russia because of religious persecution but because they claim that they have been reduced from a wealthy and thriving community to poverty by the exactions of the Soviet government. Their accumulated savings in money have been confiscated and the c rops, each year, have been taken from them. They claim that there was no alternative except to stay in Russia and starve or to throw themselves upon the mercy of Europe, and hope for assistance to establish homes for themselves in the western world.

As far as the immigration department here is concerned, the answer of Premier Anderson to Bishop Toews is taken as be ng opposed to the movement from the Mennonites in Saskatchewan other than relat ves of those in the province. Negotiations are under way with Manitoba and Alberta. Unless these provinces are willing to accept the Mennonites, the government will decline to permit them to come

It is felt that the League of Nations will be in a position to state definitely the date of approval in the spring and that there is plenty of time to consider very carefully the question before it is resolved in bringing them to Canada.

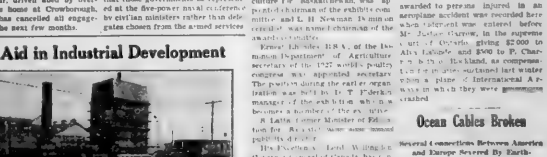
Sir Arthur, driven shed by overwork at h's home at Crowborough, in Sussex, has cancelled all engagements for the next few months.

To Aid in Industrial Development



The rap'd development in power projects and other engineering works at s'owly separated points throughout the country has created a demand for rolling stock capable of handling unusually heavy and bulky shipments such as transformers, rotors, etc

In order to take care of business of this kind, the Canadian Pacific Railway recently put into service two depressed center all steel flat cars which were designed by the Mechanical Department and built at the Angus shops.

These cars are 58 feet 9 inches long inside the coupler knuckles The center portion is depressed so that the height from the rail to the top of the deck is 2 feet 6 inches, and the portion which is available for loading is 22 feet 7 inches long.

The weight is 69,700 lbs., and they will carry a load of 220,300 lbs. Six wheel trucks with rolled steel wheels are used.

Coal Market For Wheat

Britain Will Purchase Grain Stored In Canada Says Expert

Toronto.—"In light of my experiences in England and from reports I have received concerning the wheat supply in other countries, I see no reason why the millions of bushels of Canadian wheat at present in storage should not be sold at satisfactory prices, based on last year's yield," said W. A. Wilson, Canadian agricultural representative in London, England, upon his arrival here from the Old Country.

With an intimate knowledge of the wheat situation, Mr. Wilson does not hesitate to say that in his opinion the time had come when Canada an export, at present filling the bins of elevators at different points throughout the West would move toward the great British market.

The Canadian agricultural representative declared that stat'stics he had been able to gather on wheat supply throughout the world all pointed toward big purchases of Canadian wheat before the 1930 crop.

Sixty Leading Figures In Canadian Medicine Meet At Ottawa

Ottawa.—The Royal Canadian College of Physicians and Surgeons came into being here on Monday when sixty leading figures in Canadian medicine met here. The royal college was provided for at the last session of parliament, and has for its purpose the foundation of a standard of specialization in the medical profession. Dr. Frederick Banting is the headquarters of the college.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. H. E. Mac Kinnon, Montreal; vice-presidents, Dr. F. N. G. Starr and Dr. Duncan Graham, both of Toronto; secretary, Dr. T. C. Routley, Toronto.

The original charter follows so closely the plan of specialization establishing the college comprises university professors in medicine in all the principal schools in Canada. About 60 of these were present and were sworn in

Heavy Air Mail

Thousands Of Letters Are Awaiting Delivery Of Northern Review

Edmonton.—One hundred thousand letters are at the central post office in readiness for the opening of air mail service on the Mackenzie. They were set mated by F. N. J. Loger, superintendent of the Edmonton post office division, a few days ago. The post has not been reached yet as more first flight letters are being received each day.

Three machines will in all likelihood be required for opening th's service, it is understood here, and one will be kept in reserve by the Imperial Airways for handling the large volume of letters sent here by first flight letter collectors.

Nothing definite has been settled as to the exact date of opening of the northern service, as this will start just as soon as there is sufficient ice on the rivers for the machines to land on skids.

Local Presbyterians Acquire Baptist Church Property

Formal Opening as Presbyterian Church December 15th

The Standard learns that the Baptist church property has been acquired by the local Presbyterian church congregation and that it will be used by them as their place of worship in the near future. The church has recently been renovated, the work being in charge of Harry Robinson. The formal opening as a Presbyterian church will probably be on Sunday, December 15th.

For the past two years the congregation has been worshipping in their church hall which they purchased about three years ago. This hall will still be used for their Sunday School, Young People's work and their social gatherings The hall will also be available for rent to outside organizations The congregation is being congratulated on the progressive spirit shown by them.

Boost The "Toy Shop"

It is hoped that the citizens generally will get behind the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides in their Toy Shop ventures. In the shop the Scouts and Guides will repair and re-decorate old and used toys for re-distribution a mong the poor for Christmas This is a new departure in Vermilion, but the scheme has met with great success in other places where the Scouts are active. If you have any old toys, books or dolls that are no longer needed, look them up and hand them in to the Town Hall where the Work Shop is located, or phone 127, Don Taylor, and the Scouts will call for them. Remember that we want all kind of toys no matter how much used or how badly broken, as the boys and girls can nearly always make them as good as new

The Mounting Toll of Accidents

"The problem now is to speed up the adjustment of humanity so that it will keep pace with the rapidly increasing development of machinery."

In these words a writer in a recent United States health publication concludes an article dealing at some length with the steady and alarming increase in the number of deaths resulting from accidents. Illustrative of this is the fact that whereas human fatality to adjust itself to the changing age, it is pointed out that whereas adults rarely are the victims of fatal scalding in the home, this type of accident is not at all uncommon among children who have not learned to adjust themselves to the ordinary habits of domestic civilization.

While most public attention centres around the automobile, because from it results more accidental deaths than from any other one thing, and because accidental deaths associated with the automobile have increased so rapidly during recent years, this emphasis tends to overshadow all other hazards and many local parents to feel that children are perfectly safe when out of the streets and in the home. As a matter of fact, the writer in question points out, the mortality toll from other accidents is more than double that from automobiles.

Indicating the enormous death toll from accidents, figures are quoted showing that in the single state of Illinois, last year, there were more deaths from accidental causes than the combined Union and Confederate armies lost in the bloody battle of Gettysburg, in the Civil War. Further, that in the last seven years accidents in that one State accounted for more deaths than the United States lost in soldiers "killed in action" in the Great War.

Coming nearer home, we learn from figures compiled by the Provincial Vital Statistics Commissioner for Saskatchewan, and published in the weekly press of that Province, that during the first nine months of this year more persons lost their lives through the improper and careless use of gasoline and coal oil than occurred from similar causes in any complete year for five or six years past.

All of which only serves to re-inforce the opinion expressed in the article from which we have quoted that "practically all accidents happen because the victim involved are out of time with their environment. Sometimes the consequences are fatal to the person who is out of time, and sometimes they are fatal to innocent people." In support of this view it is pointed out that these will come under control "just as soon as people generally learn to adapt themselves to the new machine age."

The much emphasis perhaps is laid on the need for more prohibitive legislation and more stringent regulations, and too little upon the education of the people, and especially children, in the exercise of care and pla's common sense. Governmental and municipal enactments and regulations there must be, but it has been amply demonstrated that speed limits alone will not stop reckless driving of motor cars, "stop" signs will not prevent level crossing accidents, the high cost of "Poison" does not deter a young child from drinking a harmful drug carelessly left within its reach, while matches and loaded firearms lying around still have an irresistible attraction for all young children.

The whole country is crying out for more good roads, hard-surfaced, all-weather highways. No doubt they are an economic necessity and should be provided to the extent that the country can afford to pay for their construction and continued maintenance. But, until the human family readjusts itself to this new age, every additional mile of good road likewise adds to the accident and death toll. Automobiles are not going to cease to be, and additional inventive to speed up" and take risks they would not dare to take on an unsupervised highway. Statistics prove conclusively that more accidents occur on the better roads than on the inferior and very poor ones.

Not restrictive laws and regulations not more hard-surfaced highways, nor more safety devices on and about machinery, good and desirable as they undoubtedly are, will ever check accidents and avoidable death. Real and the most effective protection rests with the individual human element. Adjustment to the age in which we live must be speeded up if this land and terrible scourge is to be overcome, or prevent my death toll from accidents is to be removed from our present-day civilization.

Late Courts Will Not Recognize Documents Signed By Them

Foreign accountants will not be permitted to practice in China, according to a recent announcement made by the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor, of the National government. Though they are allowed to carry on the profession within the limits of the foreign concession it will not help them much, because no evidence or accounts bearing their signatures will be recognized by the Chinese judiciary. If their cases are brought before the Chinese courts

Western Provinces May Erect Buildings At Exhibition Grounds, Toronto

The Provincial Governments, Board of Trade, mercantile clubs, and other organizations in Man.toba, Saskatchewan and Alberta already have agreed to the plans outlined by the representatives of the Canadian National Exhibition, and it is expected that within the course of a year or two, the western provinces, not to mention those of the East, will follow the lead of Ontario, and erect buildings of their own at Toronto. Alberta proposes not to wait for the erect on of a provincial building, but already has under consideration the erection at Exhibition Park of a duplicate, in size and in all other respects, of the famous E. P. Ranch House of the Prince of Wales.

Guide Aid Being Sterilized

Whom Completed Meetings Will Be Held To Resolve Organization

Steady progress was being made in rewriting the Canada grain act, R. D. Ramsay, chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners stated in Winnipeg. As soon as it is completed, a series of meetings will be held in Montreal, Toronto and at one or more points in each of the prairie provinces. Suggestions will be received with the expectation that a bill satisfactory to those most interested can be ready for the open in g of the Dominion Parl ament. The act is being rewritten by Col. O. M. Biggar, of Ottawa. So many changes were made in the act last session, that it was believed better to have the whole act re-drafted. No radical changes in principle are be ng inserted in the act. The Alumni of 50 per cent of the wheat crop was inside statutory grades and 80 per cent. graded number one or number two.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Cannot Be Rubbed Out — the Trouble Must Be Treated Through the Blood

Rheumatism is the name given to something that you cannot rub out. Every time a rheumatic sufferer has been advised to rub this or that liniment or oil on the affected part, but after all the rubbing the pain remained. This blood and rheumatism come together, and they must be properly treated will go together. Amazing proof of this blood and skin blood is smooth nr that can be corrected, so why not build up the blood until the rheumatic poisons are driven out?

This is exactly what it does in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Rheumatism is any form where improvement as to the blood is built up, for these pills poisons in the blood are overcome and the blood is made rich and pure. Many years of experience have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the treatment of rheumatism as they do not get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Talking In Politics

Philosophical Remarks Accredited To Mr. Lazy Cuss' Pet Parrot

Looking back over a long and active career "Tay Pay O'Connor in his 81st year, made this observation from the platform in the Lambeth Baths recent: When a man gets to be as old as I am he realises that there is a lot to be said for silence. I have often whole situations would have been changed if there had been enough to be said for silence. I have often whole situations would have been changed if there had been enough John to go around."

The philosopher who reaches that stage of life when he has nothing to say finds politics an unchanged art. It practitioners much the same in every country. The successful politician is one who can talk for hours on end without saying anything that can be used against him later.

Politics is the art of looking wise while others do the thinking.

Elk Point Hospital Symbol Of Courage And Faith Of Settlers

(BY EDNA KELLY)

Slightly withdrawn from the little town of Elk Point the municipal hospital, pride of the countryside, is a symbol of the courage and faith of the settlers. The little hospital represents their courage in undertaking the establishments of so necessary an institution, and their faith in the future of the district which is still in the pioneer stage. It is only one year since the railway reached Elk Point, present terminus of the Mt. Pleasant branch of the Canadian National Railway, but as early as 1904 settlers penetrated the country, travelling in by wagon from Vermilion, homesteaded, and gradually opened up the country.

Twenty-one years after the coming of the first settlers, the municipal hospital with its accommodation for sixteen patients, was opened, and a great burden of care rolled off the hearts of the people. In those years they had seen many tragedies enacted because there was no hospital, and for a greater portion of that time, no doctor nearer than St. Paul. Two years ago the situation was eased by the coming of a doctor, and a year or two later, further relief came thru the opening of a small private hospital. For this the doctors (there were now two) were responsible, but they ran it at a heavy loss. Still they carried on, until the demand for hospitalization was so great that other measures had to be taken to cope with it.

The private hospital opened immediately with one bed and one nurse. The next spring it developed into a four bed hospital and the nursing staff was increased. A year later it was taking care of ten patients and still the number grew until at one time 26 patients were housed in and around the unsuspecting building, the overflow being cared for in tents in the yard, and in the hay loft.

A solution of the problem was found in the Alberta Municipal Hospitals Act, which outlined a procedure whereby the people could provide a hospital for themselves. A hospital district was formed. 60 men and women supporting the idea and equal ownership—ing the 80 opponents. To day, a fine and complete sixteen bed hospital, a spacious building of the bungalow type, standing in four acres of grounds caters to the need of the sick of that district. The nursing staff consists of a superintendent and three graduate nurses and one under graduate. Two doctors have the entire confidence of the community.

The hospital was built by the aid of debentures and is supported by a tax of 2 mills per acre on assessable land, sorting fees, and the government grant. Ratepayers pay $1 to per day for hospital service, non ratepayers $2.50. The total possible revenue amounts to $21,000, and the total probable outlay from $12,000 to $16,000.

Twenty-five per cent of the revenue of the district are Ukrainians Scandinavians, Canadians, Americans, English Scottish, Polish, natives of Central Europe and indicate complete the population.

There is great thankfulness in the district since the hospital is available and some are more grateful than the pioneer women upon whom in the earlier days devolved the task of nursing the sick. Their's was no easy task driving long distances, often in winter, to bring relief to the suffering, nursing under conditions which were a constant menace to the patient's life heartrending the distressed family, and between whiles, hoeing after their own household duties. It is little wonder they rejoiced when the doctor came to the settlement, and again when the hospital was built.

As for the others "We would have moved out if it were not for the doctor's coming," says one; "I do not know how we could stay here if we did not have the hospital. The older people would not want to stay without it," says another "The hospital gives the people a feeling of security they did not have before," a years a third And so the story goes.

SUNSHINE NEEDS AID IN RELIEVING DISTRESS

An organization which is working twelve months in the year and particularly during the cold weather months to help those in distress in the Calgary Herald Sunshine Santa Claus Fund. Every year at this time an appeal is made to contribute to the fund and assistance to sought, not only in the city of Calgary, but thru out the province for the reason that the Sunshine Society helps to relieve suffering in various parts of Alberta, as well as in the city of Calgary Sunshine has been functioning for eighteen years and in that period has relieved the distress of thousands.

It is a good thing for Alberta that such an organization exists because there are many cases which cannot be assisted through official sources and yet if the cases are not helped the suffering would be intense.

For the second year this trophy goes to Prince Albert; last year their sister girls from this district received the honor.

Stirring Addresses Delivered By J. J. Maloney Sunday

J. J. Maloney, ex-priest and well-known orator, addressed two mass meetings in the Columbia Theatre at Vermilion on Sunday, at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Long before the opening hour the auditorium was packed to the doors, and when the churches emptied themselves there was scarcely standing room and a great many were turned away The subject of his address was "Why am I a Protestant?" Throughout his entire discourse on both occasions there was nothing offensive in his remarks as regards other denominations. He held that if the Protestants looked after their own interests to the same extent as the Roman Catholics did after theirs, things might be driven with them. He had no use for what himself Protestants At the same time he warned against the aggressiveness of Roman Catholicism as he considered he said, was to tell the people the truth; this he had been doing and he proposed to continue doing so He gave an interesting portrayal of the great political leaders of 1896 at the time which resulted in the election of Laurier as Premier of Canada and the downfall of Sir Charles Tupper. The Jesuits were behind this political manoeuver. He also told of the real truth turned by Sir Charles Doherty, minister of justice in the Borden government over the question of conscription when he preached for the reenaction of the clause. No one saw it. The definition of the word clergy in the Roman Catholic church was entirely different from that in the Protestant faith, with the result, he said, that the contingents of leaving for Quebec and other places were crowded with clergy while the Protestant colleges were depleted Mr Maloney gave Premier King a most bitter fifteen minutes It was with regard to the statement made by him in his Bi-cation address and which he thought no doubt referred to himself "The man," said the premier, "who sees nothing wrong in religious strife is a menace to the country" The speaker then quoted from several texts pointing out which Queen was placarded in the last federal election and which represented Mr. Meighen as an organizer, as stating England if she wanted more blood from Canada and if she did he was prepared to give it. And this was some two years after conscription! Premier King is the last man in the world who should talk about anyone being a menace or stirring up religious strife in view of what was countenanced by him in Quebec in the last federal election. Hon. Mr. Meighen, he said, was slaughtered in Quebec and overlooked in Ontario, but Mr. Meighen is coming back, and it won't be long either Mr. Maloney also gave Hon. Charles Stewart a severe castigation Hon. Mr. Stewart is probably the only Canadian Protestant statesman he said, who has accepted a decoration from from Rome, and he wondered how that came about." What was the service rendered? In closing, Mr. Maloney pointed out that one of the great weaknesses in the Protestant church was its neglect of the young people They are the ones to whom the church should be preaching because they were to be ... and we men of tomorrow He also urged Protestants to be true to their church, to their religion, to their country and to their king.

Proposal That Food Ships In War Time Shall Have Freedom Of Seas, Is Strong Peace Gesture

President Hoover's proposal that ships shall have the freedom of the seas in war time, clashes directly with the master strategy of war. That is why, no doubt, the President puts it forward only as a suggestion, something to be negotiated in the public mind at a time when the main trend of thought is running against war.

It is a preparedness measure, this utterance of Mr. Hoover's; it accords with his plea for concentration of thought and energy upon preparedness for peace. For while statesmen and citizenry are strive to devise means to settle controversies that might lead to war, science is steadily at work on means to make war more horrible. Not that the scientists are war makers. But that they respond naturally to the age-old urge of the war psychosis.

Starvation has always been one of war's weapons. Only since its developing pan bilities as developed in the World War have beoome so apparent to mankind how starvation of a whole people especially of women and children, evoked abhorrence in the peace time that succeeded war. Science may devise greater and greater weapons of war; strategy may succeed the strategy of war by involvement of a whole people in the enormity of defeat. But the Twen'eth Century has made war an all-inclusive that the weapon of starvation, tolerable when its siege was relatively limited to armies, must, and if it does not now, command a new place in the view of humanity. For, instead of making war more horrible, this advance would make it less effective, and so less the resort of ruthless.

It is with this trend in mind, no doubt, that the President injects the idea in the American mind. He recognizes, as well, that ideas must first germinate, if they are to be put into effect. He distinctly says this proposal of free food sh'ps will not be injected into the London Naval Conference. For the furtherance of agreement at that conference, he reiterates it's principles of entire reduction by agreement; he pleads the cause of international conference to avoid war; he pledges his country to maintain the defensive excellence of the Nation's military and naval arms; and he bespeaks the need for taking every means toward understanding among people.

The most salient point in his Armistice Day address—his solution of the problem of freedom of the seas—he offers for future study. It may well prove to be his greatest contribution to preparedness for peace.—Minneapolis Journal.

Weather Moves In Cycles

Has Not Changed In 30,000 Years Opinion Of Scientists

The weather not only is no different from what it was 30,000 years ago, but it's just the same as it was 30,-000 years ago, it was said at the American Association for Advancement since in Princeton, N.J. Drs. Chester A. Reed and Ernst Antevs, of the Association of Natural History, by examining clay deposits in New England, found that the weather then —as it does now, they added—moved in cycles of from three to five years each of cool and warm years.

In spite of the recent inventions of the gyroscope compass, the sun compass, the radio compass, and radio direction finders, the magnetic compass is today more widely employed than ever before.

Mustard Farming Has Great Possibilities

Steady Increase In Number Engaged In This Industry

A decline in the natural supply of wild mustard seed in the Canadian west, of their pelts are indicated by figures furnished in a booklet, "The Mustard, a Canadian Fur Resource," issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Federal Department of the Interior.

As a result of these conditions, there has been a steady increase in the number of fur farms engaged in raising muskrats for their pelts. The total for the Dominion is reported to be 172, an increase of more than fifty per cent. over the previous year, when 117 were listed.

There is no indication of a possible drop in prices because of failing off in demand. When the muskrat appears as part of My Lady's costume, it is "Hudson Seal," wh'ch continues to be one of the most popular and satisfactory furs. Its appearance commands it to those who are seeking a garment that is handsome as well as warm, and its durability is an important asset. The tendency is for an increase rather than a decrease in fur demand, and if the supply is failing off, prices naturally will tend upwards.

Many Prefer Small Town

Find Life More Interesting Than in Large Centres

There are many individuals in the larger centres of population who have pleasures in asserting at least popuious communities as "small towns" and who seem to imagine that because they live in a metropolitan city they possess some special distinction. But The Financial Post, published in Toronto, does not share such views and, indeed, regards life in one of these "small towns" as more interesting than life in a large city.

Many people who have been induced to move from a "small town" to a large city by the prospect of increased wages know that the Financial Post speaks the truth. There are scores and scores of individuals born and raised in the smaller centres who gradually give almost anything they possess to be back. It may be true that they receive larger wages or salaries than they could gain in their native towns, but they have discovered that it costs infinitely more to live in the large city and that to live and they are no farther ahead by the transfer of residence that they have made. Unfortunately they are only too willing to return when opportunity presents itself. Yet the large city still have people from the smaller

New Method Of Meat Storage

New Zealand Will Make Shipments Yearly For Oven

New Zealand is trying a method of meat storage which is expected to bring about a change in the butcher shops in America, and eventually in the world. Beef and mutton will be cut into steaks, chops, roasts and other pieces, before refrigeration and shipment to this country. All superfluous fat and bone will be trimmed away, and each piece covered in strong transparent wrapping. When the housewife receives it, it will be ready for the oven or pan.

An Agricultural Country

Only Small Portion Of Turkey Is Under Cultivation

With a population of over 13,000,-000 inhab tants, and an area of 280,-822 square miles, Turkey is essentially an agricultural country. It is estimated that if 40 per cent. of her area is capable of being cultivated scacely 12 per cent is under cultivation. Among the principal agricultural products are fruit, tobacco, cereals, cotton and olives. To the above sources of agricultural wealth must be added the income derived from cattle and goats, which contributes annually in wool, hides, and skins, mohair and casings for exports and a sum not less than $20,000,000. The wool is employed in the making of the famous Turkish carpets, blankets, rugs, fine cloth, and in the manufacture of hosiery.

Problem of Juvenile Delinquency Should Receive Serious Attention Of The People Of Canada

A thought that should make us pause and consider for a while the problem of juvenile delinquency, is the recent statement of a police officer that fully sixty per cent. of the crime committed in the average large city, is the work of boys under twenty-one years of age.

It is a fascinating study to try to determine from whence the crim'nal classes spring. Almost invariably an investigation shows that in every large city the criminals grow up with it. Occasionally we allow an American "bad man," or a crook from other countries to slip through our gates, but the majority of our criminals are the former "bad boys" of the no'ghborhood, who once that little through carelessness of the parents in bringing them up, and who develops from the "bad boy" stage to the hoodlum, the street corner loafer, and from that point, still without restraint to the skilled crook, who is determined to be an enemy of society and an aristocrat of the criminal underworld

Experience has taught criminologists that it is not the boy of from twelve to fifteen years of age, who stays by his own firesde in the evenings, who develops into the dangerous character. It is the boy who is allowed by his parents to wander the streets at all hours of the night

An incident which police officials in Toronto encountered recently, illustrates how far matters can go when there is laxity in the home. On one occasion to confine a small boy, fifteen years of age, whose two brothers were both in the penitentiary. When the police called at the house to get the boy, they were stopped at the door by his little sister, nine years of age who had the temerity and the experience to resist their entry, contending that they couldn't enter the house without a warrant.

The explanation as to why this home and thousands of others like it out this type of citizen instead of the kind of man or woman of whom we delight in, proud, can be summed up in three words—"lack of discipline"

The tendency to coddle children, to let them have their own way too much, to permit them to run wild in the streets, because they might be too much trouble in the house, is to be blamed for the fact that the upkeep of penal institutions forms a large portion of our taxes.

There is inclined to be too much sentimentality in connection with dealing with our unruly children. Any discussion should get, for one minute, be construed as an out-and-out support of the maxim, "Spank the child and spoil the child." Many of us do not find it necessary to discipline our children by punishment, and are gratefully accept the opportunity of avoiding this disagreeable task. But when a boy shows signs of being incorrigible along certain lines, and drastic action is going to make a difference in his future life, we should not be so weak that we coddle our children to their own undoing

Respect for their elders should be a cardinal rule with the children in every home. Nothing may influence a boy's life more than development of a habit of saying "yes sir" or "no ma'am" and to get the idea in their brains that the elders are apt to know more than they do

Just to show you the predominance of youth in crime statistics, I would like to quote you the following figures, which are worked on the basis of the 1921 census, when it was the whole of that there were 3,450,000 children in the Dominion

Of the juvenile from 14 to 16 years of age, in every 87 is a criminal.

"One Day's Bag For Vermilion Hunters"

SIX SPLENDID MOOSE, ONE MULE DEER AND SIX LOCAL HUNTERS

NOTES FROM THE ANNUAL MEETING OF ALBERTA WHEAT POOL

The 1929 year has been one of marked progress for the Alberta Wheat Pool. The annual report shows an increase in membership during the year of 5,719. The total membership at October 31st, 1929 was 46,915 with 6,625,309 acres under contract.

* * *

The cost of operating the Alberta Wheat Pool during the past year was a little over half a cent a bushel on a total of 42,919,943 bushels. The handling of wheat totalled 47,144,256 bushels.

* * *

The delegates assembled at the annual meeting expressed themselves as opposed to a compulsory pool by an overwhelming vote. A resolution was passed making the objective of the voluntary pool 100 per cent of the grain growers of the province and urging that every effort be made to attain that desired end.

* * *

The report of the Central Selling Agency showed the carryover from the 1928 crop to be a little over 48 million bushels of wheat. The Canadian Pool handled 253,145,545 bushels of wheat during the 1928-29 crop year. Of this total 104,149,604 bushels were exported to 19 countries.

* * *

George Melver, sales manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, in his report to the delegates stated that the Pool's operations during the past year had undoubtedly prevented serious market slumps, that the wheat yield in the world for the 1928 crop was a record for all time and British grain merchants were of the opinion that wheat should be selling on the basis of 90 cents at Winnipeg.

* * *

The elevator system during the past year showed excess earnings of $557,173.9868. The system handled over 47 million bushels of grain during the past year.

* * *

Director J. Jesse Stranz submitted a report recommending that the Pool do not go into the flour milling business. A resolution was carried suggesting that the flour milling committee continue its investigations and that the matter be tabled until the Pool had completed its elevator building program.

At the conclusion of the delegates' meeting was that in view of the short crop this year the Pool should operate as economically as possible but that the efficiency of the organization should not be impaired through false economy. The Alberta Wheat Pool operates at a less expense than the Department of Militia and Defence at Ottawa.

* * *

Objection was taken by some of the delegates to the Pool publishing crop reports. Officials of the rural organization stated that the publishing of these reports was not permanent policy.

Here and There

Thirteen first prizes in apples, one first in pears and four seconds in apples were awarded to Canadian exhibitors at the Imperial Fruit Show recently held at Dingley Hall, Birmingham, England. Eight of the first prizes were won by Nova Scotia growers, five of them by Chas. A. Bentley, of Berwick, N S.

Four hunters from New York State are 152 moose during the ten days of October. Last year in hunting in Albert County, New Brunswick, with headquarters at the camps owned and operated by Guide Clarence Dixon, of Alma, according to a report made by R. D. Brewster, of Albert, Y., who headed the party, to the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel.

Contract for building a $500,000 bushel grain elevator at Prescott, Ontario on the St. Lawrence has recently been let by the Canadian Government. The cost will be about $2,100,000 and construction must be completed by August 1, 1930. It is hoped it will be ready before the Welland Canal, built at a cost of $120,000,000 is opened next year's grain harvest in Western Canada begins.

Official report on employment in Canada states that in October of this year conditions were exceptionally satisfactory. Reports from 7027 employers with staffs totalling 1,863,823 persons, showed employment in the trades on the average for the calendar month of October. This is the highest on record for the close of any month of the year since 1918 for October 1, 1928.

World-wide interest is being attracted by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada to be on a part of rail and overseas voyages of the White Empress fleet, commencing in December. Group Hall, vice-president of the Railway, stated at Vancouver recently. Though it is that these ships a little out of their course to Yokohama it will still have them their supremacy in making the fastest run between this continent and the Orient, he added.

Three functions of interest which are expected to attract hundreds of Canadian and American tourists will be staged in Victoria in the next three months. They are the Valentine Music Festival in January, both held at the Empress Hotel and the second annual badminton tournament in February which had an outstanding success last year.

The 200 odd inhabitants of Foremost, Alberta are up in arms over the boisterous communities of Western Canada in the past two years it has shipped more than 1,500,000 bushels of grain mostly wheat. The town is also proud of its big educational and sports facilities.

Shipments of "pickerel gil from the west coast of Vancouver Island are increasing yearly. One vessel recently load 250 tons in one day destined for Europe where they are prized as still a delicacy that Saskatchewan whale oil is used as a substitute for pickerel oil in the manufacture of margarine.

PRESBYTERIAN Y. P. S. HELD ENJOYABLE MEETING

The members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church spent a delightful time together in the church hall last Wednesday evening when they met for a social evening. The Social committee took charge of the program, and a variety of games and contests made for a spirit of fun and fellowship. Light refreshments served at the close added to the enjoyment of all present, and the meeting was adjourned by the singing of a verse of "Blest be the tie that binds."

An interesting program in the form of an illustrated lantern lecture will be given in the church hall next Wednesday evening, December 11th, at 7.30 p.m. The Christian Endeavor Society has been fortunate in securing the lecture based on that famous story of Henry Van Dyke, "The Other Wise Man," and both young and old are invited to share this treat with the young people when they meet next week.

Vermilion Sunshine Fund

The Sunshine Fund established at Vermilion two or three years ago will again function at Christmas time. In no year will there be more call for Sunshine work than the coming season. Unless something like this is done many a home will go without a Christmas dinner or Christmas toys. When you are arranging for your own kiddies, just think of those for whom parents cannot arrange because they have not the money. The subscriptions are now open and the committee in charge hope that the response as usual will be most generous. Money may be left with the Standard office, J. W. G. Morrison, chairman, or C. F. Stone, secretary treasurer. The banks will also accept subscriptions. In the meantime the committee would like to have the names of any family to whom the Sunshiners can carry cheer on Christmas day.

All subscriptions will be duly acknowledged through the Standard.

COMMUNICATION

EDITOR, THE STANDARD:

In last week's Standard you mention the burning of a fiery cross north west of town. This fire was on my property, which is enclosed by a hayful fence, and was set by persons at present unknown to me and without my knowledge or consent. Your article surprises it might be the work of the K.K.K., but surely this cannot be. Did not Mr. Sinclgrove assure the people of Vermilion that the Klan was composed of "only the very best law abiding citizens" who would never consider trespassing on private property, and unlawfully setting out a fire within 100 yards of a haystack, the fire continuing to burn for 2½ hours after being set; and leaving about a wagon-load of filthy pots, pans and kettles strewn about, the proper place for which is the nuisance ground, and for which presumably for me to remove. In addition the gate was left open by these persons, thus allowing a bunch of horses to enter the place, causing me both trouble and expense to get out.

No, Mr. Editor, rather would I think it the work of some sensation-seeking youths to whom, as a fire guardian, I feel compelled to give a timely warning of the danger of setting out fire on a grass field at any time.

For obvious reasons I have no objection to the wooden crosses, they are rather decorative, but no more free. We never can tell how far they will go nor whom they will injure.

Yours,
JAR COMMON

Never again say---

Is that all you paid for this . . . ?
Where did you ever find them . . . ?
Why, it costs me nearly twice that much!
Do tell me where you got them for that!
How do you ever manage so well on so little?
But, aren't they awfully expensive?
I wish I could do it.

A FLOATING MASTERPIECE

Five famous British artists are contributing to the decorative scheme of the new Canadian Pacific 42,000-ton liner "Empress of Britain" now being built on the Clyde. Frank Brangwyn, R.A., is designing the dining saloon; Sir John Lavery, R.A., the Ball Room; Edmund Dulac, the smoking room; Maxwell Robinson, the Cocktail Bar, and Sir Charles Allom, the Pool (Side) Lounge. The "Empress of Britain," will be one of the world's largest ships and will ply between Canadian Pacific ports between Southampton and Quebec. She will be the largest ship between the Clyde and Canada. Her speed is still a secret but she will probably be around 25 knots, enabling her to make the trip in five days. She is due to be launched early next summer and will be in service in 1931. The above visual is an artist's impression of the vessel in an advanced stage of construction.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR POSTMASTERSHIP

That there will be all kinds of material to choose from for the vacant postmastership at Vermilion is amply shown by the number of applicants getting their credentials signed by prominent citizens of the town. It is not known definitely when the appointment will be made. It is customary to advertise the position for a certain length of time — three months, the Standard believes — before finally selecting a person to fill any civil service position, but the consensus of opinion seems to be that the postmastership at this point will be filled very shortly.

Robert Ball has been appointed postmaster pro tem pending the appointment of a permanent successor. From a distinterested viewpoint, he is the logical man to fill the vacant position, as he has had several years' experience as assistant and has had the whole management for the past year. Several other facts intervene in such an appointment, however. The position has to be advertised and first preference to any civil service position is given to a returned man drawing a pension, providing such is duly qualified and applies. A returned man is given the preference in all cases and probably quite rightly, too. It appears then as if the postal service of the town will pass from the hands of those who have given such long and zealous service into the custody of a newcomer to the postal service. If this be the case, it is hoped that the government will see fit to appoint a qualified resident of our own town or district, one of unqualified integrity and ability who will enjoy the confidence of all. The town and immediate district of Vermilion is fortunate in having many

THOSE MENNONITES.

The Hon. Robert Forke has announced that the 5,000 Mennonites now in Russia who want to come to Canada will not be admitted during the winter, but may be admitted in the spring.

The whole tone of his remarks above denoted and hesitancy.

It seems to us that Canada should take the stand once and for all that no more immigrants will be admitted to Canada as privileged citizens.

The Mennonites who have come here, and the Mennonites who wish to come, demand special privileges. All of them exact the promise that they shall never be required to take any part in the defence of this country; all of them desire to set up separate communities where they will not be required to speak the language of the country; most of them desire a system of education for their children quite different from the education in our public schools.

All of these requirements are at variance with Canadian ideals.

Mr Forke would win the respect of all Canadians by the announcement that there will be no more privileged citizenship for any immigrants.—Montreal Herald.

Make Vermilion Educational Centre

After the disposal of routine business at the regular monthly meeting of the school board last night, Chairman Morrison addressed the members relative to making a further forward movement in connection with the school situation in Vermilion. He did not think this town would ever develop into a big industrial or wholesale centre, not occupying the strategic point of vantage to bring about development in these lines, but did possess there in as far as education is concerned. In part, he said: "I do think, frankly speaking that we are more or less asleep with respect to the opportunities that are presenting themselves for development along educational lines by reason of the fact that we have here the School of Agriculture, and he can say that you are going to see a tremendous development in connection with that institution within the next few years. The opening of a road west of the fair grounds is going to bring that school and our high school quite near to each other, the importance of which will appear later. I am quite tired of the strict adherence to an old curriculum that is not getting us anywhere from the practical view point. I would say that beginning next school year the business course be established even if we are obliged to engage a teacher trained only in commercial work. We must give our boys and girls every opportunity to equip themselves for the problems of life, for earning their bread and butter, and we are not doing that now I feel further that the time is here when we should launch upon a course of domestic science and manual training. We should therefore provide facilities for the teaching of cooking, sewing, millinery, washing and the household economies generally to the young lady students, and carpentry, drawing plans and wood work generally to the boys. Know ledge of these things is quite essential to the boys and girls of today

Alberta Man Wins Wheat Championship at Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 — Canada won one of the championships which it covets highly and lost another as the International Livestock exposition finished its climax Tuesday. Joseph H. H Smith of Wolf Creek, Alberta, bringing the title of "Wheat King" back to the Dominion and C Ivan Christianson, of Victoria, Montana took away the title of "Corn King" which stands second, in the section of Canadian grain growers to the wheat award.

In taking the top ranking in the wheat sweepstakes, Smith broke the two year hold which C. Edson Smith of Corvallis Montana has maintained upon the honor, defeating the latter and high class sample of Hard Red winter wheat with which the Montana farmer won the championship for grain of that type and with which he won for two years he had beaten the Canadian entries of Hard Red spring

Local Dramatic Society Close Very Successful Season

"A Busy Honeymoon" Presented Seven Times

At sessions a Dramatic Society held their annual meeting on Monday, Dec 2nd at the home of Mr. Brown. The chief business was the election of officers and the auditing of the funds to date from the play "A Busy Honeymoon." The following officers were elected: Honorary, Rev. G McComas; Vice-President, Mr Tom Taylor. Advertising Manager Mr Vernon Cooper. Production Committee, Mrs Tom Taylor and Mrs Brown. Mr Seabrook and Miss Eastish as Asst. Treasurer Miss Day.

The secretary was instructed to publish the financial statement and to send a copy to each of the thanks to each of the visiting towns. A very sincere vote of thanks was passed to the following for so kindly giving their time and services to direct the players to the successful production Mrs McComas, P. Williamson W. Cook, I Patchett A Bell, R. Cooper, L. Lidstad, Howard Armstrong, F. C Long Mr Hunt, H Stone T Watts and two members of the cast Tom Taylor and J Reid also to all ladies who helped us to make flowers and all who helped in any way to make the play a success.

Outside points received half the profits of the performance in their town, except Islay where the profits were divided into three, Islay Small can church, Islay United church and Vermilion each receiving one third Very grateful appreciation was extended to Manaville for their generosity in loaning the entire results from the performance there to the society. It was a bad night the rain freezing on the windshields, making driving dangerous and which easily explains the small but very appreciative audience. Considering the bad season the society feel they have benefitted in their experience and in the fact Vermilion being $166.34 in advance of last year After the business was completed, a pleasant social time was spent and about 12 30 Mrs Brown served a most delicious lunch All members are pressed regret that the play was over and after a hearty vote of thanks to the host and hostess, dispersed until next time

J. J. MALONEY ADDRESSES TWO MEETINGS HERE

Mr J J Maloney addressed two meetings in the Columbia theatre on Monday and drew a packed house on both occasions, even standing room being at a premium His topic on advertised was "What is Canada coming to?" Mr Maloney spoke under the auspices of the I.O.L. He had also spoken at a series of meetings throughout this district during the previous week Mr. Maloney is an orator of great ability and had his audiences' entire interest and attention from beginning to end, though some agreed with him wholly, some partially and still others not at all.

The Common Cold

Responsible For Greater Loss Of Time From School Or Work Than Any Other Cause

The writer quotes a doctor who was asked, "How do you treat colds, doctor?" and replied, "With contempt, madam, with contempt." But can colds be treated with contempt? Common colds are responsible for a greater loss of time from school and work than any other single cause. They frequently lead to pneumonia, and pneumonia, in 1928, caused more deaths in Canada and the United States than any other d sease except heart disease. With the average worker, colds take more money out of his pocket every year than any other d sease.

Common colds are caught in two ways—from other people, and from our own method of living.

The cold that we "catch" from other people hits us when the germ that causes it enters the nose and throat passages of the victim from the air which an infected person talks, coughs or sneezes. By using an unwashed handkerchief, fork or spoon which has been previously used by someone with a cold, by handling something that has been used by an infected person—these things will give you a cold.

The cold that we "catch" even though no one around has one, is usually the result of wearing too little or too much clothing, having poor circulation or some local infection of the throat or nose, or subm tting one's self to rapid changes of temperature.

A minimum of damage would be done with colds if everyone were willing to take a rest of a week or two days instead stely they become afflicted with a cold.

Just as soon as your head becomes "stuffed up" or you have other signs of a cold like soreness of the throat, discharging nose, you should start the campaign against the cold. The first day or two are the important ones.

The first thing to do is to go to bed, or at least stay indoors. If you feel weak, that may be a sign of colds that are coming on; and particularly in that case you would be well advised to get under covers. A laxative should be taken. At night take a hot bath and as soon as you have rubbed yourself thoroughly dry, get into bed again taking the very best of care that you do not catch a chill. It is well after a hot bath to put several extra blankets on the bed, so that you may do what is commonly known as "sweating the cold out of your system." This will be aided by a hot diink.

It is a serious mistake to blow one's nose too hard, because many people have caused the infect on from a cold to spread to other parts of the head, like the ears.

There are many dangers which arise from a common cold. The most of these ill influenza, because it in turn, is apt to lead to many other ser ous complications. Pneumonia, tuberculosis, heart trouble, nose and throat afflictions, rheumatism, sinus trouble all have their origin in the "flu" on occasions. Many people who are deaf have lost their hearing through a common cold.

There are a number of things which we can do to prevent colds. I will give you a list of them.

(1) If your tonsils are diseased or your teeth are bad, or you have adenoids, they should be removed.

(2) Brush your teeth twice a day, because teeth which are diseased are frequently found to be at the root of chronic colds.

(3) Avoid getting your feet wet. Some people who have the interests of their health at heart keep an extra pair of shoes and stockings at their place of work. Then, if they get caught out without their rubbers, they can change. It is comforting somelike to spend the whole day with wet feet.

(4) Do not allow yourself to become run down. Get plenty of sleep, exercise regularly, drink plenty of water and eat nourishing, health building food.

(5) Keep the windows open. This applies to winter and summer. Everyone should sleep in a room where the air is fresh.

(6) Watch the thermometer. Rooms that are overheated are the cause of more colds than rooms that are under-heated. If the place where you work is not as well-ventilated as it should be, and there is noth ng you can do to ameliorate conditions, take a few minutes off now and then to go outside and fill your lungs with fresh air.

(7) Avoid drastic changes of temperature. If you have been perspiring, allow yourself to cool off gradually. Be foolish to sit in the breeze or in front of an electric fan.

(8) Stay away from infected people. When there is an epidemic, avoid crowds.

(9) Wash your hands frequently, certainly before eating.

(10) Wear clothing that he'ps you to avoid colds. In this country it is best not to put on extra clothing when you are going out into the cold rather than wear heavy clothing such as thick underwear, when you are in your office or home.

Frequency Of Milking Cows

Experiment Would Indicate That Milking Three Times a Day Is Profitable

Whether it is more profitable to milk cows twice or three times a day would seem to depend on the quantity of milk the cows are capable of giving. To determine the effect of the three times a day milkings on milk and butter fat production an experiment was carried on for some time at the Experimental Station at St. Anne de la Pocatiere, Quebec, operated by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa.

Two lots of three cows each, similar in breeding, condition and dairy capacity, receiving the same feeds and giving an average of forty pounds of milk per day were used in this test. The only difference between the two lots was the cows in lot one were milked three times a day, and in the other lot three times a day.

It was found at the end of the test that those milked three times a day had given 14 per cent. more milk and 22 per cent. more butter fat than those which were milked twice a day.

The Great Columbia Icefield

Area Of 110 Square Miles Of Ice and Snow

The great Columbia icefield in the Canadian Rockies contains approximately an area of 110 square miles of ice and snow and lies at a mean altitude of from 9,000 to 10,000 feet above sea level. It discharges about twenty alpine glaciers, many showing beautiful icefalls. These form the headwaters of the Columbia, Saskatchewan, and Athabaska Rivers, flowing respectively to the Pacific, Atlantic, and Arctic oceans. This remarkable icefield is shown on sheets 21, 22 and 23, of the map of the interprovincial boundary between Alberta and British Columbia, published by the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Interesting Collection Of Wild Animals At Mountain Resort

Pat, a polar bear from Herschel Island, in Mackenzie Bay, is an object of special interest to every child who visits the Government zoo at Banff in Banff National Park, Alberta. Pat's playmates form a centre of attraction at feeding time. In the large well-kept cages in the zoo, is a most interesting collection of wild animals, including specimens of the black, brown, and grizzly bear, lynk, marten, wolverine, coyote, wolf, and other animals. Near the zoo is the Government museum which contains an excellent collection of big game and smaller animals, as well as of the bird, fish, and plant life of the region. Indian relics and examples of Indian handicraft, including some very fine embroideries, are also shown.

Henry Berks, now maitre d'hotel at the Lord Nelson Hotel, Halifax, and late head waiter at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, is a Bohem an by birth, and at the beginning of the Great War was interned with some thousands of other Czechs of military age then in England. But he and his fellow countrymen were only too anxious to come in on the side of the Allies. He was given the chance and was one of the first to jo'n the British colors. He rose to non-commissioned rank in the famous Royal Fusiliers and saw two years of fighting, receiving many decorations. He was gassed in 1918 and so did not share the triumph of the Czech legions that marched into Prague after the Austrian Empire had crumbled. Now, instead of fighting men, he feeds them and of the two occupations infinitely prefers the latter.

Business Conditions Good

Trade Throughout Canada Exceptionally Good For This Time Of Year

Business conditions throughout Canada are exceptionally good for this season of the year, according to J. H. Woods, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who is touring British Columbia, accompanied by W. M. Clarke, of Montreal, secretary, conferring with Boards of Trade, following a similar itinerary of trade bodies in the Maritime Provinces. Conditions, he said, are making a remarkable recovery from the recent depression.

See Evangeline Land

No less than 13,787 tourists visited Grand Pre Memorial Park, Nova Scotia, during the 1929 summer season. The park is the property of the Dominion Atlantic Railway which acquired it before the war years and handed it as a beautiful memorial to Evangeline, the heroine of Longfellow's epic. In the original state, forms one of the chief attractions of the park, and the National Acadian Society erected a memorial church on the property. A beautiful statue of Evangeline, executed by the well known Canadian sculptor, Hebert, was placed in the park by the Dominion Atlantic Railway, and the grounds were changed from a complete wilderness into one of the most idyllic spots in all Nova Scotia during the last ten years. The spire of the memorial church is reflected in a series of lovely lily ponds and a fitting entrance gateway, constructed of logs, was erected by the railway. Thousands of tourists from every part of Canada and the United States flock yearly to the place where the memory of Evangeline is perpetuated. During the 1929 season, these 8,151 visitors from the United States, 7,068 from the other provinces of Canada, and 160 from other parts of the British Empire and from foreign countries. People from Denmark, Czecho-Slovakia, South Africa, Porto Rico, Algiers, India, Sweden, Mexico, Japan, China, Australia, Finland, and the Fiji Islands, came to see the park this summer. The total attendance constituted a considerable advance over the 1928 season when 12,000 visitors were registered at the park entrance.

Boiled Potatoes In Poultry Ration

Better Gains and Larger Profits When Potatoes Included in Feed

Cockerels being fattened for the market, and fed on cooked potatoes as a part of the ration, made better gains and gave larger profits than other lots receiving no potatoes. Various grain mixtures were used such as barley meal, oatmeal, bran and cornmeal mixed with milk at the rate of one and one-half pound per pound of grain.

The fact that made the greatest profit mixtured a mixture of cornmeal two parts, oatmeal two parts, bran one part, cooked potatoes one part, all raized in a mash with milk. This lot made a gain in weight of 9.5 pounds while other pens receiving a mash without the potatoes made a gain of from three to four pounds less. The most most profitable ration contained beef scrap in the place of milk. The mash in th's case was made up of two parts each of cornmeal, oatmeal and beef scrap and one part bran.

Further details of this experiment appear in the report of the superintendent of the Sis. Anne de la Pocatiere Station for last year, published by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, who states that these results confirm the results shown by a similar experiment the previous year.

Geodetic Work In Manitoba

Establishment Of Interprovincial Boundary Line Between Manitoba and Ontario

This past season, the Geodet'c Survey of Canada sent a party to the east end of Island Lake, in northern Manitoba, to make a precise determination of the astronomic latitude and longitude in connection with the establishment of the interprovincial boundary between Ontario and Manitoba. The exceptional snow season proved its value as a means of transportation in country difficult of access by other means, and sixteen hundred miles were flown during the season carrying out this part of the program of the Geodetic Survey.

Will Always Be Mystery

Modern Adults Will Be Not Know Secret Dream

Your heart beats because it is alive. It beats 72 times a minute, which represents about 36,000,000 times a year, or 2,000 million times in a life of 50 years.

The heart is a hollow muscular pump which opens and shuts with a regular rhythm. It contracts on the blood with it in order to drive that blood onward through the whole body, for the blood carries the indispensable oxygen to every part of our frame. The heart has to contract on this blood with force, for the resistance of all the tubular blood-vessels is considerable.

The beats continually but not continuously, for it rests a short time between each beat. When we calculate how long the heart rests, suff how long it works a day, we find that the figures are as 14 of rest to 10 of work.

The human heart, like that of all mammals and birds, is a double organ. Each heart has five cavities, between which are found the most delicate and exquisitely - fitting valves which permit a flow in one direction only. The heart on the right side deals exclusively w th blue blood that has come from the veins and is being sent to the lungs. The heart on the left deals with scarlet blood which has returned from the lungs and is sending to the body. The blood goes from the right to the left by way of the lungs.

The energy developed by the heart is greater than one would suppose. Being a forcing pump, the left heart has to drive the blood, as we have seen, against considerable resistance. It is the exertion this muscle must exercise that gives rise to the beating of the heart, which is felt by the hand, when it is a mystery; what stops it is another.

It is not the presence of blood in it, because the heart was beating long before any blood was formed in it. The heart will beat after all its nerves have been cut.

All we can say is that the muscle of the heart possesses the mysterious power of contracting at a rhythm of its own. We do not understand what made the beats begin.

Old Engine Supersannuated

Ponderous Machine Used Since 1825 Has Time Dismantled

An old hauling engine at Seaham Docks, once used for drawing wagons by a wire rope up an incline, has been dismantled. The engine was of the beam type and on the beam is the date of 1825. The docks were begun in 1825 and tradition says that before being set up at Seaham the engine did duty at a colliery in the west of the country. It worked regularly up to the present period. Very ponderous in character, the engine had a fly wheel 30 feet in diameter and a large upright cylinder.

Rockets To Start 'Planes

Experiments in starting airplanes and seaplanes with rockets, are said to be proving successful in Germany The rockets will not propel the 'planes except at the take-off, after which the regular power will be used. The rocket auxiliary propulsion is intended to reduce the run before the take-off, and to aid the 'planes' to rise, regardless of the load.

Agricultural Society Holds Annual Meeting

Marked Progress

The annual meeting of the Vermilion agricultural society was held on Saturday afternoon in the Brimscombe hall and was, despite stormy weather, attended by quite a large number of members. The reports submitted for the year were most encouraging. The president in his address, reviewed the activities of the society, laying particular stress on the course of action taken by the Western Canada Fairs' association with regard to the setting of dates for B circuit, and also the attractions. The society should send its best representatives to the meeting of that body. The year saw a new exhibit building erected and the old tent down. There was also a change made in the horse barns, and the general appearance of the grounds much improved. The financial statement in dicated a surplus for the year in the vicinity of $1200.00 The improvement in the finances of the society has been most marked in recent years

A resolution was passed that a seed fair be held in 1930 in conjunction with the school of agriculture. The matter of holding a poultry show was referred to a committee to report at a subsequent meeting of the directors. The same line of action was taken with respect to the holding of a plowing match. The suggestion here was made that possibly the district might be divided into two parts as and a match held in each, the winners of the different subdivisions to compete at the main show at Vermilion The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Hon. President, Hon R. G. Reid; President, W. T. Shaw Dumas, S. C. Hackbert, W. L. Robinson, R. A. Scarfe, Jas. Bary, W. B. Wade, J. C. Tuker, J. S. Cross, J. F. Andrews, Jos. Woodruff, John Dryden, M. McClellan, A. Campbell, David McPhee and Neil East.

The president and secretary were appointed delegates to attend the Fair association meeting at Winnipeg, as the president and 1st vice-president to the Alberta Fairs Association with the secretary. At a meeting of the directors held after the close of the meeting W. E Sutton was re-elected secretary treasurer. The system of payment of the secretary's salary was changed and placed on a more business basis. The ladies' committee of last year was re-elected for 1930.

Snow To Be Cleared From Highways

Equipment Is Ordered: Work Planned Soon

First Time in History Task Has Been Undertaken by Govt.

For the first time in history, Alberta, during the coming winter will undertake the removal of snow from sections of main highways, according to an announcement made on Monday by Hon. O. L. McPherson minister of public work.

Equipment has been ordered and it is expected to be delivered within the near future.

The equipment will consist in the main of a snow plough to be attached to motor trucks A high blade specially curved, with brush the shape aside. A fair rate in speed will be made by the motor propelled vehicles.

While no special sections of highway have as yet been designated for these upon which the plough is to be used, the minister indicated that the highways travelled portions of roads would be dealt with first. This clearing also will be undertaken in those sections where snow fences have been or will be erected as a comparamentary activity

The main idea behind this clearing will be to see just what measure of relief from snow will result and this data with respect to the holding of a plowing match. The suggestion here was made that possibly the district might be divided into two parts as and a match held in each, the winners of the different subdivisions to compete at the main show at Vermilion The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Hon. President, Hon R. G. Reid; President, W. T. Shaw Dumas, S. C. Hackbert, W. L. Robinson, R. A. Scarfe, Jas. Bary, W. B. Wade, J. C. Tuker, J. S. Cross, J. F. Andrews, Jos. Woodruff, John Dryden, M. McClellan, A. Campbell, David McPhee and Neil East.

The president and secretary were appointed delegates to attend the Fair

PREDICTS RETURN OF CONSERVATIVE PARTY AT OTTAWA

Forecasting not only that there will be a federal election next year, but also that the present dominion government will meet defeat at the polls, Hector A. Cost, member of parliament for Essex South, who is in the city, believes the Conservative forces will form the next administration of Canada.

Mr. Cost, whose constituency has the distinction of being the most southerly riding in Canada, will leave Thursday evening for the Peace River district and will later visit the Pacific coast. While in the city he expressed surprise at the growth of Edmonton since his last visit nine years ago.—Edmonton Journal

A RED CROSS MASQUERADE

One of the most effective ideas for the Annual Red Cross Dance in a little town was the following:

The ladies who served lunch and were the members of the committee who sponsored the Masquerade Dance decided that they would themselves go as nurses and one should be dressed as Florence Nightingale. A large bed sheet was cut, folded into a voluminous skirt which came right down to the ground Over this was worn an apron and a three cornered kerchief. A lace cap with long white streamers completed the lady's attire and in her hand she held a lamp.

With hair parted in the centre this lady resembled closely one of the well known pictures of Florence Nightingale.

As she moved hither and thither amongst the more modern Red Cross nurses it was a striking picture of the old and the new woman and the ancient and modern fashions.

The white veils with Red Crosses and the short bobbed hair of the girls of today as well as their knee high skirts had a certain significance in the thought of freedom that has become woman's own.

Florence Nightingale, however, made up a picture of repose and dignity that although quaint, was quite fine in its own way.

The above suggestion is worthy of consideration from any Red Cross female who wish to do something different at a small expense, and which is yet attractive.

Build Cottages For Britishers

Canadian National Railways Has Plan To Help New Settlers

The problem of home ng British immigrant families come to Canada to settle on the land is being met, to some extent at least, by the offer of the Canadian National Railways to build cottages for the Br tishers at various points on the province so that the new arrivals may secure a home at a nominal rent of three dollars a month. This offer has been approved by the Overseas Settlement Board of the Dominion.

British people, forming the bulk of the immigrant ide 'nto Canada, often suffer because they are unprepared to cope with the conditions in the farming district es of the Dominion, which are so different from those prevailing in the Old Country. On the other hand, immigrants from Europe, especially the northern parts of Europe, are accustomed, even before they embark for the voyage overseas, to the rud'ments and rigours of a life where settlement has left much of the countryside untouched.

The cottages to be built by the Canadian National 'n the three provincial provinces will stand on a fenced plot of land averaging from one half to one acre to enclose. They will be served by good roads and as near as possible to the local market place and school. They will be furnished with stoves and simple furniture.

It is understood that the families will occupy the cottages only during their first year in Canada, while they are obtaining pre mimary experience in farming conditions.

Awaiting Deportation

One Hundred Men From British Isles Are Stranded in Toronto

Upward of 100 men brought out to Canada from the British Isles during the summer in order to work on farms throughout the Dominion are wait ng to be deported, the Toronto Telegram says. A good many of them are complain ng that they are now without food and without lodging, and are wondering how they are going to live until they get work, or until the Ontario and Dominion governments decide to deport them.

These men were brought to Canada by the St. George Society of Canada, the British League of Montreal, the Ontario government and the Dominion government, and placed on farms where they were supposed to be paid $20 a month minimum, and guaranteed continuous employment they state, the Telegram says.

They are without any official word as to what is going to happen to them.

"The Dom'n on Government Inspector, C. O. Mitchell said their names were being cons dered by him and the Ontario Government authorities.

Brilliant English Pantomime

Drury Lane Engagement Announced Of Great Pantomime Players In Entirely New Production

Flip Flop Rodway's brilliant English Pantomime company returns to the Grand Theatre, Regina, for the engage commencing Thursday, December 8th, and Walker Theatre, Winnipeg, for week commencing December 8th, in "Mother Goose," with an entire change of costumes, scenery, effects and subject matter. The company mailed triumphantly across Canada with "Humpty Dumpty," meeting with such success that they hardly be equalled by any other production this season. It returns with a great engagement in Regina, and undoubtedly many of the compotent critics as better than "Humpty Dumpty," and, in fact, as being the best show that has ever been staged.

Dan Leno, Jr., the fam ous eccentric comedian, as Mother Goose, and "Mac Gregor's" Wood, the world-famous boy impersonator, as her son are a whole show in themselves, but they are not the only stars. Florence Hunter is again enjoying a p rominent part, and of course, the lovable Flip Flop Rodway, the man that lays the golden eggs, is his own inimitable self in a role that he seems to enjoy more than ever. Mr. Rodway's version of the fairy tale is written to allow of great deal of comic variety, and the gorgeous effects introduced are beyond description. New costumes, new comedy, new songs, and dances are provided in abundance, and "Mother Goose" is certain to be another big success of the season.

Canada To Import British Wool Into Profits

Fifteen Thousand Crates Of Oranges From Dominion To Come Next Year

"We expect to ship from ten to fifteen thousand crates of Dominion oranges into the Maritimes and Montreal markets next year," declared Captain A. D. Robertson, of Dominion, B.W.I., who arrived at Saint John on the R.M.S. Lady Nelson, of the Canad an National Steamships, from the West Indies.

Captain Robertson, who took up the cultivation of oranges and grapefruit at Dominica as a hobby after the war, stated that there were excellent possibilities for the cultivat on of citrus fruit on the Island of Dominica, and he said that in the Manchester Exhibition, the Dominica oranges and grapefruit captured first place over the Cal fornia product. Eighty per cent. of his product consists of Washington navels, all grafted on grapefruit stock. A unique feature of the Dominica citrus fruit industry was that on his estate he discovered several trees of Valencia, which had no seeds. He visualized great possibilities for the industry, which, in his opinion should make Canadians obtain their oranges and grapefruit at a lower price.

The best Robertson of the development of the citrus fruit industry in Dominica, Captain Robertson declared, was the lack of adequate steamship services, but with the advent of the Canadian National Steamships, the industry was enabled to develop. He has associated with him in his enterprise, Mr. J. E. Knowlton, who accompanied h m on his trip. The climate of Dominica, Captain Robertson declared, was delightful with an average temperature of 75 degrees.

Captain Robertson was associated with the Canadian Siberian Expedition during the war, serv ng on the Bulgarian and Western Fronts.

Naturalists Find Large Worms

Specimens Discovered In Australia Six Feet Long

Earthworms, some of them a mon and an inch in diameter are reported in the British scientific magazine "Nature" as the quarry of a naturalist's hunt in southeastern Australia. Average specimens range from four to six feet in length, and one has been recently observed by Charles Barnet, member of the expedition. An extreme length of 12 feet was reported though not seen on the expedition.

The worms make loud noises when they retire into their burrows on the approach of people or his vessel. Their greenish-translucent eggs have tough, horny shells, and are from two to three inches in length.

Fewer Forest Fires

Loss In Canada Last Summer Was Comparatively Low

Loss of timber by forest fires in the province of Quebec was comparatively low. Up to the end of September, British Columbia had 2,011 outbreaks, and of these half had been in the southern interior where the hazard for some time has been extreme. In the prairie provinces the hazard was extremely high, and it is feared that the loss will be found to be serious. In Ontario the amount of the commercial timber burned is reported as surprisingly low, that is, in the fire districts which have been within the limit of protection, not including northwestern Patricia. In Quebec, the fire losses were comparatively below normal. In the Maritimes, where the hazard has been higher than in many years, the losses again are comparatively low.

The Scientific Fishermen

Clarion Thermometer When Going After Certain Kinds Of Fish

The fisherman of today writes "London-On" in the London Daily Chronicle, is something of a scient st when compared with his prototype of a few decades ago. For he now carries a thermometer when going to fish. It has been proved that certain fish frequent waters of a particular temperature, hence if the nature of the water is known preparations can be made most likely to lead to a good catch that is expected. Cod, for example, have a preference for water of a temperature of 40 degrees. The coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador, where the water is of this temperature, have enormous quantities of them. Both have been caught.

Increase In Life Insurance

$200 In Assurance For Every Man, Woman and Child in the Dominion

The total amount of life insurance carried by the people of Canada is now approximately $4,000,000,000 or approximately $650 for every man, woman and child in the Domin on. The United States with $750 per head of population is the only country in the world that exceeds Canada in the amount of life insurance carried.

The number of life insurance policies in force in Canada is 7,000,000 in round figures, or about three for every family in the Dominion. An encouraging fact about life insurance in Canada is that on one has ever lost a cent as a result of the failure of a Canadian life insurance company, which is principally due to the supervision of the Canadian Government Department of Insurance over the companies for the protection of policy holders.

Over $300,000,000 is paid annually by the people to Canada in life insurance premiums, and of this half goes to the number of policies carr'ed has doubled and the assets of the Canadian companies is placed at $1,300,000,000.

A new and hitherto unknown route across the Rocky Mountains has been discovered through a pass into British Columbia near the southern boundary of Jasper Park, Alberta.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAVIS.

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Lee's New York night club, is loved by Grace Farrel, the cigarette girl, but he doesn't know it. He married Vivian Lee, Blackie's sister, and when Vivian loses as a composer of popular songs, Stone's fortune is made. But about two years old, Monty slopes with Jimmy Ayl's, a best friend, Stone and Perry take the child Al adores and sail for France. Al completely broken by his loss, disappears from Broadway and Blackie's cabaret. One day the sight of Grace Farrel on the street arouses old memories. He returns to Blackie Joe's at night, talking to Blackie in the office while Blackie is called outside by a patron.

CHAPTER XXIV

Blackie crossed the main room briskly to shake hands with the departing patron and urge them to become again. But as he talked his mind was working on Al's problem. Suddenly he thought that perhaps that Grace Farrel was the logical one to approach Al. She might reach his hidden nature and revive his courage when no one else could.

Grace worked at a desk in an alcove on the other side of the main room. A secluded corner, out of the room and she had not seen Al and Blackie cross the floor. Now she had just completed her accounts for the day She was decidedly sleepy, but her eyes opened wide when Blackie came over her. From his expression she realized that something important had happened.

"Chase who's here?"

"Who Blackie? Not—not Al?"

"The same. Just wandered in a few minutes ago—looks as if he'd been sleeping on the wharves for a month."

Grace's hand darted to her cheek and pressed hard against it. So, it had happened, the thing she had dreamed of and worried so hard to bring about. Al was found!

"Listen, girlie." Blackie leaned forward anxiously. "He's in my office. I've talked to him, tried to make him stage a come-back, but I can't make a deal. He just shakes his head. Now you try. Treat him rough, bawl him out, if you think it'll work."

Grace rose. She was listening, concentrating, planning. Every life has at least one big moment in it. was to be here! The soul and future of a talented, lovable man was at stake! As she planned she prepared for the big moment in a feminine way —patting her hair into shape, rearranging a stray curl, examining her lips in a mirror. Then she turned determinedly toward the private office.

Blackie stood in the main room, starting after Grace as she walked toward the office. He decided to stay away from Al for a few moments and let Grace work alone.

Meanwhile, Al had been growing restless. After he looked about Blackie's office for a while, carefully studying the familiar pictures on the wall, his nervous tension made him rise from his chair and walk up and down. He stood up, determined to walk out. He saw Blackie's old piano in a corner of the room, walked to it and sat down.

He walked slowly toward it. Yes, it was the same old battered instrument; he had composed some of his early hits while sitting in front of it. Without thinking, he ran his hands lightly up and down the keys. What fingers! They were stiff, grimy, bru sed, sore. Their play across the keys was painful and slow, yet in the old days they had danced up and down the scale in nimble ease. . . .

Grace looked up, hearing a faint sound, and turned his head. Grace stood in the doorway.

Grace had entered as quietly as possible. She wanted to study him before he saw her, for she knew that in that fresh second her intuition might give her a clue as to the best way to proceed with him. Now, as he stared up at her with startled eyes, his shabby pitiable appearance was accurately revealed. She answered his stare with an expression of tender sympathy.

"Al?" she whispered softly.

"Grace! Why, its really you!"

"Yes, dear boy, I've sought he would cry. He se'zed her hand in both his own and gazed steadily down at her face. His eyes were like those of a starved dog, and Grace knew that it mended her fingers; she felt he was literally clinging to her to keep from drowning in his misery. At the force of her deep maternal spirit was directed toward him; she longed to take him in her arms and comfort him.

"You've changed a lot!" he exclaimed in a hoarse whisper.

Grace refrained from saying he had changed too.

"Here I am!" she questioned brightly. "Well, I've grown older, for one thing."

"You're much more beautiful than you were," he continued earnestly. "And you were always a winner."

Again Grace smiled, and deftly turned the conversation. "How have you been, Al?"

He glanced down at the frayed cuffs of his coat sleeves. "Judge for yourself." He grinned ruefully. "But, Al, you don't have to look like that. You have money."

"Yes, but I don't want it—I don't use it."

Grace waited a moment. She had the same sense of the passive barrier of despair, of weariness in him that Blackie had felt. Yet there must be a way to cross that barrier! She found it.

"Blackie tells me you want to stage a come-back."

Al shook his head. "Blackie's wrong." Fut as he said that the young song writer glanced away; he was ashamed to face Grace. She saw as a flash Grace saw the move and thought "If he isn't past shame, he soon will be."

"Listen, Al," she said. "You have the gift of song. Millions of people are made happy by the things you write. Do you think you have any right to crush that gift and turn your back on all those people?"

"That's just preaching, Grace. A man in my situation has a right to live the way he chooses, providing he doesn't hurt any one. I don't hurt anybody."

"Yes, you do."

Al shot an aston shed, questioning look at Grace.

"You hurt me, for one person," she said gravely "Of course that doesn't matter. But you hurt someone else—hurt h m terribly. You hurt your son, whom you love. What will he think when he grows up and learns that his father drifted downward, allowing himself to become an utter failure?"

Grace's voice had risen in a pas sionate ring as she concluded. It was a terrible ordeal for her to talk in this nerve-ng way to Al, but his case needed it. Blackie's had said, "Treat him rough." Grace saw that only drastic treatment would arouse him.

Al winced visibly and reached toward the piano for support. He couldn t believe his ears—gentle Grace talking to him in a way! Her eyes were like steel.

"Junior will never know about me, he answered defeatly. "No one will tell him. He'll grow up believing I disappeared and died in some unknown place That is what is going to happen to me. He'll never see me as you see me now- a bum!"

"Then Grace played her strongest card. "Yes, he will know about you!" she cried, with blazing eyes "I'll see to it that he does know! I'll tell him!"

"You'll — what?" Al's mouth dropped in wonder; anger began to gather in h's eyes.

"I'll tell him—everything about you! How you took at this moment, how you ran away from everybody who wanted to help you, how you became content to drift downward to the dregs of life. I'll see that he knows everything about you, Al Stone! Don't forget it!"

Al believed Grace meant what she said. He staggered for a moment, then crouched and began moving toward her, his head low, his fists clenched. Grace saw h s finger twitching, eager to get at her throat, but she did yet give an inch of ground.

"If you do that," he whispered with deadly softness, "I'll kill you!"

French Museum Gets Cedar Grizzly Bear

Primitive Work Of B.C. Indians To Find Place In Old World

A grizzly bear carved out of a tree, a piece of primitive but magnificent Canadian art, is now on its way to Europe to be placed in the museum of Neuchatel, Switzerland, writes Ian Mackenzie in the Vancouver Province. The bear, a huge, ferocious looking animal, is the work of Chief Mungo Martin, of the Kwakiutl tribe of Indians, who lives on Vancouver Island, and is one of the last of the great carvers of totem poles and other primitive work of the Indians of the Pacific coast.

Nature Has Gas Plant

Remarkable Specimen Of "Burning Bush" Grown in London's Kew Gardens

When one speaks of a "gas plant" one naturally thinks of coal ovens and gas mains. Nature however provides a real gas plant, specimens of which are to be found blooming in London's Kew Gardens. It is otherwise known as the Dictamnius or "Burning Bush." When a lighted match is applied to a shoot of the plant there comes a brilliant scarlet flame. Like a flash of lightning it shoots up the length of the flowering shoots, without injuring it. The best time to make the experiment is when the flowers are fading. The inflammableness of the plant is due to oil that on its stalks are minute red-flask-brown glands, and these secrete an etheric oil. The glands develop fully soon after the blossom begins to fade, but they shrivel up when the fruit begins to form. Luminous plants are not unlike th's have been a source of wonder and interest from the Afghanistan. There is a mountain called Sufed Koh in Afghanistan on which the summer lightning is said to be constantly seen at night. In springtime the slopes are covered with bushes which at night emit flames, which do not burn on fire, yet when you are close to them there is no s gn of flame. The "burning bush" is the only plant about three feet h gh, with pink flowers and leaven much like those of the ash tree.

KEEP THEM HAPPY BY KEEPING THEM WELL

It is natuel for children to be happy, act've and full of fun. When they are fretful, fussy and ill-natured as play you may be sure some-thing is wrong. A condition is something that Sen in the digestive tract.

It is to meet the need for an absolutely safe remedy for childhood ailments that Baby's Own Tablets have been developed. They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains Concerning them Mrs. W. E. Pyett, Dover, N.B., writes "I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are ill with colds or sour stomach"

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by med cine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

Soviets Pass Drastic Law

Russians Refusing To Return To Country On Call Are Declared Outlaws

Hereafter Soviet Citizens working or residing abroad who may refuse to obey the summons of their government to return to Russia will be adjudged guilty of treason. When finally taken into custody they will be sent to prison and shot within 24 hours after identity is established.

This drastic measure was taken by the central executive committee of the Soviet Union in the light of the recent refusal of M. Rosenkovsky, of the Soviet embassy at Paris, to return to Moscow to face trial on charges of embezzlement.

The new decree is retroactive and declares that all such Soviet citizens will be classed as outlaws and deserters, and as enemies of the workers and peasants. All their property will be confiscated, and their cases tried by the supreme court of the union and their names broadcast as outlaws

Talkies In Columbia After New Year

WILL BE ON A PAR WITH THE CITY THEATRES

The Columbia Theatre has signed the contract for Movietone and Vitaphone installations, to be completed between the 15th and 30th of next month, January. One month, and then Vermilion will be on a par with the best and biggest in the province.

Among the many changes that will be made to insure perfect projection will be the installation of the latest types of Simplex Projectors, the same as used by the Capitol and Rialto theatres, Edmonton, the enlargement of the projection room and then the complete machinery for sound on film and sound disk (Movietone and Vitaphone). This will give the patrons of the Columbia Theatre 100 per cent talking and 100 per cent singing films, and all the entertainment that comes to the screen at No best

That this progressive move on the part of Mr Pilkie, the proprietor, will mean a great deal to the town cannot be denied. The necessary changes to be made before installation can be commenced involves considerable expense alone, and the equipment itself is a costly one. Two operators will be required at all times to handle the talking pictures.

Skating Season Opens At Arena Rink

The Vermilion municipal skating rink was opened for skating by a free night last Tuesday evening. Gives Name to Rockies Pass

Recognition of the years of devoted labor by J. Murray Gibbon, general publicity agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in popularizing the Canadian Rockies throughout the world, has been given by naming a pass in the mountains after him. Gibbon Pass has hitherto been unnamed and lies between Shad-ow Lak: and the Twin Lakes, below Ball and Storr mountain in the valley of the Bow, midway between Banff and Lake Louise. Not far from travelled routes t: the Rockies and located in one of their most picturesque regions, Gibbon Pass was actually discovered by Mr. Gibbon when he was planning the route he takes by Trail Riders had summer and himself hiked over the trail between the two lakes.

The name was conferred recently by the Geographic Board of Canada in honor of Mr. Gibbon's work as poet, novelist, promoter of musical and folklore festivals and founder of the Order of Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, which numbers members from all parts of this continent, Europe and Australia and which has done inestimable work in bringing the glories of Canada to the knowledge of the world. Lay-Out leaves the Banff Springs Hotel every June, and, below, close-up of group of Trail Riders.

Why Not Junior Hockey

Hockey is a subject foremost in the minds of many at this period of the year and in this respect the people of the town and district are no exception, although apparently very little is being done in regard to Canada's great winter pastime right here. Why not, perhaps, because we are to have no senior hockey If this is the case, why not form a Junior league? This was done several years ago when the old O Burns rink was functioning, and "Swede" Gustafson thereof together for two years afield a bunch of title-hunting youngsters who worked right up to the Provincial semi finals before meeting defeat Everyone knows of the record-breaking records that the "kids" drew to their games and of the enthusiasm with which their course was followed, so it is hoped to assert that with no senior hockey either here or in Vegreville, and with Lloydminster hockey mad, that Junior teams from these three centres with their interest would receive lots of support It might be called Junior hockey but how many fans recall the Junior hockey game down on the old river rink when the Seniors finished up on the short end of a 11-1 score and of the big crowds that were present when the Juniors tied and then defeated our Elks who were fighting it out with the Senior team for the championship? We have an element on United Army at Junior hockey material and I think a team could be got together. The town would be backed on why not at least attempt to form a Junior league? The Seniors entered under the V.A.A.A. rules last year and as this is what the association is for, regardless steps should be taken to have these should be taken. Rumors and Rebegars are our two big hockey guests so there is still time to a get something

New Hymn Book Of United Church Has Been Approved

Toronto, Dec. 7 - The new hymn book of the United Church of Canada has been approved by the executive committee of the General Council and will be placed in the hands of the publishers.

It is expected the new book will be ready for, and given first use at the next General Council, to be convened at St. Andrew's church London, next September

Scores Use of Foreign Books in the Schools

VANCOUVER Dec. 10—Stories in which British warships are described as the hated enemy, taken from supplementary books which have been used in Canadian schools, were cited by Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, minister of education in the course of a luncheon address Monday before members of the Canadian club. Mr. Hinchcliffe was speaking on the subject "foreign textbooks in our schools." The whole story held the British navy up to ridicule, continued the minister, and was typical of a book which, while technically suitable as supplementary reader, was entirely unsuited for use by young Canadians.

King Wheat and Wheat Kings

Canada again this year achieves the distinction of having produced the finest wheat in the world by winning the grain champ easily at the great International Livestock Show, at Chicago. J. H. B. Smith, of Wolf Creek, Alberta, brings this honor to the Dominion, and the title of wheat king of the world to himself. Thus the world's championship wheat trophy returns to the Dominion after having rested with a Montana man for two years. Canadians held the championship in 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1926, and the reserve championship in 1927 and 1928.

The winning of this world's championship is not a case of good luck. It is the result of years of careful planning and hard, painstaking study and work. Such an honor only accrues to those who farm in scientific manner, selecting and sowing the best seed, and from year to year learning the lessons of experience. True, they must have the background of good fertile soil, and the right kind of climate. These, fortunately, Canada has in abundance.

Canada's wheat honors are, however, a double triumph for this Dominion. It was in Canada, and through the persevering efforts of a great Canadian, that Marquis wheat was given to the world, a wheat which revolutionized the product on of this great cereal grain and added untold millions to the agricultural wealth of this continent. Marquis was many years old before it was given its name.

This year the grand championship is accorded to Reward wheat, also a Canadian development, or discovery if you will. Canada, too, is leading the world in the efforts put forth to develop a rust-resistant variety of wheat of the highest milling quality and all the essential qualifications of an early ripening variety, just as Canada has the honor of developing the early ripening varieties now in general use

The brewing back of the world's wheat championship to Canada is a gratifying prelude to the great World's Grain Show and Congress to be held at Regina, Saskatchewan, in 1932. This proposed Grain Show and Congress will be the greatest event in the history of agriculture in Canada, and will be awarded for grain will exceed anything hitherto offered at any exhibition in the history of the world. Strong committees representative of the Dominion and of each of the nine Provinces of Canada are already at work on the arrangements for this world's gathering three years hence, and it is confidently hoped and expected that between forty and fifty countries will be represented not only by exhibits, but by Government and agricultural representatives. All the world's great leaders in agriculture and the most noted research workers will partic pate in the Congress, with the result that the eyes of the grain growing world will be centred on Canada as never before.

Canada is already the greatest wheat exporting country in the world, not only in total annual volume but in quality of product. Every world's championship won serves to enhance that reputation, and the Dominion is placed under a lasting obligation to those farmers who, like Mr. Smith and Mr. Bunn, are winning championships, devote their time and energies to achieve such successes

The year 1932 is not very far away. It is not too early, nor is it too late, for many more of our Canadian grain growers to enter the lists and do their best work with a view to winning for themselves and for their Province and Dominion the title of World's Wheat K ng, 1932. Such a title awarded at the Regina Show will, in view of the publicity it would receive, be of much greater title than that awarded annually at the Chicago International.

Canada's farmers should vie with one another in friendly rivalry in an endeavor to retain for this Dominion the world's wheat championship title in each of the years preceding 1932, and in a supreme effort to hold the honor at Canada's first World's Fair in the later year. To retain the title that now, thanks to Mr Smith's efforts, rests with this Dominion will do much to attract still greater attention to Canada as the premier grain growing land of the world, and will be a powerful factor in bringing additional thousands of visitors to the Dominion in 1932 to make personal investigation and study of this great land.

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Can Find Relief Through Building Up the Blood

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that every victim recognizes; and he generally attributes the pain to cold, damp or changeable weather. But few know know that this blood is a marked characteristic of the trouble. Trying to cure rheumatism while the blood remains thin and poor, is an impossible task because there is nothing to build up. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which enriches the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities, gives the best possible relief from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition that rheumatism has left me, and I have never had a twinge of it since. If this sounds like you get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once.

You can get these pills from any good drug dealer or by sending 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Advertising By Mail

Lists Are Plentiful As Proved By Toronto Directory

In these days of "high-pressure" advertising and salesmanship it is hard to realize that the old-fashioned mailing lists are plentiful. But one po nt of these lists was revealed recently to a Toronto doctor. For months he had been receiving pieces of advertising literature by mail daily. He began to wonder just how many of these pamphlets came to him in an average 24 hours. For three days, as he opened each and every mail by the envelopes, he tore off the cancelled stamps from the envelopes and counted them. The total was 68. When the last mail had been received on the third day he added up the stamps, and found they had consumers just 47 cents, and most of them were "once" at that. A friend of his, a lawyer, then told of the last harvest, did the same. His total was 41 cents.—Financial Post.

Sagacity Of Dogs

Incident Would Go To Prove That Their Instinct Is Phenomenal

The Homeseeking Pioneer

It is pretty hard to convince people who are much with dogs that dogs don't have reason ng powers.

A young Canadian trapper up in Ontario who had one dentally shot himself far from help tied a note to his dog's collar and sent him off toward the nearest camp.

The dog ran through three miles of brush, swam a river and reached the camp, which sent help immediately to his master.

It wouldn't be much use to try to make that trapper believe that his dog doesn't th nk.—Duluth Herald.

The Final Payment

The disgusted client said to his lawyer: "Your fee is exorbitant. It didn't take you a day to do the work."

"It is my regular fee," said the lawyer. "I am not charging you for time, but for the cost of my legal education."

"Very well; give me a receipt for the cost of your education, so that the next man won't have to pay for it, too."

TWO GRAND CHAMPIONSHIPS WON BY WEST

Chicago—An exhibitor from southern Saskatchewan worked off the powerful American challengers at the Internat onal Livestock Exposition, capturing both Clydesdale championships for h s province.

James A. Johnstone, Yellow Grass, led the western Canada forces to perhaps the most sweeping triumph of the big show when he won first the prime trophy for stallions and repeated shortly afterwards in the mare classes.

He started out by placing first in the two-year-old stallion class with "Sunny Boy" and succeeded in making off with "Mile Maker," first in the progeny of dam class and th rd in get of sire class.

Thomas Davis, a fellow townsman of Johnstone, placed third in the two-year-old class.

The handling of these awards officially ended western Canada's participat on in the show, for judging was completed in the mare classes by noon, at which neither the west nor the east is interested.

Russell Fleming, Whitby, Ont., ran amuck in the breeding Oxford sheep class, to wind up his participation in the show in a big way. He grabbed off the grand championship for ram, and the reserve championship for ewe and flocks of both, and of the nine events in which he placed.

Work Causes For Winter

Hundred Of Men Will Stay At Churchill Until Spring

Winnipeg.—Where hundreds of men have to lie d rling the summer months, planning and building at Canada's newest ocean port, Churchill, 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg, all is now silent.

The "Ding of Churchill"—George Kidd, resident engineer of the department of railways—his rot nue and builders, have departed, and only a few hardy pioneers remain to face what is hoped will be the last winter of "isolation" for the port of Churchill.

The "Missing Spec'al," the famous north construction train that left the Hudson Bay Railway, which has Churchill for its terminus, left the port for Winnipeg on December 2, on its last journey of the season.

From now on—except for the arrival of an occasional ship—the Hudson Bay Railway, which has Churchill for its terminus, left the port for Winnipeg on December 2, on its last journey of the season.

The latter, it was alleged, had publicly threatened the debtor w th prison, had gone off the handle completely, which had cost his dismissal from several posts of employment, and had sent him prematurely gray. The rules of formidable legal documents.

The debt was the sum of £12 9s. 6d. Mrs. Rossi, however, never pursued Bassanio more relentlessly for the sixteen ounces avoirdupois of poor Antonio. Before the public debtor, however, needed no modern Portia to plead for leniency. Judge Bradley, of the Blackpool Court, before whom the case was tried, decided it without fuller ado. He ordered the poor debtor to repay the £12 9s. 6d. without interest at the rate of three pence a month, thus ending his embarrassment and restoring to Mrs. Rossi her lawful yours in which to liquidate the claim.

Many people are almost crippled with corns. But it is needless suffering-which can be speedily ended with Holloway's Corn Remover.

Is Rhodes Scholar

Manitoba University Student Chosen Of Freshman Selection

Outstanding

J. Robert Beattie, of Winnipeg, was elected Manitoba Rhodes scholar for 1929, it was announced by the provincial committee.

Mr. Beattie is a student at the University of Manitoba, and he will go into residence at Oxford in the fall of 1930.

Born at Greenwood, B.C., Mr. Beattie is 18 years old, the son of John T. Beattie, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Winnipeg. He received his early schooling at Melfort, Sask., later attending high schools in Winnipeg, and finally entered the University of Manitoba in 1926.

Six Perish In Fire

Father and Five Children Unable To Escape From Burning House

Alfred, Ont.—Paul Baptiste Sauve, and five of his children, ranging in ages from 3 to 10 years, were burned to death when fire swept their farm house here. Mrs. Sauve, with her infant daughter and eldest son, Paul, aged 12, escaped by jump ng from the second storey as the flames roared through the frame house.

Unable to save her husband and the other children, whose escape had been cut off, the frantic mother threw her one-month-old baby out of the window on to the pillowy snow outside and then jumped after it, where both her legs were broken in the leap and these painful injuries, along with the mental torture may result in her death. It is feared.

With Paul carry ng the baby, she had crawled over the snow-covered ground in her night attire to a barn nearby, where she was later found in a state verging on collapse by neighbors.

When the neighbors arrived the house was a veritable furnace and it was an impossibility for anyone to attempt an entrance.

Russian Reply To United States Over Claim Stimulates Contact

Russian Reply To United States Over Claim Stimulates Contact

Washington, D.C. — Awaiting receipt of the Russian memorandum in reply to United States efforts to negotiate between the Soviet Union and China, forwarded through French diplomatic channels, government officials studied the text of the communication transmitted by press correspondents and informally expressed complete surprise and amazement at the severity of its tone and the haughtiness of the attitude taken in the action of the United States in calling attention to commitments under the Kellogg anti-war treaty for the renunciation of war.

President Hoover and Secretary Stimson are immune to the Russian response of the peace proposals, but together with other high officers of the administration declined to comment.

Subordinate officers of the Senate declined, however, to conceal their fear about speaking their opinion of the new turn in the Sino-Russian situation.

Makes New Record

Saskatchewan-Owned Cow May Top All Yields This Year

Toronto.—By her production of more than 13 tons of milk in a year, Ayrshire Maple Glenside Alcartra, Saskatchewan-owned Holstein cow, has established a record that is da fair to all yield ng dairy cows of the breed.

According to figures given out by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, the record produced in the dairy division of the record performance 30,901 pounds of milk and 1,236 pounds of fat in 365 days, or an average of 3.47 per cent. fat.

This cow was bred by Fred V. Thomson, Ingersoll, Ont., and sold as a yearling to R. G. Haas, Winnipeg, who in turn transferred her to R. M. Thomson, Regina, under whose supervision and management all the above records have been made. Last year, however, after finishing her world's record, she was purchased by the Saskatchewan Government for $10,000.

May Request Salary Increase

Government Likely To Be Approached By Civil Servants

Ottawa.—Indication that the Dominion Government will soon be requested to grant all classes of civil servants a flat sa'ary increase of $100 is contained in the annual message of President Vernon L. Lawton, of the Ottawa Civil Service Assoc at on as published in the current issue of the Civil Service News.

The request which the association proposes to make would entail the expenditure of $300 increase sought in 1927. At that time a flat salary boost of $120 was sanctioned by the government.

American Legation Building To Be Provided At Ottawa

Washington.—Congress has authorized purchase or construction of an American Legation building in Ottawa as part of the program to place all American diplomatic servicing abroad in government-owned buildings.

Chairman Stephen G. Porter, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has visited Ottawa in connection with the project and selected for purchase by the United States, a home and surrounding estate which probably will not be for sale for several years but eventually will come on the market.

Predicts Higher Price For Wheat

Indicated By Figures Given As To Worlds Supply

Toronto — In a special dispatch from Winnipeg, the Mail and Emp re reports George McIree, general rales manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, as disclosing a difference of 62,000,000 bushels between the world's export surplus of wheat and the import requirements. The available surplus for export is estimated at 706,000,000 bushels and the import requirements at 776,000,000. The dispatch says:

"The difference must be made up out of the normal carry-over, representing the wheat usually held over after domestic requirements have been met. The exhaustion of present world surplus outside of Canada would leave the latter country alone with about 310,000,000 bushels of wheat, whereas only 224,000,000 bushels are available in Canada for export, according to the figures."

The inference is that if the figures are even reasonably correct there will be in sight a demand for a pronounced bull market before the end of the year.

Foresees Peace Conference

Sir George Foster Believes Religious Influences Will Move In 1931

Ottawa, Ont. The holding in 1931 of a conference of religious leaders embracing every known faith for the purpose of bringing about peace and the maintenance of world peace, is foreseen by Sir George F ster Philanthropic agencies, he declared during an address on the world s this idea in view he said in addressing the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club.

Sir George did not enlarge on the reasons for his prophetic utterance. If held, such a conference would certainly influence a multitude of people, he said.

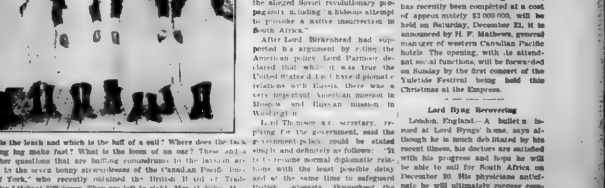
Fair Life Boat Experts



With is the leach and which is the buff of a sail? Where does the back of a standing jump make fast? What is the boom of an oar? These and a hundred other questions that are baffling conundrums to the lay mind are child's play to the seven bonny sire-oldsons of the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of York," who recently obtained the British Board of Trade Certificate for Lifeboat Efficiency. They are left to right Mrs (d Billy Mc-) Johnson, Mrs. A. Chidwell, Miss C. Pendleton Mrs A. Bell Miss A. Jones and Mrs. G Lavender. The examination for the Board of Trade Certificate is the most exacting test of its kind, and requires an intensive practical knowledge of regulations regarding boat and fire drill, fire-prevention, rocket apparatus, breeches-buoy, and artificial respiration from drowning and smoke asphyxiation.

WANT ACTION ON UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION HERE

Ottawa.—A letter to Premier Mackenzie King urging that he call a conference of financial, industrial and labor leaders throughout Canada" has been sent to him by Mr. Montgomery of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. In a statement issued recently, Mr. Mosher referred to a conference held in Winnipeg between representatives of the Federal and municipal governments and organized labor for the purpose of dealing with the unemployment situation there last winter.

Mr. Mosher stated that in his letter to Premier King, he called attention to the fact that in the Winnipeg conference it was ascertained that the wheat crop would be a partial failure, the immediate effect of which would be unemployment in staff, and their example was being followed by other industries with the result that buying power had been considerably diminished. A widespread business depression was threatened.

Seasonal unemployment had appeared at an unusually early period, and the stock market collapse had, in his opinion, exerted an adverse effect fully as great as the proportion of unemployment; and the fear of the unemployment would increase.

According to figures given out by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, the record produced in the dairy division of the record performance 30,901 pounds of milk and 1,236 pounds of fat in 365 days, or an average of 3.47 per cent. fat.

Fighting To Keep Soo Channel Open

Ice Grain Vessels May Be Able To Reach Ports

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—A fight to keep the channel below Sault Ste. Marie open is being made by four tugs of the Thompson Towing and Wrecking Company of the Michigan Sault, so that some 45 fre ghters still in the upper chamber of the lake downbound with last cargoes of grain, can reach the r ports before the icy hand of winter closes the neck of the bottle which from year to year is a menace to mariners both up and down bound.

The fight has been a st rmuous one so far, and at the end of the recent big storm it was feared the ice fight had won. Twelve below zero weather a record for 42 years, formed ice two inches thick below the Sault and the drift ice and slush packed up the rock cuts and narrow channels until it was 10 to 15 feet deep in places. But the tugs got through and released some 30 freighters. The safety gap is slowly but surely narrowing, due to freezing weather. Traffic through the canals is now all downbound, the vessels which have already gone down within the past few days with grain being storag ecarr ers and will not return for another cargo.

Hunter Found By Indians

Was In Starving Condition After Wandering For 5 hours

Meadow Lake, Sask. Lost in the woods and without food for five days, C. L. Galbraith, druggist, of Edmonton, has been found by Indian trappers who combed the heavily treed country near where Galbraith had been hunting. He was exhausted and in a starving condition.

Galbraith, who is about 32 years of age, went shooting with Arthur Hister and George Parad s, also of Edam. He left camp alone to look for moose and failed to show up at dark. He had taken only a small lunch as a noon meal.

His companions, failing to find Galbraith t' mselves, sent word to MacKeWan, near here, that the druggist was missing and search parties constituting chiefly of Indian trappers, were organized.

Movie Of Premier's Visit

Ramsay MacDonald Shown Cabinet Him He Was Esteemed By Canada

London, England.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, at a private film party, let his cabinet, several diplomats and 150 friends see himself as he appeared in Canada and the United States during h s recent visit.

News reel extracts of the tour with talking accompan ments gave the prime minister's colleagues an idea of the k nds welcome he received. The cast members derived considerable enterta nment during the show ng when they themselves made movie appearances had to tell the government leaders how to stand, where to walk, when to talk and sometimes what to say.

LORDS VOTE AGAINST SOVIET AGREEMENT

London, England Lord Birkenhead had the personal sat sfaction of defeat ng the Labor government on Jan 21 in the House of Lords, on a motion that he introduced "That diplomatic relations of the Soviet Government is undesirable

Neither the debate nor the vote, however, resulted in any change of feel ng in the government's announced plan of resuming full relations with Russia.

Lord Birkenhead called attention to the alleged Soviet revolutionary propaganda in India, and h s debate on that point is considerable.

After Lord Birkenhead had supported h s argument by cit ng the American police Lord Parmoor declared that while it was true the United States did not have diplomatic relations with Russia, there was a very important American mission in Moscow and Russian mission in Washington.

Lord Thomson air secretary, replying for the government, said the government's policy could be stated simply and definitely as follows: "It is to resume normal diplomatic relations with the least possible delay and at the same time to safeguard British interests throughout the world. The reasons for the step are in the first place to do everyth ng possible towards the maintenance of world peace, and

The Government snow fences and road clearing program reported for this winter in an effort to keep the highways open for motor traffic will be given full opportunity to function in this district, commencing right away. The 24 hour blizzard on Monday and Tuesday of this week was the first real snow fall we have had for two years.

The Standard readers its contrats lations to Mr W P Pilbe, manager of the Columbia theatre, on his latest move to instal "talkies," which he expects to be in operation by the time next month, or a little later. Mr Pilbe does nothing by halves and the equipment he contemplates is in many respects the same as used by the Capitol and Rialto theatres of Edmonton. Only one other town of this size has the talkies. Besides the costly equipment, the operating room will of necessity be enlarged and two operators required. New projectors are being bought, bringing the theatre equipment on a par with any in Alberta.

The 1929-30 curling season in Vermilion is away to a start, and judging by enthusiasm among both the ladies and men should prove a humdinger. Not more is being heard of hockey at present but no doubt the civic league teams will be brought into action soon.

What a sweet looking junior he'd make we would have with Welsh Bell, Cooper and Art Wiebe still eligible, and Stan Waldenberger, Ken Corean, Jimmy White, Teddy Brimacombe, Wilfrid Fraser, Caines, Erickson and a host of others to choose from. Most of these youngsters got their initiation into real hockey in the Civic league last year.

OBITUARY

Reverend William Mitchelson

On Sunday, November 24th the sad news was sent over the Mineard Mission field that the Rev William Mitchelson the aged pastor of that district had passed on.

Kind reverend, sensible to the extent of denying himself needed rest and comforts, for the cause to which he gave himself unreservedly, he will be greatly missed. Respected by those who knew him loved by little children, one who was always where duty called him, regardless of personal hardships, whether at his small pension accompaniment at the bedside of the sick or at some social gathering his place will be hard to fill.

Kind reverend seventy five years are he in early life went into business but he soon found it impossible to resist the call to the higher service for his Master He preached for forty years in Perth, Scotland The length of this pastorate speaks for itself the success of his efforts After the death of his faithful wife he came to Quebec to the home of his daughter Subsequently he came to Alberta where he preached for several years at Chauvin. Later he came to the Mineard field where he served faithfully and conscientiously for five and one half years

He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs Smith, who resides in Quebec and who was with him during his last illness, besides a host of friends

The funeral service was held at Lloydminster on Wednesday, November 27th, Rev. Dr. Morgeon of Edmonton officiating

LADIES' CURLING STARTS

The ladies curled their first game of the present season this Thursday night, and if the present enthusiasm now pervading all members of the ladies' club keeps up they are due for a fine winter of sport. There are now eight complete rinks and enough members for two more rinks if skips for them could be found. It is confidently expected that the two rinks will be formed after Christmas.

HOCKEY PRACTISE THURSDAY EVENING

The first hockey practise this year will be held in the Arena tonight, Thursday, before the regular skating period. A bunch of enthusiastic Juniors and Seniors alike are expected to show their stuff on the steel blades in preparation for the opening of the Civic league and also for the Junior league which it is confidently expected will be formed along the line this year.

Here and There

Extreme in ocean travel were experienced recently by Baron von Hardenbrock van Lochhorst, Dutch nobleman who was in Canada purchasing stock foxes for his ranch in Holland. He came to Canada on H S Empress of France, one of the most luxurious ships on the St. Lawrence route, but travelled back on Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverhill with the 16 pairs of valuable animals he had purchased in P.Edwards Island.

A romance of mining has been disclosed in Nova Scotia when a boat abandoned mine was investigated and found to contain one of the richest gold bearing silver discovered in the province. The mine had been worked with crude methods many years ago and then given up. New claims have now been filed and prospects are very encouraging. There are said to be many abandoned mines of rich possibilities in the province.

Carrying 195 passengers and a total of almost 1,000 tons of cargo, seven oceans, first cargo of the year from Canada this year, Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia docked at Vancouver recently after a record trip from the Orient. The vessel had aboard a number of Canadian delegates to the Pacific Relations Conference held at Kyoto, Japan.

Direct contradiction of the opinion of Col. Frederick Palmer, American war correspondent, that it would be well for Christian churches to withdraw their missionaries from the Orient, has been voiced by Bishop W. H. Ainsworth, Methodist, Ga., who was a passenger recently on the S.S. Empress of Asia. "Christian missions in China and Japan were never doing better than at present," said the bishop who is in charge of Eastern Missions for the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Southern United States.

The province of Nova Scotia is on the threshold of a period of unprecedented development judging from the record business being handled during the current year by the Dominion Atlantic Railway and the scope of the preparations now under way for the development of tourist traffic," says George E. Graham vice-president and general manager of the railway, on a recent interview.

Total amount of life insurance carried by the people of Canada is at present about $5,500 000 000 or approximately $450 per capita for women and child in the Dominion. The United States with $750 per head of population is the only country in the world that exceeds Canada in the amount of life insurance carried

The 1929 total yield of potatoes in Canada is estimated at 74 982,000 bushels from 566 229 acres, valued at $67 483 000 compared with 67,454 000 bushels in 1928 from 580,000 acres valued at $40 874 000. Quebec province produced the most with 26,520,000 bushels.

Canada's Royal Agricultural Fair harvest of its kind in the Americas continent opened for the eight annual session on November 30 at Toronto with over 17,000 entries a total that breaks all previous records. Two thousand two hundred exhibitors entered including one from the United States.

Weather Report from School of Agriculture

The following are the warm and cold points for this week as shown at the Vermilion School of Agriculture:

	Warm	Cold
Sunday, Dec. 8th	5	—21
Monday, Dec. 9th	—5	—18
Tuesday, Dec. 10th	—7	—11
Wednes., Dec. 11th	—11	—25
Thursday, Dec. 12th		—28

HEAVIEST SNOW STORM FOR TWO SEASONS

The heaviest snowstorm experienced in the past two seasons fell here on Monday and Tuesday of this week. It was accompanied by a cold wind and sub-zero weather. The high wind drifted the snow several feet deep in places and most of the trans roads have been barricaded for motor travel, temporarily at least.

Friday of last week was windy with snow flurries, while Saturday dawned clear and bright and continued so throughout the day, but the mercury showed increasing frost in the air, registering some 12 below zero at midnight. Sunday was a duplicate of Saturday, but Monday was colder, giving way during the night to the snow storm mentioned above and which continued all day Tuesday and Tuesday evening, with the thermometer hovering 5 and 8 below. Wednesday morning saw a clear sky and a bright day, but 19 below at 8:30 a.m. and probably much colder during the night. A few snow flurries came up during the day.

High School Notes

There is to be a party in the High school on Wednesday, Dec. 18th. The party will take the form of a Kiddies' Ball and there are to be a tree and presents. We hope for a visit from Santa Claus during the evening.

Last Friday we enjoyed a rather unusual set of slides on the 1919 Passion Play. They were very interesting.

Several students deemed it wise to bring their lunches the early part of this week.

The scarlet fever scare has been the cause of much swallowing on the part of students to see if their throats were sore.

The Glee Club is proving a real attraction and is now a flourishing institution.

Professor Adam from the University is to lecture here on Friday afternoon. We expect to have an interesting hour.

Ken Corson says the funniest thing seen this week was Rusty Dunstan taking a nose dive into the snowdrift. Rusty says it wasn't funny at all.

Mr. and Mrs. Max B. Palmer of Hamburg, Germany, announce the birth of a daughter on December 7th. Before her marriage Mrs. Palmer was Miss Marjorie Alexander, who taught in the Vermilion School of Agriculture for several years.

Robot Reduces Risks Of Flying and Air Forces Interested in Device

An infallible Robot airman, capable of control ng airplanes of all sizes in all kinds of weather with more dependability than the human pilot, has been produced by the scientists of the Royal Aircraft Establishment, the air department of the London Daily News says.

The Robot pilot consists of a compressed air-driven gyroscope which controls p stons rudder and elevators of any type of machine from the smallest single-seater to the large twin-engined bombers and flying boats. The gyroscope weighs 100 pounds and has been demonstrated successfully over distances of 400 miles, bowing to the human pilot only when planes must ascend or descend.

The Robot is cla med to be infallible and to minim ze greatly the risks of flying. The Daily News correspondent said it was understood the Royal Air Force was contemplating adopting the device for use in future long d stance flights and that commercial a r lines were negotiating for the device for the purpose of installing it in passenger and mail 'planes.

Twelve Years Of The Millennium

Creation Of People Of Russia After Three Years Of Bolshevik Rule

The Soviet government celebrated the twelfth anniversary of the Russian revolution, according to Moscow despatches, by giving Yezsad and mast at cost price to every member of the population holding bread cards."

After twelve years of Bolshevism, the right to buy a square meal at cost price for one day only is the greatest boon the Soviet government can confer upon the workers whom it dominates.

Among great masses of the population, apparently, meat as a component of their daily bread is a luxury to be enjoyed only at such times as annual national holidays, and then sparingly and on a card-regulated allotment basis.

What a commentary on the inefficacy of communism! The political system that was going to make men free has only made men hungry paupers, wait ng in line with their bread cards for the doles of meat that mark such special occasions as the birthday of their pseudo-freedom.—Minneapolis Journal.

Will Represent Canada

Boys' and Girls' Swine Club Winners Recognized By Canadian Pacific Railway

Declaring that there was every reason to believe that they would bring back with them the world's championship in cattle judging from Ontario, Sir Iain next year, Hon. Dr. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, gave words of sound advice, encouragement and congratulations to the three young farm lads who are to represent Canada in the 1930 International Judging Contest, at a dinner given in their honor at the King Edward Hotel at Toronto.

The three boys, Cedrick Kirkpatrick, Gordon Campbell, and Clifford Baldwin, from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Ontario, respectively, were the central figures at the banquet given in honor of the Boys' and Girls' Live Stock Club contestants by W. D. Robb, Vice-President of the Canadian National Railways, under whose auspices the contestants visited Toronto. It is under the joint auspices of Dr. Motherwell's Department and the Canadian National Railways that the three boys will have the trip to Britain for the world contest next summer.

Both Vice-President Robb and Dr. Motherwell took occasion to congratulate the three boys who are the first to win the honor in Canada. The theme of Dr. Motherwell's address to them was "Service to others" in the various forms. There was no question, he said, that these boys, as well as all the winners in the boys' and girls' organizations, have made much good-will to their servants, and must avoid what has brought about the present state of affairs in which the good Master of all is in heaven, and in His judgment there is no respecter of persons, no regard for differences of earthly positions. "Paul does not set them to emancipate their slaves; but he tells them to love them as brethren (Philemon 16). This does not free the slave, but it frees slavery of its evils."—Dominion.

The Ob'igations Of the Rich, 1 Timothy 6:17-18.—Paul has no right to charge the wealthy not to be conceited (highminded), but to set their hope upon riches wh'ch are uncertain. He has no right to tell them they ought to be generous, and their abounding goodwill to their servants, and must avoid what brought about the present state of affairs in which the good Master of all is in heaven, and in His judgment there is no respecter of persons, no regard for differences of earthly positions. "Paul does not set them to emancipate their slaves; but he tells them to love them as brethren (Philemon 16). This does not free the slave, but it frees slavery of its evils."—Dominion.

Mr. Robb, in his annual address to the club members, said, that the winners being honored represented nearly six thousand farm club members in Canada, and the movement was growing. It had been invaluable in raising the status of the Livestock industry in the Domin on, and the Railway was the only loo gical to be of service in this regard. Dr. Black, Director of Colonization and Agriculture, for the Canadian National Railways, told of the policy of his department to co-operate with the Federal and Provincial authorities in all movements for the improvement of live stock.

Nearly one hundred agricultural officials from all over the Dominion were present at the dinner to honor the young farmers who had won the championships.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 7.1-5.

Explanations and Comments

—Laws Regarding the Treatment Of a Servant. Deuteronomy 24.14, 15.—The law in regard to the hired servant was that, whether an Israelite or of another race sojourning in their land, he must not be oppressed. He must be given his wages at the end of the day, for being poor, he was in need thereof; otherwise would he make known to Jehovah the fa lure and it would be accounted a sin against the master.

—The Unification Of Servants and Masters. Ephesians 6.5-9.—In the days of Paul all servants were slaves, and here in his letter to the Ephesians he bids servants be obedient to their masters, with fear and trembling, that is, with anxious desire to please them, and with undivided allegiance, as unto Christ. Under the test of last week, when Christ speaks of deeds done to others as done to Him, they should not give eye se vice, merely that they may please their human masters, but as slaves of Christ, do the will of God heartily; performing their labor from the heart unto God, not unto men; knowing that the good service of every one, whether a slave or a free man, shall receive from the Lord.

—The Mastery likewise have their duties; they also must show goodwill to their servants, and must avoid what brought about the present state of affairs in which the good Master of all is in heaven, and in His judgment there is no respecter of persons, no regard for differences of earthly positions. "Paul does not set them to emancipate their slaves; but he tells them to love them as brethren (Philemon 16). This does not free the slave, but it frees slavery of its evils."—Dummelow.

If Every Person Was Convinced Bible Is Not Divine

A Church of England clergyman declares that the Bible is "not the word of God." Many people will agree with him, although not all will admit their agreement. But when it is said that the B ble is not divine, or that it is contradictory and inaccurate, what is there left?

The Bible remains the fount of inspiration for the human race. It is a staff for the young and a crutch for the old. It comforts in adversity; it cheers in prosperity. It is eyes to the blind, and feet to the lame. No man can fail to grow in spirit who reads it daily, or sets aside a portion of Sunday for its enjoyment. If civilized on lacked the Bible we should be in the Dark Ages. If another such book came to be written, should we not call it divine?

Really An "Air" Plane

A Russian aeronaut'cal expert, Prof. Rikolin, has a pet theory in which claims that aeroplanes flying 30 or more miles high in the air need no fuel. He claims that an increased supply of hydrogen at that altitude could be exploited in a spec al engine and furnish power to propel the 'plane, thus running the 'plane on air.

Illusion Destroying Facts

Despite Press Talk, Nations Are Continuing To Maintain Armaments

Says the Manchester Guardian: Fifty-five per cent. of the Br tish budget goes to pay for past wars, and 15 per cent. to prepare against future wars—that is to say, war costs us 14s. in the pound. In France the proportions are almost exactly the same. Our present real expenditure on armaments is just as high as the average during the years 1909-1914. The same is true of France. Italy spends considerably more than she did in those years. Russia has been augmenting her expenditure on armaments by 20% during the last few years, and is, in spite of her poverty and her reduced size, approaching the average expenditure. The United States beat all records—their expenditure on armaments has nearly doubled.

Germany's position is to consider-able—she is supposed to be "disarmed," and yet she now manages to spend a third of what she spent upon her colossal army and fleet before the war. The "economist" has done a public service in tabulating these illusion-destroying facts.

Lands Of Mystery

Labrador and Baffin Land Are To Be Surveyed From Air

In spite of many hasty explorers there are still quite a number of blank spaces on the map of the world. One of these areas is Baffin Land and the country "in back" of Labrador. This region is to be seen and surveyed by Commander Donald B. Macki lan next year. Commander MacMillan w ll use aeroplanes in this survey and expects to make photographs.

A land journey through such country would be so expensive both in money and in human endurance as to be almost prohibitive. In the long nine or ten months winter the snow and ice are very deep, and in the brief summer the growth of scrub pine is so dense as to make even foot travel impossible, except by wading through the streams.

Baffin Land and Labrador have long been lands of mystery. The Eskimos along the coast are mysterious enough in themselves, for they bear a marked resemblance to the modern Mongolian who lives half way around the world. Occasional travellers into the hinterland have reported strange races different from the Eskimo, some of which were said to be savage. The few wh to people who have settled along Labrador are curious, too. They have not prospered in any material sense, and their odyssey seem to have done them nothing but harm.

Labrador and Baffin Land are mysteries not only so far as their inhabitants are concerned; they long ago ceased especially to kindle guessing as to their natural wealth. Fish, of course, is a well established natural resource of Labrador, although the profits of the fish ng industry do not as a rule go to the fishermen themselves, but to the Newfoundland m'ddleman. Lumber is also there in profusion, but except for pulp it is not to the Newfoundland m'ddleman. Lumber is also there in profusion, but except for pulp it is small, and the bad winter, coupled with the long haul, has prevented any important development. The fur trade is old and profitable. Then there have been grandiose schemes to extract wealth from the blank and distant region, ranging all the way from gold mining to finding some use for its quantities of snow and ice. Silver fox farming, that highly uncertain industry, and reindeer raising have been attempted. The imported Norwegian reindeer soon blended with the native caribou, and the silver foxes appeared to be unable to res'st the blandishments of their red brethren.

The MacMillan expedition may turn up something of real commercial value in this vast and unknown area. It may do even more than by acquiring data of scientific importance. Science has been interested for a long t me in the shifting weather in this region and have speculated on the possible effects these shifts may have on weather in the temperate zones.

Primitive Water Pipes

Hollowed Tree Trunks Used in London In Early Days Still In Good Condition

An interesting relic of old London has just been unearthed in the Strand. When workmen were excavat ng the subsoil to a depth of about three feet they came upon a length of the old hollowed tree trunks, which used to supply the metropolis with water in the days before iron pipes. Elm trees were used on account of their power of resistance to damp, and many sections of these "pipes" which have been dug up from time to time in different parts of London have been found to be in almost as sound a condition as when laid down. These wooden water mains began to give place to iron pipes in 1810.

MADE IN ENGLAND
The Improved Glass Substitute
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH
THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, the universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.
Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease.
Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding those vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pla's and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.
Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now widely used in stables and household requirements.
WINDOLITE made for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light but strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, brooders and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold —will not crack or chip—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 11 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness weighs about 135 to 140 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Hails Coming Back

Untold Article Of Confidence Whose Appeal Has Been Again

The mail is coming back. A New York woman has appeared on the street of Winnipeg, Manitoba, wearing one. Replying to cautious inquiry by a reporter she advised h m that she was influenced by fash on for the coming winter.

That may mean little or nothing to the lesser generation which regards mufls as relics of the time when women fainted and wore stays. But to the grey haired men who remembers si pping his hand into his mother's muff ior a momentary b t of warmth or comfort, it will be like meeting an o'd friend. The muffs of those days were generous affairs and constituted a sort of furry mine for coins and bits of candy by those who had stashed a claim. No picture of a skating girl was complete without the muff pressed sga nst her face to ward off the wintry breeze. As an aid to better understanding and promoter of the art of hold ng handed the muff was in winter what the parasol was in summer and something better.

Up until the time of the Restoration in the seventeenth century, men wore muffs but women put them to such much better use than mere protections for the hands that men gave them up and pretended to scorn them as effemin te. Modern woman may not decline to return to long skirts and a corsated waist! se, but it is at least possible that she will restore the muff to favor. The modern muff is small, not much larger than a double mitten, but the idea is really immaterial.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Engineer Works Out Plan Of Lighting By "Sky Solar"

Northern exposure is eagerly sought after by artists will be a thing of the past, if the experiments of Frank H. Hartman, Chicago engineer physicist, are successful. Windowless build ngs is the theory upon which he is working.

The practicality of the idea will be tested in an experimental laboratory which Hartman will construct this month, eliminating for windows will be small outlets along the outer wall and many the ceiling through which reflectors will project the sun's rays and flood the room with sunlight and sky blue.

According to Mr. Hartman, windows are wasteful of heat, distract attention of workers in offices, are inefficient for ventilation and occupy part of the architecture of a building. They are but a necessary of custom in these days of high buildings where only the topmost windows derive any advantage from the sun, he claims.

Success Means Hard Work

Experience Of Centuries Proves There Is No Royal Road To Success Coke

In a leading art cle headed "Advice to the Young," the London Daily Mail says: Sir Charles Wakefield gave admirable advises when he declared that, in all his experience in every part of the world he had never found a man who had succeeded in life without hard work, and a capacity for taking pains. Luck may play many spec fics are offered for success, and soft opinions are made dangerously attractive. Yet the experience of centuries teaches that the most valuable lesson a young man or young woman can learn is that there are no short cuts to success. Brains are not enough: combined with a power and love of hard work they are bound to succeed. Irresistible. It would be hard to find a single instance of a man or woman who has reached the be'ghts of any profession or business who has not from early life worked harder than his or her contemporaries. Nobody gains the palm without the dust. Youth should remember that all the great men of today must be filled by them tomorrow.

Increased Use Of Milk

43,625,000 Gallons Of Fresh Milk Consumed In Canada Each Year

Statistics have shown that Canadians eat more butter and eggs per capita than the people of any other country. A recent survey made by the Canadian Federal Department of Agriculture shows that one of the favorite beverages of the people of Canada is milk. To satisfy the d-mand for fresh milk alone takes 43,625,000 gallons a year or about one pint per head of population per day. This increased use of milk has been brought about largely not only by a better appreciation of the value of this product in the diet, but also by the improvement that has been made in the product on and general handling.

"Certain personalit es stood head and shoulders above all others," cont nued Miss MacPhail. VEGREVILLE WILL PLAY CIVIC HOCKEY THIS SEASON

According to the last edition of the Vegreville Observer the fans in that town are to be treated to hockey dished up by city teams for the hockey year 1929-30, and teams were being lined up for the new league. They expect to have enough players for four contenders. Vermilion in planning on having the same type of hockey, and also expect to delve into the entertainment from it, as it was in the city league last year that some of the best games were waged, and towards the end of the season some good crowds were turning out to see veterans and youngsters alike perform. Just what is actually being done along hockey lines in Vermilion we do not know, but probably will be surprised one of these days by having a fully drawn up schedule of games thrust under our nose, and with players on each of the four teams of last year all lined up and ready to go. At least, everyone is hoping that this is the way it will be.

The Vegreville team was given a last minute opportunity to enter the city series league but decided, probably because hard and fast amateur hockey is played in that league and if the western town was to rely on local talent entirely they won't stand a poor show of gathering in many points in the city column.

BINDER — WENER

The marriage of Aalida, daughter of Mrs. Wener and the late Mr. A. L. Wener of Vegreville, Alta., to Mr. Samuel Binder, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Binder of Edmonton, Alta., took place on Sunday, Nov. 24th at 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Spivak, 171 Machray Ave., Winnipeg. Rabbi I. I. Kahadtchik officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. D. Spivak, chose for the occasion a brown chiffon dress, with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Miss M. Spivak, attendant to the bride, wore a dress of royal blue crepe with colored applique. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. Mark Danaker acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held for the immediate relatives. Mrs. Wener, mother of the bride, wore a black lace dress and corsage of American Beauty roses. She wore a black felt hat.

The young couple are on pension at the Port Carry hotel for several weeks.—Western Jewish News.

GREAT BRITAIN wants more Canadian foodstuffs. The plain fact is that the increase in trade in some of our food exports to the old country is not keeping pace with the growth of demand.

Britain's markets are wide open to Canada. Because of the exhibitions of Canadian products, the activity of our Trade Commissioners, and the effects of our advertising, the British consumer is more familiar with these products than ever before, and consequently more inclined to buy. Good will in Great Britain towards Canadian products never has been at a higher point than now. All the facilities of transportation for all classes of products from Canada to Great Britain have been provided.

Shall we Canadians overlook or neglect the opportunities for increased export trade which are thus laid before us?

Just because domestic markets are good, shall we as producers be so short sighted as to fail to satisfy so large a market which is more favourably inclined towards our products than ever before?

Not yet is there among our producers an adequate realization of the opportunities for increased production which present conditions in the British markets afford.

If you are a producer or dealer in foodstuffs, you can assist to your own profit in gaining a larger share of this market. Almost every community in this country stands to benefit. The result can be attained by:

1. Producing more of the kind of products the British consumer wants.
2. Keeping up a constant supply.
3. Maintaining quality standards.

Through its Commercial Intelligence Service, this Department will render valuable assistance to any exporter. Our Trade Commissioners' Offices in Britain are especially well-organized and specially placed to handle any export problem in behalf of Canadian exporters. Enquiries regarding British Trade receive prompt attention. Write to the Commercial Intelligence Service, Ottawa.

THIN ICE

Ice has formed once more on river, lake or slough and as in former years this ice has given way and there have been deaths from drowning. Common sense and the experience of other years should dictate caution in the first few days of the freeze up. However, with a moderate number of people around who think it is "sporty" and daring to take a chance, there always will be accidents and it is wise to have some knowledge of what to do in such an emergency. There is no time to wring one's hands and shout for help. The help must be instantaneous if it is to be of use. Give the victim confidence in your ability to help him, this will prevent him wasting his energy in needless struggles. Then get a fence rail and push it along the ice and across the break where the drowning person may catch it and be pulled to safety. A gate, a ladder, a hockey stick attached to the coats to a length of scarves, or even a human chain lying flat on the surface of the ice, each person clasping firmly the ankles of the one ahead may be used for the same purpose. Whatever method is used must be used at once as there is grave danger from shock, apart from danger of drowning.

When parties go skating it would be wise to take stock of possible aids to rescue to be found in the immediate neighborhood of the lake or slough.

Literature on First Aid to the apparently drowned or for shock, may be obtained free, from the Canadian Red Cross Society, 497 Civic Block, Edmonton.

JACK MINER

Jack Miner, while recently on a lecture tour through the Canadian West, received several letters from members of the Humane Society, in which they requested him not to advocate the killing of the crow. As the letters were quite amusing, he caught answer them, but has written the following statement which we print below:

Jack Miner in Following Open Letter Answers Members of Humane Society regarding Killing the Crow:

To my friends of the Humane Society who have written me in the circles suggesting that I advocate the poisoning of the crow, will you please allow me to give you the wholesale fact.

Now first of all, please let me say that I am a member of the Humane Society and I certainly do not want to kill any bird but the crow and I consider him a menace to the progression of the worst kind, and I consider our immediate duty is to get rid of him.

I have taken pictures before and after the introduction of the farm [illegible] that will be of interest to you. [illegible] but by the [illegible] and I am going to do some [illegible]. I know that the crow is continually searching for eggs and young birds during the spring season, and I do not think that [illegible] people will [illegible] them for [illegible] and I am willing to [illegible] at 10 cents per piece.

Now I know it would be easier for me to [illegible] but if the crow is [illegible] I am not here to [illegible] but by the [illegible] and I am going to do something. I know that the crow is continually searching for eggs and young birds during the spring season, and I do not think that [illegible] people will [illegible] them for [illegible] and I am willing to [illegible] at 10 cents per piece.

If that black cold-blooded murderer can find them he will feed his family on their naked young eggs and [illegible].

Yes I agree with you that God made the crow and He also made the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and I have not been a [illegible] for over forty years.

Now my dear Human people, we have a man down in Ontario who can speak to the trees and says that the same power that made the deer also made the sheep and the wolf the same power that made the sheep also made the wolf to be a ravenous sheep killer and [illegible] and grown and how many sheep will your offspring have to pay for. You [illegible] and [illegible] that you will have more to pay for the first year than you will the second.

Now my Humane people, let us take God at His word and not humanize, but examine our the baby kitten and [illegible] and let the [illegible] and destroyable multiple.

Remember the [illegible] of crow controls the [illegible]. He [illegible] for us, His evident to do, so let us work [illegible] for what is the best for the most people.

Unusual Historic Interest Is Attached To The Main Water Routes Of Northern Canada

Practically speaking all the main water routes of Canada have been travelled for a century or more. The veil that for so long obscured the movements of the early travellers and traders is being slowly lifted by modern surveyors and with the progress of organized mapping methods almost limitless lands of scenic beauty rich in resources, are revealing themselves with the stage all set for an era which will be theirs, the area of northern development.

In the new Pel can Narrows map, now in coal Edition, National Topographic Series, embracing 3,800 square miles on a scale of four miles to the inch, presently released from the presses of the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, another segment of their surprising importance is brought to the notice of Canadians.

The map is featured by the Churchill River, with the Pelican Narrows, 201 miles long, from The Pas by Sturgeowwoir River to the Churchill, over Frog Portage, uniting the southern portion to two. The Rideer River, which is the main route leading to Reindeer Lake divides the northern half.

As long ag as 1775, Joseph Frobisher of Montreal Northwest company fur trader, discovered the turgeowwoir River route from lumberland past Pel can Narrows to Frog Portage on the Churchill which became known ever since the main waterway leading to the northern interior and the great Mackenzie Basin.

Frobisher was so successful in his first year's trading that he was unable to carry away all the furs he acquired. In 1776 Alexander Henry the elder, and the Frobisher brothers, built a post at the point and that year obtained 12 000 beaver skins from the Indians besides large numbers of deer and marten.

Peter Pond, also from Montreal, followed Frobisher's route to Frog Portage in 1778, and eventually reached Lake Athabaska. His map of 1785, said to have been sent to the Empress of Russia, is the first one that shows the Churchill from its source to its mouth.

After Pond came those distinguished forerunners of the surveyors of today Philip Turner, surveyor for the Hudson's Bay Company, in charge of a survey party with Malcolm Hoome and Archibald surveyed the Sturgeowwoir River up to Pel can Narrows, and on to Frog Portage in 1791, and from thence made a track survey of the Church il to its source His report is in the best offic e of the company in London His sketch map was incorporated in Arrowsm ith's map of North America.

David Thompson greatest surveyor of them all, traveled the country between the Pelican Narrows Reindeer in 1794, and surveyed the portion of the Churchill thereon to the mouth of the Ile Reindeer River and the Reindeer Reaif to Reindeer Lake which has off the map to the north. Below the junction of the Reindeer and Churchill the Indians report the remains of an old trading post supposed to be the Fairford House built by Thompson.

Another famous explorer surveyor, Peter Fidler between 1807 and 1809, repeated Thompson-s survey of the Reindeer and the portion of the Churchill in the newly-mapped area.

For nearly seventy years afterwards until the late Dr. Robert Bell reported on it, the Upper Churchill was ignored by ge-ographers With the issue of the last le Rouge Pelican Narrows and Kissisaing map sheets by the Topographical Survey, 144 years after Peter Pond's first crude map, the portion of the river is completely and accurately mapped for the first time.

Today, as in the old days when travellers were almost wholly dependent upon it the fishing never fails Sturgeon who lefish lake trout pickerel and pike plentifully populate the bewildering waterways of connecting lakes and rivers

Poultry Improvement Work

Quality Of Stock Being Continually Improved In Canada's Hatcheries

Dissemination stations distributed over the country and operated under the direction of the experimental farms service have been having a big influence on the improvement of poultry. In the Eastern Quebec station for four years ago, there were 4,000 purebred birds kept on the farm. This stat ion then in operation. In the report of the chief commissioner of the stations, for 1929, published by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, it is shown that last year 1,650 of the 1,900 birds kept on twenty-two stations in the same part of the country were purebred and principally of the Barred Plymouth Rock breed.

The securing of these better birds has induced a number of the operators and adjoining farmers to improve their housing accommodation. On some of the farms houses have been built to accommodate 300 birds, and on other farms old buildings have been remodelled making needed improvements in light and ventilation. The quality of the stock is being gradually improved by ut ilising more and more purebred cockerels from stock which has produced 200 eggs or more in a year.

This work has so improved flocks as to make them breeding centres for the districts in which they are situated. During the year under review, there were sold from these stat ions for breeding purposes 516 cockerels and 439 pullets. There were also sold 7,631 settings of hatching eggs.

Just Another Fallacy

Candy and Other Sweets Do Not Injure Teeth

Are you one of those who still cling to the belief that such things as molasses, maple syrup, sugar and candy are injurious to the teeth and thus should not be given in quantity to children?

Then banish the idea to the place where you have cast the equally silly notions that tomatoes will produce cancer, and oranges make your blood acid.

So-ientists are proving that teeth are built up and worn down largely from within. Food is, of course, very important—but chiefly as it enters the blood stream. A well-balanced diet in which there is an abundance of calcium is the best assurance of a perfect set of teeth.

As for candy and other sweets making the teeth ache, that is a different story altogether. Teeth ache because they have cavit ies and need attention—and sometimes a little extra prompt ittle warning friend one could think of.

A well-known physician recently had several puppies with large amounts of the sugar called glucose for three years and no decay appeared in their teeth. So don't worry about your teeth when you eat something sweet. If a nerve is struck with the dentist, and thank the place of candy for warning you in time to catch a small cavity rather than the large one which would have developed so quickly.

Province Wide Campaign Is Conducted In Manitoba For Promotion Of Oral Hygiene

Mouth health is a matter of reliance. Evidence of this fact is contained in a public health report, just issued, which departs from the customary stereotyped phraseology to relate a human story.

Report of the Manitoba Mouth Health Campaign, issued by the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, is in brief, a synopsis of a province-wide drive for the promotion of oral hygiene. An effort, organ ized, principally by the council drew up the report. It developed into co-operative campaign under the auspices of the Manitoba Dental Association, and under the sponsorse of the provincial department of health and education. With the two names of the Red Cross, and the active aid of practically every public organization in the province, length and breadth of Manitoba which from Emerson to The Pas was covered.

Local committees appointed, and the dentists of the province gave their skill, time and whole-hearted enthusiasm to the task. The examinat ions were individual, each child getting a chart, a list of health suggestions and professional advice gratis.

In a manner of speaking, this service was a pacemaker. Its purpose was to eliminate to the rising generation, the dental ill-health prevalent in the past, to the treating and remedying of wh ch, naturally, these pains men devote their careers.

But the romance of dental surgery is the social aspect of the affair. In the sparsely-settled sections of the north were many children who had not the services of a regular dentist. To these, of course, knowledge of the principles of oral hygiene as taught might forestall unhealthy conditions was of extreme importance. But there was the problem of the treating that existing cases badly in need of it and not only too far from the ordinary dentist's surgery to be reached, but without the financial means to secure it if it were available.

Here the services of them new Canadians from lands where dental hygiene received scant attention—a fresh travels by cl ine past the superation and over 1,900 children received treatment.

The dentist in charge, Dr. Frank Livingstone, describes his trip to these scattered communities in a series of vignettes unlike which are to be found elsewhere. Tents ache because they have cavit es and need attention—and sometimes a little extra prompt ittle warning friend one could think of.

A well-appointed dental surgery, with all the equipment at yet another town. Here we set up office in the kitchen of a party-built home. That institute was a Nursing Service Cottage. The ch ldren are willing from the country, brought in by little trucks and cars, and as built on them, complete even to a small warming stove. This is a fish shipping district, and the people of was in the ways of w nter travel.

"Evenings spent in the dispensary." he says of another village, "where the wails much the bugs log-burning stove, and where one needs must wear mackinaw indoors to keep the body heat in. Talks of travel and books and cases."

The travelling clinic reaches an outpost hospital.

"Another service station for humanity. A place of hope, the centre of community l fe and a leaven working in the treacherous mass of fe ings torn surrounding it. A place where children came in hundreds, walking miles through blinding snow, or by trails, in groups shepherded by district mothers and nurses. Cases, and cases, and cases, requiring relief and burrying away to find a little stster or brother.

"Cases! Six-year-olds with abscesses draining through the neck. Thanks to her other and the resident physician. Chewing on screws that had suffered so long they had grown out of the tooth and hardened themselves with a tissue coat to stand the shock of mastication. Teeth twisted and turned and appearing in almost all places in the mouth and all stages of decay. Cases!"

At another town, the dentist pulled in at midnight to find the children waiting for him.

"An extra steel toboggan was provided and the kit piled on it. Many were the laughs we had later of that pull through the snow in the pitch dark. To t'a day, he promised that one of us would go up north and the other south inside the rope that would have done credit as a hawser for an ocean liner. This time, a log cabin to work in with a bedroom as a waiting room.

And Saturday night. Two other cases on the dis ng room table." he notes of another small community, with the generous assistance of the mother next door. Later when the l ttle pat ents were chirping round their bed and away to a game of cards on the same table. Such are the contrasts of life."

On Sunday, a Saskatchewan father and mother called with a little tot of five, one of the worst cases on the entire survey.

"Again the other bottle appears," says the dentist, "and while the father hovers fearfully in the next room, despite words of encouragement, the case is cleared up. Does the little one be explaining in a foreign tongue, all her sensations to her relieved parents.

A side trip in a worn motor had its own excitement. "We cause the last ten miles by giving the car its first part time on the running board to keep the old car balanced and out of the ditch. Never have I been more look better at the five a.m. journey's end.

"And for a fitting climax to the trip was the last ride through a fair imitation of a blizzard over trails and through unmarked muskeg."

These picturesque incidents, picked at random from the report show why it is called by the introduction, that "a campaign of this type must be a vital contributing factor in nationbuilding."

Improving Herds and Flocks

Building Up Dairy Herds and Developing Good Types Of Livestock

Co-operative breeding work carried by the Dominion Department of Agriculture as a part of the exper mental farms system, considerable attention is being directed to building up dairy herds on the stations and to developing good types of livestock. The majority of the station operators are using purebred sires and many of the stations have established pure-bred or high individual milk records and making butter-fat determinations in order to determine the production of each animal.

A study of the years production of milk and fat on the dairy stations has revealed the need of the adoption of improved methods. In his report to Ottawa, the superv sor of the illustration stations, puls shed by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, it is stated that the average production of butter-fat varies from 408 pounds to 121 pounds on the different stations. Indeed, on one of the farms it was found that the average yield per cow was only 74 pounds of butter-fat. These results show the need, and possibilit es of systematic breed ng and selection.

On many of the stations the herds and flocks have been so built up as to make them valuable sources of breeding stock for the farmers in the district. During the past year it to the value of $20 head of cattle, 301 sheep, and 302 sheep for breeding purposes.

The Singing Fool

By MURRAY HALL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, is loved by Grace Dale, cigarette girl, but he doesn't know it. He marries Molly Wilson, a ballad singer, but after he wins fame as a composer of popular songs, Molly runs away with John Parry, Al's best friend. The couple take Al's two year old baby, Junior, with them. Al, broken hearted by the loss, disappears from Broadway for several years. Finally he returns to the night club where he first knew Grace Dale, and tries to shame him into staging a comeback. When she w-ll not help him by later how he drifted downward. In a rage, Al threatens to kill her.

CHAPTER XXV.

Now Al was in front of Grace; his thin hands reached toward her throat, but she did not flinch or make a sound. She felt the lean fingers go round her white throat, while the beaming, cheerful face was a level with her own, then above her. The fingers tightened—he was pulling her closer to him. She half closed her eyes—well, if he wanted to kill her, let it come. She loved him still—she knew it at this final moment.

But as Al felt her graceful young body against his own the instinct of the killer subsided—she was so young and beautiful, and—suddenly the reason for her harsh attitude became apparent to him. She was afraid mad. She was do ng it to help him. The tens on in him snapped, his hands loosened about her throat, and his head was buried against her breast. As she felt him sagging Grace's arms went around him, holding him close. Her radiant face was lifted in a prayer of thanks.

She could not think of one thing, she loved him, she was go ng to pull him back to courage and life! Finally his head rose.

"I'll do my best, Gracie! I'll make good—I'll show my kid his daddy isn't a fog!"

At that moment Blackie appeared at the door, took one look, and tiptoed away.

Al stared at Grace. "I can do it if you'll stand by," he suggested.

Grace nodded. "You can count on me, Al," she wh spered tenderly.

As Al spoke Grace realised the full sign ficance that lay behind those words. He was saying that his comeback depended on her, but he was also suggesting something more that he still wanted her in his life. Did that mean that he loved her—at last?

Her top ng head she reached up to stroke his hair. H s hair hadn't changed, at any rate. It was the same thick mass of black it had always been. She was cont used and embarrassed, and she felt tears fill up her eyes in spite of her effort to fight them down. Then Al's face became misty before her.

"Everything will be all right, Al," she whispered. "You've got the stuff—we both know that."

She was really talking to fight her way back to self-control. She realised now the fearful price she had paid in desperately trying to put Al out of her thoughts during those past three years. The effort had taken terrific toll from her emotional nature; no wonder the knowledge that Al needed her and asked her to stay close to him produced a shattering reaction.

Some vague feeling of this reached the young song writer, but he couldn't be sure of the cruse. He saw Grace's beautiful eyes dimmed by tears, but for all he knew this display of sentimental emotion on her part m ght come from a merely maternal feeling or from the generous pity that had made Grace feel kindly toward almost everybody. He had never known that she loved him.

"Thanks," he said. "I did write a song several months ago, but I thought it wasn't any good, so I put it away. I'll look over it gone. Would you like to hear it?"

"Of course I would, Al." Grace answered quickly, afraid of an escape from her own h ghly charged feelings. "Sit down at the piano—by it."

Al moved hesitatingly toward the piano. "I'm not sure I can even play it—my fingers are like bread sticks. But I'll try."

He pulled the stool up to the keyboard and ran up and down the scales in preparation. Then, almost unconscious to him, his fingers were more supple and stronger. But of course he now had a reason for playing.

"It's called 'Among My Souvenirs' and it starts like this."

The song was sung in a voice searching the pathos of the words. Grace leaned against the piano, chin in hand, her eyes staring straight in front of her. Now the mist of tears had passed. She was able, to see Al clearly and to watch every attempt to hide her joy in his presence.

H's voice rang unwaveringly at first, then faltered, and finally ended almost mute; that golden voice that ran the emotional scale so easily from humorous to tragic seemed to have left it forever. If anything, its emotional quality had been deepened by his tragic experience.

Grace was thrilled, first by the song, then by the gaze of affection that Al fixed on her. The knowledge had passed from h s eyes, he had forgotten his stiff, sore fingers. He had only memories of the past and the vision of Grace before him, so that the change of his face made him a different person from the dissipated wreck that staggered into Blackie's place an hour ago. In that flashing moment his almost became the old Al.

At the last note of the song ended, and suddenly Al slumped down on the piano stool, burying his head in his hands and on the keyboard. The h stasis of singing and playing was too much for him.

Grace came around the piano rapidly, putting her arms about him, wh spering in his ear:

"Don't think of it, Al—know it's hard at first. But the song is beaut ful. It will be a success—I know it! And it's only the first step."

"Do you think so, Gracie?" Al raised his head. "Do you really think so?"

"I'm sure of it."

Then Grace turned. Blackie was at the door, standing.

"Did you hear it?" she whispered.

"Yep." Blackie nodded. "It's a wow. One of his best."

Blackie was h s ry beaming. When Al wasn't looking, he beckoned to Grace to slip away for a moment. Then he went back to the main room and waited for her.

"I can see you've pulled him out of it," whispered Blackie, "but how on earth did you do it?"

Briefly Grace explained. Blackie patted her approvingly on the shoulder.

"You're a smart kid, Grace, and I hope Al appreciates you. You've made a good sta t, but you know it will be awfully easy for him to slide back again. Make him find h mself a decent place to live and make him buy h mself some decent clothes. That helps a lot."

"Sh-h!" Grace put her finger to her mouth, afraid Al would hear. "He won't let him slip back—you leave him to me."

Blackie chuckled as Grace hurried back into the room with Al; already she was assuming a possessive manner toward h m that delighted Blackie. He couldn't be in better hands!

It was nearing—again the customers had all left, the chairs were piled on the tables and the scrub women were busy cleaning up. Again the windows of the main room were thrown open, allowing the stale smoke from cigars and cigarettes to drift outside in silver sp rals.

"Al, you should be going home to get some sleep," said Grace gently.

"May I walk along with you?"

"Of course, Gracie. Let's go."

As they started for the main room Grace glanced down the dressing room corridor. She recalled that morning more than three years ago when she had overheard Al and Molly planning marriage. Then she had run away to hide her tears. How similar this morning was, yet how different. Now she was walking home with Al and he had hugged her to "stand by."

Down the narrow stairs they went. But when they reached the street Al swayed for a moment. Grace took his arm.

Parcels Sent Out To Cheer the Needy At Yule-Tide Season

The kindly old Saint whose name is honored once a year in every special place in h s heart of hearts for the soc ety that remembers the little children of the settlements the nurserioners to Canada. In many a small log cabin in the northland, in many a small prairie shack there will come large and important looking parcels, bearing a well known seal, "that of the Red Cross. Parcels that are especially selected with the thought of the family's needs. For often the newcomers have no idea of the severity of the Canad an winter and are unprepared with the warm and comfortable bedding which is of first importance. That is why there may appear in some of the parcels a bright red quilt, which cheers the heart of the weekly program which the Society broadcasts from C.J.C.A., Edmonton. There will be scarves and mitts and socks and baby garments and of course toys to please the little ones. It is a message from the Red Cross Headquarters as the month of December draws nigh, for many of those parcels will be destined for Alberta

Pick Delegate To Parliament

Vermilion Agriculture Students Choose Representative

For the purpose of electing their representative to the Tenth Alberta Boys' parliament the student body met in one room of the dormitory on Saturday evening. The meeting was called to order a few minutes after seven o'clock and, as first speaker, Wm. Mushmyer was called upon to take the floor. In a striking and forceful manner he outlined the party platform of George V. Hawthorne, leader, and gave something of his leader's history

Stanley Watson next took the floor and presented the party platform of Jack Colbert. Richard Pick then presented the program of his party as represented by Wm. Pettigrew, leader. "Dick" spoke in an easy, self possessed manner that quickly won and held the sympathy of the audience. A vote by ballot was then taken and Pick was returned by a close majority over his other candidate.

Constitution Passed

Following the election, Wm Ross took the platform and presented to the students for their approval a constitution for the students' council This constitution had been drawn up by a committee of three students in connection with the staff, and in form it was modelled after the constitution of the academic council of the University of Alberta. It's purpose is to regulate all the councils in the school with the aim of greater co-operation and efficiency of these bodies, to regulate the social life of the students and to enforce discipline. The council is to be composed of a boy and a girl elected from each year

A good deal of discussion was had over some of the rules and one or two amendments were made, but even finally the constitution was accepted as presented

The Christmas Spirit

Local Organization Formed To Bring Christmas Cheer To All Those in Need

An Association has been formed representing all local men and women's organizations, churches, etc., for the purpose of collecting any clothing, bedding, shoes, etc. that can possibly be spared for distribution to those people of the district who may be in need. It has been arranged to have some one call on each householder on Thursday and Friday of this week to gather this material and it would be appreciated if you would carefully look over anything which might be useful for this purpose and have it ready for the collector when he calls.

VERMILION W. I. REVIEWS ACTIVITY; ELECTS OFFICERS

VERMILION, Dec. 17. — Mrs. J. Witherspoon was elected president of the Vermilion Women's Institute at the annual meeting held recently and Mrs H. Fraser was elected vice-president The other officers for 1930 are Mrs T Bennett, secretary; Mrs J Pope, treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Pink, advertising secretary; Mrs Cameron, Mrs. F. Frith, Mrs. Bennett, directors; Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. J. W. G. Mc-Clark, auditors

Activities of the year included 26 visits to the Old Folks' Home, 13 mothers were guests of the Institute at a special meeting in May when a tea was given and a bouquet of flowers presented to the oldest mother present. Other activities of these ladies, to mention a few, were supplying the needs of the students and to enforce discipline. Support is to be promised of a boy and a girl elected from each year

A good deal of discussion was had over some of the rules and one or two amendments were made, but even finally the constitution was accepted as presented

GOVERNMENT BUYS MORE LAND FOR AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

Plan Announced Some Time Ago To Be Carried Out

The land north of the school of Agriculture and owned by Mr. G. G. Mason, has recently been acquired by the Provincial Government and will be added to its holdings in the district. The acquisition is in keeping with the plan announced by the Hon. George Hoadley on his last appointment here, that it was intended to make Vermilion the educational and agricultural centre of this section of Alberta. The land will be laid out in lawns and flower beds as well as providing plenty of room for playgrounds

To Cut Air Mail Schedule

Possibility Of Pick-Up Service Proved By Tests

An air mail pick-up device, capable of receiving and discharging mail sacks while an airplane is in full flight, may only enlarge air mail schedules fifteen minutes in an hour, according to the American Air Transport Association, which says the tests of the device already made, promise its future adoption on many of the country's trunk-line air mail routes.

The latest being made at Youngstown, O., have proved the feasibility of catch-up-a-mail bag of mail as it swings on the end of a 75 foot cable Attached to a plane in full flight. The device consist of a V-shaped trap, built in the ground As the mail bag from the plane is caught in the trap, the device automat cally attaches another bag who it is hauled up into the plane. Film tests are being carried out in the receiving and discharging of mail at sea, on the S.S. Lovisa-han.

The theory of such postal vehicle, air mail operators and the inventor are working on, is that an air mail plane can leave an airport, swoop down on the pick-up device, haul the mail in a mail or device near the post office in city to the other end of the line, and then go on to that city's air-port.

Telephone To Ship At Sea

Can Communicate By Phone With Liners a Thousand Miles From Shore

Communication by telephone from the sea inland with ships at sea became a permanent, commercial project with the inauguration of service between New York and the liner Leviathan, 200 miles off shore, bound for Europe.

President Walter Gifford, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, formally opened the service by "roaring up" Captain Cann nghiem of the Leviathan.

The first actual commercial message to be delivered to the Leviathan by telephone came from Atlantic City, where, in a hotel room, William H. Rankin, advertising man, chatted for few minutes with Sir Thomas Lipton, a passenger. Rankin is the first man to pay money for such a privilege.

The service was perfect, Rankin said. The noted yachtsman informed the advert ising man that he will return to America next June, hop ing to win America's Cup with the Shamrock V.

Telephone Company officials said communication with ocean liners will remain good until the vessel is beyond 1,000 m les from shore. The first rate for a three-minute conversation between New York and the Leviathan is $21. with an additional $7 for each additional minute.

Pedestrians Wear Lights

Safety First Measure Is Adopted In the Streets Of London

Irate drivers of automobiles soon will be yelling "Lights!" at pedestrians, if a growing custom becomes an vereal. Traffic has become so congested in London, that many pedestrians are rigging themselves with lights to warn motorists of their presence in the streets. One type of rear lights consists of an electric light and collector mounted on a him'ous card worn on the back, and suspended from the shoulders by a cord.

Canada's Highways Important

The highways in Canada are becoming increasingly important year by year in the economic structure of the country. Over them is carried a very heavy traffic, both passenger and freight, especially between the large c ties and towns. At the end of 1928 the total mileage of surfaced roads in Canada was 64,121.

Four Motorists Escape Injury

Four motorists came into collision at the same time at Birmingham.

Remove sardines carefully and entirely from a box of sardines. Place on a platter, and surround with wreath of parsley or cress. Cut radishes in the shape of flowers, and arrange in the parsley. Cut lemons in halves, cross-wise, and then cut in deep points. Arrange at ends and sides of platter, in the parsley. Serve very cold.

Fruit Men Study Co-operation

Representative fruit men of British Columbia have gone to the Prairies to watch the handling of their crop and learn the attitude of the consumers and the retail trade.

The sound of a bell which can be heard eight miles away through fog can be heard through the air only 600 feet.

Among some Indian tribes it is improper for a mother-in-law to speak to her daughter's husband.

X-Ray Can Be Measured

To Determine Combined Effect Of Quantity and Quality

"X-rays may be measured as accurately as the pharmacist measures drugs in the drug sto-e," said Dr. A. Mutchler, of New York, in a paper before the convention of the radiological society of North America, held recently in Toronto. "In modern medicine the greatest forward step was made when methods became known by weigh accurately a given drug and then also when its physiological strength could be determined. The importance of these two determinations arises out of the fact that of drugs not only the quantity must be known, but also their power of effectiveness. The same holds true with regard to X-rays, for the measure of their effect depends neither upon their quantity or quality alone but on the combined measure of both."

A Record for Safety

Big Hudson Company Operates Plant For Two Consecutive Years Without Lost-Time Accident

The great campaign for the prevention of accidents and the safeguarding of human life that is being carried on by energet c organizations and the press of the country has many tang ble results that are decidedly encouraging to the sponsors of the safety movement.

Last week one of the large industrial concerns of Canada celebrated a full year of freedom from lost-time accidents, by giving a banquet to their more than 400 employees. This company, the Canadian Industrial Canvas Company, Limited, whose head office and plant is located in Toronto, has devoted a great deal of time to educating their employees to the importance of working safely, and the Safety Committee is constantly devising guards for the machines, re-arranging time-tables of work ng hours and diverting the process of manufacture so that each employee can work to the limi t of his or her ability with the least danger to life and limb. Even from accidents that might cause loss of t me and injury and reduce their earning power.

To make safety more impressive, the Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation presented, with a handsome gift, a cheque for a full year without a lost-time accident a handsome bronze plaque. The presentation ceremony was that the record is maintained a bronze bar is added to the sh ed. It was to celebrate the anniversary of which this Canadian plant operated without a lost-time accident and earned the bronze bar that the Company gave their employees the banquet in the bandstone, completely equipped cafeteria which is a part of the plant.

Besides the hundreds of employees who attended the banquet, a number of d stinguished guests were present and addressed the gathering. These included Mr. H. G. Montgomery, general manager, Ontario Industrial Accident Prevention Association; Mr. F. Moran, head of Industrial Welfare and Department, National Carbon Industrial Works, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mr. Spence Moran, general manager, Dominion Oxygen Company, Limited, Toronto; Mr. W. H. W.sson, head of Industrial Relations Department, Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation, New York; Mr. H. R. Pollock, assistant general manager, National Carbon Company, Limited, Toronto; Mr. W. R. Fritz, assistant works manager, National Carbon Co., Limited, Cleveland, Oh o.

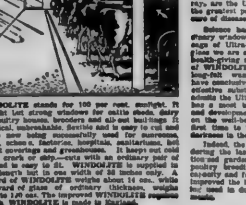
The gathering was entertained by Mr. Montgomery Hood, who has been heard regularly through the Company's own broadcasting station, CKCK, Toronto.

"Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased."

They laughed when he stepped to the plane. "A few months ago I couldn't play a note," he began.

"No," explained his eager shipmates.

"Nope," replied the sailor, "and I can't now either."



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light let strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses and all out-door buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for nurseries, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, hot beds, plant growing and greenhouses. Just unroll—cut off crack or chip,—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and nails on easy to use. WINDOLITE is made any length but in one width of 32 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square foot of glass of ordinary thickness weighs about 125 to 1.20 ozs. THE CHILD IN A CHRISTIAN WORLD

Golden Text: "Suffer the little children, and forb'd them not, to come unto Me; for to such belongeth the kingdom of heaven."—Matthew 19:14.

Lesson: Matthew 18:1-6; Mark 9:36, 37, 42; 10:13-16; Luke 9:1-5.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 11:1-9.

Explanations and Comments

The Birth Of Jesus At Jerusalem verses 1-7.—Mary and Joseph left their home in Nazareth and went to Bethlehem which had been the home of their ancestor David in order to be enrolled in "their own city." As Cesar Augustus had decreed. It is eighty miles from Nazareth, in Galilee, to Bethlehem, in Judea, and the journey must have taken them several days. They left Bethlehem a man and wife and Mary laid Him in a manger, because there was no room in the inn. The so-called Church of the Nativity, in Bethlehem, is built over the traditional s te of the manger.

The Shepherds and the Angels, verses 8-14.—In this beautiful story we are told that on the hillsides were watching their flocks by night in the field, an angel appeared unto them before them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid. The angel bade them fear not, for he was bringing good tidings of great joy, which should be to all people. And this was the good tid ngs: "There is born to you this day in the city of David, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." He does not simply say, Christ is born, but to you He is born." Luther points out: "neither does he say I bring glad tidings but, 'to you I am bringing tidings of great joy. Furthermore, this is to be to all people." We do not know about the angels. But two very wonderful things we do know. One is that they represented heaven as the home of heaven made visible. The other thing is that they began to tackle the business of heaven made articulate. The unseen found its way to the shepherds. The unheard found its way to the human ear. The climax of the story is reached in the moment when the angels as representing the wistful nose of heaven bending eagerly over the earth, while the earth in the shepherd calls show to understand.

Suddenly a multitude of the heavenly host appeared and praised God, saying "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased."

The Shepherds and the Babe, verses 15-20.—When the angels departed the shepherds said to one another, "Let us go to Bethlehem and see what the Lord has made known to us." They were astonished at the message that had come to them, but they were not incredulous. They went in haste, and found the holy family. To Mary and Joseph they told what they had heard concerning the Babe. All marvelled, and Mary rela ted the words in her heart, pondering them over and over.

The Shepherds returned to their humble task of keeping their flock, as natural of grew up upon their lips.

"Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased."

Contesting Canada's Claim

Fleet Georgy Arctic Sphere Ownership Is Proved, Says Norwegian Premier

Canada's position with regard to sovereignty in the Arctic archipelago is declared from the air, in a statement in June, 1923, by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, it was made known in Governmental circles at Ottawa. News despatches from London had intimated that Prem'er Mowinckel of Norway, contested the right of this country to mark out sectors of the Arctic as possessions up to which Canada's boundaries were paramount. The Norwegian premier asserted in a speech at Bergen that Norway adhered to the view that territory could be claimed only when it had actually been occupied, and that since Canada had not occupied all the Arctic, this country's interests in unoccupied territory could not be safeguarded.

That the opinions of Premier Mowinckel in this respect will not affect the right which Canada claims to the Arctic islands north of the Canadian mainland, between longitudes 60 and 141 degrees, was flatly asserted by Government offic als. Several attempts had been made in the past to dispute Canada's ownership of that archipelago, but recognition was now general, and Norway appeared to be the only one that was still contesting it.

Use Of Old Formula Upset Decorum Of British House

The decorum of the British House of Commons was disturbed the other day by a members use of time-honored formula which proved, in this instance, to be out of place. Amid constant applause, Miss Margaret Bondfield, M nister of Labor, gave an answer which she concluded by Frederick Hall, Conservative.

"May I press the Right Honorable Lady to speak up her really tells, when he was interrupted by uproarious shouts of "No!" Sir Frederick apologised and reframed his query.

Heavy Land Sales

C.P.R. Disposes Of 111,282 Acres In Saskatchewan In 11 Months

Sales by the land department of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the 11 months of 1929, in Saskatchewan, amounted to 111,882 acres, accord ng to figures released by officials of the company at Saskatoon. The acreage was purchased by 627 sett'ers. The large majority of land purchases were made in the northern part of the province.

A further feature of the sales was in fact that practically all the farms purchased were acquired by new set-tlers.

Grows Championship Wheat In a District Supposed To Be Unsuitable For Farming

To win the world's championship for hard spring wheat is no small achievement in these days of world champion growers, but to grow wheat in a district that was supposed to be unsuitable for wheat growing, a district that people years ago left as impossible is a feat that has not been duplicated since world championships for wheat were first established. Yet such is the experience of J. H. B. Smith, a farmer living at Wolf Creek, east of Edson, on the main line of the Canad an National Railways.

The experience of Mr. Smith is in many respects similar to that of other men who have brought this coveted honor to western Canada. Coming from Le'cester, England, in 1907, he engaged in ranching before he took up a homestead in the Wolf Creek district, in 1913, when the country was supposed to be good for farming was not his profession, he soon began to show signs of a successful rancher. The following year he took three first pr'zes at the Edson Agr cultural fair for wheat, oats and potatoes. In 1917 he went back to the land and has remained on his homestead ever since. Farming has been the only business he has followed in this one place for oats, but it was not until 1920, that he began to tackle the world show at Chicago, when with his first attempt he took 15th place for oats. In 1924, he took 17th place with Marquis wheat and he has shown every year since 1920, with the exception of one year when his crop was hailed out.

Besides the exhibits he has been send up for Chicago, Mr. Smith was among the list of successful exhibitors at Canadian fairs for years, and has been a consistent prize winner in one of the most consistent growers in the province. Some years ago Mr. Smith began to turn his attention to new varieties of wheat, and in spite of opposition he pinned his faith to the new Reward wheat, which in the climate of western Canada he brought the championship to him. He has stuck fast to this faith, tended his plots with unremitting care, and this year his labors were rewarded with such a fine sample that for the first time he fell under the eye of the judges at Chicago, declaring as he did so, that the wheat that would beat it had not been grown.

Floor Of Atlantic Shifts

Earthquake Along Eastern Coast On November 18 Causes Submarine Upheaval

That the bed of the North Atlantic was sh fted as a result of the earthquake of November 18, was indicated at Halifax in reports from cable ships assigned to the task of repairing the submerged breaks. Soundings showed that the floor of the ocean had been moved and that fishing banks had shifted as a result of the d sturbance

Breaks in the cables connect ng the old world with the new have been plotted over an area 400 miles southeast and 200 miles northeast of Halifax. In some cases several breaks occurred in the same cable over a distance of 100 miles.

Sales At Saskatoon Stockyards Increase

Will Total More Than Two and a Half Million Dollars This Year

Sales of livestock at the Union stockyards at Saskatoon will total more than two and a half million dollars this year, or more than three times the sales in 1926, when the amount was approximately $800,000.

There are eight public stockyards in Canada, situated at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Prince Albert and Saskatoon. Saskatoon is the most recently established of the eight. Packing plants are located at all of these points with the exception of Saskatoon where the yards have only been in operation for two years.

The principal exports of the business at Saskatoon makes it inevitable that a packing plant will be located here in the near future." W. D. Blackwell manager of the Union stockyards here, stated. He foresees a rapid growth in the export livestock in the Saskatoon area.

More than half of the animals sold through the yards come in by trucks. "There is a growing movement to-wards mixed farming in the area around Saskatoon," Mr. Blackwell said, "and a great improvement in the type of livestock kept. Nearby farmers are finding that they can feed animals to advantage and the result is seen in the months 907 cattle, 92 calves, 1,135 hogs and 300 sheep went out to feeders.

In addition to the local sales amounting to an equ valent of 1,083 carloads of livestock during the past interior, has been surveyed from the International Boundary northerly to lake Athabasca. Saskatoon is on the straight line of nearly seven hundred miles, constitut ng one of the longest surveyed straight lines in the world

Alberta-Saskatchewan Boundary Surveyed Straight Line

Follows Straight Line For Nearly 700 Miles and is Longest Surveyed Straight Line

The boundary between Alberta and Saskatchewan is the Fourth Meridian of the Dominion Lands survey system. It was established and monumented with the 110th meridian of west longitude and under instructions from the Surveyor General. Starting from the International Boundary northerly to lake Athabasca. Saskatoon is on the straight-line through-billing. In the opinion of Mr. Blackwell many of these would it will not be the last time."—Toronto Star

VERMILIONITES STILL SHIVERING IN GRIP OF COLD SPELL

2 Above to 37 Below Range of Weather for Past Week

What promised to be a break in the cold snap last Sunday failed to materialize, and practically all of Alberta is still in the grip of the cold snap which is running well on into its second week. The days for the past week ending this Thursday have without exception been bright and clear with plenty of frost to make people move briskly. The warm and cold temperatures as registered at the Vermilion School of Agriculture are as follows:

	Warm	Cold
Thursday, Dec 12	—15	—25
Friday, Dec 13	—12	—31
Saturday, Dec. 14	— 8	—35

CHRISTMAS PROVERBS

THE BIBLE is an invitation to the whole universe to rejoice for ever gonna happiness as long as he is under our roof.

It is the greatest book in the world for men and women.

Yes, all the years have an eye to Christmas.

And God will send both to keep and love the doors.

—Sixteenth Century Carol.

People Who Belong to the Christmas Season

THERE are some people who seem to belong to the Christmas season by nature. They are:

People who begin always about now at the approach of a New Year to wrap eyes all inside and outside who they talk to their children.

Ladies who like to surprise mothers with presents they really want.

People who hyperbole stories.

Riders who don't try to overcoat or brothers' hats.

Children who want to have money for Santa's reindeer.

Storekeepers who do not forget that the mistletoe is entitled to more than the bag of pressure he carries for others.

People who never think decorating is any trouble.

People who just love the smell of Christmas greens.

People who think there is nothing lovelier than holly.

People who think there is nothing more pleasing than a fireplace.

People who love candle light.

People who are shy near mistletoe.

People who like Christmas carols.

People who like calendars.

People who like nuts and raisins.

People who like turkey all the week.

People who like plum pudding all the year.

These people seem so belong to the Christmas season by instinct.—By Mary Graham Bonner.

World's Armament Bill

No Single Nation Spends As Much For This Purpose As United States

From the London Economist you learn that the world this year is spending $4,300,000,000 for military establishments. Of this total, the United States spends more than any other single nation. We are first—by no means an enviable record. For a country that boasts of its isolation and freedom from entanglements — with an expenditure of $879,000,000 England is second with an expenditure of $570,000,000.

All of Europe spends 60 per cent of the total; the United States spends 30 per cent., and Japan and the rest of the world spend the remaining 10 per cent.

Leadership in armament is at least one place at the top which no nation should wish to hold. With ordinary persons dedicted, the United States is spending twice as much for armament this year as in 1913 Europe, the world's greatest field for war, can show a better record. And it is bad enough. The Econ-omist says.

"These figures mean that the European countries other than Germany devote to armaments almost as much in real values, account being taken of the rise in prices, as they did before the war and considerably more than the average for the period from 1909 to 1913. To bring those armaments down to the level obtaining in 1909 there would have to be an average reduction of 30 per cent. from the level of 1925."

But none of the nations included among the great powers has cause for pride in its armament bills this year. Historians in the future say of governments in 1925, or specifically of the government of the United States that it spends 80 per cent of its budget for wars past and future, and of the government of Great Britain and France that each spend approximately 70 per cent.? And how cut one it will seem to take such a course? How can people feel long after so-called efficiency experts came into the world - Buffalo Illinois...Herald.

Animal's Keen Instinct

Many Have Intuitive Sense Not Known To Man

Many animals and birds seem to possess an extra intuitive sense not known to man.

The saying, "Rats will leave a sinking ship," indicates a strange foreknowledge on the part of these creatures.

Fish, birds, and animals are invariably true weather prophets. See-h-birds know by some curious sense when a storm is approaching. Though the weather is fine and the sky gives no warning of a coming storm, they are moved by some common impulse to make their way inland. Wild geese will also fly from the approach of a thunderstorm.

Ants will desert their nests, taking their babies and eggs with them, twenty-four hours before the outbreak of a forest fire

The War Profit

The great nations which have signed the Kellogg pact to outlaw war, are, this year, spend-ng $4 000 000 on armament. But this immense expenditure is not made in preparation for war. It is made from habit, and in response from pressure to keep the armament manufacturers profitably employed and the armies and navies going strong and feeling good. — Toronto Star

China Breaking Up Estates

China has broken up the estates of princes in Mong-lia by giving $4,-000,000 worth to peasants. The princes who let go peacefully are paid with 3 000 roubles worth. If they resist, they are left with 300 roubles worth. If the peasants make war, landowners. China will go far towards feeding herself on more than rice

Ravages Of Arthritis

Causes Untold Misery and Attacks Both Men and Sexes

Attacking both man and beast, prince and peasant, rich and poor, indifferently throughout the ages, arthritis, an almost disabling half again as many people as tuberculosis, was described by Dr Laurence H Snyders, of Chicago, at the 15th annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America, as easier to prevent than to cure.

"Where tuberculosis is responsible for suffering of six out of every 100 people, who suffer total disability," Doctor Mayers an d, 'chronic arthritis is responsible for nine.

"Chronic infective arthritis," he said, "is but another name for rheumatic rheumatism. Whether it is the deforming type or the type characterized by swelling, the disease is just the same, differing only in the tissues involved. The skeletons of a man and animals dead for unknown centuries bear more evidence of the ravages of this disease among them Chronic arthritis seldom if ever, kills, but it is a cause of endless pain and disability, it has no peer among the diseases affecting the human body

"Chronic arthritis is far more easily prevented than cured. It is always preceded by an infection, usually a focal infection. This focus is usually accessible for surgical removal and in most cases may be located by radiography as to the teeth and accessory sinuses. If it is not allowed to remain with its constant feeding of poisonous matter into the system, arthritis does not develop.

"Preceding this joint condition, which dominates the picture of the disease, known as arthritis, there is usually a history of fatigue, loss of appetite, slightly low grade temperature, and again one might say a general break in health From these symptoms we have known that there is a subtle poison being constantly supplied to the body and that the infection is merely one, in its advance way until the joint and muscle pains develop to clarify the picture

"The treatment of the joints, as a local condition, is not a logical procedure The hope of relief must lie in detection and removal of the focus of infection, discovery by serologic methods of the definite germ causing the disease, since there are many types of bacteria which may be responsible, and finally the administration of a vaccine treatment as will neutralize the toxin, or by stimulating the body cells to the production of neutralizing agents."

France Has Plenty Of Wheat

People Will Be Eating Practically All-French Bread

France is returning to virtually all-French bread. Under new legislation for the assistance of the farmers, Theo. Jean Hennessy, Minister of Agriculture, has fixed the quantity of French flour which is to go into the making of French bread at 97 per cent. This proportion will not be modified unless there is a shortage in French flour, or if the holders compromise the country's food supply by restricting their offers of flour or demanding exaggerated prices.

The minister's intention is to return to the good pre-war French bread, which M. Hennessy describes as "tasty, strengthening, easy to digest and health giving, which with French water has contributed to the endowment of our race with its qualities of vigor and endurance."

The prefects are to report in January, February and March on the progress in their respective departments under the new regulations. "Under the law," the minister observes, "I am entitled to control the price of bread."

The ministry's action results from the record wheat crop in France. In consequence of heavy supplies, the prices of wheat dropped lower than the level at which wheat could be profitably grown, according to the farmers. The measures also include an increase in the duty on foreign wheat.

The wheat bureaux, which will make a special study of markets and of scientific methods of stimulating wheat growing, will also be created.

Missed On Scripture

The London Advertiser tells of a man who went to church and learned to his astonishment that Sodom and Gomorrah were not man and wife, as he had supposed. He must be like that golfing chap who got back to church like other day after a summer-long absence but was so tired out that he snoozed right through the sermon. When he came home he told his wife that the text was in the epistle from Dan to Beersheba, but he'd forgotten chapter and verse

Nearly Two Hundred Miles Of Excellent Roads Enclose Prime Mountain Resort

Nearly two hundred miles of excellent roads radiate from Banff, Alberta, the finest mountain resorts of Banff National Park. All of these roads, with the exception of the Spray Valley Road, are open to motor cars. The Spray Road, reserved for the use of horses and riding ponies, is one of the most delightful routes for a gallop in the park. Winding among the pine trees, and skirting the Spray River, it affords fine views of Mount Rundle, named after Rev. Robert T. Rundle, missionary to the Indians of the Northwest from 1840 to 1848. Mount Rundle is also seen from this road which is open for seven miles to all saddle horses.

Educational Motion Pictures

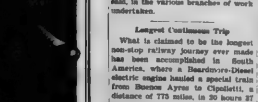
Nation-Wide Lecture Plan Is Also Of Interest

A nation-wide lecture service through the utilization of educational motion pictures is being planned by the National Museum, at Ottawa.

For some years the museum has conducted a course of free lectures for school children and adults on appointed days, and it is planned to extend the course over the entire country through the distribution of films.

Already the museum has formed the nucleus of a motion picture library and is adding to it as rapidly as the organizations willing to pay the cost of shipment.

Civilization has been the cause of many new diseases, according to one scientist.



Chemistry In Practice

Study Now Closely Associated With Practical Side Of Life

Chemistry, in its earlier days regarded as a purely academic study, is now so closely interwoven with the practical side of life that it is being increasingly discussed in terms of industry, economics and human safety. The world was formed the subject of chemistry on the attention of millions of persons. Of course, all previous use of explosives had been based upon chemical laws, but when dispatches from the war region began to relay reference to chlorine, phosgene, mustard gas and tear gas, the public mind commenced to perceive the existence of a realm of unfamiliar phenomena that was likely to have an important influence on the political destiny of the world.

Fortunately, chemical knowledge has application to the arts of peace in ways that are even more obvious and more extensive than those used in war. In industry and agriculture, chemistry is being applied in a manner that is almost revolutionary. Newsy developments along synthetic lines suggest possibilities of future achievements that are staggering in their scope. Perversion of fires is only one of the services of chemical combinations. Without this protection, fire insurance companies would be subjected to still higher risks than they now face, and to more formidable losses, in spite of high premiums.

Science Seeks Milder Onion

Trying To Produce Larger Vegetable and Reduce Flavor

A milder on'on may be offered to the American public eventually as the result of experiments which have been in progress about four years at the Massachusetts Agricultural College experimental station, says a United Press dispatch.

While the main object of the work has been to aid in the development of larger and more prolific onions, the tempering of the vegetable's notoriously strong flavor has become an ultimate goal.

Experts working under the direction of Professor J. F. Jones are using 67 different strains of onions in connection with their experiments.

Reason Enough

An old Scots minister was tireless in visiting the members of his flock. He had noticed the absence from church of one hitherto regular attendant.

"Donald," he said to this man, "I havena seen ye in the kirk lately."

"Na, sir."

"Well, ye ken, I wad like to know the reason."

"Weel," replied Donald, "I hae three decided objections. Firstly, I dinna believe in the immortality of the soul. Secondly, I dinna believe in hell; whaur ye do it the tellin's sae' thirdly, it was there I got ma wife."

Farm Training For Canada

Better Selection Will Be Made In 1926 Immigration Year

Better methods of training and selection will be predominating factors in the choice of the 1926 quota of British farm trainees for Canada. The announcement was made by the Department of Immigration and Colonization in connection with a statement of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal in the MacDonald Labor Government, that 3,000 trainees would be sent to the Dominion next year. The number will represent a reduction of 500 approximately from last year, with the trainees who came this year.

Each of the trainees who migrate to Canada in 1926, it was learned, must have a minimum of three months' training at one of the farm training centres now in operation in the British Isles. In the course of their train'ng stricter attention to the personal essentials of Canadian farm life must have been given to qualify their admission: while there is a decided improvement noted, in point out of the more rugged pain and general hard manual labor. Opinions for these trainees on Canadian farms will be secured by the Department of Immigration and Colonization.

Back to 1928, products of these farming schools have been entering Canada for farm work.

In each of the years 1926 and 1927 several hundred trainees came to the Dom'nion, and this number increased to 1,500 approximately in 1928. This year about 2,500 trainees are coming to the Dominion. Some men found unsuitable for farm life in this country, it was stated, are being returned.

New Use For Generals

Honduras Finds Them Good Bosses For Road Building

Honduras has found a use for "revolutionary itch" has been a success this year in Honduras. It has also answered questions as to what the government should do with its huge crop of generals.

Generals, of course, are supposed to fight wars, and when there is no fighting some of them grow tired of idleness and sometimes try to stir up trouble excitement. So the government decided that work would be a good outlet for these pent up energies There were plenty of roads, but the seventeen army districts which 19 of the restless up rits could command. So there were plenty left over.

Honduras needs roads and the generals are good bosses. So the superfluous commanders were directed to oversee road gangs. Events proved that after spending a day in the hot sun of the lowlands, directing the work of road building, any general, no matter how much of a general he is, feels inclined to disquisity rather than to starting a fight

Good Roads In African Congo

Motor Chiefs Had Them Made Fit To Travel In

An American manufacturer of automobiles cables the news that wonderful highways are being built in the Congo, in the centre of Africa, states the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Native chiefs have been presented with handsome new automobiles. They found themselves equipped to travel and no way to go Their subjects were not used to the building roads. Then competition started Each chief wanted to be the speed king of the district and he ordered a road in his region had to be made fit for speeding. The result is that a motorist can travel for miles on ultra-modern highways in darkest Africa and his only danger is in traffic problems with speeding chiefs at the wheel.

The Tractor In Farm Work

Many Jobs On Farms Which Can Be Done More Economically With Horses

Before horses are dispensed with in favor of tractors for farm work, it is well to make a careful calculation as to the cost of operating a tractor. In doing this, two main and somewhat distinct items must be considered. These are fixed or overhead cost and direct operating cost. The direct operating charges include fuel, oil and the labor in making the repairs. In order to determ ne the daily cost of operating the tractor, the total fixed or overhead charges for the year should be divided by the number of days of work the tractor does annually. To this amount must be added the direct operating cost, the fuel, oil, and wages of the operator. It will be seen that if the machine is used for only a few days per year the fixed or overhead charges per day will be very high because these charges do not change with the increasing amount of work done to a slight extent in so far as the repairs are concerned. However, if the tractor is operated a large number of days in the year the daily overhead charge becomes small.

The cost of operating a tractor has been figured out by Dr. E. S. Hopkins, Director, Field Husbandry, who has carefully gone into the matter during a period of several years. In this, Number 118 of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, entitled "Cost of Producing Farm Crops in Eastern Canada," he has found that the average daily operating cost amounted to $6.66 for a two-plough tractor, and $8.50 for a three to four three-plough tractor. The tractors on which information was secured by Dr. Hopkins had turned a considerable amount of custom work over and above that done on the owner's farm. In this work the most was done in a must follow that the overhead charges would have been somewhat increased. Dr. Hopkins' bulletin includes tables which explain the items which enter into the study. On the question of horses and tractors, he points out that a two-plough tractor not only ploughs more land in a given time as much per day as a two horse team, but does this at one-half the cost per acre. Then, too, over and over again there was found to be a fairly substantial saving, while for harrow ng, it is found to do the work nearly as cheaply as the tractor. It should be remembered, states Dr. Hopkins, that the tractor is also found to be done more economically with horses than with the tractor. The place of the tractor is to supplement the work of horses and to provide power for belt work where conditions warrant its purchase.

Another Catch Question

Most Requires Less Ire Than Same Quantity Of Fruit

Another catch question recently dealt with in a Department of Agriculture bulletin is, "Which would require the larger piece of ice to keep it cool, a ten-pound piece of beef or ten pounds of ripe peaches?" The peaches have it, for, as explained, "the peaches, as a rule, present a different case. The peaches are living. Physical and chemical changes are in progress. The fruit is growing. It is taking up oxygen and is liberating carbon dioxide and water formed by the oxidation of its sugars This chemical process is accompan'ed by a production of heat, and the heat would have to be removed ice is the refrigerator which would not be melted if the meat roast were substituted and kept at the same temperature as the peaches."

Predicts Welded Highways

Highways made of one single strip of steel welded together and extending for thousands of miles are predicted by Bennett Chappel, addressing the International Acetylene Association of Chicago. He also foresees the making of steel bathroom outfits welded into one unit, including all fixtures, before it left the factory.

The Singing Fool

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie's New York night club, is loved by Grace Porter, a gigantic girl, but he doesn't know it. He marries Molly Wilson, a ballad singer, and wins fame in a contest of popular songs. When their baby, Junior, is about two years old, Molly elopes with John Perry, Al's best friend. She and Perry take the child Al adores and sail for France. Al, broken by the loss, becomes a derelict. Months later he drifts into Blackie's place at night, where Grace, for whom still loves h m, shames him into the promise to stage a come-back. They have the club together shortly after dawn, but as they reach the Street Al staggers

CHAPTER XIVI.

"What's the matter?" Grace asked anxiously.

"It's just the effect of coming suddenly into the sunlight after all that has happened—back there. I'm not quite sure of myself and my directions. And I look so terrible downand-out in this bright daylight.

It was true. Al's appearance was painfully seedy, but Grace dismissed that.

"We'll soon fix everything," she said confidently. "And Al—?"

"Yes."

"If I'm to help you, you must give me your full confidence—tell where you're living and promise not to run away again."

"I will, Gracie," Al answered earnestly, in the tone of a child who wants desperately to make a good impression. "I'll promise."

Grace smiled in spite of her attempt to subdue a trifle stern.

"Well, then, come along."

As they strolled along the quiet street, with Grace occasionally sending a happy glance up into Al's face, she could not help but realize how their positions reversed from the time when she had first known him. Then she had been a frightened child and his, protector. Al had protected her from the rowdy customers at Blackie's place. Now she was almost leading that same man as if he were a child, protecting him and encouraging him constantly. Her heart was ready to burst with pride and love

"Where do you live?" she asked. "Is it over there," said Al, vaguely ind cating the East Side. "You know"—he paused irresolutely—"I hate for you to walk over there. It's such a dump. Just a rickety, cheap hotel- almost like a flop house."

"That does matter to me," said Grace qu ckly, "but if you'd rather go home alone, all right. Only don't think I care about your clothes or where you live, or anything like that. I just care about you."

There was no mistaking the look in Grace's eyes—Al read and at last that she loved him. Yet he marvelled at it — how could she love a down-and- outer like him? He felt a rapid throb under his dl'apidated vest, an emotion he had not known for a long time. He wanted to put his arms about her and tell her how much she meant to him, but he held back. This was neither the time nor the place.

"Before you go home," suggested Grace, "walk over to the Square with me. I live near there. We can sit on a bench and talk for a while. It will be good for you."

Al nodded. Presently they emerged from the congestion of streets to the wide green expanse of Washington Square.

"You look beautiful it is," said Grace. "I thought it would make you feel better. The leaves are turning and the sun, and see how s on the green buses look pure gold against the trees. Here, we'll try this bench."

Al sat down and rumpled his eyes hair closed. The autumnal mo ning sunlight slanted down from between the skyscrapers, transforming the-shop across the level expanse and lighting the white arch. Italian slum children played on the mouth, and, due to the northern part of the Square the children of the rich toddled about, usher ed by watchful eyes of nurses.

"You say you live near here?" Al asked finally.

"I'm just around the corner on Waverley Place. I have a room."

"Oh yes." Some hint of Grace's rather high position for her surroundings to Al in that one sentence—"I have a room." She had a room but, like the Bonguards of other girls in the metropolis, she had no real home, no family, nothing much but dreams. Yet she lived heavenly and without annoyance, thought, Al, while he — The sentence remained unfin shed.

"Grace," he said, "you're the most wonderful girl in the world. I know it—at last. We'll talk a great deal about that later. But now you must go home and get some sleep, I'll go my way and—I'll see you tonight at Blackie's."

Grace stood before him, eyes glowing. "Thank you, Al," she whispered. "I'll be there." Her hand acted. Suddenly he leaned over and kissed it.

"By-bye, little one, it's I who should do the thanking. . . . I'll be there at one tonight and, if clothes can make a difference, you'll see a different person." He turned hurriedly and left her in his glad garments. And listen—you see that hotel over there—the one in"

"Yes."

"That will be my address tomorrow. Then we'll be near each other and I can walk home with you every morning from Blackie's place. Tell Blackie I'm coming over to try out with h s show if he'll give me a job."

Al was walking away, with Grace standing at the curb, when he turned briskly now and when he reached the edge of the Square he turned to wave to her in the fast fleeting little figure. For a moment Grace waited after he had disappeared, then she tu ned the corner and went to her own home. Passers-by who saw her face knew that one girl had found happiness.

Al, on the contrary, was conspicuously sad. Then there would appear a great stretch of land which formerly he had given the name of Contentment and which is believed to be rich in agricultural and mineral possib lities.

ANNOUNCES GIFT OF $10,000,000 FOR PUBLIC AID

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16 — Expressing the belief it is the duty of one who through good fortune has accumulated wealth beyond his personal needs to regard the remainder as a trust to be expended for the benefit of mankind Maurice Falk, Pittsburgh philanthropist, yesterday announced a gift of $10,000,000 to be devoted to the interest of the public welfare. The fund is memorial to Mrs. Falk, will be known as the Maurice and Laura Falk foundation.

Broad powers of discretion are given to the foundation's managers to make grants for the promotion of education, religious charitable, public thropic and public interests.

Overproduction of Wheat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 — Julius Barnes chairman of the board of the United States chamber of commerce and grain superiors, testified today before the lobby committee of the United States senate that the activities of the farm board were tending to overstimulate the production of wheat.

THE SETTLER'S FRIEND

To many an one who crosses the seas to find a home in foreign parts, there is a great appeal in the Dominion of Canada, with its free lits and boundless opportunities. Landing at the ports of St. John or Quebec or Halifax, the stranger has the first taste of the new life with all his new ways and conditions as he disembarks at the busy ports. But there is a welcome awaiting him of which he was not aware. Among the many Societies interested in the newcomers and their welfare, there stands pre-eminently the Canadian Red Cross. Port Marcorets are in full swing throughout the year and many a thousand strangers pass through the friendly rooms fragrant with hot tea, and filled with tired families of mothers, fathers and travel-stained children. The Red Cross Nurses have their hands full with many varied duties. Refreshments first and foremost for the little folk at small tables. Advice to the anxious mothers as to the care and the health of an ailing one. Assistance to a worried looking father with much baggage and a perplexed look as he studies for a week on the train with his large family. Life to the Nurse at the Port holds much of the strange stuff, as she extends to the new Canadians their first words of welcome to this new land. Cards are written bearing the names of each family, and their destination. Alberta has had her fair share of these settlers under our scheme or another. Hence it comes about that many women here written home telling their friends that they got a wonderful reception in Canada from the Red Cross and in describing the various kind services in the Nursery, have raised the Society by the fitting name of "The Settler's Friend." Visits are paid to families by Red Cross Nurses and in case of the sickness of the children, steps are taken to see that the necessary care is forthcoming. This further follow-up often results in a lifelong friendship between the newcomers and their provincial Red Cross, and in many cases the friendship shown is returned an hundredfold and thus passed on to others.

FIRST INSURANCE CAME INTO EFFECT IN BURGUNDY 1310

James Taylor, Adjuster, Chief Speaker of Lion's Club

The first casualty insurance was put into effect in the year of 1310, James Taylor of the Lilly and Taylor insurance adjustment agency told members of the Lion's club at the weekly luncheon at the Macdonald Hotel.

In that year, marine insurance was established after the court of Burgundy granted permission to a number of merchants to put into effect a system whereby if merchandise was lost when a ship went down, the loss would be spread over a number rather than have one man pay the loss.

The next the world knows of insurance was in 1667, a year after the disastrous London fire. An agitation was started for some form of protection and as a result, a number of insurance companies were started, among them the Royal Exchange Insurance company which is still in operation.

Prior to 1675 each insurance company had its own adjuster, but this year saw consolidation. At big fires sometimes thirty or forty adjusters were on the scene, representing as many companies. The adjusters would draw lots, two of them would investigate the fire, and the rest would play poker and still draw their expense accounts.

In 1675 the adjuster scheme was put into effect whereby one company represented all the insurance firms. In Western Canada there is one adjuster in each city.

Mr. Taylor said that the greatest fault he found with the insurance-buying public is that they do not study their policies when they purchase them. He also mentioned some of the condition policies which people do not seem to consider.

For instance, he said, occupants or houses may not have more than a quart of gasoline stored in the building and in any event cannot use it inside — not even a teaspoonful. In the past six weeks there have been a number of fires in the city as a result of the use of gasoline in the cleaning of clothes, Mr. Taylor said, and this voided their policies.

Another condition which the public doesn't seem to realize is that when a house is not occupied for a period of more than thirty days it may be deemed to be vacant, although it is full of furniture and the policies become voided unless the agent is notified that the house is vacant before the period after the thirty-day time commences.—Edmonton Journal.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

HEAD OFFICE - MONTREAL

TO a widow's Grief is always added Worry. There are funeral expenses to pay; doctors' bills; and legal costs—these are the common lot.

But the farmer's widow has handicaps unknown to even the most unfortunate of her city sisters. For the seed is unsown; or the crop unharvested —and that means hiring help. And there is the interest on the mortgage—so little to meet it with. And there are implements to buy; stock to purchase; seed to obtain—

Self! But it is the wrong season, and if she moved to town, for what cash is she fitted and where could she go? No! Her whole hope of comfort and independence for herself and her children is on the farm—if only there be ready money to meet the remembrance need.

And that is exactly what life assurance provides. Here is what a Sun Life of Canada policy assures: A man of 35, by payment of a modest premium yearly (decreased every year by dividends on the current scale starting at over $53 the second year) can assure that his widow or children receive $5,000 in cash at his death and, in addition, a minimum income of $25 a month for five years while they gain experience and readjust themselves in the surroundings they know and love.

The Sun Life provides a policy to meet every need. Consult our representative in your district. It entails no obligation.

ROADS STILL OPEN FOR MOTOR TRAFFIC

While the roads to the district are not good, they are still open for motor traffic if the farmers from all points around the country soon in town with cars is anything to go by. The highway east and west is well open, but many of the market and cross roads have big drifts which cause an odd detour through neighboring fences and fields.

Number of Motor Cars 40,000 Greater Than in 1928 -

10,000 IN EDMONTON

Tremendous Growth Noted Since 1906, First Regulations

Motor car registrations for Alberta will be around 97,000 this year, creating a record since this regulation was put into effect some twenty-three years ago.

The total for last year was 87,321, while 1927 wound up with 72,304.

For Edmonton alone, officials of the provincial secretary's department estimate that there were 10,000 motor vehicles licensed during the year. The total for Calgary would be around 11,000.

In 1906, the first year of motor vehicle licensing, the total was forty-one and it increased to fifty-five the next year. There was a drop to forty-five in 1908 and it jumped to 275 in 1909. The next year's total was 423 while subsequent years all showed steady increase, with 4,738 in 1914, 20,624 in 1917, 17,907 in 1924 and 84,128 in 1926.

GREEN, WHITE COLOR SCHEME AUTO LICENSES

Classy number plates will be supplied to thousands of owners of Alberta cars when obtaining their 1930 licenses. These will carry a green background with numerals and letters in white.

Truck licenses for 1930 will bear a distinguishing letter according to the classification of the vehicle.

Bassano Hospital Has Lowest Death Rate In Province

(BY EDNA KELLS)

Hospital quaintness in Bassano just grew up naturally, and the municipal hospital itself is a phase of the development of the country. Though situated on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Bassano district is of comparative recent settlement. The land is included in the C.P.R. irrigation block, and there is no homesteading in that part of the country for under arrangement with the federal government and the Hudson's Bay Company, the railway secured all the land between the Red River and the Bow, from Calgary to Tilley.

The fact that there is no homesteading in this part of the province works no hardship on the hospital. On the contrary, much of the land is still owned by the C.P.R., and that corporation never fails to pay its taxes. So whatever comes or goes, the Municipal hospital at Bassano is sure of a large portion of its revenue. After two years' operation, the hospital has a surplus of $14,000, including, of course, some uncollected accounts, for Bassano, like other places, has to cope with the problem of the non-ratepayer or transient patient who tinkers his hospital bill.

According to statistics for 1928 Bassano hospital has the lowest death rate, the largest number of hospital days per patient, and the lowest per head of any hospital in Alberta. The death rate is less than one per cent, and there were no deaths among the 96 maternity cases cared for during the year. The people have got away from their fear of the hospital as a premature Bassano doctor, who recommends that the government use every means to develop the hospital scheme and further the interests of the Municipal hospitals of Alberta.

In the early history of the district, a small private hospital was operated by a doctor, later this was purchased by the town, but it was always operated at a loss. The hospital was too small and the overhead cost per patient too high. In 1919, the Municipal Hospital district was formed and the board took over the hospital and enlarged it, to make provision for 18 beds. In 1928, a nurses' home was built, releasing additional space for hospital purposes, and an isolation block with four beds for patients was erected. This increased the hospital accommodation to 34 beds. Home and isolation block were built out of accumulated surplus, at a cost of $16,000. The hospital is a frame building of the bungalow type, cool and conveniently planned and well equipped. A transfer for a big hospital supply house is operated weekly that Bassano has the best equipped hospital under 50 beds in Canada. The nursing staff consists of four graduate nurses, including the superintendent, Miss M. E. Patrick, and two undergraduate nurses.

Maternity cases and surgery are outstanding phases of the work. Nine babies have been in the hospital at one time. As many as four have arrived in one day. Doctors are only infrequently called to attend patients in their own homes, for the people have learned that they can get better care and at less cost in the hospital and they prefer going there.

Before the building of the hospital, the nearest hospitals were in Calgary and Medicine Hat, and this worked a great hardship on the people. Consequently, there has been little opposition to the hospital scheme, and that which existed was quickly dispelled when members of the opposed families were stricken, and had to have hospital care. The hospital rate is $1.00 per day for ratepayers, $3.50 per day for non-ratepayers. Land is taxed at the rate of 3½ mills, and townspeople whose tax does not amount to $9.00 pay the difference to secure the service.

THE SILLY OLD GOOSE

BY JACK MINER

Yes, I am trying to figure out who the silly old goose is, for it took my little single-cylinder brain seven years to discover him, to catch him and place a bag on his leg, but during that time which was between 1915 and 1922, I did manage to catch, tag and liberate one hundred and nine, and sixty-nine of these are now back in my possession, for yesterday's mail brought one from New Brunswick. This tag was put on in April 1921, and the goose was shot last week by Mr J Simon Harper of Miscou Harbour, New Brunswick.

In addition to having the sixty-nine tags returned, out of the one hundred and nine, I have eight others of them reported that the hunters failed to return. But there can be no doubt as to these eight being genuine, for the hunters gave me the exact quotation that I put on the tag. Therefore, we are compelled to believe that seventy-seven of these old hookers have been shot and smithered by us hunters.

To me, this does not only speak well of my tagging system, but it speaks praises for the co-operation of the sportsmen of North America.

Yet to me the best and most live fact of this (Silly Old Goose) history is that in April, 1926, we caught one of these one hundred and nine geese. This one was tagged in 1918. Finding this fact on the worn tag that this old head had carried for ten years, we then stamped another tag with the year 1926, and, after carefully clamping it on his other leg, I took him in my arms and praised him for his noble leadership, then bid him good luck and good-bye and tossed him into the air. And last spring 1929, this old leader was back guarding his family and hundreds of people saw his two tags glittering on his legs.

Will you readers please stop and consider the thousands and thousands upon thousands of human beings this silly old goose has had to outwit in order to exist? Yes, hunters of different types wherever he goes, from the English-speaking sportsmen to the south hidden in sunken blinds, naturally covered with rushes, and low decoys beckiner to him in his own language; then as he nose to the rear fields to feed, this same class of sportsmen are hidden in corn shocks with all kinds of decoys and tempting bait to lure him within range of their deadly automatic shot guns that have a deadly killing circle of thirty inches at forty yards' distance. Then on his return to nesting grounds, the hungry Indian and Eskimo are anxiously waiting his arrival with an array of weapon, including the bow and arrow.

Thus we can picture south every fall, the old goose's fate a mournful or swift death, as the case may be.

The [illegible] has crossed the [illegible] times since I [illegible] Yukon he admires [illegible] to such an [illegible] he flies silly when [illegible] human leader on [illegible] that could constantly take the lead as this old Canadian goose, and [illegible] one year in such a No Man's land. The Silly Old Goose! I wonder which one?

Peace On Earth, Goodwill Toward Men

"Interdependence," a monthly review published by the League of Nations Society, in Canada, has rendered a real service to Canada, and incidentally to the cause of world peace, by printing it its current issue the complete text of the magn ficently inspiring speech delivered by the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, at the state dinner tendered him by the Government of Canada, in the House of Commons at Ottawa. Mr. MacDonald's fine message to the Canadian people, containing such a sincere and impassioned plea for international understanding and a world in peace, was listened to over the radio by hundreds of thousands of people in this country and the United States. That national service is now strengthened by the reprint of the full text of Mr. MacDonald's speech, thus enabling people to read this message again and ponder over it at their leisure.

This same issue of "Inte dependence," which, by the way, is distributed to members of the League of Nations Society in Canada, or can be had for the trifling subscription price of one dollar a year, also contains the text of the address given by Roch P nard, the 18-year-old Quebec boy, who won the International Oratorical Contest held in Washington, D.C., before President Hoover in October last The subject of Roch Pinard's address was "Canada Among the Nations" and, like Premier MacDonald's speech, is one well worthy of the consideration of the people of Canada. It will interest fify a Canadian patriotism based on knowledge, wh ch at re can render ineffec ve those pern cious appeals to passion and prejudice through which designing p rsons seek to create in our people false ideas of our understanding mutual goodw ll mutual appre ation of each other's good qualities, must exist as the basis of peace and cordial re ef relations among the various races of m nkind—up to the co-operation policies.

Domestic peace in Canada, i s hardly necessary to say is the first requirement if this Dominion is to successfully play the role of peace pro-agand st among all the nations and world peace the League of Nations. From the inception of the League of Nat ons, Canada has been one of its most influential members. The influence of this Domin on in the councils of the nations is the g eater because of the confidence in which the world power would accord to it. That influence radiates from the successes already achieved by Canada in solving for itself some of the most vexatious problems now troubling other countries, and from the wisdom and tact further extended to the extent only that Canadians themselves put into every day practice those rules of conduct which the maintenance of peace and international goodwill demands shall be observed.

Canada stands for world peace Th s fact is recognized by all nations It is also recognized that as a people we have no ulterior motive in our membership in the League of Nat ons, and that we are actuated by no selfish desire to serve others and further the cause of international goodwill and world peace. As a people we unhesitatingly and uncompromisingly bare our opposition to an unendurable system of war machine We have no use for unlimited measure and we are paying our own bills without asking help from anybody. This is recognized and appreciated by other nat ons, and our fearlessness in this connection adds to the influence we possess in the League. We therefore first of all be true to ourselves and to the ideals we advocate for ad pt on by all other peoples and nations

Finally, Interdependence" in an editorial commenting on that earnestness of conviction the offer of Premier Mackenzie King to provide suitable rooms of the Hyatt Kilgour part out-lawing war to Premier d Dr ment of Education, h will undertake to distribute in the League of Nations Secretariat, a place in the hearts of the people of the whole world. The gesture is not to be regarded as a mere theatrical effect. The gesture is made in the determination in the minds of the people consequently through the schools and churches and on the next occasion of the meeting of the League of Nations Canada s gnature is attached outlaw ng war as an in trument of national policy should have a place on the walls of every church and school throughout this broad Dominion It is a message of Peace on earth goodwill toward men."

Making Survey For Gibraltar Tunnel

Work Likely To Involve Large Political As Well As Engineering Features

The work of examining the rock strata of the Straits of Gibraltar for a tunnel between Europe and Africa is under way, but while the attraction of the world is focused on its structural problems, the tunnel also has involved political and engineering features.

During the World War the captain general at Cadiz, who now is Premier Primo de Rivera, made a speech suggesting that Spain join the war on the s de of the all es and that in return for this assistance she should get Gibraltar back and it is expected the tunnel project will stir up some popular opposition.

It is obvious that if the premier made an arrangement to get Gibraltar back it would be on the understanding that Spain never would forget.

A reinforcement program has been announced by the British, but it is doubted that it would spend money on the tunnel for years. It is not expected that England would consent to withdraw its fleet in any fraction" "His hour," replied the master. "He given to Gibraltar as long as the rock remains a strategic name day. He gets all the other boys to do all his work for him."

The New World Bank

Will Be For International Finance What League Does For International Politics

To the second Hague conference now or soon to be in operative session, will be presented the completed report of the committee of experts appointed to frame the statutes and charter of the proposed Bank of International Settlement. Agreement has been long and protracted discussions, and as the headquarters of the bank have now been finally located at Basle, Switzerland, early materialization of the project may be expected after the conference has adopted the report and other wise ended the lengthy negotiations required to arrange the details of the new institution, as an integral factor in the German reparations settlement.

The bank, according to the present agreements, will have as broad powers as have sometimes been suggested. It w ll simply take the place of the gigantic machinery for making payments in handling the transfer of all sums between Germany and other lands and will operate almost as do-servise and assist in the commercialization of certain parts of the German annuities. It will have the power to perform various ordinary banking operations to facil tate its work, but it will not be permitted to engage in act in strict conformity with the wishes of the central banks concerned The control of any one of these would be sufficient to prevent its taking any proposed act on.

The bank's organizational problems still remaining in connect on with certain phases of the bank's trust agreement are understood to be settled at the second conference, the World Bank will thus be definitely incorporated with the Hague pact and will be submitted to the nations concerned for the ratificat on of their respective governments. It is hoped that it may be made to do for international finances what the League does for international politics. It will be a permanent body, renewhat humble, there is no telling the place it may some day come to hold in the international financial balance of all international relat ons.

British Papers Urge People To Buy "Home" Products

British doctors must be good fellows. Canal Conditions Fundamentally Sound

Sir Charles Gordon, President, at Annual Meeting of Bank of Montreal, Tells Shareholders Strides Made by Canada Since Last Year.

Sir Charles Gordon's presidential address at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal will start a far-reaching influence upon economic conditions in Canada.

Reviewing the business situation in Canada, Sir Charles referred to the unbroken expansion of the first ten months of the year and extending back over a five-year period, the most marked advance being in the field of industry. He said that Canadian activity was such that the Canadian banks took no special advantage of the high rates offered in New York; their money was fully employed in the Dominion "and every legitimate need of this country was taken care of at much lower rates than prevailed in the United States."

There is good ground for general confidence, he said, that we have passed the crisis in the Chinese situation in the loss through emigration, from which the Dutch East Indies, Canada, Sir Charles said in part:

"The financial conditions of Canada and there is no reason for apprehension as to the ultimate future of Canada."

General Manager's Address

Mr. H. R. Mackenzie, the general manager, surveyed the bank's operations for the past year. He said that the second conference, the World Bank will thus be definitely incorporated with the Hague pact and will be submitted to the nations concerned for the ratificat on of their respective governments. It is hoped that it may be made to do for international finances what the League does for international politics. It will be a permanent body, renewhat humble, there is no telling the place it may some day come to hold in the international financial balance of all international relat ons.

Mr. Mackenzie's analysis of the salient features of the balance sheet of the bank resp nsibility for wealth growth in the volume of the bank's business and in the strong liquid position, but it is testimony also of a determination to cont nue to be safe and sound and energetic management that is traditional of the bank. "Our customers in all lines of production and commerce," he said, "have, as always, been our chief care and their success is the ground of our supp rd, but we have recently been embarrassing numerous applications for large and profitable loans on adequate collateral but to be used for other than business purposes, principally the purchase of securities Other applications have been for "numerous that they threatened to encroach upon the money needed to "finance the country's business."

Mr. Mackenzie in the presence at the Bank of Montreal meeting abundant proof that credit is sound. "Business," Mr. Mackenzie said, "will be somewhat quieter while we are getting back to realities, but the reaction both countries Canada and the United States will afford firm basis for "a healthy optimism."

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Commander Byrd Defended

British Explorers Come To Defense of Commander Richard E. Byrd, Against the Reported Charges of Major Tryggve Gran, Norwegian Airman and Explorer Who Was a Member of the Scott Antarctic Expedition.

Major Gran was quoted in a Copenhagen despatch to the Daily Mail, as saying that the terrible mountains which Commander Byrd described were a fantasy.

Captain R. C. England, who commanded the "Discovery" of Shackleton's expedition in 1907, as d he could not understand Major Gran's report of statement.

"It is all the more extraordinary because Gran was one of Scott's men," said Capt. England. "It is almost short of a miracle if Scotts men did not see mountains near the South Pole. On the east there is the Queen Alexandria range, 15,000 feet in height, and on the west the Queen Maud range which is about the same height. These mountains have been actually surveyed and measured."

Captain William Otherk, who was a member of the Southern Cross Expedition of 1898-99 said: "It is well known there are mountains near the South Pole. Commander Byrd would probably see them from 100 miles away because of his height in his aeroplane. His was a magn ficent flight.

WALL STREET IS HARD HIT BY MARKET SLUMP

New York. — A sudden flood of selling, striking with terrific impact in the hour of trad ng, caused waves of losses on the New York Stock Exchange down $2 to $22 a share.

It was the sharpest reaction since November 13, the low point reached in the October-November panic, when 430 issues touched to new low levels for the year. Todays sales were only 4,304,880 shares, but nearly 8,000,000 of those changed hands in the final hour.

Wall Street attributed the selling to a combination of unfavorable developments. These inc'uded the publ cat on of a statement by Roger Babson, well known statistician, that the recent advance in prices which recovered 60 per cent. of the ground lost in the break, was only a rally in a "major bear market"; the resumption of heavy gold exports to Great Britain, and the announcement of a sharp increase in the stocks of refined copper.

Mr. Babson correctly predicted the October-November break a few weeks before it actually happened, so that his statement caused the market naturally aroused w despread uneasiness among investors and speculators. Many leaders of hedge of banish professionals, who are reported to have made known their intentions to sell on every rally, were regarded as an important factor.

To Protect Level Crossings

Board Of Railway Commissioners Reserves Judgment After Investigations

Ottawa.—The Board of Railway Commissioners reserved judgment at the conclusion of its investigation into safety devices for level crossings. Producers of appliances which flash coloured signals and automatic gates urged the board to adopt the r product, while the representatives for the railway companies urged that the wig-wag and bell was the best signal so far provided and should be left alone.

The very great importance which is placed on this hearing was indicated by the large number of representatives of var ous automobile associations, municipal bodies and prov nc al governments, as well as the many reports on behalf of the railways.

Three Fighting For Earldom Of Egmont

Legal Battle To Prove Their Conflicting Claims to the Earldom of Egmont.

The bakker is James William Perceval, 65, a resident of London, and brother of six children.

The optician is Robert Pownall, an old-age pensioner of Haydock, Lancashire.

Whoever wins the three-cornered fight will become Earl of Egmont, Baron Perceval, Baron Arden and Baron Lovell and Holland. The value of the estates to which he will succeed is estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

The rival claimants to the Egmont title and fortune have searched the family records back to 1733, when the title was granted. In the r attempt to fill several blank spaces in the Perceval genealogical table and thus substantiate their individual claims they have submitted their invest gations as far as Australia.

Three Perish In Arctic

Word Was Brought Out By Major L. T. Burwash

Ottawa, Ont.—News of the death of three natives of Sentinel occupy ng the Canadian Arct c was brought out by Major L. T. Burwash, of the Northwest Territories branch of the Department of the Interior, who arrived in Ottawa at the end of an 18-months trip, which took him to some of the northern coast of Canada from Aklavik to Boothia Peninsula.

Harold Lucas, of the Hudson's Bay Company post at Aklavik was swallowed up by a raging blizzard seven m les out of Ogle Haven. Ian McKay Christie, also of the Hudson's Bay Company, died at Bathurst Post under similar circumstances after Lewis T. ("Si m") Klengenberg, another trapper, disappeared. Major Burwash's boat, had half carried and half dragged him across the ice to the shore. The attackers at the inception of the riot.

The collapse of the convict's plant began when Guy Carter, a prisoner whisked from their hands, under cover of a gas attack, the warden and guards and ended when a concerted drive of the besiegers hurled them from the main gate into a remote corner of the enclosed wall space.

Opposing U.S. Entry Into World Court

New Arrangement Does Not Satisfy Group In Senate

Washington, D.C.—Opposition to the new plan for United States entry into the World Court, as determined as that which met the original proposal for the adherence of the Washington Government, is developing in the senate.

The group of senators that three years ago voted against the United States becom ng allied with the international tribunal, even under the reservations then attached, is apparently as much dissatisfied with the new arrangement as it was w th the old.

How much of a factor in the senate's final vote this opposition will be, of course, remains to be affected in no, but notice has been given by the group, that the modification of the reservations then attached, is apparently an effort to facilitate United States entry, is unacceptable.

AUBURN PRISON RIOT QUELLED BY STATE TROOPS

Auburn, N.Y. — A basten, sullen group of convicts saw the law wrench from its grasp control of Auburn prison, gained during the day at the cost of a gas gangster, a guard and the death of the principal keeper.

The second attempt within five days to overthrow the prison authorities was made in vain their freedom in a prison break collapsed under the gunfire of the state troops besieging. Hidden behind a wall of steel bars, the convicts watched their plans go awry until night fell and their ringleaders dead and the survivors in their cells awaiting the search of the state troops.

The prison's prin pal keeper, George A. Durnford, died in an attempt to rescue the attackers at the inception of the riot.

The collapse of the convicts' plant began when Guy Carter, a prisoner whisked from their hands, under cover of a gas attack, the warden and guards and ended when a concerted drive of the besiegers hurled them from the main gate into a remote corner of the enclosed wall space.

Are Close To Agreement

Alberta Hopes To Reach Settlement On Resources Question

Ottawa.—The Province of Alberta and the Dominion Government are close to an agreement as to the conditions for the return of the natural resources to the province, Premier J. E. Brownlee and colleagues put forward recently, and Premier Brownlee is remaining over, in Ottawa, to have further conference with Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Some time ago the Dominion government announced that on the basis of the finding of the commission ah investigated the return of the natural resources to Man toba, it was prepared to make a corresponding offer to the Province of Alberta. At the time it was explained that this meant that Alberta would get back its natural resources and the subsidy to that province from the Federal Government would be continued and increased as the population of the province increased.

The terms of this are not so simple as would appear on the surface however, because Alberta finds herself in very different position from that which Manitoba was. One difference is that in Alberta there are immense areas of parks, comprising some five hundred square miles, and to be as much as all the other national parks of Canada together. These parks have also some valuable coal deposits. This requires special consideration.

LABOR PARTY IN BRITAIN FACING POSSIBLE DEFEAT

London England.—Britain's Labor government will be challenged in the House of Commons before Christmas on the unemployment policy, and as it is in the minority by three on a real party division on the question its future is in doubt.

Details of the measures so far proposed by the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, have been kept secret, but it is known that they will not include any of the proposals of the Liberal party, which has been responsible for the unemployment problem to be solved by all parties.

Two measures are expected to be introduced into parliament before Christmas. Both have failed in the past, but they will be introduced again and will be debated on their merits. The Liberals have announced that they will support the measures.

Mr. Thomas is expected to introduce a bill to amend the unemployment insurance act, and Capt. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, will introduce a measure to establish a commission to develop the resources of the British Empire.

The Liberals have announced that they will support the measures.

BRITISH ARMY OF OCCUPATION LEAVES GERMANY

Wiesbaden, Germany.—Scenes reminiscent of the first Armistice Day celebrat on were enacted here after the Union Jack had been hauled down from British headquarters and the last British soldiers had evacuated the Rhineland

The Union Jack came down from its staff over the Hotel Il ge nsellern at 2 o'clock this afternoon At the same hour another small Brit sh detachment was leaving Singen-on-the-Rhine

There in Wiesbaden the company of Br tish Fusiliers mounted guard at the approach of the color-bearers and the detachment they passed in review before Lieut-General Sir William Thwaites, British commander, for the last time on German soil.

There was a long roll from the drums and the military band struck up "God Save the King" as the British flag fluttered down from the staff Then the troops wheeled into column and marched off to the station where they entrained at 3.30 p.m.

Beside General Thwaites and his staff was his chief of staff, represented by General Guillaumat, commander of the French troops in the Rhineland, and his chief of staff A detachment of French cavalry was drawn up before the railway station

The British also held a farewell reception in the drawing room of the station to say farewell to his French colleagues. The only British official remaining in the Rhineland is William Seeds, Brit sh high commissioner on the inter-allied Rhineland high commission since 1926. He will remain in Ge many until he has seen the end of occupation of the third zone.

With the departure of the last British garrison the number of allied troops in the Rhine'and has been decreased within a few months by 25,000.

Vancouver Business Men Sa'l For Antipodes To Study Markets There

Vancouver.—A crusade for greater trade between Australia and New Zealand for British Columbia lumber products was started recently by f ur Vancouver business men who sailed for the Antipodes on board the "Aorangi." They are J G Robson, T. G. Gadd, Major L. R. Andrews, and J. H. McDonald.

The four will study Australian and New Zealand timber requirements, and also confer with organized commercial interests interview business and government heads and make extensive investigations.

Protest From Britishers

Resent German Pro-tive Of "Dumping" Of Cereals Into Old Land

London England.—The British foreign office should make representations to the German government against the unfair commercial practice of "dumping" cereals into Great Britain which the agricultural committee of the conservative parliamentary party, meeting in the parliament buildings, declared is the biggest thing of cereals from Germany under the bounty system. The committee is in large measure a reflection of the opinion of the rank and file of the conservative party, and it was the latter of the mutual obligations which had been entered into, the committee added.

An Important Decision

Judge Rules R.C.M.P. Have Authority To Enforce Provincial Law

The Pas, Man.—Royal Canadian Mounted Police have the authority to enforce provincial law as well as federal, according to a ruling to a decision handed down here by Judge A. L. Reynolds of Dauphin, and Magistrate Hall of The Pas, in upholding a judgment by Magistrate J. Bolyard.

The case arose out of a claim by defendant that a mounted police officer did not have the right to stop a motor vehicle.

Albert Somerville Died Sunday Night

Funeral Was Held Today

Albert Kinmont Somerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Somerville, passed away at the family home, Vermilion, on Sunday evening, December 22nd, at the age of thirty-two years. Though suffering from an incurable malady, contracted at Sarcee military camp during the war, he never lost his cheerful disposition of looking upon the bright side of life and always had a smile and happy word for all his friends. The family moved into their town house from the farm, two miles south, a couple of months ago for the winter as was the custom in previous years, and it was only a fortnight ago that deceased was taken with the attack which resulted in his death. He was extremely popular with everyone and his passing is deeply regretted. He is survived by his father and mother and one brother, Norman, who is visiting here from Ontario. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the family in their sore bereavement.

The funeral took place this (Thursday) afternoon and was under Masonic auspices. A private service was held in the home for deceased's father, who is still confined to the house from his recent illness, and was taken by the Rev. M. S. Kerr of Camrose and Rev. H. A. Boyd. The members of Vermilion Lodge No. 24, A. F. & A. M. marched from the home to the First United Church, forming a guard of honor at the entrance, each Brother carrying a floral offering. The service in the church was largely attended by sympathizing friends and acquaintances, touching addresses being delivered by Revs. Boyd and Kerr, after forty cars made an impressive funeral cortege to the Vermilion cemetery where, after the remains had been committed to the grave, the beautiful Masonic ritual followed The whole of the arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. J. Waring

Deceased was born at Kinmont's Mills, quebec and after coming to Vermilion was manager of the Vermilion Motors.

The many floral tributes were received from the following: Mother, Dad and Norman; Mr. & Mrs A. M Wood; Mr. & Mrs J. Ingram, Edmonton; the Crain Family, United church Vermilion, Rev & Mrs Kerr, Camrose; Mr & Mrs St. Ingrey and Family; Mr. & Mrs J Martlimie; Mrs A. V. Law and Family, Mr. & Mrs Geo. Prominent Citizen And Business Man Passes

H. H. A. Stone Suddenly Stricken

The death took place at the Royal Alexandra hospital, Edmonton on Thursday last, December 19th, of Mr. Herbert R. A. Stone in his fiftieth year. The deceased was taken seriously ill with internal trouble on the Sunday previous and it was deemed advisable to remove him to the city for special treatment, but all that medical aid could do was unavailing and he passed away on Thursday. The remains were brought to Vermilion on Friday, the funeral arrangements being in charge of Mr J Waring The funeral was held at Islay on Monday afternoon and was very largely attended, the deceased being widely known throughout the district in which he had lived for many years and in which he had won the highest esteem and friendship of all. A brief service was held at the home of his mother and one brother, Norman, who is visiting here from Ontario. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the family in their sore bereavement

The late Mr Stone is survived by his wife, one daughter, Dorothy, at the University of Alberta; and two sons, Charles of the Vermilion agricultural college and William attending the Vermilion high school his mother, Mrs William Stone of Islay three sisters, Mrs Wood (Gladys) at home and Muriel of the Vermilion public school teaching staff, two brothers Ro. of Islay and Frank of Edmonton The deepest sympathy is goed out to the bereaved widow and family in their great and sudden loss

The late Mr Stone was born at Rochester, New York, moving from there to Woodville, Ontario, about forty-two years of age. He was married a Islay, Ontario, twenty-four years ago to Miss Mary Gilchrist After living there for three years, he came West to Islay, Alberta, homesteading, his fine farm where he carried on extensive operations being located just north of the town. Here a fine herd of pure bred Holsteins can be seen as one passes along the road. Being formed an important part of his endeavors and the dairy business began a few years ago in Islay, where he has since become established, to include the town of Vermilion Here he erected a modern up-to-date milk [illegible] equipped with [illegible] pasteurizing plant and [illegible] town. The World's Poultry Congress

Canada To Take Important Part In Congress To Be Held in London, England

Preparations for the fourth World's Poultry Congress, to be held in London, England, in July 1930, are well in hand Canada will take a very important part in this Congress. The Dominion is fortunate to having as a leader in poultry matters, Mr. F. C. Elford, the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, who is the president of the World's Poultry Science Association, under whose auspices congresses are held.

Mr. Elford recently concluded a tour of the countries in Europe and the near east, and has returned with the assurance that the great nations of the world are preparing to make exhibits and partic pate a the presentation of papers on poultry topics.

The London Congress, like the one held in Ottawa, in 1927, will include a livestock exhibit in wh ch hundreds of war cries of fowls and rabbits will be displayed. Canada's exhibit in this section will include several hundred head The national exhibits for Canada are being prepared by the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture The purpose of these will be chiefly to illustrate the pa t history played by education, research and economics in the development of the poultry industry

The Congress will last for a full week in which five sessions will be held simultaneously In these sessions papers will be presented and discussed on breeding and incubation, nutrit on and rearing diseases and their control, economics including marketing, and education. An exhib t on program of excursions and entertainments is to be provided for the delegates, a large number of whom it is expected will be from Canada.

Procession Of Colds

New York Doctor Gives Two Rules To Follow

In November there were 400 deaths in New York from pneumonia, and 25 deaths from influenza, said the civic health commissioner, Dr. Wynne, has broadcast some general adv ce to citizens which is p obably as good anywhere as in New York.

Dr. Wynne set forth 10 rules for preventing colds. These are:

1. Eat p enty of nourishing food.
2. Dr nk plenty of water; bathe frequently
3. Sleep eight hours each night.
4. Breathe deeply while in the open, but through the nose.
5. Make certain that your home is well ventilated.
6. Make certain that the air is not only fresh and of the right temperature but that it contains moisture
7. Dress according to the weather. Do not perm t y urself to chill.
8. Avoid using other's towels in case they have been used by others.
9. Keep away from persons who have colds.
10. If you contract a cold, go to a doctor. Don't resort to nostrums.

After all even expert adv ce is merely the application of common sense as stated above. A good deal of ailment in the winter is caused by ignorance of ventilation and overheating.—St. Catharines Standard.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

CREAM CARAMELS

1 cup table syrup.
1 cup cream or thin milk.
1 teaspoon van lla.
2 cups granulated sugar.

Mix together the sugar, the syrup and half the cream, and bring slowly to the boiling point, stirring well. Cook until the mixture w ll form a soft ball when dipped in cold water. Then add the remaining cream and cook again until the sugar is dissolved and all has subjected to the water test. Flavor with the vanilla and pour into a buttered pan. Do not stir the candy more than is necessary during the cook ng, as st rring will cause the sugar to granulate.

..... BUTTER SCOTCH .....

½ cups butter.
1 cup sugar.
4 eggs.
¼ cup milk.
2 cups rolled oats.
2½ cups flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon cinnamon.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
1 cup chopped seeded raisins.

Cream butter, add sugar, eggs well beaten, milk, and rolled oats. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add flour mixture a little at a time, thoroughly m x. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased baking pan and bake in a rather hot oven. This makes 2? to 30 cookies.

What a Billion Means

Nine Little Problems To Work Out In Spare Time

It is just as easy to say billion as million. The word has been spoken frequently and familiarly dur ng the recent Affair in Wall St., and a public grown used to large figures, hasn't been so much impressed.

Charles Benson, banker man of Memphis, Tenn., has made some suggestions of practical bang nation on a billion dollars and dramatize it. Here is how it figures out:

If a billion had been accumulated 900 years before Christ, and had been allowed interest, and had been paid out at the rate of $1,000 per day every day since, up to and including November 21, 1928, there would still be $112,996,000 left.

If you don't believe it, figure it out for yourself. And don't forget the leap years.

Blessings and Counsels

The Joy Of Better In the Midst Of a World'spitor Multitude. Psalm 122. Psalms 120-134 bear each the heading "A Song Of Ascents." It is thought that they were p ctrlc songs sung by the Israelites on the r annual pilgr mage to the Holy City at the time of the religious festivals. "The exquisite gems of imagery with which these Psalms are studded appeal to their wiseomeness—the whole section yielding up the most pleasing impression of the simple, gracious beauty of the land of the Lily."

Israel came to the Psalmist and invited him to make one of their party for such a pilgr mage to the temple. He recalls in this Psalm, 122, the joy th's invitation gave him his delight at actually standing within the gates of Jerusalem. How they so compactly built together. How he gloried in the palace of the Davidic line of kings, its tribunals for judgment, and its sacred temple service. All there he meditated upon its history, upon the constant going up of the tribes of old in testimony of their real unity, and to Jehovah, for thanks unto Him.

The Psalmist's heart is stirred to earnest supplication that all shall pray for the peace and prosperity of Jerusalem. "The last four verses of the Psalm breathe a spirit of the truest patriotism and devotion. Not for his own sake, but for the sake of his brethren—for the sake of his kindred, and for the sake of the house of the Lord, did he pray for wherein peace to Jerusalem and calls upon all others to wish her peace. We love to Israel and love to Jehovah, there is naturally united with this affection for Jerusalem, a hearty interest in her welfare."—Perowne.

In full assurance of faith, having our hearts and our bodies purified, let us hold fast the confession of our hope that it waver not; for He is faithful who promised.

And let us consider one another, taking into account and weighing our neighbors circumstances and especially his risks, and this with a view, not to exasperate by criticism, but with a view to incite them to love and good works, acknowledging how-ever undisposed and making allowance for imperfection."

Dry Ice

Is Made From Carbon Dioxide and May Soon Replace Natural Product

"Dry ice" made from the soot of factory smokestacks and the exhaust of automobiles, was suggested as a possible substitute for natural ice by George B. Bright, ice manufacturer of Detroit, in addressing the third session of the National Association of Ice Industries at New York. This "dry ice" which is manufactured from carbon dioxide, is being produced in small quantities, Mr. Bright said, and if a way is further research will make it necessary to become a possible substitute for ice in the home, it is already used chiefly for refrigerated cars and ice cream trucks.

Manufacturers Unable To Satisfy Demand For Re'ers and Reflectors

The recent severe winters in Britain, the strain put upon their style of plumbing and consequent accidents from freezing with the bonus seems to have compelled the h s'de Briton to consider more efficient heating serv ces indoors. Hitherto most Britons who gave a fire full warm all winter, on, at any rate, they didn't feel the piercing cold we Canadians would over there. We would demand winter heat—and now so does John Bull, it seems. The Ottawa Trade and Commerce Department reporters declare that during the past few months there has been an improved demand for radiators and boilers and heavy manufacturers have been unable to satisfy the demand and deliver as are being delayed from six to eight weeks. One well-known American manufacturer of radiators and boilers has established a branch factory in United Kingdom organization, the necessary plant for the production of their products on a large scale starts in the meantime, Scottish manufacturers are attempting to market a range of low-priced steel radiators, which can, if need be, be used in conjunction with other cast iron and steel bo lers. Several Canadian firms have already tried this market, but never does there appear to have been such a quickening to interest in central heating as this year.

Duke Of Atholl Allowed To Keep Armed Regiment

The only British subject permitted to maintain a private army has celebrated h s 58th birthday. The man is naturally unique in his affection for the Duke of Atholl, holder of 19 titles. The Duke's retinue or armed retainers, the picturesque regiment of feudal days, is an officially recognized force. Queen Victoria once presented colors to the army, numbering about 300. All the members of the Atholl Highlanders served during the World War in the Scottish Horse.

The Improved Glass Substitute

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THERE can be no all-powerful life producer, like sunlight, to kill disease germs and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most powerful ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that Ultra-Violet Rays, which promote the greatest power for the prevention and cure of rickets and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet Rays, so that when glass we are accidentally excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely enabled the benefit of these rays to be photographed. have conclusively proved that it is a most valuable substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that it has a most beneficial effect on the grow'h and development of pets and chic ens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light housed in darkness in their sheds.

The discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized poultry keeping and chicken rearing, poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly increased the health of cattle, and is now no-w used in the most successful repute-

WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent sunlight. It enables light to penetrate where glass fails. Houses, stables, poultry houses, boudoirs and all out buildings it is recommended. Invaluable, Beautiful and Lasting. It is now being successfully used for sanatoria, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, dairies, bath chair coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold —will not crack or chip—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls easy length but in one width of 36 inches only square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness weighs about 150 to 160 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE cannot be versed. WINDOLITE is made in England.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joy's New York night club, is loved by Grace Farrel, but he doesn't know it. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and wins fame as a composer of popular songs. Weddings, a baby, Junior, is about two years old, Molly sings in John Perry's absence. Perry has also been in love with Molly since he was a child. Al, broken by the loss, becomes a derelict, but one night when he revisits Blackie's place, Grace Farrel, now assistant manager, gives him promise that he will stage a comeback. After they plan a future, he leaves Grace, promising to return that evening. But as a night approaches, he has not appeared and Grace is worried.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A few moments later a figure came rag'dly around Grace's desk and stood by her chair. She was shielded from by the screen from the view of the crowd. It was Al.—In new clothes, but with the old smile. As she rose his arms went round her and his mouth pressed against her own. It was the first real kiss he had ever given her!

With Al's arms still holding her close, Grace looked up into his face with an expression in which joy and wonder were mingled. She had dreamed of this homecoming often, but always believed it could not possibly come true. Now that it had come true she was almost afraid, because it was so closely associated with those long-ago dreams. Yet the arms holding her were real and real were Al's kiss and the thrilling reality that never comes in a dream.

"Good God! Grace," Al whispered. "I've been thinking of you all day — seeing you as I left you, standing in the fog-on, saying to me, 'I'm here, did you think I wasn't going to show up?'"

"I knew you would come," answered Grace softly. "I've always believed in you and I believe in you now more than ever before."

There was a sound on the other side of the nearby door and a waiter entered, on his way to the dining room from the kitchen, just as Al released Grace. But the waiter saw the tail-tale moment and could not h'de his astonishment. This little feminine assistant manager had a reputation around Blackies place for coldness and aloofness.

"Well," said Al, when the waiter had passed on, "I must find Blackie and tell him what you've done for me. I think he'll be noton shed at this qu'ck change."

Al glanced down at his new blue serge double-breasted suit with pardonable pride. He has struck an attitude, holding his brown fedora in front of him in a burlesque pose, as if he were ready to be photographed. "Look me over, Gracie! How am I?"

"Splend d!"

"Well, if you say so I must be good. I have some new evening clothes, too, but I'm holding them for another night. No use dazzling you too much at first."

Grace laughed easily at his bantering manner, but behind her smile she was studying him closely. He was a little too gay and over-excited, his voice and hand trembled every moment or so.

The next thing to do is to call Blackie for a job," he sa'd quickly "Must have something to do, must get to work soon."

But Grace reached out quickly, took hy. I just want to talk for a few minutes and then I'll go with you. Al, quietly hand and pulled him closer.

"Sit down, dear. You've had a nervewrecking day. Don't you th nk it would be better if you didn't start to work until to-morrow? I do. If you'll just relax and rest for a few days you'll get your bearings better. You and I will go for walks and talk things over. And on Sunday we might go out in the country."

It was astonishing how quickly Al reacted to Grace's soothing tones and suggestion. He nodded slowly as she talked and the gleam in his eyes from over-excitement faded.

"You're right, Gracie," he agreed. "A man can't let h mself go as I've done during all these months and then come back in a few hours just because I've seen a few chicken. I see you mean—take the whole thing more slowly."

"Yes, that's right. Did you go to that hotel you pointed out to me from the Square?"

"Sure, I've got a nice room overlooking the Avenue. But if I'm not to talk work to Blackie, what do you want me to do now?"

Grace smiled; again he was the obedient child. "I want you to go home and sleep all n ght long."

"Now?"

"Yes, now. And I want you to call me at the office to-morrow at noon —I'll just be getting up then—and take me to breakfast at the Brevoort."

"But who's going to take you home tonight—I counted on doing that."

By buying a new hat she has given to Grace's face. "I'll take myself home alone, Al. I've done it a thousand times during those past three years."

"K. O. if you say so," answered Al, but I don't know I don't quite like it. I'm afraid something will happen to you! I feel that I should be protecting you—now."

Grace liked that speech. Self-sufficient though she seemed in control, at all, the chief hunger of her life was for someone to love and protect her, someone to care where she went and why.

"Well, orders are orders," said Al briskly. "Just a word of greeting to Blackie and then I'm off. I see his manager in the room now. But I'll come back and say goodnight to you." Al paused. "And—if I do as you say will I have another kiss before I go?"

"I think so. In fact, I'm sure of it."

Grace stole a look round her concealing screen to watch him approach Blackie's manager. The mirror of helium gas by about 15 per cent. by one of its peculiarities, which is sponge-like absorption of gaseous impurities.

Let For Health and Enjoyment On Christmas

Appetite, Digestion and Good Health Will On Following Menus

While Christmas is recognized as a day of feasting and its celebration would not be considered complete without a bountiful repast, the choice of the viands that compose the holiday menu has not always been wise. To eat well on December 25th, is not ecllent, but to suffer from a bilious attack on December 26, is not.

Through knowledge of food and combinations we now have a meal which is perfect in its content and amount, and satisfying to the most f astidious. Here, compiled by Mary A. Huettner, well known American dietitian, are two menus that will serve alike health and appetite.

Lightest Metal in World

Lithium, Formerly Rare, Is Now Produced in Ton Lots

Production by the ton of a metal that floats like corn on water, the lightest substance of its kind in the manufactu ing, was revealed at the New York Electrical Society meet ng by Dr. W. C. MacCracken, chief chemist chemistry at New York University.

The substance is lithium, the world's lightest metal, softer than ice, softer than lead, one half the weight of water, and such a ready prey to the elements that it must be kept from evaporation in sweater-tinned balls.

Although recently produced commercially in Europe, lithium still is so rare that chemical catalogues at New York University quote it at $240 pound.

The achievement to a quantity of product ton methods developed barely a month ago, making it for about $15 a pound whole and in ton lots.

Dr. MacCracken stated that new uses for the metal were being found almost daily, among the most striking of which is sponge-like absorption of gaseous impurities.

Visits Interesting Places

Mr. Jenness, Of the Department Of Anthropology, Ottawa, Recounts His Experiences

Diamond Jenness, Ch'ef of the Department of Anthropology, of the National Museum of Canada, who recently returned from the Fourth Pacific Scientific Congress, held in Batavia, Java, where he represented the Canadian Government, gave an announcement of his impress ons of that interesting country at the weekly meeting of the Gyro Club, held at the Daffodil, Ottawa.

Mr. Jenness is perhaps best known for his studies of the Eskimos among whom he was ethnologist of the Canadian Arctic Expedition from 1913 to 1916. Several papers he read on this subject have been issued by the Canadian Government; and the MacMillan Company has recently brought out his popular book "The People of the Twil ght." Before leaving for Batavia it took him to Denmark to meet a year among the natives of New Guinea, and published the results of his researches there and through the Oxford University, and the Polynesian Society of New Zealand.

Mr. Jenness has charge of the totem poles at the National Museum, and in 1926 and 1927, it was he who loaned his archaeologist to take charge of the Dominion Government totem pole preservation work on the C.N.R. in Skeena Valley, Br tish Columbia.

Facing Many Dangers

Toronto Professor Going To Abyssinia To Photograph Script Of Old Testament

Jealously guarded by monks for more than 2,000 years, Ethiopic translations of the Old Testament are calling Rev. E. A. E. Mercer from his chair in Oriental Languages and Egyptology at Trinity College, University of Toronto, to brave the dangers of Abyssinia. It will photograph the manuscript and return to the calm of varsity cloisters to use his prints of the ancient writing to enhance the world's knowledge of holy writ.

It was in the fourth century B.C. that the Old Testament was translated into Ethiopic, the ancient language of Abyssin a, and so European has ever glimpsed the manuscript, hidden in Coptic monasteries as the monks' most valuable possession.

"I have conceived the notion of preparing a copy of the Copt c script ure from returns of the sole text manuscript I can find," said Professor Mercer today. "Wh le manuscripts of the Old Testament exist in Europe, they are comparatively recent date, and many errors have crept into them. In study of the Old Testament use is now made of practically every language into which it has been translated since script."

It is to supply this last link in the scholarsh p of Biblical history that Professor Mercer w ll travel through white companions through hundreds of miles of untracked Africa's bush to get his treasure. But little does he admitted, "but I think it is a work that should be done."

Filming Wild Life

Alberta Government Taking Pictures For Educational Purposes

Wild life in the mountains of Alberta is being illustrated by the Alberta government in about 30 000 feet of film, and the work is now 75 per cent complete. Probably the chief interest in the film so far produced in the work, which is for exhibition and educational purposes, are pictures of a nest and eggs of a blue goose.

The pictures are of native birds chiefly, and bird nests, eggs, etc., but there are also illustrating fur farming in Alberta. The work of photographing wild life in the province will be continued next summer, it is understood, the idea being to make films showing every phase of wild life, birds and animals. The p ctures of the blue goose nest and eggs were obtained at Beredick's sanctuary, east of Leduc. The first show ng of the film took place recently at the Spruce-dale school, Leduc district.

For Benefit Of Pedestrians

England Has Novel Scheme Whereby Pedestians May Control Traffic

At Crossings

From England comes the announcement of a novel scheme a to protect the r rights of pedestr ans in this age of ever-increasing automobile traffic Electric buttons would be installed at street crossings whereby the lowly man on foot would himself be able to operate the "Stop" and "Go" signals. He is not without certa n restrictions When he had halted traffic it would be but one-quarter of a minute before the signal automat cally returned to "Go," and it would then be three-quarts s of a minute before anyone could again halt traffic. Thus the pedestrian would be given power to control the road one-quarter of the time.—New York Evening Post.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL CLOSES FOR HOLIDAYS

Vermilion Institution May Not Re-Open until January 13

Fears that the school of agriculture would be under quarantine during the Christmas holidays were finally dispelled last Wednesday afternoon when it was announced that the school would close on Thursday. The fact that there were thirty-one students quarantined with the mumps gave rise to the contention that it might be inadvisable to allow the students to return home for the holidays, possibly spreading the mumps throughout many rural areas. A doctor from the department of health was sent down to investigate both those and in a conference with the staff it was decided that the students would be allowed to leave.

All students were advised to take every precaution possible to prevent the spread of mumps should any contract this disease while away. In view of the fact that the mumps may be expected to break out about January 4, it was announced that the school would not likely re-open until January 13th. However, this date is not definitely set: it will not be announced until later.

Radio for Ward

In the meantime it has been decided that the student body purchase a powerful radio receiver for the entertainment of those who will remain in the hospital during the holidays. The radio will be located in the main rotunda and a loud speaker will be placed in each wing so that both boys and girls may benefit from it at the same time.

A considerable sum of money was accumulated for this purpose last year but was not put to use. To this sum has been added donations from the staff and from the students. In addition to those who will be quarantined here some two hundred other students will remain in town, the Peace River curling rink has been secured for dinner to allow them to go home.

Dramatic Club Play

The initial effort of the recently organized dramatic club was presented Wednesday in an enthusiastic unknown. Proceeds from the Christmas tree were distributed after the play then a dance was held until midnight. Some students left on the morning trains.

NATIONAL FORCES LAST LINK IN COAST TO COAST RADIO CHAIN

Montreal, Dec 21.—By the completion of a broadcasting circuit from Edmonton to Vancouver, the Canadian National Railways have forged the last link in a coast-to-coast radio station. Announcement of the installation of the new circuit was made this morning by the telegraph department of the system. The first broadcast to go over the new circuit took place on Thursday, December 19 when the Hart Dog Co. orchestra of Edmonton broke the microphone. Up to the present, the Radio's have been a barrier against coast-to-coast broadcasting, now Pacific coast listeners will be able to hear the best concerts of the other regions of Canada. Concert between all parts of the Dominion may now be motored but the installation of the new circuit was made possible by the use of land lines and short wave radio stations.

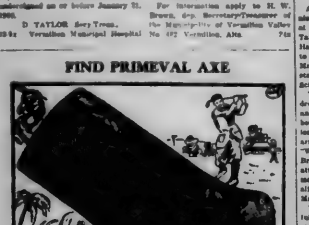
FIND PRIMEVAL AXE



A Cliffordville in Canada are digging the foundation for the cellar of the new home of Mr. Ernest Tark Gold reserve, Vermilion, of a finely preserved bronze axe, with a well rounded cutting edge, and well suited for cutting down trees, or other purposes. The axe is supposed to be one of the number of pioneer implements, but many more will be found in an authentic note of the find.

Ground points old and pulling back Beautifully balanced and still sharp, the years have left their mark on the axe and there can now be no more questions about the authenticity of the find in the Vermilion district. While relics of a great civilization have been found in the Peace River country and in the Edmonton district, this is the first find of its kind ever made in the south of a determined people. Some believe that it is an Indian implement, but many more that it is an authentic relic of the Stone Age.

THE STANDARD
VERMILION, ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909
Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
S. S. P. COMPER, Editor.
Vermilion, Alta., Dec. 26, 1929.

Another year has almost winged its flight, and once again The Standard extends heartiest good wishes for the season and a bright, happy and prosperous New Year.

THE C.N.R. GOES AHEAD WITH ITS PROGRAMME.

The decision of the Canadian National Railway Board to provide for an expenditure on equipment of twenty million dollars in 1930 is to be commended as timely, not only in the interests of transportation, but also of the country generally. It sets an example which, as far as possible, may be followed by all public and private corporations that have been contemplating capital plans to be completed out of the year's revenues. It is far easier to keep the general business of the country going at the high levels than it is to start it up again once it has been allowed to fall off sharply. There is no substantial reason why the latter should ever again be allowed to fall off sharply. There is no substantial reason why the latter should ever again should suffer any marked decline at the present time. All that is needed is to keep the country on a steady stride, despite the crash on the stock exchanges, to confident leadership on the part of the men who had spread spending programmes under confidence when the smash occurred in October. There is every reason to be confident that befell the speculative boom, the financial position has been improved for all worth-while purposes thereby. The bond market has been toned up a little in consequence of the collapse of the stock market, and it is still in favour for the floating of new issues. Credit in this country is in no second sale as of high grade as it ever was. In fact, it is in a better reasonable for entering upon capital undertakings based on the prospects of Canada's continued growth. The best Hoover is doing a laudable work by bringing together business interests of the leading groups and showing them that their country depends upon them to keep trade and industry active. We are glad to see that the Canadian National Railways and other employers of labor on a large scale are going ahead. That is what the country wants at the present time.—The Mail and Empire, Toronto.

CREOSOTING FENCE POSTS

At the Dominion forest nursery, Indian Head, Sask., under the Forest Service department of the Interior, at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, tenee posts of poplar, creosoted, have been tested from 1917 to the present and are still sound. Untreated posts, on the other hand, have rotted out in two or three years. Efforts are now being made to devise an apparatus for treating posts which will enable any farmer to set up a simple home treating plant a small expense.

BOGGIE — TAYHAM

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, December 18th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Tatham, when their second daughter, Hazel May, was united in marriage to Thomas William Boggie, son of Mr. Wm. Boggie of the post office staff, Edmonton, Rev. H. A. Boyd officiating.

The bride looked charming in a dress of pale blue taffeta silk a veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of baby mums and carnations, and entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Wedding March" played by Mrs. G. Brimacombe. Miss D. Tatham, who attended the bride, wore a dress of mauve and yellow taffeta. Miss Rosalie Tatham acted as flower-girl and Mr. H. C. Johnson was best man.

The room and archway were tastefully decorated with white bells and streamers and the table was covered with a beautiful wedding cake. After the ceremony everyone sat down to a hotel luncheon, followed by a most enjoyable evening.

The guests present were: Mrs. M. Griffiths, Cookstown, Alta.; Mrs. R. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. F. Fitch and Miss Dorothy Fitch; Mr. and Mrs. L. Amos; Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith and baby daughter Lillian; Mr. and Mrs. H. Fraser; Mr. and Mrs. H. Reid; Mr. and Mrs. N Cook; Mr and Mrs. H. M. Mather; Mr. and Mrs. H. Weaver; Mr. and Mrs. Jos Weaver; Mr and Mrs. John Weaver; Mr. H. Weaver; Mr. and Mrs. R. Day; Mrs. C. Bolsdon; Mr. Fred Gardiner; Mrs. J. Donnelly; Mrs. J Burton, Edmonton; Mrs R. Bednell.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were received by the bride, showing how popular she was while their home in Vermilion will make their home a happy couple will make their home a happy one.

FROST - BITE

One day recently during the few days of below zero weather, a boy of thirteen, a new comer to the West, was brought to a local hospital with both hands frozen white. He had been two months only in Canada and having come from Scotland did not know the danger of exposing his bare hands when the temperature was 30 below with a chill little wind blowing. However he knows now, and will take care in future.

For those newcomers to our Canadian west who have not yet weathered a winter with us, this article is written. If none, we suppose to lose some feeling and appear a cold while, start friction with snow or a piece of ice at once, and keep it up until a pink glow appears in the affected part. If possible, put hands or feet in cold water and keep there for an hour or more and then use friction until circulation has been completely established.

Never put in hot water, nor place near a fire.

A person found frozen to unconsciousness should be placed in a cool room and friction with cloth wrung out of ice cold water applied to body with hand friction to extremities This is to keep up until circulation is re-established. Then person is placed between warm blankets and given a hot drink.

"We Want Music" Cry Heard at Arena Skating Rink

Some things are not really appreciated until we no longer have them, and this is particularly true in the case of the loud speaker system which was installed at the rink two years ago, and to whose tones many an evening was passed while it was on. But the music box has fled, no one knows whether although a good guess would probably carry pretty straight to the mark. The idea somehow in the arena itself is still there, most likely because it was out of reach, but the "sounds" of the musical cabinet located in the waiting room office are all gone. Thus, while some people are content to dance without any music, there are still others who have to have music to keep them in time and rather than desire to tear around the arena at a mad rate of speed—or several together—which is rather more exciting to skaters of less skill than their own and decidedly dangerous to small youngsters whose movements are uncertain at the best of times, let alone when being "whirled by" by several skaters at a fast clip. The rather of all at the arena rink have to be reported. No doubt the re-installation of some kind of musical love song would solve any little difficulty which might exist along these lines and to return the music of the town should be "what we have we hold," and either keep everything locked up, including the key, or else hold someone responsible for the safe-keeping of the rink equipment.

A CLOSING AGE

When Commander Byrd flew over the South Pole a few days ago he saw a different prospect than that which he viewed three years ago when he performed the same feat with Amundsen at the other extremity of the earth. Ice he naturally saw in abundance on both occasions but the geography of the Southern regions is more varied than at the Northern. An ocean lies under the one deep down over or under the North Pole while a rugged continent of huge extent, with mountain ranges and colossal glaciers, lies at the earth's southern extremity.

Any increase of knowledge contributed by these polar expeditions is of doubtful practical value. The east in Indians and in some cases of human life may be charged up to the account of pure science. That, however, is not saying that it is not worth while. There has always been in the human makeup an inextinguishable desire to explore the unknown and that desire has been the greatest factor in the advancement of the race.

The case of Polar exploration has increased enormously since the days of Peary, Nansen and Scott. These intrepid adventurers made their way as far as possible in ships and then, by sudden dashes by dog sled or on foot, reached their objectives or came so near them as possible. Now all is changed. In 1926 Amundsen in the dirigible Norge flew from Spitzbergen to Alaska, making the distance of 2,700 miles in 71 hours and 15 minutes during directly over the North Pole. Now Commander Byrd, from his camp Little America is within reach by flying machine of the South Pole and to making an aerial survey of the South Polar continent. He can conduct his flights at convenience. The day after his return, thanks to radio, he entertains the world with accounts of his experiences and observations. for the doughty commander cannot be accused of neglecting the publicity end of his enterprise. He may be the last of the great explorers, for the age of exploration is drawing to a close by the very exhaustion at new fields to explore. We are now well entered upon the age of the geologist-prospector, searching for precious minerals in inhospitable regions. His discoveries are the additional advantage of practical value in increasing the wealth and well-being of humanity as a whole.—Country Guide.

In my five years of operation as a subsidiary of the Department of colonization and development, Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canada Colonization Association has placed 17,725 families and 100,000 persons on farms in western Canada, Colonel J. S. Dennis, president of the association, announced in his directors' annual report. The association has at present opportunities to settle 1,507 families on 232,000 acres in the prairie provinces.

Rail orders exceeding $200,000 will be offered at the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina, August 5-13, 1930. The major prize, totalling $7,000 is for hot wheat. It is almost a certain field to be verified by the official bills and also to better milling and chemical tests to establish origin.

Immigration to Canada during the six months, April 1 to September 30, 1929, totaled 120,235, of which 51,741 were British; 20,760 from the United States; 11,251 from north-western Europe, and 35,573 representing 41 other races. Total immigration same period of 1928 was 123,712.

Official opening of the enlarged Empress Hotel at Victoria to which a large addition has recently been completed at a cost of approximately $3,000,000 will be held December 31, it is announced by E. E. Matthews, general manager of Western Canadian Pacific Hotels.

Gold produced in Ontario in the first nine months of 1929 had a value of $28,721,562, or in excess of $1,000,000 more than value of production in first nine months of 1928.

Breaking all previous records for handling of Japanese oranges, a special Canadian Pacific Railway train consisting of 22 cars of the choicest fruit, arrived at Winnipeg recently about 80 hours after leaving the coast, in time for the first Yuletide oranges to be on the table. The whole consignment from the coast consisted of 675 box cars holding a total of 8,250,000 of the Japanese delicacy.

About 2,500,000 fry and 240,000 eyed ova, a total of 2,740,000 accurate fish, was the record output of the Banff hatchery this past season. The ova were received with difficulty by such horse to the Bear Creek Valley reservoir of Lake Louise. The fry were widely distributed over western areas.

Statistics show an increase of 1,000 vessel arrivals in the Port of Vancouver for the first nine months of this year above the number for the same period last year. Net tonnage shows an increase of 251,648 tons inward while outward tonnage shows a corresponding increase. Gain in arrivals was made up by 22 more ocean vessels; 22 foreign overseas; and 202 more local coasting.

Canadian National Places Large Order

Will Do Much to Relieve Unemployment Situation in Dominion

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 — Orders have been placed by the Canadian National Railways for 130,000 gross tons of steel required for the construction programme of the National System during the coming year, it was stated officially at Canadian National head quarters today. Of the total 80,000 gross tons have been ordered from the Dominion Iron and Steel Company and 50,000 gross tons from the Algoma Steel Mills at Sault Ste. Marie. In addition to steel orders nearly 5,000 box cars have been ordered, of the car orders placed the Canadian Car and Foundry company are to deliver 2,250 dirty ton box cars and 25 tank cars each of 10,000 gallons capacity. The National Steel Car company have received orders for 2,175 dirty ton box cars, and the Ascern Company have been given orders for 200 refrigerator and approximately 1,000 box cars. The placing of box car orders have resulted in the manufacturers placing orders with the British Columbia mills for some 13,000,000 feet of box car material The placing of these orders has had an important bearing on the employment situation throughout the country concerned. Inquiries are also being made by the Canadian National among accessory manufacturers for the delivery of 18 Santa Fe type locomotives and 15 mountain type engines

SHORTEST DAY OF YEAR ON SUNDAY

Sunday, December 22nd, was the shortest day of the year.

On Sunday, the sun rose at 8 46 a.m. and set at 4 36 p.m., giving the world 7 hours 15 minutes of daylight.

On Monday, though the sun rose at the same moment as on Sunday, it set one minute later, and from then on, it adds by minutes to the length of the interval between its rising and setting, until on June 21, when the sun is up at 3.46 a.m., and does not set until 8.34 p.m., giving 16 hours 48 minutes of daylight; there comes the longest day of the year

Will Retain Beef Grades On Trial For One Year, To Be Tested Out Every Month

At a meeting of the beef grading committee, held in Ottawa, it was decided that the grades already decided upon should remain on trial for a year, so that they might be tested out every month before any revision of them be considered.

It was decided after very lengthy discussion, that packers be urged to grade and brand all beef falling within the specifications of the two grades, "choice" and "good" and that every effort be made to accomplish this object, in order that both production and consumption might be stimulated by the display of large quantities of graded and branded beef in retail shops. There was a full attendance and R. S. Hamar, permanent chairman presided.

After discussing various methods by which the object of increased production could be stimulated it was decided to ask the federal government to appoint a man to devote his full time to further the interest of beef grading and to work up a policy for promoting the consumption of graded and branded beef, by co-operating with various bodies. There would be duties of provincial departments of agriculture, beef grading supervising committees and railway executives.

It was felt highly necessary to obtain the interest and co-operation of co-operatives and various forms of publicity were discussed. It was decided to ask the provincial departments of agriculture to organize committees of producers and co-operators in their centres interested in the promotion of a beef grading program in their respective provinces. This would create a chain of workers who could obtain active and interested in the scheme work and ready to co-operate with the special promotion man when appointed. No definite scheme of publicity has been approved.

The decisions and conclusions reached followed a check up on how many cities were handling graded beef in greater or less quantities.

A motion of warm appreciation of the work of Hoes and McKenzie in organizing the "Red Label Beef Breeders' and Feeders' Association" in Southern Alberta was passed.

Hon. J. D. McGregor visited the meeting and was asked to speak on the work of the Canadian Beef Producers' Association.

Mr. McGregor said they had not gone very far and now there was a report that the livestock pools were undertaking similar work to that which they had planned, namely, the raising of a sum of money to advertise the beef industry. He felt there was not room for two organizations doing the same work, but he was perfectly willing to co-operate where co-operation was possible

Those present were W. H. McIntyre representing the Western Stock Growers' Association; Ed. Evans, Moose Jaw, representing the Saskatchewan Stock Growers; R. A. Wright, Drinkwater, Sask., representing the Western Canada Livestock Union, Walter Scott, of Ontario, representing the Eastern Canada Livestock Union, J. H. Evans, representing the four provincial departments of agriculture of the West, Robert Wade representing the Manitoba department of agriculture, E. S. Todd, of Toronto, and F. M Baker, Winnipeg representing the Packers' Canned Meat Association, Winnipeg and Messrs Cahill, Thompson and McPherson the inspection department. Several representatives of the retail trade were also present as guests.

Canada's Railway Engine

Total Of 5,670 Used In Freight and Passenger Service

The 246,000 of Canada's railway cars of all sorts would not be of very much use unless there was some motive power to haul them.

This brings the great puffing and powerful modern locomotives, pride of the engineers and firemen, into the story.

The Canadian railways own a total of 5,670 engines. Of these locomotives 1,488 are employed in the passenger service, 3,264 in freight haulage. 736 in switching 1 Forty-two engines are run by electric power

For some reason that is not quite clear the number of locomotives has been steadily decreasing since 1922. In that year there were 6,986 locomotives in use.

Perhaps the explanation is found in the fact that the number of freight cars has increased by almost 9,000 since 1922. As the capacity of the smaller number of cars now and in 1922, is within a few thousand tons of each other, it means that the cars are fewer in number but of greater capacity, and more requiring power engines to haul them.

The 5,670 locomotives in use in 1927 consumed in the year 2,540,979 tons of fuel, at a total cost of $46,586,519. or $4.73 per ton. Coal costs the railways less now than in 1922. Then the cost per ton was $6 40.

The freight trains burned 5,383,474 tons and the passenger trains 2,161,130 tons. It may surprise readers to know that the 736 switching engines consumed more coal than the 1,488 passenger engines—almost half as much again.

Sheep Sale At Brandon

One Of Greatest Ever Held In Western Canada

The recent annual auction sale of rams, ewes and lambs held at Brandon is described by sheep breeders as one of the greatest ever held in Western Canada, with prices at an excellent level. One of the most prominent of sheep men in Canada, George Gordon, of Oak Lake, credited the recent importation of 10,000 sheep into Manitoba by the Manitoba Livestock Credit Company with having created a demand and a market that will rank Brandon with the best in Canada. Large buyers at the sale were the Hudson's Bay Company, the T. Eaton Co., Harris Abattoirs and the Swift Canadian Co.

Ship Western Horses To New Brunswick

Automobile Sent To Try Out Market For Carbide Tyres

In order to try out the market for certain types of horses in New Brunswick, a shipment of 16 animals was recently consigned from Moose Jaw to the Maritime Provinces by the Saskatchewan Livestock Pool and the Department of Agriculture. Under the arrangements entered into between the Livestock Pool and the Federal and Provincial Governments, the Pool assembles the shipments and the two Governments assist in promoting the sale of the horses. Larger shipments are to be made in the near future.

Quantity and Value

When Any Article Becomes Plentiful Price Will Drop

When emeralds were first discovered in America, a Spaniard carried one to a lapidary in Italy, and asked him what it was worth. he was told a hundred crowns. He produced a second, which was larger; and that was valued at three hundred. Overjoyed at this, he took the lapidary to his lodging and showed him a chest full, but the Italian, seeing so many, snapped his fey by saying, "Ah ha, Senor! so many! these are worth one scudo."

Rye Will Kill Thistles

It is said that rye will kill now thistles as well as the Canada thistle. It is advised to work up the patch in August, harrow down and sow to fall rye so as to get a good root before freezup. It is claimed that the next year there will be no thistles, no matter how thick they were when the rye was sown.

Advertising and Selling

Much To Be Learned By Canada and Britain

As for the Canadian consumer, he buys few British products because he never hears about them He reads ten advertisements of other products to one British advertisement in Canada. The result is that he buys the goods he reads about. British goods are as a rule of high quality, but in the face of stiff competition and more enterprising selling methods, they will not sell themselves. It might be said with considerable point that both Canada and Britain can take a lesson from the United States in the business of advertising and selling. — Regina Leader.

Growers In Alberta Receive Return For Year's Crop

Five hundred and fifty best growers of Southern Alberta have received $285,000 as a first payment for the year's crop. A second payment was made December 4. In addition to these direct returns from the best industry there are five stock feeding activities that will bring further dividends. Thousands of cattle and sheep will be on feed this winter with rations made up largely of pulp and molasses from the sugar factory and offgrade grain and hay.

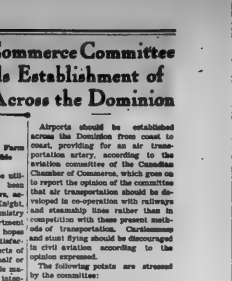
TREASURE HOUSE IN NORTH



This map shows the location of the world's largest bituminous sand deposits, found along the Athabaska and its tributaries, about 300 miles north of Edmonton, Alta. In a paper delivered somewhat over a year ago, before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Gustav Egloff and Jacque C. Morrell estimated the deposits contained more than 100,000,000,000 barrels of bitumen and could produce more than $3,000,000,000 barrels of gasoline, or enough to supply the present world demand for over a hundred years.

Utilizing Farm Waste

Ultimate Market For All Farm Products Being Made Possible By Canada

Such marked advances in the utilization of farm wastes have been made during the last few years, according to Dr. Henry G. Knight, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, United States Department of Agriculture, that "we have hopes we will be able to obtain satisfactory markets for all the products of the farm rather than for the half or third now considered marketable material. The hope lies in more intensive research."

"For every pound of grain harvested and sold from one to three pounds of residue in the form of straw and stalks are left upon the farm to be plowed under in the best manner possible. For every pound of seed cotton sent to the gin from one to two pounds of cotton stalks are left in the field," he says.

Illustrating the increasing uses chemists are finding for the by-products of our staple crops, Dr. Knight cites the fact that fermentation industries now produce from cane sugar alone, products which are annually valued at $118,000,000, besides the corn starch, glucose, corn oil, and stock feed which add other millions to that figure. Even straw may now be converted into human food by a process used in Switzerland and Germany to convert wood waste into food.

Among definite results secured from the application of chemistry to agriculture, Dr. Knight mentioned the transformation of California fruit culls which, with the help of chemists from the Department of Agriculture, were changed from an expensive waste to a highly profitable by-product of the citrus industry. Cottonseed, formerly wasted and thrown into the streams, he says, is now the basis for cottonseed oil, cottonseed oil, cattle foods, or a total of thirty products the price for which is reflected in a higher value for the farmers' cotton. Sugar-cane bagasse, which until a few years ago was burned under the boilers of the sugar mills, is now made into insulating material for refrigerators and other uses by the building trade.

Active research looking to utilization of such by-products of the farm as cornstalks, straw, peanut hulls, lignin, and surplus sweet potatoes, is now carried on by the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, which Doctor Knight directs.

Honey Must Be Carefully Stored

If Kept Under Favorable Conditions Will Not Spoil

Much honey is wasted yearly by lack of proper precautions in caring for it after it is harvested, with the result that it soon ferments and spoils. Unripe honey quickly ferments and spoils, after it is extracted. Honey that is fully ripened when extracted, will spoil if stored in unfavorable conditions. All honey contains the necessary elements for fermentation and, therefore, if kept in conditions favorable for the growth of the ferments, spoils quickly occurs. The honey should be extracted, strained and canned as soon as possible after it is removed from the hive, and then stored in a cool, dry place.

The Highway Crossing

Bridges Over Streams But No Protection At Railways

Every time a highway crosses a little stream there is a bridge. Nothing at all unusual about that, of course. It is necessary to have something to get over the water.

Every time a highway crosses a railway track there is nothing at all to make for a safe crossing, and there is something unusual about that.

If there is need for a safe crossing over a bit of a stream—and there is—then there is more need for safe crossing over a railway track.

Welded Sixty-Five Years

Sixty-five years ago Jacob Schwartz and Frede Schmidt good-bye and sailed for America to make his fortune, promising Frede that when he did so he'd come back for her. Schwartz, now 92, recently cabled his old sweetheart to prepare for the wedding and sailed for Germany. She had waited for him.

Airports should be established across the Dominion from coast to coast, providing for an air transportation artery, according to the aviation committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which goes on to report the opinion of the committee that air transportation should be developed in co-operation with railways and steamship lines rather than in competition with these present methods of transportation. Carelessness and stunt flying should be discouraged in civil aviation according to the opinion expressed.

The following points are stressed by the committee:

That the establishment should be effected of a trans chain of airports across Canada from coast to coast. That certain of these should be provided by the Dominion Government for its requirements and the others partly by municipalities and partly by private enterprise as may be found locally desirable. This chain would thus provide for the necessary main arteries of air transportation across Canada for all forms of commercial service.

That the main airports be under the control of governments or municipal agencies and that airports of all kinds be under the supervision of Government regulations with standard equipment to secure efficiency, convenience and safety.

That at certain points encouragement and assistance should be given for establishing feeder airports both north and south and for air route networks, to bring into connection the various regions which can economically be served by air.

That air transportation should be developed and regarded as an adjunct to our existing rail and water transportation systems and in cooperation with them as far as possible, rather than in competition.

That every encouragement should be given to Canadian enterprise to establish and operate our commercial aviation systems, controlled by Canadians for Canadian purposes, and manned, in the same manner as our other Canadian transportation systems.

That municipalities should, in as far as possible, provide their own airports and landing-fields, adequately equipped at their own expense, in order to concentrate air transportation at one place for the convenience of the public and so as to maintain it under a single local authority.

That as commercial aviation develops, government agencies should refrain from encroaching on the legitimate field of the private commercial agencies developing and conducting air transportation and in this way stimulate rather than curtail enterprise in this new field.

That the Government be assisted in every way to enforce supervision and regulations looking toward convenience and safety of air travel and that all forms of risk taking, of carelessness and "stunt flying" be discouraged in civil aviation.

That the industries connected with the business of aviation both in apparatus and operation, be in every way encouraged as Canadian enterprises, looking forward to the time when our aviation requirements will be manufactured in our own country.

That encouragement should also be given by the business men and the general public generally to the formation of flying clubs and to the practice of aviation (through the Aviation League and other means), as that as a country, we will acquire air dexterity and gain an advantageous position in this form of transportation.

The Old Year and the New

The old year is dying—it may be dead, passed into the limbo of the unthinkable past, before these words appear in print. A new year dawns, with all its hopes and fears its possibilities for good or evil. Six visits of 365 days of opportunity for each and every individual.

With the pass ng of the old year it is customary to take a swift backward glance in an endeavor to sum up its achievements, to realize its mistakes, to note those movements and developments which could be improved upon or polled to retrogression, to exercise that keen observation and study of past events we may carry profit into the future.

This old custom is a good one Whether we are prepared, or not, to accept the extreme doctrine of Evolution, that man descended from the apes,—or still adhere to the Bible story of creation, the vast majority of people do believe that God and nature intended that man should grow in stature, in intelligence, in power; that there should be a steady evolution: that progress should be made in the light of past experiences. Nothing is static—stands still: it either grows and improves, or declines and dies.

Viewing the year 1929 in this critical way, are we not enjoy'ng the advantages of that hindsight which is so much clearer than foresight, when does the year's events teach us? What lessons can we carry into the new year with profit to ourselves and to the advantage of our country and the world?

Thanks very largely to the cowardly march of medical science, and the untiring patience of the research workers of the world, the old year was not marred by any bare epidemics of disease. To a greater extent than ever before people have accepted the doctrine that it is better to remove causes of disease and to adopt measures of prevention against disease, than it is to confine our efforts to the cure of disease after it has made its appearance. As a people we will be wise if we even more systematically and vigorously follow this course demonstrated with increasing force that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. And this old adage applies to other evils as well as to disease

During 1929 Canada is entering upon a further development of its wealth of natural resources and a consequent larger expansion in industrial activity and in its trade and commerce than in any previous twelvemonth in its history. Viewing the Dominion as a whole, the year was prosperous in many localities and hence, here and there, the old year was one of prosperity for Canada and its people. That prosperity was developed along sound lines and through the application of sane policies. Our industrial and commercial growth has been the direct outcome of improved methods and by a sat'sfactory aggressive policy of reaching out into all parts of the world for markets in which to sell our surplus products. It is a policy that has made for sane and prosperity in Canada and at the same time benefited the world at large. Canada will do well to continue and enlarge upon the same policy during the new year.

In the wide sphere of world politics and world affairs, Canada, as much as any country, has reason for congratulation over the trend of events. The general acceptance by the nations of the Briand-Kellogg pact outlawing war as an instrument of national policy, the friendly results of the visit of our Premier Rumsay MacDonald to the United States and Canada, and the better understanding created between the two great branches of the English-speaking family, the final withdrawal of the British troops from Germany and the developing "will to peace" among all peoples everywhere, mark 1929 as a potent year in the cause of permanent peace through the development of international good-will. A standard has been set for 1930 to follow and place on an even firmer foundation.

In Western Canada, in particular, the old year has been a time of testing for the greatest of our co-operative enterprises. It has been a year of difficulty and constant anxiety for those to whom the management of that great enterprise is entrusted as well as to every producer and business interest in this country. Fortunately the grave clouds all had rations point to the wisdom of the decisions arrived at by the Wheat Pool, and to the ultimate success of the policies decided upon. Confidence in the principles of true co-operation should, therefore, be strengthened and carried as an asset on the first page of the 1930 ledger.

Contrasted with the sound business principles, based on the law of supply and demand, adhered to by the Wheat Pool, the old year has sorely taught tens of thousands of people a bitter and costly lesson in regard to the evils of stock speculation Stock values cannot be boosted indefinitely. Overinflation can only end in one way—the bursting of the balloon. There is a streak in our human make-up which leads us to gamble an intense craving for wealth not earned through our own efforts by work, an overwhelming desire to get something for nothing, or nearly so, for next to nothing. It is a failure. The country contented man today is the one who, hunched at by his neighbors as slow and unduly cautious, invested in Government and gilt-edged bonds, and lost not an hour of sleep when stock values tumbled and wiped out the life savings of thousands of less prudent men and women.

Finally, the old year must have impressed on Canada'ans a renewed realization of the fact that their prosperity depends on service and satisfaction as well as in the large sphere of their internal and international relations, there must be maintained that spirit of goodwill toward all classes irrespective of varying political views, racial origin, or religious creeds, and that Christian tolerance towards all, which alone can promote real and lasting co-operative effort and advance the common interests of all. With some minor exceptions here and there, that spirit characterized the Canadian people throughout 1929. May there be no exceptions whatever in 1930, and Canada and the world will be blest thereby.

Soviet Ambassador To Great Britain Anxious About Relation With Dominion

One of the first matters the new Soviet ambassador to Britain, M. Apparently Canada is not anxious for any changes at the present time and in this connection the Bavarian went to show just where they stand.

Both the Daily Mail and Morning Post are carrying an extensive campaign against the recognition negotiations between Britain and Russia, the Mail asserting that the Soviets assisted the last general strike in this province and the Post calling for some assurances to protect against their attitude towards religion.

Wily Dope Ring Smuggling Drugs

Canadian Banks Is Rumored By Work Of Pitiable Specimens

In a previous article it was pointed out that only about 10 per cent. of the narcotic addicts were, or, have been the victims of the narcotic—morphine, cocaine and opium—habits, that are used. And during that time, a profession of utmost gravity has arisen—the dope fiend, a habit that is a constant menace to the health of almost every nation, and which organized and unscrupulous gangs of international crooks feed it in their interest to foster.

In Ottawa, and throughout the provinces and various cities, there are well-organized organizations to combat the drug evil. A brief summary of some of the things that these Ottawa workers have encountered in their work, will give you an idea of the astounding ingenuity with which drug operations work, and of the importance of the problem we have on our hands.

The utmost secretiveness surrounds the drug traffic, and for this it is seldom that the high-ups are caught, and yet in every transaction for the sale of drugs there is a man behind. Some of them have become millionaires, through this illicit trade, and many are known, and notwithstanding clever enough to make their petty pedlars, who are usually addicts and who will betray any one rather than forfeit a supply of the particular drug they crave, "take the fall," which is the term used for dope-peddling graft for "going to the penitentiary."

When a man is in jail, and has the money necessary to buy drugs, or has earned them through getting addicts and making sales, any one of the most weirdest means are used of getting drugs to him inside the institution. Some of the drug runners have succeeded in a woman's hair, hidden under postage stamps on a letter, sewn in the lining of a coat, in a book or magazine, in canes, fountain pens or cigarettes .A man has been known to take a hypodermic needle and, after having it in his mouth, or a tin-dollar bill, with wh ch to buy narcotics, in the dope ring that was operating in the rubber heel of a shoe. These are deceptions that would not occur to the average person, but the cunning of the drug addict in trying to get what he wants is something to beggar description.

Then there is to be considered the cleverness with which the habit is concealed. The covert invitation "Come to our snow party," that is given to young boys and girls, means that cocaine is getting paid for it. When it is real and that a boy of 94 years of age, a convict in an American penitentiary, before he was finally apprehended, takes about $20,000 worth of drugs, and had never worked a day or earned a dollar in his life. Where he came one has to how it is done. He had brought many recruits to the profitable "underground parties" staged by the big operators and had paid his way. His wages were paid in drugs.

Drug peddlers are changing their modus operandi with the times. The master minds in the ring grasp the market, and when there is a scarcity or shortage just to get higher prices. It is then that crime becomes rampant, because at such time the clamor of the hab tue that, although he has no courage except in his own direction, he will do almost anything to get what his system demands. Cocaine frequently brings $600 an ounce, and the victim usually has to steal this money.

The ports or entry into Canada seem to be selected at the single eyes by the narcotic division of the federal civil service. They recently uncovered a big drug ring at Vancouver, which operators were using to get contraband drugs in here. They were already bringing them in from China in false bottoms, dried fish, in Bible) ghting fixtures, which pedlars had fastened to the ceilings of their cells, but now they find that they have to go out to meet the ship, or the drugs will reach them just the same. The whole drug dealer had been dropping his cargo of drugs overboard, encased in waterproof cans, attached to line cans were little wooden floats. After the ship had docked, and the officers had finished their examination, and left in peace, went out and picked up their cans again.

Sometimes the men carrying the profitable drugs will take out the whole veil of his stateroom, the portholes of which are above the water-line when the vessel is at rest, and then, when the vessel is in motion, replace the veil, and goon so through the customs. Then there is the manufacture of clay products. This work will be completed within the next few weeks, when the members of the commission enquiring into the situation will draw up their reports for submission to the Department of the Interior.

Minister Is Discussed In British House Of Commons

The important matter of accurate geographical and historical text books in the schools of Britain and the Empire was raised in the British House of Commons, Mr. Hon. H r Charles Trevelyan, president of the Board of Education remarked he did not th nk he could convene a conference of publishers of schoolbooks in England and the Dominions, as suggested from a Canadian source, but he would be glad to see his good offices to bring the publishers into touch with representat ves of the various governments.

H r Charles said he was not entirely satisfied that the geographical and historical text books now in use were thoroughly up-to-date. He hoped the publishers were paying attention to the recent report of the Board of Education's committee dealing with the matter.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY MEETS SERIOUS CRISIS

London, England.—Ramsay MacDonald's Labor Party cabinet was saved from possible defeat when the House of Commons defeated a Conservative amendment rejecting the coal mines bill, by the narrow ma gin of eight votes.

The vote was 361 against 273 in favor of giving the bill its second reading.

The division of the House climaxed the first serious crisis that has confronted the administration. Tr umph of the Conservative amendment would have defeated the measure, wh ch was one of the chief projects of the government. The bill was framed to meet cmergency conditions.

The narrow margin of victory was due to a lessening of gove. nment support when Sir Herbert Samuel from the benches of the Liberals under the leadership of David Lloyd George. The Liberal leader had prepared a dissenting amendment but it took except on to only a few of the principal features of the bill and the Conservatives maneuvered themselves into the front of the battle by putting forth their compounded rejection amendment.

In the debate that preceded the vote Mr. Lloyd George denounced the bill as "incredibly bad," and as likely to raise the pr ce of coal to the consumer. But his attack was met with cheers from the Labor benches when he declared that these were drowned by cries, "resign" when the official figures disclosed the slim margin of government victory.

Examination of the ballot showed that there were several Liberals among the Liberals to account for the Laborites winning. Only two of the 44 Liberals in the House voted with the cabinet. The total Liberal membership is 58. The eight independents split, five to four, 4 to 4.

The cabinet vote was made up to 275 Labor ten, four Independents, and two L berals. The full list of government vote was made up of 226 Conservatives, 41 Liberals, and four Independents.

Prior to the session, the total membership was figured as consisting of 289 Laborites, 260 Conservatives, 58 Liberals, and eight Independents. The absentees therefore, figured as numbering 14 Laborites ag nst 33 Conservatives.

Famine in Irish Free State County

Destitution Of Farmers Is Revealed By Recent Investigation

Dublin, Ireland. — A remarkable statement of the destitution among the farming community of Kerry County, Irish Free State, was made at a meeting of the country board of health.

The superintendent of home assistance, who distributes relief throughout the area of farmers over the hills in comfortable circumstances some time ago, were now living on potatoes and salt, that they had no fuel, clothes nor bedding and their children were scant ly clad.

Where a religious examination was held recently in a north Lei rim school, out of 49 children for examination, 24 had no boots, 18 had the b tter weather. In the Dromshair district, he continued, there were 151 homes abandoned by farmers who had either emigrated or sold their hold ings. Matters had reached a breaking point and he would not consider further responsibility for impover shed families of the county, the officer added.

The board decided to take immediate action to alleviate the distress, referring the report to the minister for local government, with a view to obtain ng a special grant. A member said the countryside was reduced to state of misery such as the black days of the great famine of 1846-47.

Supports Adequate Navy

Lord Beatty Bel'eves Britain Does Not Endorse Under Tonnage To Engage Foes

London, England.—Lord Beatty who commanded the battle cruiser squadron at the battle of Jutland and later commander-in-chief of the Grand Fleet, told the House of Lords recently that Great Britain was approaching the coming naval conference with figure representing a dangerous min mum and an extremely low limit of cru ser tonnage.

His nation had many commitments and obligations so great and complicated as those of the British Empire, he said, added, that the Royal Navy should be opposed to arr ving at an ag eement with the United States or any other nation, but equality that anybody should lose sight of the fact that this empire was bound by the sea, that its communications were the sea, and that by the protection of the sea they depended."

Lord Thomson replying for the government, said that if the conference succeeded the government was absolutely resolved to keep the cruiser under the leadership of David Lloyd George. The Liberal leader had prepared a dissenting amendment but it took except on to only a few of the principal features of the bill and the Conservatives maneuvered themselves into the front of the battle by putting forth their compounded rejection amendment.

TWO AVIATORS ON LONELY TREK FROM THE NORTH

Winnipeg, Man.—Up at Churchill, on the shore of Hudson Bay, a score or so of residents are awaiting the arrival of two airmen, who by dog team are making a 500-mile journey from Baker Lake.

The fliers are J. D. Vance and Brian Stadale, of the Northern Aerial Mineals Engineering Company, who were marooned at Baker Lake, an isolated mining post, when their 'plane was damaged.

Though Churchill folk realize that Vance and Stadale cannot reach the bay port until late December at the earliest, they are ready for them. Natives along the bay shore have been notified that the two men are "mushing" from Baker Lake and will be on the lookout. Officials at the Hudson's Bay Company trading po t are inform ng itinerant trappers that the two men are on the trail.

By the time that the Yarco-Imsdale ca-vman g oughs over the inland snow drifts — or the ice bumps smooth, they are traveling down along the shore ice — they will be exhausted. In view of this fact, the white men at Churchill are looking for the arr val of a relief 'plane, which the N.A.M.E. has suggested will pick up the fliers at the end of steel.

If the machine does not arrive, it is not considered likely that the trek men will be forced to journey over-land the 500 m les to Gillam, farthest point on the Hudson Bay railway.

Two a month mail is being "mushed" into Churchill by dog-team from Gillam, but these are regularly scheduled affairs. It is thought unlikely that the mail any time from 30 days to twice as long, depending on the condition of federal and provincial affairs."

The new "Empress" will reach Quebec on the St. Lawrence next June, and She is 670 feet long, 85 feet wide, has a gross registered tonnage of 25,000 and will steam at 21 knots.

After the trip to Quebec and return it is intended to send the vessel direct from Montreal to Hong Kong, where she will leave on January 7, for Hi ushi Ohinsha, inaugurating her Pacific ocean career.

French Conservative Paper

New Quebec Weekly, Printed In French Language, To Support Conservative Principles

Quebec, Que.—Le Journal, a new Conservative newspaper printed in the French language, made its first appearance in an ed tion of 20 pages, in a "Foreword" Le Journal says in part:

"This page is the log cal result of the Conservative convention held in Quebec and Winnipeg. If it has not the pretension of being the official organ of the party, it is none the less clearly devoted to the d fusion and triumph of Conservat ve principles in the domain of federal and provincial affairs."

Wants Federal Conference on Unemployment

Ottawa.—Urging that steps be taken to head off depression instead of trying to relieve conditions because of it, Senator A. H. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor and a Brotherhood of Railway Carmen's man, has issued a statement reiterating his recent plea for a federal conference on unemployment.

He takes issue with the statement issued by Hon. Peter Heenan, Min ister of Labor, in respect to employment. Mr. Mosher refers to the fact that coming from the west "that the unemployment situation in Western Canada is the worst in six or seven years."

"If such a situation," states Mr. Mosher, "is not the reason for immediate action by the Federal Government, I should ask to know how serious conditions must become before anything is done. It is of no use to point to unemployment figures of September or October of this year, or Ja nuary, when much better the situation was in Canada compared with the Un ted States for those months. In both countries, the situation has become worse dur ng the past month.

"The stock market crash occurred only in the last week of October, and its effects are now becoming apparent.

"Canada unquestionably is passing opportunately to her population and the actual losses as well as the addi tional amounts of wealth created by thousands of investors have seriously curtailed buying power. The purchasing power of wage earners, the Federal Government makes a thorough study of the s tuation, and adopts a constructive policy with a view to see that there will be widespread misery and distress throughout the country

"The Minister of Labor blames the present cr sis on the crop conditions, without reflecting that this cause of unemployment has not been a factor in bringing on the situation in the United States. Canada lags slightly behind the United States in the cycle of depression but, in addition to the world-wide factors which are more drastic several fluctuations, the poor wheat crop and the almost complete failure of every factor which is causing unemployment in the United States has its parallel in Canada.

It is also incredible that Mr. Heenan should state publicly that unemployment has not been a factor in the normal seasonal sense, but is wholly traceable to one unavoidable cause. He must know that, owing to the steady introduction of labor saving machinery, many thousands of Canadians who have been thrown out of work. Those men are not gradually barred from getting new jobs, while the inadequacy of wages generally prevents the purchase of the commodities manufactured by the workers themselves, the surplus production piling up until a crisis ensues.

"These are some of the questions which the Federal conference would consider. It would mean that some effort was being made to head off depression instead of waiting until conditions become desperate. Even now, at the beginning of winter, almost every Canadian city is overrun by unemployed men and women.

"In the words of honest starvation is being staved off by voluntary societies, which are unable to meet all the demands made on them. The response received from all over Canada to the suggestion of an unemployment conference speaks far more eloquently of the actual facts than the graph c picture" portrayed by Mr. Heenan."

Sea Cables Buried

Damage Caused By Recent Earthquake Will Soon Be Repaired

Halifax, N.S.—No repairs have been made to the extensive cable damage caused by the upheaval of the ocean bed in the earthquake of November 18, according to word brought back from the area of operations by the Commercial Cable Company's ship, the John W MacKay.

The John W MacKay had been grappling for cable for four weeks and after re-stock ng at Halifax will return to the scene of operations

During the four weeks at sea, the John W MacKay, grappled across the old cable lines without find ng a trace of the cable in the ripples area Deposits of hard clay on the grappling irons 'n place of the usual ooze of the ocean bottom lead to the belief that a tremendous upheaval and cracking, similar to an earthquake on land, may have buried the ends of cable where it cannot be reached

Valued at $1,600 a mile, the loss to the cable companies is expected to reach an enormous sum.

NAVAL PARLEY WILL INTRODUCE MANY PROBLEMS

Washington — With the departure of the Japanese delegation to the London disarmament conference, Washington settled back to appraise the preliminary conversations between the representatives of Japan and the United States and to re-arrange the problems which will be confronted in the new light thrown upon the Japanese position.

The double-barrelled phrase "optimistically hopeful" is used by Secretary of State Henry Lewis Stimson, head of the United States delegation and Reij vo Vakatuki, chief of the Japanese, in describing their past conference sessions. But there are two flies in the ointment.

Japan feels the submarine essential to her security as a scattered island realm and accordingly she wants 70 per cent of the British and United States strength in auxiliary craft and manifests a strong interest in the 10,000 ton cruiser limit. To meet Japan's request, tonnage of the big boats Leaving the largest cruisers out of consideration. The question at the moment appears to look with favor upon a global tonnage agreement. This alone would be a victory for the Orient but does not seem to jibe with the Anglo-U S agreement upon "parity between the two navies."

Pacific naval bases enter largely into the consideration of the Japanese delegation. Since the naked withdrawal of Japan had received any intimation of the intention of Great B tain with the United States to fortify Singapore. The report would be received with great pleasure. Upon this the whole delegation and the Japanese newspaper men have laughed heartily and vigorously nodded their heads.

Will Address Naval Conference

King George To Preside At Opening Of Conference In January

London, England.—King George, departing radically from royal precedent, will preside personally at the opening meeting of the five-power naval disarmament conference on January 21, and defer the opening address to the world's statesmen, Prime Min ster MacDonald made this announcement in the House of Commons recently amid great enthusiasm

Mr. MacDonald gave no reasons why His Majesty had decided to open the conference in person, but observers at Westminster believe this is Great Brita n's announcement to the world that she is tak ng the efforts of the conference to reduce armament with the utmost seriousness.

It is known that the King himself, is awaiting the conference with the greatest interest and optimism.

Although the King regularly addresses the opening of pa l ament, it is considered extraordinary that he should open the opening of an international conference. This will be his first speech in more than a year.

Commanded Princess Pats

Colonel Agar Adamson, Who Died In England, Was Buried In Ontario

Cobourg, Ont.—The funeral of Colonel Agar Adamson, former Commanding Officer of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry who died in London, England, was held at Port Credit recently. The funeral arrangements were in charge of the Officer Commanding Military D strict No. 2 and the deceased was accorded full military honors.

The body was brought to Port Credit by special train and conveyed to the Trinity Anglican Church, where the service was conducted by Rev H. Earle Interment was made in the Trinity Church Cemetery.

Girl Frees U.S. Minister

Ottawa.—Miss William Phillips, re ting United States minister to Canada, has endowed a dormitory lodge to be erected by the Ottawa Ski Club at Camp Fortune, in the Gatineau Hills. The club has received a cheque which will make possible the erection of the lodge. During his stay in Ottawa Mr. Phill ps was an enthusiastic skier.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Mrs. Whitby gave us such a jolly party Monday afternoon. Christmas spirit was in the air, in greetings from Lady Rodney, the Alberta Council, Victoria Scarr, and the Cubs; a basketball and flags from Miss Bell in far-off Japan, and a peanut treat from Mrs. Norton. The Captain came in for a lovely surprise package too. We all ate so much that maybe we won't eat any Christmas dinner — but that's just "maybe." The prize-winners in the games were Jean Bell, Eileen Ayling, Grace Cooper and Madge Cook.

SANTA ENTERTAINS

Santa entertained about four hundred kiddies under the auspices of George and Bill on Saturday last. Owing to the cold weather, sickness and bad roads, many little ones were unable to attend.

As the year is a very hard one, the fear was entertained that Santa could not treat so many kiddies. But one morning George and Bill received a wire saying, "I have shipped candy to treat kiddies; also ordered special show." George and Bill prepared right away to receive this jolly old sir.

Santa received many letters of thanks from kiddies who appreciated his treat. Santa, George and Bill join in saying "Merry Xmas" and "Happy New Year" to all kiddies and parents.

Miss Lois Whitby of St. Hilda's college, Calgary, is home for the Christmas vacation.

HENNEKA — YUILL

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Yuill on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 18th in the presence of a few friends and relatives, when their daughter, Joan, became the wife of George Henneka, son of Mrs. Anna Henneka and the late Mr. H. Henneka of Buffalo, N. Y. The Rev. H. A. Boyd officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Henneka will reside in future on their farm four miles south of Vermilion.

SWEETHEARTS in Cabaret de Luxe

Folks will feel quite gay and hearty
If there's candy at the party.

NOTHING seems to relieve the evening or furnish any more genuine enjoyment than a bountiful supply of good candy. Buy your candies of us and you will never have any regrets. This is the candy shop where purity dwells.

First Presbyterian Church Held Annual Xmas Tree

The First Presbyterian church hall was crowded to capacity on Thursday evening, December 19th when the annual Sunday school Xmas tree entertainment was held. The hearty applause showed that all enjoyed the program, in which parts were taken by all pupils, from the tiniest tots to the senior class. Mr D. H. Rayner was chairman for the evening, and at the close of the program a visit was received from Santa Claus, who presented each pupil with a beautiful Bible and a bag of nuts and candies. Following his visit a delightful lunch was served by the ladies and a program closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Innisfree Lost To Vermilion Juniors

Playing a smooth brand of hockey the Vermilion Juniors trounced the Innisfree feader 8 to 1 in the first game of the season here last Friday night. The grade of hockey dished up by the local kids augurs well for the future of the game here, 6 of the 8 goals being the direct result of combination efforts. Welsh in goal, supported by Bourgoin and Art Wiebe formed a nearly impenetrable defence, while the line-up of two complete forward lines kept going at top speed all the time. The first string line of Bell, Waldenberg and White, and the second line consisted of G. Brimacombe, Cooper and Dorman.

COMPETITION NO. 2 COMPLETED AT CURLING RINK

For the second time in two competitions, Fred Long lost out on the 12th end in the finals of the upper competition, this time to Geo. Wright, while Ed. Sutton captured the honors in the secondary event from Dr. Knott.

The rinks are now engaged in a play-all type of competition.

A New Year's day bonspiel is being held by the men's curling club.

New Musical Equipment At Skating Rink

Radio Phonograph Amplifier

A large and powerful electric machine for the amplifying of phonograph records is being installed in the Arena skating rink, and the need for music will thus be amply met. The Radio Phonograph amplifier will use alternating or electric light current and the sound will be delivered through large type dynamic speakers similar to those used in public address systems and sound motion pictures. The volume thus obtained will be more than sufficient for the arena and probably will not have to be used to the full extent possible. The machine will be equipped with an electric pick up for the replaying without break in the music of records.

The installation and building up of this extensive equipment is entirely in the hands of M Hill. The best records for use in skating are being obtained by the rink committee.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of almost all stomach indigestion. It results in pain and sour taste and its action is often so severe that it burns holes in the stomach. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer. The quick corrective is an alkali when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this pioneer method acts to relieve Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting gastric hyperacidity. Each bottle contains full directions containing many directions—any druggist can.

Reduce Armies As Well As Navies

The outstanding event of th's opening month of the new year is the assembling of the naval reduction conference in London, England, upon invitation of the British Government to the other Great Powers, to devise ways and means of securing a substantial lessening of the burden borne by all in maintaining huge navies while at the same time, they are mutually pledged one to the other and to all not to resort to war. The conference opens with every prospect of success attending its deliberations, and particularly so in view of the fine understanding already reached between Great Britain and the United States. The hopes and desires of all mankind are wrapped up in its success.

If an accord can be reached in regard to questions of naval strength the next step should undoubtedly will be, an endeavor to arrive at an agreement for the reduction of armies and other forms of land armament. At Hary preparedness, so called, as did not from naval establishments, imposes an even heavier burden on most nations. Nevertheless, the question of the size of armies seems to present the more difficult problem.

For example, here in Canada we can understand why the United States with the Atlantic and Pacific, and Gulf of Mex co bounding it on three sides, with its island possessions of the Philippines, Porto Rico, etc. and its extensive horse trade, should feel the necessity of a strong navy, but the majority of our people are at a loss to understand their need of a large standing army and an extensive National Guard or militia.

Following, as it did the cordial reception tendered Premier Ramsay MacDonald by President Hoover, and the spontaneous acceptance of the invitation to the naval conference in London, Mr. Hoover's Armistice Day speech came as something of a shock in that he had great stress...—many people believe too much stress...on the old gospel of preparedness and particularly as it applied to the United States. Nor is this feeling allayed by President Hoover's first budget message to Congress, wherein he asks for increased appropriations for the army.

President Hoover's statement that only sufficient forces must be maintained to prevent "the foot of the invader landing on our sacred soil," sounded like a sop to the militarists. There does not appear to be the vaguest poss bility that any power or combination of powers contemplates any such fantastic step or that it is ever likely to happen. Canada and Mexico are the only two countries whose territory is contiguous to the United States, and this Dominion's permanent force of approximately 2,000 does not constitute a threat, nor has the U.S anything to fear from Mexico. Why, then, such huge army expenditures?

President Hoover has taken a fine stand on naval reductions and also on the Kellogg anti-war pact, but if real progress is to be made towards world disarmament an even greater measure of enthusiasm must be displayed for reduction in land forces. In his address he referred to the fact that there are ten million men under arms in Europe, vastly more than in 1914. But instead of attempting to formulate some plan whereby a reduction in these immense forces could be effected, Mr. Hoover seemed chiefly concerned in having the United States build up a bigger army to avoid invasion by these numerical millions.

Real friends of peace would have liked to hear President Hoover issue an urgent call to European countries to immediately start cutting down their armies, and, instead of advocating a still larger army for his country, he could safely have added weight to his plea for reduction by refusing, rather than an increase, in the United States land forces. The war-wearied peoples in all countries would have welcomed such a lead from the United States.

Apparently the lesson that the world learned in the last war has not yet been sufficiently impressed upon the minds of the people. An enormous percentage of the four billions of dollars which Mr. Hoover asks Congress to provide in its next budget, is to cover the costs of former wars and to "prepare" for possible future ones. In 1926 the United States spent sixty cents out of every dollar on account of war financing. Another twenty cents went to the army and navy, making a total of eighty cents out of every dollar collected in federal taxes for military—and, in an economic sense, unproductive—purposes.

In that same year in Canada a pacific nation, spending far less than other countries on war preparation and debts incurred by war, heavy as the latter are, 43½ cents out of every dollar expended by the Government was attributable to war.

In the light of these figures it is clearly evident that, if this damnable doctrine of "preparedness" is to be allowed to continue as the basis of international relations, all the efforts of the League of Nations, all Peace Pacts, all efforts of peace organizations will fail. The people must bestir themselves in order to avert the possibility of future wars.

Looking To the Future

New York Skyscrapers To Have Mast For Dirigibles

Alfred E. Smith, skyscraper builder, has announced that the 1,100 foot tower of the Empire State building will be surmounted by a 200 foot mooring mast for dirigibles, perhaps through which passengers can descend to seven minutes in the street, instead of landing at Lakehurst, 70 miles away.

Mr. Smith will go to Washington to ask Secretary of the Navy Adams for the help of navy engineers experienced in mooring mast construction.

Already, Shreve, Lamb and Harmon, architects of the 85-storey building, have consulted the engineers of the Goodyear Zeppelin Company, which contemplates transportation lines with the two great airships it is building.

The d rectors of Empire State, Inc., of which former Governor Smith is president, have come to the conclusion, he said, that in a comparatively short time there would be a transatlantic, transcontinental and intercontinental airship lines, and possibly a line to South America.

THOUSANDS OF MOTHERS USE NO OTHER MEDICINE

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy For Babies and Young Children

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they exercise in little one—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient, and at the same time safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King of Trenton, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Over Five Million Fish Fry Deposited in Western Waters During Past Year

There should be a lot of new good sport fishing in Western Canada waters in a few years. A report issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries shows that during the current year that company transported 5,322,000 fish fry or eggs for deposit in suitable waters in Western Canada. Pickerel and the following varieties of trout were planted in the waters of Lake Louise, speckled, brown, salmon, rainbow and Kamloops. The pickerel were all planted in lakes and streams and the trout in mountain and foothills waters.

Hotel Used In Sale

Famous London Residence Purchased By Oil and Gasoline Corporation

The Hotel Cecil, one of the most famous landmarks between the Thames and Piccadilly, with its 800 years, and patronized especially by overseas visitors, has been sold to a new syndicate headed by a group of gasoline corporation The purchase price was about $7,500,000.

The Hotel Cecil's disappearance is another proof of the tendency of all enterprises catering largely for visitors, both in accommodation and accommodation, to move further westward in the city. The hotel possesses 900 bedrooms, and eleven banqueting halls, be ng the creation of a notorious financier, Jabez Balfour, who was brought back from refuge in the Argentine to suffer long imprisonment. The hotel was only partly built at the time of Balfour's crash. During the war it was the headquarters of the Royal Air Force.

Canadian National Forges Last Link in Coast To Coast Radio Chain

By the completion of a broadcasting circuit from Edmonton to Vancouver, the Canadian National Railways have forged the last link in a coast-to-coast chain of radio stations. Announcement of the installation of the new circuit was made recently by the telegraph department of the railway. The first broadcast to go over the new section took place on Thursday, December 19, when the Hart House String Quartet played before the microphone at Toronto. Up to the present, the Rockies have been a barrier against consistently good reception of eastern radio broadcasts, but new Pacific coast features will be able to hear the best concerts of the other centres of Canada. Contact between all parts of the Dominion may now be maintained by the medium of broadcasting.

The vast radio network is an engineering feat which keeps pace with the progress of both Canada and the National system. The radio department will broadcast three hours weekly over the Atlantic-Pacific network and plans are underway for several commercial programmes to reach the

Pocket Screen Stops Noise

Russian Invention Boon To People Who Like Quietness

A pocket screen to shut out noise is the invention of Leon Theramin, a Russian inventor. With th's invention in his pocket, the peace loving man could ride all day through the busiest streets and yet enjoy the profound silence of a cathedral.

The "Theramin Silencer" has found that the principle of the other-wave music instrument can be appl ed successfully in noise suppression. He prophesies that adaptions of the electro-magnetic field will be of great significance in industry as well as in musical circles.

He also has provided for Theramin... wou...ehes. It is possible for musicians to play his instrument in unison he has peppared a scale of instruments that will cover one octave. He maintains that either wave music is easier to master than any other musical medium.

Interesting Rid Letters

Valuable Historical Documents Are Received By Dominion Archivist

Collectors of historical Canadian documents would probably give considerable for those that have recently come into possession of Dr. A. G. Doughty, Dominion Archivist, consisting of letters to and from "President Louis Riel of the North West Territories," written in March, 1870, at the time of the Riel Rebellion.

The documents are sealed and the latest copies of acts passed by the first session of the first legislature of Rupert's Land, of which Louis Riel was president, one of them being an act to establish a military force. This force was to consist of 100 men to be stationed at Fort Garry, and the monthly wages were set at $15 and board.

There are many interesting documents in the collection Dr. Doughty obtained from Fort, England, from relatives of a British soldier who recently seized the letters at the Riel home and elsewhere during the rebellion.

"I was very fortunate in obtaining this collection of old letters and copies of documents," said Dr. Doughty. "A couple of new old and historic documents wander abroad, and come to light in unexpected places. Mr. Riel's proclamation prior to the rebellion, under the caption of "The List of Rights," set forth the reasons for the upheaval which came to be known in later years as the North West Rebellion. Zam-Buk is equally good for aching backs, stiff joints, sore muscles, cold in the head and chest, or sore throat.

Rubbed well into the affected parts, Zam-Buk's powerful pain-soothing essences seek right into the tissues, banishing soreness, congestion and inflammation. Diet Business Is Serious

So Many Theories As To What a Person Should Eat

Something has got to be done about this dieting business. Time was when a fellow could sit down to a meal and think he knew what it was going to do to him. Now there are so many theories about what it will do to h'm that he can hardly muster courage to do anything but drink. No wonder that many people have sent to Ascla, he knows that somewhere there is a diet expert who believes it will induce sleepless night, absenteeism, wear and tear, general depletion. RADIO QUESTION TO BE REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Ottawa.—The question of nationalizing radio broadcasting in Canada will probably be referred to a parliamentary committee during the forthcoming session. While no definite announcement has come from government sources the importance of the matter has led to the conclusion that the whole subject of radio will come under review by a special committee of the House of Commons.

The chief recommendation of the Royal Commission on radio broadcasting which concluded its labors last September, was that broadcasting should be placed on a basis of public service and that stations should be owned and operated by one national company.

The recommendations included the erection of high power stations to give good reception in each day and night throughout the entire settled area of the country. The suggested number of such stations is seven 50,000 watt stations. Radio engineers agree this would give Canada the most powerful chain of stations in the world.

Skewered With Greetings

Prime Minister Receives Christmas Gift by the Sackful

Ottawa. — How many Christmas cards did you get this year? Premier Mackenzie King did fairly well. He received several hundred. The exact number has not been counted. The Christmas cards have of late been borne into historic Laurier House by the sackful.

Merely to read the kind messages from his friends and well-wishers in all parts of the world would keep the prime minister exceedingly busy. It is a labor of love, however. Mr. King is fond of Christmas cards. Among the greetings which the prime minister has received is a very kind, personal message from Their Majesties the King and Queen.

Christmas Ship Disaster

Twenty-Four Lives Lost Off Coast Of Spain

London, England.—A ship disaster in which 24 lives were lost marked a Christmas Day of tempests along the coasts of the British Isles, France and Spain.

The Norweg'an steamship, bearing codfish from Iceland, sank off Bayonne, northwestern Spain, after terrific pulse forced it from Iceland. The ship was bound for Vigo, nearby.

At 1 a.m. fishermen on shore saw its first rocket of distress. Although a heavy fog prevailed, and the storm was so severe that fishing smacks in the inner ha-bor were damaged, the fishermen struggled to reach the battered vessel. After two hours they approached within 700 yards of the doomed steamer, but could not get closer.

The stricken vessel sank with all hands. Later four bod es were washed ashore, all wearing life-preservers marked "Island." Letters and other documents cast up by the waves indicated the ship carried a crew of 24. No survivors were found.

Lloyd's which rece ved an account of the shipwreck, believed the ship's name was "Island," instead of "Iceland." The "Antong" was listed as of 980 tons.

A storm blew out of the southwest, banish'ng the blue skies and summery weather of Southern England. Rain fell in torrents and hail rattled on the streets of London, England, while wild weather raised the south coast districts, where Christmas visitors to resort towns watched great seas pound on the beaches and harbor walls at Folkestone and other ports.

Seward, Alaska.—Carrying three Fairchild planes and a complement of Canad an flyers who are to engage in the search for Nels Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, missing since early November, in Siberia, the steamer Yukon "Chelan" has arrived here.

It fought its way through heavy weather all the way north. The Canadian flyers aboard were Captain H. A. Oakes, in charge, Captain T. M. "Pat" Reid, chief pilot; R. W. Brooker and Gilford Swartman. C. F. Mews and William Hughes, mechanics; Major H. G. Dodgson, of the Alaska expedition for the aviation corporation, and A. L. Baker, A. Pratt and Whitney, mechanics.

ANGLO-AMERICAN NAVAL PROGRAM SATISFIES JAPAN

Paris.—A new school of thought—that France should lay claim at London to a naval strength equal to that of the United States or Japan, and second only to Great Britain has developed in naval circles here. It is unlikely that the French delegates to the five-power conference will make any such claim, but the popular sentiment must be considered when France contemplates any sacrifices around the conference board.

The claim is based on the contention that France is a greater colonial empire than the United States or Japan, which now outrank it as to naval ratios, and has a greater area of possession of overseas possessions to protect

Fire In White House

Executive Offices Of President Hoover Damaged By Blaze

Washington.—Swept by a sudden furious Christmas Eve fire, President Hoover's executive offices at the White House were ice-coated and desolate.

Summoned from the dinner table, Mr. Hoover was one of the first to reach the west wing of the White House after the alarm was sounded. Hot fire-fighting smoke which had begun to eddy thickly he went into h s offices and began to carry out furniture and documents. He was persuaded to leave the room with difficulty, and even then he stood outside and aided others who were carrying out valuables. The flames, however, began to show amid the smoke and Mr. Hoover left the temperature to watch until the fire was brought under control shortly after 10 o'clock.

He made a tour of inspection and afterwards announced that the wing would be rebuilt.

Everything in the west wing save documents and papers in steel filing bookcases and filing cabinets was damaged by smoke and water. The loss is estimated at $150,000

Arrest Italian Extremists

Is Alleged To Have Plotted Death Of Duce

Brussels, Belgium.—With the arrest of a young Italian in connection with the alleged murderous plot against the Belgian royal family police expressed the belief they had caught the leader of an extensive group of extremists whose activities have been under surveillance some time.

Camillo Bergeri, also Ecalai, was arrested a few days ago after Belgian and French secret agents shadowed him several weeks. He is charged with Guido Ruschoni, alleged to be one of his accomplices was arrested subsequently but four other suspects in three Italian and one Dutch anarchist are still at large Ferreri is alleged to have headed a plot to kill the Belgian royal family in order to prevent the birth among marriage of Prince Mafe Jose, of Belgium and Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy.

The authorities said that an extensive roundup of anarchists and other extremists probably would result in the evidence against them.

Two-Cent Letter Rate Extended To South America

Ottawa.—Christmas Day marked the inauguration of a two-cent letter rate from Canada to all parts of South America. Announcement to this effect was made by Hon. Peter J Veniot, postmaster-general.

This letter rate already applies to all parts of North and Central America; and will now apply to the following countries: Argentine Republic, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, the Guianas, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

In making the announcement, Mr Veniot expressed the opinion that the two-cent letter rate would result in considerable advantage to Canad an business. On this point the postmaster-general commented on the great natural resources of South America, its present day development in transportation and its great trade expansion.

The South American countries, Mr. Veniot ld stated, have been invited to reduce their letter rate to Canada and thus make the arrangement reciprocal.

In addition, the postmaster-general declared, an agreement has been reached with the Argentine postal administration for the extension of the parcel post weight limit between Canada and Argentine from 15 pounds to 20 pounds. Such an arrangement, Mr. Veniot believed would facilitate trade with Argentina, as Canadian commercial houses would be able to ship in large quantities at lower rates than has hitherto been possible.

CRITICISM IS HURLED AGAINST U. S. DRY BOARD

Washington D.C. Three more dry members of the senate have spoken their minds concerning present prohibition enforcement conditions.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Pinchhurst of Iowa, all Republicans allied with the independent senator elected as democrat, have all spoken with expressions of dissatisfaction with existing enforcement conditions.

Borah, who as Pres dent Hoover's most prominent campaigner on the prohibition issue must consider the criticisms of his colleagues, declared that while he approved the principle of prohibition enforcement conditions as they exist in many localities of the country, I recommend efforts to amend which have never been made in good faith by the prohibition forces of the country. Referring to Mayor Thompson's statement that seven of per vote honest, while servants were of outstanding value, present criminal activities Brookhart expressed impatience with making the government the criminal in enforcing the law and making heroes out of bootleggers."

UNIFIED BORDER PATROL IS NOW PLANNED BY U.S.

Washington, D.C.—Plans for prohibition enforcement, which include a unified border patrol and limitation of the number of ports of entry from Canada, will be submitted by the treasury to congress as soon as a joint committee to consider prohibition questions is named.

Under-Secretary Mills, who made the announcement, said the plan for a unified border patrol would require the consent of Canada because it will prove de for limit on of the number of ports of entry to this country. In addition the plan, he said, will provide for an extensive border patrol under direction of the coastguard to prevent smuggling.

At present the Under-Secretary added, a person coming from Canada may enter this country anywhere along the border but must report at a entrance at the nearest port This required he said, a patrol to work ten miles inside the border Under the new plan if approved by congress and Canada, the patrol would operate right on the border and prevent entry anywhere except at points designated

At present the "teeth" would be taken out of the proposal mentioned from Washington for limitation of the number of ports of entry from Canada, it is understood in official circles. If legislation once enacted by the Dominion refusing clearance to vessels carrying liquor to the United States. The possibility that steps might be taken to refuse clearances for liquor shipments from Canada has been mentioned from time to time.

No official statement was obtainable, however on the contents of the Washington despatch Hon. W. H. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, said that he had not read and will not read for several days.

Line From Peace River To Great Slave Lake Certain, Says Colonel Edmonton

Edmonton, Alberta.—Construction of a railway line from Peace R ver to Great Slave Lake is predicted by Col. F. H. Cyprian Swaine, an northerner who paid a flying visit to Edmonton on h s way to spend the Christmas holidays in Victoria, B.C.

"Northern development cannot be halted," he added. "The region is one of the richest in the world and its development will really begin when adequate railway transportation is provided."

Bronze Is Effected

Leiden, Holland.—Exchange Telegraph despatches from Eindhoven, Nether, and, reported the crewe of the Philips Radio expedition has sent out by the Royal Antarctic expedition had been reached after their boats had been crushed in the ice. The news was received by the Byrd supply ship "Eleanor Bolling," by wireless. The Philips Radio expedition is now at Dunedin, New Zealand.

Made Long Hike

Guelph Ont.—Plodding for 18 miles through the snow-filled road from Guelph Ontario to a point seven miles below Arthur Peter Fraser, 60 year-old Arthur resident, has established a record for endurance. He made the trip to Guelph by train and returned to his home on foot although he had a return ticket in his pocket.

BOY SCOUTS AND GIRL GUIDES DISTRIBUTE TOYS

That the Boy Scout and Girl Guide toy shop was an unqualified success may be judged from the fact that over three hundred toys were turned over to them. These were all renewed and on Xmas Eve a motor truck load of toys with Santa Claus himself and several Scouts in charge made the rounds and brought Christmas cheer to many homes where there would have been very little of it otherwise.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr and Mrs. A. B. Somerville and Norman wish to express their heartfelt thanks to all friends and others for the kindness and sympathy extended to them in their recent bereavement, and for the beautiful floral expressions.

Norman MacL. Harris Explodes Popular Bacteria Belief.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—The popular myth that all bacteria are dangerous was exploded when Norman MacL. Harris of the Dominion Department of Pensions and National Health declared in a recent lecture in the National Museum here, that without many kinds of bacteria, human life could not go on. Robbed of the help of certain microbes we could have neither butter or milk, he pointed out. Other forms of germ life were necessary to enrich the soil on that wheat, potatoes and other foodstuffs could be grown. Bacteria also played a large part in disposal of sewage.

Explaining the various forms taken by bacterial life, Mr. MacL. Harris said some had the shape of snakes, others that of a baseball. Still another popular mould for germs resembled that of a sausage. To illustrate the difference in the size of a microbe and a sausage the lecturer explained that were a sausage magnified the number of times it would be necessary to magnify a germ so that it would be reopened in dimensions to that popular foodstuff, the sausage would be five miles in length.

Miss Furness

Elsie, the beloved wife of George Furness, Vermilion, passed away at the family home on Thursday morning last, December 26th, at the age of 40 years. The funeral was held on Monday from the United Church, the Rev. H. A. Boyd officiating. The minister paid a beautiful tribute to the character of the deceased; her quiet and patient manner, the cheery fortitude with which she bore her illness and spoke of the deep and genuine piety which was hers. Although handicapped by ill health, she took a deep interest in all the work and life of the church and was ever ready to assist in every way in her power. There was a full representation of the Rebekah class of which she was a faithful member. To the husband and the bereaved family we extend their deepest sympathy. The remains were laid to rest in the Vermilion cemetery.

The funeral service was held at Dorking, England and came to Winnipeg in 1911, where she was married in 1913 to George Furness. Two years later they left for England, returning to Canada in 1922 and settling at Provost, Alberta. The family came to Vermilion in 1928. For a number of years Mrs. Furness suffered from rheumatism and trouble, which finally resulted in her death. Besides her husband she leaves two boys, Harold Harrison, aged 16 and Arthur George, aged 11.

The sympathy of all is extended to the family in their heavy bereavement.

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard

DECEMBER 31st, 1913.

The boy Treasurer of the town is wearing a "smile that won't come off" as he has been able to bank to the credit of the town's account — per taxes paid within the last day or so — the sum of no less than $10,361.26.

The Boston gents' furnishing store was be-glarized Tuesday night and about $400.00 of goods taken away.

Mrs. McClinton and Mrs. C. Carroll returned from Pilot Butte, Sask., on Monday. Mrs. Carroll is recovering nicely from her serious illness.

OBITUARY

Albert Kinnear Somerville

On Sunday, December 22nd, Albert Kinnear Somerville, son of Mr. A. B. Somerville and Mrs. Somerville of Vermilion, passed to his great reward. Loving hands laid the body to rest in the Vermilion cemetery on Thursday afternoon—amid the snows of winter lay in the faith

"that good shall
At last—far off—at last, to all
And every winter change to spring".

Albert Kinnear Somerville was born at Kinnear's Mills, Quebec, Dec. 9th, 1897. Graduating from high school, he took a business course at Belleville and was thereafter employed by the bank in his home town, Sherbrooke. On the outbreak of the war he enlisted and it was while in training at Valcartier that his health first gave way. Twelve years ago he came to the Vermilion and here his health so improved he became identified with Vermilion Motors, Ltd., acting in capacity of manager for the company. After eight years at this post his health again failed and he was compelled to relinquish active work. The rest during the past four years proved an effective high hopes were entertained for his complete recovery, but in the early fall he had an unexpected set-back and found that time had strength gradually failed. The end came suddenly on Sunday evening, the 22nd, at the hour of seven-thirty.

A brief service was held at the home for Mr. Somerville who is still confined to bed. Scripture was read, the approach for a time "Light the Candle Light" (644) was sung.

At the service held in First United church, beautiful floral tributes were paid to his memory by his former and present ministers, Revs. H. S. Kerr of Camrose and H. A. Boyd, Vermilion. Taking for his text James 4:14 "For what is your life? It is even vapour appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away," Mr. Boyd spoke of the transitoriness of life and said that what gave it meaning was not its length but its quality.

"We live in deeds, not years;
In thoughts not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heartthrobs;
He most lives, who thinks most,
Feels the noblest, acts the best."

Mr. Kerr spoke of Faith, Hope and Love and Christian things which do not die—and out of a long and intimate friendship told how these qualities lived in life in his friend. The hymns "Peace, perfect peace" (438), "Asleep in Jesus" (211), and "There is no night in heaven" (181) were beautifully sung with the assistance of the choir and helped to make the service one of comfort and light. The church was filled with sympathetic friends and an abundance of flowers spoke the sympathy of the esteem in which "Bert" was held by all.

His was a brief life but so much that is full and fine about the short span of life and thirty years he crowded so much patience and courage and kindliness and sympathy that to today very much power for his passing. Even casual acquaintances will long remember his bright smile and cheery word, while to those who were privileged to share his intimate friendship there is a memory and influence—generous and God-inspired—which can never die. It is in the faith of life eternal such a life finds full meaning. Only in an eternal sphere can it be adequately interpreted.

Amos Gobson, who was operated on quite recently for appendicitis, at the Vermilion Municipal hospital, is progressing very favorably toward complete recovery.

What would it cost to replace your farm buildings if they burned?
Or your stock if they died?
Or your crop if it were "hailed out"?
You if THAT happened!

YOU are more valuable than buildings, implements, stock and crops put together. What is your REPLACEMENT VALUE?

You pay your farm helper from $30 to $100 a month—and board.

Are you worth that much?

You can take out a life assurance policy to provide $30.00, $75.00, $100.00 a month or more in case of your death.

This will provide the wage of a hired man at least, and enable your family to hold on to the farm.

See the Sun Life man. He has a policy for every need.

NAME STATIONS AFTER HUDSON'S BAY PIONEERS

WINNIPEG, Dec. 30.—Memories of adventurers who sailed into the Hudson's Bay as far back as 1610, when Henry Hudson discovered this great body of water on the northern shore of Chasm, are commemorated in the station names given to that section of the Hudson Bay railroad between Mile-age 412 and Churchill. Chapleau now stands as the proper name of the terminus of this railway, it was announced by Canadian National Railways officials. According to the ruling of the Geographic Board of Canada this is the official name, with the dropping of other prefixes "Port or Fort" by which it had been variously designated.

Commencing at Mile 417 the names of stations, with the history and the origin of the names, are as follows: Mile 417, Kelsey, after Capt. Kelsey, C.B or H.M "Resolute" to Lancaster Sound, Melville and Banks Islands, 1827-31.

Mile 426, O'Day, after J. H. O'Day, one of the engineers on construction from Amery to Churchill.

Mile 434, Bach, after George Bach of the Royal Navy; one of the officers with Sir John Franklin's party to the Hudson Bay country in 1819-22.

Mile 442, McClintock, after Capt. F. L. McClintock, R.N., in Lady Franklin's yacht "Fox"—brought back precise information of the fate of Sir John Franklin's ships "Erebus" and "Terror," 1857-59.

Canadian National Places Large Order

Will Do Much To Relieve Unemployment Situation In Dominion

Orders have been placed by the Canadian National Railways for 100,000 gross tons of steel required for the construction programme of the National System during the coming year, it was stated officially at Canadian National headquarters. Of this total, 90 000 gross tons have been ordered from the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, and 40,000 gross tons from the Algoma Steel Mills, at Sault Ste. Marie. In addition to steel orders, nearly 5,000 box cars have been ordered. Of the car orders placed the Canadian Car and Foundry Company are to deliver 2,250 fifty ton box cars, and 25 tank cars, each of 10 000 gallons capacity. The National Steel Car Company have received orders for 1,175 fifty ton box cars, and the Ashern Car Company have been given orders for 325 refrigerator and approximately 1,000 box cars. The placing of box car orders has resulted in the manufacturers placing orders with the British Columbia Mills for some 1 [illegible] 000 feet of box car material. The placing of these orders has had an important bearing on the employment situation throughout the centres concerned. Inquiries are also being made by the Canadian National Railways locomotive manufacturers for the delivery of 18 Santa Fe type locomotives and 10 mountain type engines.

To Prevent Smokiness

After 15 years at sea, during which time he served as surgeon on the "Aquitania," Dr. B Gray Jones has retired. Another important development in the Empire's constitutional position was resulted from the International Air Conference, just concluded at Paris Britain and the Dominions, though they signed the 1919 international air convention separately, Hitherto had one joint vote at the convention, despite sometimes conflicting interests. Now it has been unanimously agreed the Dominions have separate votes and the alteration is embodied in a protocol wh ch the Dominions have signed 'n alphabetical order, along with other nations.

New Colored Film Process

Swiss Company Is Forced To Exploit New Invention

A Swiss company has been organized to exploit a colored film process invented by the French scientist, Berthon. The price will not exceed that of ordinary film, it is said.

The invention, although not explained to the public, is understood to render colors possible by optical instead of chemical means, the color being registered by bands on each side of the film, as in the case of sound in "talkies."

Saskatchewan School Teacher Wins Silver Cup For Improvement To Rural Schools

Michael Evashen as in some gardener. For three years a silver cup has been awarded in the Canadian Horticultural Society of Saskatchewan for greatest improvement in school grounds during the year. Each time a school taught by Evashchen has won the cup which was donated for the purpose by Prairie Nurseries, Limited.

Announcement of this year's winner was made at Saskatoon by A. H. Brown, director of rural education for Saskatchewan. The cup goes to the Krasny school district No. 1121, 12 miles south of Shebo. Last year the cup was won by the Wishart school, 7 north of Prankey, and in 1927 by Jansvo school, 18 miles northeast of Prince Albert. Evashchen was the teacher at all three schools, having spent a year in each place.

He is a native of Manitoba, attended school at Dauphin, and took third class normal work in Manitoba. He took his second class at Saskatoon, and spent a year at the Agricultural College.

Times Have Changed

People Too Used To Modern Improvements To Make Good Pioneers

It is almost invariably advanced in arguments regarding aid to immigrants that the latter have greatly deteriorated since the pioneer days of Canada when men and women invaded the wilderness with practically no resources and there hewed out homes and estates for themselves. Regardless of how the comparison may redound to the credit of the first settlers, it is of no help in solving the problem of colonization in Canada today. When this country was making its first bid for population the whole situation was parallel. Everybody was on the same footing. There were no millionaires, there was little luxury of any kind, no railways, no theatres, nor even decent roads. The job ahead of the settler was to plunge into the wilderness and take the chance that others were taking. There were no distractions of ease or pleasure. The game was to eke out an ex stence under very difficult conditions, but equality was omnipresent. Today all the human beings that we can draw upon as colonists have seen something of comfortable existence, of motor cars, of railway trains, of luxurious houses, of fine hotels and theatres. They have witnessed the spectacle of a large percentage of other human beings go through life without engaging in gruelling toil. It cannot be wondered at that they shirk the onerous task of tackling existence at the bottom. The environment made that look like a waste of time and effort. Everyone hopes, in some way, to beat out the primitive methods of gaining a livelihood.

The Quality Of Mercy

Good Work Of Red Cross Society In Saving Eyesight Of Athletes Child

In less far north land where the aeroplane is taking its mail today and making the regions beyond with the centres of civilization, there lived a little child with a pair of beautiful bright eyes. Tragedy stalked in the little girl one unhappy day, for she had the great misfortune to hurt herself with a pair of scissors while playing. Her eye was injured in a moment and in much pain the child had to endure the searching probe. Although her mother did what she could in first aid treatment, and to all appearances the eye healed up.

Two months later it was observed that the little girl was groping her way along, and in great dread the doctor was sent for. In that far northland medical aid is difficult to obtain. Hearing of the distress of the home a Red Cross Nurse hurried to see the child. The worst fears were realized, the child was evidently going blind. There was one hope, that with immediate care the other eye could be saved, but there was a long and tedious and most costly journey to be made to the distant city of Edmonton, where eye specialists could be consulted. Communications with Headquarters of Red Cross in that rap id city resulted in transportation to the sufferer. The sight of one eye had gone, but with immediate care and treatment, the other eye could be saved. Twice blessed is the work of the Junior Red Cross in extending mercy to the suffering child.

Mid-Atlantic Airports Scheme

Artificial Islands Look Like Great Ironwork Piers

The idea of making a series of islands across the Atlantic as landing places for passenger-carrying aeroplanes that will one day ply the air between this country and Europe has for long been the basis of romantic schemes. One such scheme is shown to come true, and when it does, there will be eight floating islands between New York and Southampton, forming great stepping stones for the use of aircraft on regular scheduled flights.

These artificial islands are part of the equipment of a steamer soon to expand trans-Atlantic air service. The scheme are known as Armstrong schemes, after their inventor. Construction on them will begin this year. They will be anchored 600 miles apart, and will be landing ports for machines which expect to carry travellers from the Un ted States to England or Europe in 3 days.

Seen out of the water, the seaaeroness look like great ironwork piers. But they will float instead of stand. Thirty-two "legs" will support the seadromes, which will be 1,150 feet long and 200 feet wide, and 150 feet high. The floating airports will be 50 feet above water, out of reach of the largest waves. They however will have the peculiar construction that prevents all rolling or pitching. A hotel will stand on one side of each island, and a hangar and mechanics' quarters on the other.

Killed By Chinese Bandits

Three Missionaries Are Slain In Most Revolting Manner

The Rev. James G. Kellet, superior of Maryknoll Junior seminary, at Los Gatos, Calif., in his love, has received word from the Far East that he had received by mail details of the murder, in China, recently, of three fellow missionaries. Bishop Jans and Fathers Brune and Rupert.

The three were killed in most revolting manner, Bishop Jans being literally hacked to pieces by Chinese bandits over capture by bandits. The death of these missionaries, Father Keller said, brings the total number of Catholic priests killed in China recently, to 23.

World's Largest Market

Smithfield Market, in London, England, said to be the largest meat market in the world, is shortly to celebrate its sixty-first birthday. Some idea of its capacity can be had from the fact that a flock of beef, the equivalent of 80,000 sides, can be displayed at one time. More than 180 000 tons of meat are handled in December, 1928, more than 20,000 tons of beer were handled there.

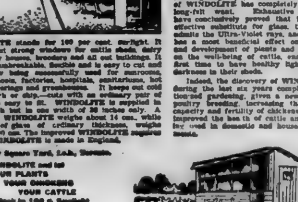
WINDOLITE

MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH



THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germicide, and gives us stimulation and tone. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays, are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power to kill germs, cause cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, as that by using glass we are artificially shutting out health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely met this long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have proved WINDOLITE to be the most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutioned gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increased the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the lot of cattle and for the time being used in domestic and household requirements.

WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It enables light and germ destroying rays to stabilize poultry houses, brooders and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and easy to cut and fit. It is now being generally used for conservatories, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanatoriums, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold —with not cours or dirty—costs with an average of 6 pence and is very strong. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness, weighs about 120 to 140 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE supplies no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Price $0.50 Per Square Yard, f.o.b. Toronto.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DALE.

Copyright, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, is loved by Grace Farrel, the cigarette girl, but he doesn't know it. His marriage Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and wins fame as a composer of popular songs. When their baby, Junior, is about two years old, Molly slopes with Jerry Parr, Al's best friend. She and Perry take the child Al adores, and Mr Frame. Al, broken by the loss, becomes a derelict. Months later he drifts into Blackie's place and is saved by Grace Farrel, who makes him promise to go on the wagon. Al falls in love with Grace, and, while Grace is happy in her love, she often wonders what has become of Molly, kid of another.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Grace realized that on many occasions when Al was silent he was thinking of his beloved son and wondering how he was getting on. It probably bound up in Junior's and because of this Molly had a hold on him.

Perhaps it was the vivid feeling of instabil ty in Grace. At any rate, he broached the subject near to her heart.

"Grace, you and I are going to be married one of these days?"

It was a question, not an assertion, and Grace looked at him with gently interrogating eyes, saying nothing.

"Will you marry me, Gracie?"

"Al, you know how I feel. You know I love you—of course I want to marry you. But—"

"But what?"

"You don't even know if you're divorced or not."

"I'm feeling that out—the lawyers are working on it now. I would have brought it up before, but I wanted to be well on the way to recovery before I mentioned it to you."

"But what about Junior?"

A faint shadow crossed Al's face, then he drove it away." He had reasoned that out, too.

"I can't have Junior, anyway," he said. "Molly would never give him up. And I do want you, Grace. I want you so much. I love you dearly, and never stop loving you for a single moment. I think you're the most adorable and fascinating and beautiful person on earth."

Grace stepped closer and looked up into his eyes. "And I feel the same about you, Al," she said simply and sincerely.

. . . Meanwhile, what was happening to Molly in Paris?

During the first few months in the French capital and in the brilliant resorts along the Riveria she had been quite happy. Never for a moment did she regret leaving Al and giving up the fame he had brought her on Broadway. She worshiped him and was completely to her adoration of Perry, waiting impatiently for her divorce to be granted. This complete subservience of her character to the whims and demands of Perry astonished even that gentleman. Never had she been so submissive to his every request. Never had she been so completely in thoughts of another man.

The couple travelled from one resort to another, spending money lavishly. They were frequently where Al was appearing, sat smoking the stub of a cigar, a lily and expensive little corsage drove into the alley by the stage entrance. Al was at the wheel and beside him sat Grace Farrel. The doorkeeper beheld the happy chatter as Al parked the car. The young singer was feeling in particularly good spirits evening, for the news had just reached him from Paris of Molly's divorce. That meant that he and Grace would soon be married.

Trust Fund For Soldiers

People Would Be Glad To Support Such a Worthy Institution

Why not start a nation-wide trust fund that shall be invested and administered for the benefit of those soldiers who have so much and who are receiving so little, and that little sometimes only after the unwinding of endless red tape? One dollar from every resident of Canada would create a fund that would be a most practical expression of our old pal sentiment. Any person could and would pay one dollar if they thought that the problem of caring for disabled soldiers could be carried out in a proper manner. Many would pay thousands for the investment and again small or of such a fund the best minds of the community would be available. It would be an honour to serve on such a Board of Administration, and men of high business ability would bring to bear upon this problem the same sense that they show in conducting their own business. The principle here suggested of creating a trust fund for our soldiers has already been adopted in connection with the Canadian Legion, but that fund is too small to meet the needs

"There are you going?" cried Molly.

"I'm leaving. You'll never see me again."

Molly cried all that night. Next morning she received a telegram telling her Junior was dangerously ill

. . . . Back in New York Al had returned to fame and Broadway in a Marcus revue. MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

What's in a Name

Evidently a Lot According To Captain Of Sailing Ships

It is a legend of the sea that you may do what you like with a steamship; change her name, alter her so that her own bu ler would not know her—but you must not do this with a sailing ship, for she has a soul.

This is the tragedy of the man who did, and of the fate that befell his fleet of windjammers.

The war had not ended long before Sir William Garthwaite, owner of the Garth Line, a man w th a love of the sea in his blood, bethought himself that so long as there were oceans there would be room for the sailing ship.

So he bought up six of the finest windjammers, w th wonderful records of service in the Cape Horn trade, but he re-named them all and today not one of them exists.

The last of the line, the four-masted barque "Garthpool," was wrecked a short time ago off the west coast of Africa.

"Her end was what I would have wished," said Sir William Garthwaite, "she went down under own colors on a voyage—not sold to a foreigner or handed over to the ship breakers.

"Garthpool, Garthway, Garthforce, Garthmill, Garthmaid, Garthgarry and Garth . . . one by one gone. One struck an iceberg, another was wrecked on an island, a third was burned at sea and a ba lder in a typhoon, yet another had to be abandoned after a cruel buffeting by mountainous seas.

"It is true that I rechristened them, gave them all the prefix 'Garth,' for I loved them. But a sailing ship has a soul, a beauty all her own. The captain of the "Mauretania" told me that she would always talk a man trained in sail.

"And now they have gone, for the Garth Line, and I have lost the love of her type, but the last deep sea windjammer in British ownership."

Man Has Shivered For Fourteen Years

Was Torpedoed In Arctic Circle and Has Not Been Warm Since

The coldest man in London is an unctuous conductor who claims that he has not been warm in 14 years. He told a reporter:

"I was torpedoed on August 8, 1918, in the Arctic Circle, and I've never stopped shivering since. I was serving in the auxiliary cruiser "India," and was four hours on a raft I still dream of gasp ng for breath as the seas swept over us.

"Another man and I were interned in Norway, in a desolate spot, and we used to dress to go to bed."

The Medical Correspondent writes: "It is quite feasible that a mental shock should make a man cold for life. Warmth depends mainly on blood circulation, and pressure which are to a great extent controlled by the secret ons of the ductless glands. Ideas or impressions can definitely affect their action."

A Proof Of Testimonials

Perhaps the reason Commander Byrd is coming in for some criticism from other explorers is because of the flood of testimonials to the merits of the air that used by his expedition. These testimonials presumably are well paid for by the recipients. Exploration becomes a little too commercial, perhaps, in such circumstances. But everybody s endorsing something or other nowadays

Little Helps For This Week

"Blessed is the man whom Thou chasteneth, O Lord."—Psalm cxl. 12

I know that trial works for ends
Too high for sense to trace.
That God sets all the sifter He sends
Some summary of grace;
May rather that I yield till I have gained
The blessing which it bears
And learn, though late, I entertained
An angel unawares.
—James Drummond Burns

Be not afraid of those trials which God may see fit to send upon thee it is with the wind and storm of tribulation that God separates the true wheat from the chaff. Remember, therefore, that God comes to thee in thy sorrow as really as in the joys He lays low and He be ids up. Those will find thyself far from perfection if thou dost not find God in everything — Miguel Molinos.

Old Mates Useful On Farm

Someone has taken the trouble to find out what becomes of all the old automobile engines and the result is interesting. It appears they are particularly adapted to agricultu al needs. For many of these were located on farms. At sawing wood, pressing cider, running concrete, cutting fodder, pumping water, and threshing and grinding grain many of the discarded engines were found chugging cheerfully.

Falling Hair—Just try Minard's.

"Have you ever driven a car?" the lady applicant for a license was asked.

"One hundred and twenty thousand miles," put in her husband, who was standing near by, "and never had a hand on the wheel."

Fires For Sweden

A cargo of 500 live foxes, gathered from the ranches in the Maritimes, Ontario, British Columbia and the State of Washington, left recently for Sweden. This follows a recent shipment to Sweden of some 250 foxes collected in the Maritime Provinces

WARNING TO PARENTS

The attention of all parents is directed to the dangers of children sleigh riding on the main roads leading into town from the north. Several near-accidents have occurred already this winter and it is for the safety of the children themselves that they should be prohibited from indulging in this practice.

There will be a dance at the Oyanes Hall, Clandonald, on Friday, January 10th. Mendz' orchestra. 26-4x

Adrian Liddiatt of Winnipeg spent the Christmas and New Year holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs A. W. Liddiatt of town. During his stay he found time to motor to Vermville on two occasions. A jolly party was given by Leo Liddiatt at the home of his parents on New Year's night in honor of Miss L. Hollinsworth of Vermville. A number of the younger set were present for cards and dancing and a rip time was spent until the small hours of the morning

BODDINGTON RINK WINS AT NEW YEAR'S 'SPIEL

John Boddington and company carried off the honors in the bonspiel of the local curling club on New Year's day. All John did was to defeat Jock Mercenary rink in an extra-end game in the semi-finals, and then have everything his own way in the final against the Cooper combination, who had also won their way into the final in an extra-end scrapper against Boddington. The Boddington rink was composed of A. L. Miller, M. M. McKinnon, Pete Williamson and J Boddington (skip).

Annual Meeting of St. Saviour's Parish

Mr James Shrigley, an old and esteemed resident of this district passed away in the family home, three miles north of Vermilion, on Tuesday following a stroke sustained three days previously. He had reached the advanced age of 76 years, 7 months and 3 days. The obituary will appear next issue.

The I.O.D.E. card party, which was advertised for Jan. 10th in the Armories, has been cancelled, owing to the outbreak of scarlet fever.

In a letter to the Standard, Hugh McLean says that Vancouver would be alright if there were only lots of his old friends there. High says Lee weather is fine and warm, but a trifle damp.

Campbell Moore spent several days in Edmonton, journeying to the city last Friday night.

Norman Armstrong is an Edmonton visitor this week.

Mrs. M. B. Evans and Miss C. W. Morgan were hostesses at a linen shower in honor of Miss Ivy D. Searle, who is leaving for Montreal next week. The room was prettily decorated, the colour scheme being pink and white. Miss Searle was presented with many useful gifts.

JOHNSON — TERRY

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church manse of Vermilion on Dec. 31, 1929 at 7:30 when Edith Elsie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Terry of Angle Lake, Alberta became the bride of Orval, third son of Mr. and Mrs William Johnson of Edmonton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Boyd. The bride, who was very becomingly attired in apricot georgette, was given away by her father and was attended by her sister, Violet. Ernest Attfield acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left immediately for Edmonton, where they plan to make their future home.

Crows At Vermilion May Be Prof. Rowan's

Three crows seen recently by Constable Olsen of the Vermilion detachment of the Alberta Provincial Police are believed by the police officer to be members of the flock released on Thanksgiving by Prof. W. Rowan of the city. The professor was conducting a test to ascertain whether birds would fly north instead of south after being subjected to certain light conditions.

Two of the crows were seen on December 20 and the third on January 4 while the constable was on patrol in his detachment. — Edmonton Journal.

High School Notes

School opened on Monday, Jan. 6, and by now the majority of the truancy makers have returned. All claim they had a good time, anyway.

The Glee Club has recommenced its activities and plans have been started for a musical concert in which the Glee Club is to take part

It is a fine thing to be enthusiastic about getting back to school. But it is also well to guard one's person from accident. We speak in particular of "Pin Gun Annie" who lost his footing on the train steps on Tuesday, so sayer was he to get to work. At least, so he said.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

France's 1930 naval budget calls for the construct on of one cruiser, six destroyers and six submarines. These projects were adopted by the Chamber of Deputies.

Pilots are indulging in more flying. The sirdrome at Kolundia, Palestine's north of Jerusalem, is being enlarged. Twenty dunams of land have been acquired for the purpose.

The past year has been a busy one for the manufacture of clay products in Saskatchewan, according to Professor W. G. Worcester, of the ceramics department, of the University of Saskatchewan.

Resident in Edmonton for 60 years, and one of Western Canada's earliest pioneers, Mrs Kenneth McDonald died there at the age of 101 years. She was born at Cumberland House, Sask. on May 27 1827.

The Aeronautic Society has issued a statement that the projected North Pole expedition in the dirigible Graf Zeppelin has been called off for 1930, but that it is fully expected the flight will be made in 1931.

Five bed rooms have been cleaned by a defective flue, destroyed the government radio station at Nome Alaska. A small amount of equipment was saved and communication was re-established with Ft Mcmurray with little delay.

Convinced that there is no hope of finding alive Pilot W. Cannon and Mechanic George Linstrom, employees of the Curtiss-Reid aircraft lost in Northern Quebec for nearly three months, the National Defence Department ordered the detachment of five Canadian Air Force 'planes to abandon the search.

Logging in Northern Alberta is Slack

Lumber Carried Over From Last Year Blown Up Work

Logging will be slack in northern Alberta this winter and there will not be the usual stir at the lumber camps. According to the manager of one lumber company, not more than 25 per cent of the ordinary winter s logging will be done this coming season. The chief reason for this is the enormous carry-over of lumber from last season.

This carry-over is due in large measure to the dry summer and consequent reduction in the wheat yield. The lumber business was dull all summer as a result of a drought affecting the farmers' building operat ons, many farmers having cancelled their plans for new buildings when the crops began to show the full effects of the dry summer.

Besides this there was a much smaller program of elevator-building in the country than in 1928, which was a record year. One b g lumber firm states that its carry-over is 15,000,000 feet, the largest in the company's history.

Automobilist Took No Chances With Train When His Car Stalled On Crossing

There is a man in Western Ontario who has lived up to his teach ng. Always he declared that if ever his car stalled on a railway track with a tra n approaching he would waste no time on the car, but would make for safety. "I can buy another car, but I can't buy another chance after I'm dead," he said. A couple of weeks ago he bought a new car and took it for a run. Crossing a railway track it gave a cough and quit. A tra n was approaching in the distance. People told him he had time to get her going, but this brave chap got out and walked off the side of the road. The same car was reduced to matchwood. Some people sa d he was a fool, but if so, he was a wise one. He had insured his car and was taking no chances. He left the debris to the ra lway wreckers and put in a claim in the insurance company." He is still safe and sound and his wife is not a widow.—Stephen Leacock

Ideal Air Port

City Of Moose Jaw Claims To Have One Of the Most Ideal Airports Of the World

The Moose Jaw Board of Trade claims for its city the possession of one of the ideal airports of the world. It po nts out that the soil of the field in which town with gravel subsoil, therefore free from the conditions which invariably obtain after heavy rains. The field has a natural drainage, is virgin prairie absolutely even, and is an ideal, all-weather site. No quagmires are possible and large, heavily loaded machines experience no difficulty in taking off at any season.

3075

The deep pointed effect of hipline is outstandingly smart in all-day dress of printed Rayon crepe in redchain a tones, on chrysalingy youthful.

The collar and cuffs are of white crepe de chine daintily embroidered in dots to shade around edge, a new note of Paris. There are also very smart made of white piqua.

The narrow shoulders have pin tucked tucks. The shaded hipline dresses declared aleakness to wear. The skirt starts to flare well below the h p, with graceful fluttering

Style No 3075 can be had in sizes 14, 16 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It makes up attractively in sheer woollens in tweed in new bright colorings, accent cloth in plain or self-checked pattern, tricot crepe, and handsome printed wool jersey.

It also adapts itself lovely to the supple silks in flat crepe, crepe de chine and taffeta silk crepe.

In black crepe satin it suits every demand for the socially busy woman. The collar and cuffs may be made of the doll's side of the crepe or of contrasting shade as jade green, chartreuse cerise-yellow or white.

Printed sheer velvet with canton crepe collar and cuffs is smart.

In plain transparent velvet with collar and cuffs of lace or metal cloth it is stunningly smart, effect in black, bottle green or Independence blue.

JAPANESE DELEGATES TO NAVAL CONFERENCE

R. Wakatsuki, left, and Admiral Takarabe, right, chief delegates of the Japanese Government to the five-power naval conference to be held in London England. The Japanese leaders, it is believed, opposed the thought that Japan should have stronger control of affairs in China, and it is believed that the other four powers, to be represented at the parley of 11 agree on this subject. Japan, of course, is expected to support any reduction in her armament, chiefly concerning cruisers, submarines and destroyers.

British Fidelity Farmers

Head Office Planned Soon In Alberta Farm Land Held By Fidelity Trustees

About 15,000 acres of farm lands in Alberta are now owned by British members of the British nobility. Of these, the Duke of Sutherland carries the largest load ngs. The Duke of Sutherland and the Sutherland Land Company owns 9,202 acres.

Lord Lovat has the second largest holder, with 1,956 acres. He is closely followed by the Prince of Wales, whose famous Ik Farm consists of 1,455 acres. In addition to this, however, the Prince leases another 1,450 acres, so that his ranch consists of 2,905 acres, which brings him, actually, into second place.

Lord Leconfield has 1,380 acres to his name in Alberta, and Lord Rodney, 640 acres. The Earl of Egmont still holds 320 acres near Pridis, in Southern Alberta.

Return Of Sir John Martin-Harvey

"Tennyson" In Program Name Of New Play Soon To Be Shown In Toronto

Sir John Martin-Harvey and his clever supporting Company present "Rosemary" at the Can and Theatre, Toronto, Monday and Friday, Jan. 6 and 10, and Saturday Matinee and in it they have something that will touch a responsive chord in every breast. In England it has taken public and critics alike by storm. Entirely d fferent from anything in which Sir John has appeared h thertc, the role of Sir Jasper might have been written for him so aptly does he handle the dialogue from the part, and convey the impress on of reality in his interpretation of a man of middle age in the love affairs of the year when Queen Victor's ascended the throne. The motif is the sudden flash of love for a very young girl which suddenly illuminates the heart of old of a man who had had little interest in women, and the pangs of jealousy when he finds that the course such him g ve up t o pursuit. Eleanor is bamboozled, but love lives.

In reviving "Garrick" on Saturday night, Jan. 11, Sir John Martin-Harvey is undertak ng a task of work that deserves the fact demands of three powers of dramatic expression which have placed him at the head of his profession. An actress and umbrider of the finest traditions of the English stage, he is well fitted by temperament and background to bring the great "Garrick" before us. Yet few actors have studied in passing the lure of the genius "Garrick," but Martin-Harvey is one of these, and his appearance here in the famous role is an opportunity not lightly to be passed by those who love English stage history and fine acting.

Retired Old Debt

A story from Dundalk, Ireland, said an old man walked into a shop there and informed the astonished proprietor that he had called to pay a five-sh ling debt that he had owed for 60 years. There was no record of the transaction, but the visitor on pin and that he had bought a pair of children's shoes in 1881 and had left immediately for a job in England.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

STRAWBERRY LUNCHEON PASTRIES

2 cups granulated sugar.
¾ cup cold water.
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.
Strawberry jam.

Dissolve sugar in water on back of range. Place thermometer in syrup and cook until syrup pulls, stirring well. When the boiling begins cease all stirring, but wipe down sides of saucepan with moist brush or bit of dampened cheesecloth. Add cream of tartar, cover saucepan for a moment, then boil quickly until mixture will form a soft ball when dropped in water from spoon. Pour out on lightly greased platter, cool until syrup can be handled, then fold rapidly back and forth until creamy. Knead to smooth, compact, but soft mass.

The strawberry jam should be added in the proportion of two tablespoons to each cup of jam or more. Melt the mixture to a semi-liquid state, then stir in the jam rubbed through a sieve. Stir well while the final m xture is stiffening. Drop the patties from the end of a spoon, or make into balls between the palms of the hand and flatten by pressing gently.

GRAPEFRUIT AND FIG SALAD

3 large grapefruit.
A few preserved figs.
1 lemon for dressing.

Peel fruit, remove membrane from each section, cut meat into pieces with figs. Serve with dressing made of lemon juice, a little sugar and orange rind and a suggest on of powdered sugar. (One teaspoon to a half cup of dressing.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BAPTISM OF JESUS

Golden Text: "This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."—Matthew 3.17.

Lesson: Matthew 3.1 to 4.11.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 29.1-7.

Explanations and Comments

The Baptism Of Jesus. 3.13-17. — After the return from Egypt, Jesus lived thirty years in Nazareth. Then, when John was baptiz ng, He came from Galilee to the Jordan to be baptized by him. In great surprise John exclaimed, "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?" But Jesus answered that it was fitting for thee[?]o fulfil all righteousness. John's baptism was "of repentance unto the remission of sins"; why then did the sinless Jesus submit to the rite? His baptism was (1) a public endorsement of John as a messenger of God; (2) the baptism was of God (Matthew 21.25), because He submitted to the highest ordinance; (3) it was a rite which He later authorized on h s followers and therefore His would, himself, submit to it; (4) it was for Him a formal and lasting apart, a consecration, for His great mission.

As Jesus was baptized and went up from the water the heavens were opened unto Him. The open sky was a revelation to Jesus of God's favor, as that lay within His reach. "It was just as when Newton discovered the laws of gravitation—heaven was opened to him; so Jesus saw the heavens open." (R. Meyer. And in the Holy Spr it of God descending as a dove, coming upon Him; the words that we are told that He was filled with the sp rit of God, and consecrated to His ministry. And He heard a voice out of the heavens, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." In general, nature than before Jesus realized now what divine fellowship could mean, the pleasure. In the words of Dr G. A. J. Rose, the self-consecration of Jesus was rewarded as is usual, by a clearer vision of the purposes of God, by a quiet consciousness of agreement with God-given capacity for His work, and by a vivid sense of holy and filial intimacy with the Divine Father Himself. The Gospel records and our own reflection assures us that Jesus must have prayed that He might fit His life. The statement that His baptism was a vertical action of Jesus and how the moment is one of crisis. A great new, marvellous truth has entered into His life, and He is saying over and over to Himself, try, to understand it in the fullness of His infinite mean ng. "I am the Messiah! I am the Christ! I am He for whom society has all along been looking for and waiting! I am come in answer to the prayers of the ages! I am the Servant of the Highest, the Ambassador for Heaven, the Son of God, the Saviour of the world!"

Baptism is a His expressive of consecration. The baptism of Jesus expresses the parent's dedication of His children to God. The service of adult by baby own expression of consecration of Himself to God. "If there is no consecration, the baptism is an empty, lifeless, unmeaning form: if there is consecration, the baptism is its fitting expression."

Wonderful Device

Human Heart Can Now Take Photographs Of Itself

The human heart has been established as its own photographer at a demonstrated on of a new X-ray device at the Franklin Institute.

The device was invented by Charles H. Weryl, assistant professor of the Moore school of electrical eng neering, University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Maurice Mc Pherdran, roentgenologist, of the Harry Phipps Institute, collaborated with him in its perfection.

The instrument reduces the vers on in X-ray photographs, which have hampered physicians in making accurate pictures of conditions in the lungs and heart, which are always in motion.

By an elaborate system of electrical connections, percussion instruments, mirrors, fans and electric lights, the heart is made to take pictures of itself and the lung cavity at any point in the t me's cycle of movement that the doctor may desire.

A rubber bulb similar to those used in blood pressure apparatus and once a camera shutter, is cut diagonally across and left open. This open bulb is inserted into the esophagus and connected with the X-ray plates, similar to the carotid artery in the throat in such a way as to make the pulse beat like a drum. Simultaneously the rubber tube wh ch runs to the ruby box and electrical amplifier.

By means of these, electrical contacts are made, which refract light on mirrors which in turn set off a chain of events that culminates in a picture of the X-ray plates on the illuminated heart and lungs at regular intervals.

Seed Extraction Plant

Seed Used In Experimental Planting Operations In National Forests

The Forest Service of the Department of Interior has established four seed-extraction stations for extracting the seed of forest trees. The largest of these is at New Westminster, British Columbia, and smaller plants are situated at Rocky Mountain House, Alta., and at Indian Head and Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. The seed is extracted for use in experimental planting operations on the national forests, and in the production of trees for free distribution in the Prairie Provinces.

By special arrangement with the authorities concerned considerable quantities of seed are collected at the New Westminster Station of the Dominion Forest Service, are each month by Indian agents, forwarded to the station, and to the New Zealand Forestry Department, to be used in their extensive planting operations.

WINDOLITE

MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THIS sun is the all-powerful life producer. Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer. Sunlight is health and taste. Important stuff.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective of the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power to prevent disease and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using ordinary glass one loses a very considerable health-giving ray. Therefore, the inventors of WINDOLITE has completely set aside the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have now been carried out in a most successful substitute for glass, that is found to admit the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has been found most effective in the growth and development of p ants and chicl ens and on the well-being of cattle, resulted for the first time to have healthy sunlight instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent sunlight. It makes light let strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy and all other buildings. WINDOLITE is very pliable, is economical, unbreakable flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, stables, farms, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses, etc. —will not crack or chip.—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness, weighs about 135 to 140 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

The Descent Of Man

Modern Civilization Seems Less Intelligent In Some Ways

Excavations made in Egypt by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, are brought to light evidences of human habitation on the as far back as perhaps a hundred thousand years. It is said that implements found show plainly that they had been devised by intelligent beings if it may can be established that these people were intelligent enough to make use of the instruments they had provided, or if they were simply the result of accidental chipping and flaking. It is said that implements found show plainly that they had been devised by intelligent beings if it may can be established that these people were intelligent enough to make use of the instruments they had provided, or if they were simply the result of accidental chipping and flaking.

The suggestion electrified Al into act on. "I'll go!" And you wait here, Grace. I'll be right back." He ran toward the stage door. When Grace reached it he was already in his car and the motor was whirring. She saw him shoot down the alley and out toward the lights of Broadway.

It was the theatre hour. The streets were loaded with traffic. It seemed to Al that he would never be able to force h s way through the jam. But finally he did work out of the theatrical section and went speeding along a quieter street, then out the Avenue.

How did Molly happen to be in America so quickly after her divorce? why had she called him; was Junior ill? These quest ons and a number of other queries raced across Al's mind. He sat at the wheel, with grim face and fixed, tortured eyes. Sheer force of habit took him through the traffic lights.

He recalled Junior as he had seen him last on that memorable afternoon in the park, roly-poly and the picture of health. It seemed to himself impossible that anything trag c could have happened to his beloved child. Surely Grace was wrong.

But Grace was right. In a day bed at the Good Samaritan lay Junior, his eyes closed, his face wasted and as white as the sheets, except for a tiny crimson spot on each cheek.

He roused himself finally, and when pered to Molly, who hovered over him:

"Is Daddy coming? I want my Daddy."

Molly had been standing by Junior's bedside, rigid with fear. As he spoke she leaned over quickly and touched his tiny, thin fingers.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS TAKE COD-LIVER OIL The PLEASANT Way IN SCOTT'S EMULSION GOOD FOR MOTHER and CHILD

"Yes, darling, Daddy will be here soon. He's on h s way. Just a few moments and you'll see him."

Junior turned away from her with a sigh and his eyes closed, as if the strain of his question had taken his fast-ebbing strength. He did not see the expression of agony on his mother's face and her tears that fell unchecked on the coverlet.

Now the doctor came forward and tapped Molly on the arm. She followed him from the l tle white room into the hallway, clasping her hands before her as she groped bewilderingly for his face. He looked after her and protected me."

"You," said Al, "but you've been there four days. That's long enough. Blackie will hate to lose you, but he'll be good about it. Get right back to your seat."

So Al had his way; just today Grace had said good-by to Blackie's and gone to the Waverley Place lodging house to move uptown to more palatial quarters.

As they headed through the backstage corridors a page hurried up to Al.

"A lady wants you on the 'phone, Mr. Stone."

"Lady," repeated Al. "What is this strange power I have over women? Was it a blonde or a brunette this time?"

The page boy grinned while Al went off to answer the 'phone. Grace and Al moved across the lobby and waited for the show to finish. She saw him pick up the receiver and hear him say casually:

"Yes, this is Mr. Stone speaking, who's this?"

Then Grace saw a pained, almost bitter expression pass across his features. His face went pale and he clapped a hand over the transmitter and turned to whisper

"It's Molly."

A look of pain shot through Grace. Had her fear that Molly would turn up to make trouble come true? Al broke away from her and said that he would hang up; then he reconsidered.

"What is it?" he asked coldly

Grace saw him pale, then he hung up the receiver and turned to her again.

Molly says to come to the Good Samaritan Hospital as fast as I can.

"Why?"

"She didn't say. Simply that, and hung up. I wonder if it's a trick of some kind?"

Grace's eyes narrowed; her heart was throbbing hard and fast. But she forced herself to say:

"You ought to go, Al."

"I suppose so. Yet every time Molly has come into my life it has meant misery."

Yes, but—" Grace paused. "Do you th nk there's anything the matter with poor boy?"

The suggestion electrified Al into act on. "I'll go!" And you wait here, Grace. I'll be right back." He ran toward the stage door. When Grace reached it he was already in his car and the motor was whirring. She saw him shoot down the alley and out toward the lights of Broadway.

ST. SAVIOUR'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CHRISTMAS TREAT

A very pleasant evening on Monday Dec 30, was held in the Parish Hall when the scholars of the above Sunday school met together for the annual Yuletide treat. At 5.15 p. m. a hour 65 children sat down to tea and enjoyed to the full the good things provided. Round games such as musical chairs and Blind Man's Buff followed, after which a delightful program ensued. A good number of parents and friends of the Sunday school were present. The following program was much enjoyed, the Rector being the chairman:

Carol "The First Noel" by Junior Choir. Song, Tom Seabrook. Dance Hawaiian Grace Cooper; Song "The Minstrel Boy", Ian Dunaway and Jim Regan; Duet "Just us two" E'mer ine and Dorothy Taylor; Song, "God save the little sparrows fall", Jean Calvert, Margaret Seabrook, Dance "Moonshine", Helen Brown; Carol: "Away in the Manger," four girls; Carol "Good King Wenceslas," four Boys. Also several additional items, songs and recitations by the small children.

Santa Claus himself then appeared and in wonderful form distributed to each scholar and teacher a present from the beautifully decorated and illuminated tree, after which each child received a bag of candy and fruit. Altogether it was a delightful event.

The Staff of the Sunday School desire to thank all the adults who assisted in making the evening such a success.

There will be a dance at the Orange Hall, Cinderella, on Friday, January 10th. Meals' orchestra. 50-tf

. . . A PERSONAL TRIBUTE

Lonely I have been reading the letters of Professor Denney, and to me the most impressive thing in them is the recurrent note of sadness over the loss of one after another of his dearest friends. Life has a way of growing more lonely for us all as we proceed.

Friend after friend departs,

Who hath not lost a friend?

There is no union here of hearts

That finds not here an end.

And ever since a hand has vanished and a voice of one whom we loved so dearly is forever still the feeling of vacancy is most acute and the sense of loneliness most unbearable, for he was one of those chosen spirits whom to know was to love, and whom to love was to grapple to one's soul with hoops of steel.

For myself I loved him dearly, and owe to him an enrichment of life that words are all too inadequate to express. I know that the eyes of perfection may not be the eyes of true perspective, nevertheless I cannot recall a braver or more heroic spirit in all my acquaintance. His indomitable courage and constant cheerfulness made, to me, the wonderful stories of Robert Louis Stevenson entirely credible in the face of weakness and pain he was a living life realism of Browning's "Asolando" holding that we fail to rise, are baffled to fight better, that a true man must ever greet the unseen with a cheer

Bid him forward, breast and heart

As either should be,

"Strive and thrive!" cry "speed, —fight on for ever

There as here!"

He was a loyal friend and with him friendship partook of that excellent quality, that knowing him well, one needed never to be afraid of that release of disclosure due to the mixture of chaff and grain in us all. There was in him a beautiful charity that like a gentle wind winnowed the grain and blew the chaff away.

This leads me to remark that in my judgment the finest thing in his nature was the entire absence of any pettiness or unkindly spirit in the heart of him. He had his likes and dislikes like us all, but unlike most of us he had succeeded in conquering the little antipathies that so easily fasten themselves in most men. I cannot recall him ever uttering a harsh judgment, or saying anything unkindly about anyone. Relieved by suffering heroically borne he had acquired a beautiful restraint and a lovely charity that covered in others a multitude of sins. This made conversation with him easy. And what a delightful conversationalist he was. At times to all men. With little children he was always thoroughly at home. They would call to him from the side-walk and guilelessly look a request for the remembrance they knew were never far away.

The disclosure of the affection and esteem in which he was held by all was most evidenced at Christmas. Did not the town orchestra come and play under his windows? Into his sick chamber his brother Masons brought the continent's best music by their gift of the radio. Stacks of books from loving friends lay piled on the floor, and flowers from far and near always bedecked his rooms, and in return he was never happier than in devising ways and means of showing his warm appreciation.

Into the intimate circle of his own family life we may not intrude, but all of us know that in that garden of love the flowers of affection never bloomed richer nor shed a sweeter fragrance. And this is at once the joy and comfort of the dear ones left behind that for them the dew of their sorrow shall ever be bartered by a love that bed its source and origin in the Divine Heart.

The beautiful tribute paid to his memory by his minister and my good friend Rev. Mr. Boyd conveyed to Sylvia terms the feelings of the whole community, and the presence of such a large number, especially of his fellow Masons at the service was more indeed of the place he held in the affection of us all. As he lay in his bier, it was supremely fitting, I thought that he should be there in God's House crowned with his book and fate peacefully awaiting us to journey, and as I took my last farewell I made prayer, suffer saying to myself, as I have been saying ever since

"Remember

I see in the world the intellect of men

That sword, the canopy his cabin spans,

The hammock which defends him like a shield,

Housekeeping; but they make not up a living.

The reward of a soul who time spends Sooner

Here hath up to the eternal gaze of God."

VERMILION SENIORS IN ACTION NEXT WEEK

Vegreville Will Supply Hockey Opposition

The first time that the Vermilion Seniors will see action this year will be next Thursday evening, Jan. 16th, when an all-star Vegreville team will supply the opposition for the Vermilion aggregation. This is what the fans have been waiting for and a big crowd will doubtless be on hand to see these two old rivals meet.

Lloydminster Elks, who are more than holding their own in the Saskatchewan league, will appear here sometime during the week of January 20 and another attractive exhibition game with our seniors is being arranged for near the end of the month. It is the hope of the rink management that at last one senior hockey match a week will be played, and this, coupled with the Junior games should make a fair season of hockey at that.

Remember, all of the above mentioned games are farts and are prize games. Watch for posters and further announcement in these columns.

"Me and the boy friend"

They like each other. They go to the movies together, dance, quarrel a bit. They don't believe in early marriage. But how open shine when she speaks of him. "He and the boy friend."

One of these days, suddenly, they'll be grown up. Him and wife, these fearless youngsters. A home to plan, life to face. A budget, a savings account, economies.

They'll make mistakes, but they'll learn quickly. She'll begin to read about the things she plans to buy, to find out all she can about them. She'll become a regular reader of advertisements.

They'll help her to become the capable, wise housewife she wants so much to be. They'll tell her what clothes are best and what prices to pay for them. They'll tell her about the foods to buy, the electric appliances, the linoleums, the draperies. They'll help her, as the advertisements in this newspaper can help you.

And she'll meet her responsibilities and fulfill her duties easily and well. She won't become a tired, flustered, inefficient drudge. Because her home will be modern, attractive, well-run, she'll keep young—through the speedy years she'll retain much of that shining eyed, merry freshness. She and the "boy friend."

Advertisements are wise counsellors for housewives, young and old

City Business Men To Visit Vermilion

Date Set is Friday, Feb. 7th

The Executive committee of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce will be the guests of the Vermilion Board of Trade on the day of Friday, Feb. 7th. While the program has not been definitely drawn up yet, the afternoon will probably be given to looking over the public buildings at town with the evening a banquet has been arranged.

LANDONVILLE NEWS

A very enjoyable gathering took place at A. Semple's on New Year day when a large number of intimate friends assembled to his hall and enjoyed a free picture show given by the host. After the show all adjourned to the house where Mrs Semple served a bounteous turkey dinner which was greatly enjoyed by all. The following night Mr. Semple put on the same show for the benefit of his neighbors making a small charge to cover the cost of operating. A goodly crowd was again on hand.

There was a dance in the Landonville hall on New Year's night, which a good time was enjoyed by all.

Mrs J. Gray has returned from her trip to Minnesota where she attended the funeral of her mother.

Miss Bets says that it's a bo[y] to Clandonald and wants to [k]now if we have got to the care [of] [y]ou attention?

Mr. L. Mariewitz, Jr. spend Sun[day] here in Vermilion. What's the attraction?

We are very sorry to learn of Mr. [Jo]hnson's illness and hope to see him around in a short time.

Mr. Wm. Hall is building a fine new barn on the farm he recently purchased from Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Wm. Hall Jr. will build a fine garage on his new Ford Fordson this spring.

Mr. Wm. Hall Sr. has been seriously ill for the past week.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. [Ja]mes Hall is laid up with a bad [ha]nd.

Mr. Hall Sr. has purchased a new Ford Fordson this spring.

Win Grand Challenge Cup

Following their victory in the Eastern Lines championship of first-aid teams of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Windsor Station police team, of Montreal, carried off the Grand Challenge Cup for all first-aid teams on the Canadian Pacific system, defeating a team from Nelson, B.C., winners of the Western Lines championship in the ultimate final at Ottawa recently. The Montreal team obtained 196 points out of a possible 250, and Nelson received 185. The trophies were presented by Lord Shaughnessy, K. Beckett, P.C., M.A., former of the Senate, at a pleasant informal dinner. The teams were judged by Colonel Charles A. Hodgetts, C.M.G., V.D., M.D., D.P.H., director of the St. John Ambulance Associa tion, Canadian Branch. Above is the Montreal police team: left to right, standing: Constables E. G. Wyke, A. H. Stott, and G. Tomlinson; sitting: Constable W. E. Aldred, (captain of team), C. G. Miller, (first-aid instructor for Eastern Lines, and Constable W. W. Peterson, individual cup-winner. Seated by Dr. H. A. Beatty, chief surgeon and medical officer of Canadian Pacific, were presented to all members of the team.

49 Below Zero on Thursday

Thursday morning was the coldest point this week, the thermometer dropping to 49 below, while every day hasmanage to "some cold." The warmest point this week was registered last Friday when the mercury in the thermometer got spunk enough to rise to 5 below. The temperatures of the past week as compiled by the Vermilion School of Agriculture are:

	Warm	Cold
Thursday, Jan. 2	6	—36
Friday, Jan. 3	5	—36
Saturday, Jan. 4	10	—18
Sunday, Jan. 5	15	—32
Monday, Jan. 6	15	—42
Tuesday, Jan. 7	15	—40
Wednesday, Jan. 8	15	—40
Thursday, Jan. 9	5	—49

The weather forecast from the Dominion weather bureau holds out little hope for a break in the extreme cold for several days yet.

Here and There

Born on Canadian Pacific Railway Steamship "The Dominion," near Kanaka, British Columbia, recently, a child has been christened Christina Patricia Rosalind, the name being arranged to make the initials "C.B.R." in honor of her birth on the railway. Little Miss C.P.R. is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Peterson, of South Vancouver, B.C.

"The biggest and most brilliant season of winter sports in the history of Quebec City," is the description of the forthcoming tournaments at the Ancient Capital received at general tourist headquarters of the Canadian Pacific recently. The season which is now open will include four high jinks: the Fete de Nuit, January 29, the Ice Parade, February 10-11; the International Dog Sled Derby of 12o miles, February 20-22; and the Masque-ade Ball at the Chateau Frontenac, February 21.

E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently presented the Montreal Gyro Brothers Championship trophy and medals to P. E. Byce (rear No. 1 of Dorions, which defeated the Lachine team of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club in the finals with scores of 1012 out of a possible 1200. Members of the winning team are Constables Prudhomme, Byce, T. Grant and McDonald and Investigator O'Brien.

Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, largest and finest ship on the Pacific coast was launched from the yards at Govan on December 17 and will be in service from Vancouver early in the New Year. Well on the way to launching is the 40,000-ton giant, the Empress of Britain, destined to replace the Atlantic travel and from Canada to Europe with a scheduled time of five days from combined to Southend.

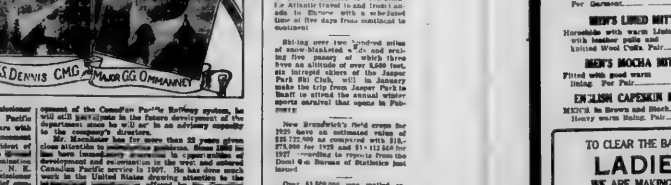
Rib-ing over two hundred miles of snow-blanketed fields and gaining five passes over which rises to an altitude of over 5,500 feet, all bringed skiers of the Jasper Park Ski Club, will in January make the Canadian Jasper Park Inn to attend the annual winter sports carnival that opens in February

New Brunswick's field crops for 1929 have an estimated value of $28,722,000 as compared with $18,-273,000 for 1928 and $11 • 112,649 for 1927 according to reports from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics just issued

Over $1,500,000 was mailed recently as final payments to members of the co-operative grain pools of Manitoba and Saskatchewan on the 1928 crops of oats, barley, flax and rye. The latter total payments to provincial pools by the Central Selling Agency is 81½c per bushel on oats; 69½c per bushel on barley; $2.30½ per bushel on flax; and 89½c per bushel on rye.

Winnipeg's success at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, recently, is described by Premier Bracken as "the most remarkable ever achieved by the province." Both in number and variety of championships and other situations the records of past years have been far eclipsed.

' COLONEL J. S. DENNIS RETIRES



Colonel J. S. Dennis, C.M.G., Chief Commissioner of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway, will retire January 1, after 29 years with the company, according to the recent announcement made by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the system, and the appointment will then be made of the Department of Immigration and Colonization and the Department of Development, J. M. R. Macalister, at present assistant chief commissioner of Colonization and Development, will be chief commissioner of the Department of Immigration and Colonization and Major C. G. O'Mannney will be the director of the Department of Development.

Colonel Dennis, or "J.S." as he is known to old-timers, was 75 years old last October, and has had an eventful career of 50 years in Canada. He went west in 1872 at the age of 16 as survey work and in that year entered the service of Lewis Red as commander of the Dominion Land Survey. Intelligence Corps which during the rebellion was known as "Dennis' Scouts." During the construction of the C.P.R. he was appointed was the laying out of irrigation systems now constructed in the Lethbridge region and in the great Bassano Dam irrigation project of the Canadian Pacific Railway, part of Calgary. His personality, friendship of Canadian statesmen and servation developments has gained Colonel Dennis a name known among the foremost of Empire builders, although belong an active head of the Colonization and Development of the Canadian Pacific Railway system, he will still have much to do in the future development of the department, as he will act in an advisory capacity to the company's directors.

Mr. Macalister has for more than 25 years given close attention to immigration problems. From 1903 to 1908 he was engaged in organizing the Canadian Pacific's activities in connection with the development and colonization in the west and entered Canadian Pacific service in 1907. He has done much work in the United States drawing attention to the agricultural opportunities offered by the Canadian West. He was appointed assistant commissioner of the department in 1918. His ability in his chosen field was recently recognized by colonization experts from all parts of the continent when they elected him chairman of the immigration committee of the American Railway Development Association.

Major O'Mannney joined the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1907. As a civil fuel civil engineer he had experience in that dare-devil work all over the world. In 1914 he was appointed provincial engineer to the province, and from 1918 to 1919 was overseas with the Royal Engineers in special units. On his return from the war he was appointed to Colonel Dennis' department as development engineer, to bring the natural resources of territories covered by the Canadian Pacific Railway into commercial use. He was appointed Director of Development Branch of the Department of Colonization & Development in January, 1928.

Western Canada's Air Mail

Early in this new year of 1930 there will be inaugurated Canada's first all night air mail route, thus marking another advance in the Dominion's postal service. Western Canada enjoys the distinction of being the scene of this great undertaking which will at the outset embrace all three of the prairie provinces.

Night and day air mail will have Winnipeg as its eastern terminus, and Calgary as the western terminus while Regina will be the central divisional point where the planes will meet and transfer mails, passengers, and express. From Regina also, at a later date, will start the night air mail for Edmonton via Saskatoon and North Battleford, and at the Saskatchewan capital the Edmonton planes will make connections with those from the east and west.

Citizens of Regina are fully alive to the importance of this development, and at the recent municipal elections overwhelmingly approved of a money by-law provided for the expenditure of $11-000 on the municipal air harbor. This is by far the largest sum yet appropriated by any western city for the establishment of terminals for the latest of all transportation systems, but whatever the people of other centres may think about it, the citizens of Reg na are convinced of the future of air transportation.

The municipal airport at Regina is being laid out on a big scale and in a comprehensive way under the direction and advice of experts. A large block of land has been set aside for the purpose, streets running through it closed, runways for the taking off and landing of planes from various points of the compass constructed, boundaries built, workshops and filling stations are being provided, telephone connections established, a continual weather report service arranged for, and the whole field brilliantly lighted. Motor limousines will run from the airport to the railway station, post office and city hotels will be in operation.

At Reg na planes will arrive from Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton nightly, and from Reg na other planes will take off for all three cities Already efforts are being put forth to secure the establishment of a fourth service from Regina to the nearest point in the United States on Uncle Sam's air mail routes, so as to provide for quick communication with all United States points in the Western and Pacific coast states

In order to make night flying safe and successful, the air routes to be followed will be illuminated with powerful beacons, which will send out beacons at intervals of twenty-five miles all the way from Winn peg to Calgary and in a few months similar beacons will stretch from Regina to Saskatoon and on to Edmonton. A writer in an Eastern paper thus describes what a passenger on a night air mail plane will experience, starting from Winnipeg

As you leave behind the lights of the Winnipeg airport, then the blazing b ghways of the city, you see below darkness, broken here and there by the glimmer of small settlements and suburbs of the city As the plane climbs higher you become aware of crawling animals below, their two small eyes classify them as automobiles, and you know that below lies one of the provincial highways. A few minutes out of the lighted district and far ahead a peculiar light blinks. You watch it carefully, draw nearer to it, and see that it is a revolving light, a beacon, turned upwards. Somewhere below it in the darkness another colored light winks at you That is the marking on the beacon. It tells the pilot where he is on the course. You pass the light, look back and see that it goes on winking. Then a little later another light blinks at you If you ask the pilot he will tell you that these are the last night beacons on a Canadian airway, that they are of two million beam candle power and revolve six times a minute. They are the usual light-years

Twenty miles below their light marking them and with the aid of the map which the pilot has given you, it is not difficult if you are watchful to know your whereabouts The pilot explains the marking signals on the beacons and you can follow the course yourself.

And so on, passing over the Parliament Buildings to land at Regina's modern airport, where a scene of activity will be found to prevail as passengers and mail sacks are transferred for Calgary or Edmonton and intermediate points, the planes are refueled, and with but a short delay are zooming their way to their several destinations.

Undoubtedly, the inauguration of this all night air mail service in Western Canada, and the enormous saving in time effected in the delivery of important mail matter will be one of the outstanding events of 1930 the forerunner of night flying air mail planes all over the Dominion.

Mountain Climbing In the Rockies

Playground in Rockies Mountains Is the Home Of Goldrush

Glacier National Park in British Columbia, is the only national park wholly inaccessible to the ubiquitous motor car. Transcontinental trains pass through its central valley two or three times daily, but otherwise this playground in the Selkirk mountains is the home of solitude. Excellent trails, however, lead to its principal scenic features, and there are numerous opportunities for alpine expeditions. Few as guides are usually stationed in Glacier Park throughout the season. Rogers peak (10,536 feet) is a good climb for beginners, as is also mount Sir Donald, named after the late Lord Strathcona.

RHEUMATIC VICTIMS

Can Find Relief Through Building Up the Blood

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that is why you often hear rheumatism be described as nerve-pain. It is the nerves that are sensitive attributes the trouble to right damp or changeable weather but the real cause is the poor blood. The marked characteristic of the trouble, however, is its persistency—it will be the blood remains thin and poor, is an impossible cure because nothing is built up to build on. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that feeds the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities, is the only logical treatment from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition the trouble will not return. This is not theory. It has been proved by hundreds of cases; here is one:—Mr. J. W. Rose, R.R. 2, Athboy, P.E.I., says: "For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism and although I tried a great many remedies I did not get any permanent relief until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble was located mostly in my left side, and the pain was so bad that my right arm was almost useless. Of course I suffered much pain and great inconvenience but after using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from an advertisement in our newspaper, and I decided to give them a trial. I got the pills according to directions with the result that the rheumatism left my arm, and I have never had a twinge of it since." Canadian Married Women's Nationality Status To Be Discussed

The Montreal Gazette publishes the follow ng dispatch from Ottawa:

"Canadian married women's position in relation to the law of nationality is still in the lap of the Imperial conference and until equality of status with the Empire has become more completely a fact married women in this Dominion will continue to be subjected to certain disability in regard to nationality.

"They have a friend in court, though, for the whole Langley question, which some time ago was the subject of more than one debate in the House of Commons, was given careful consideration at the recent conference on Dominion legislation in London, and the matter, it is understood, was reported on at once desirable length.

"What will be the fate of this report will be determined at the Imperial Conference this year, but in the meantime, it is late setting to note that certain changes in the law are proposed. The purposes of the proposed changes are two:

"1—That British women should not automatically lose her nationality by marriage with an alien.

"2—That an alien woman shall not automatically acquire British nationality by marriage w h a British subject."

Canadian Doctor Acclaimed By U.S.

Child Hygiene Convert Of Dr. W. H. Hale, Noted Hygienist

In at least one department of Mental Hygiene, Canada is admittedly leader on this continent.

Very quietly, during the past few days, leaders in child study in the United States gathered in Toronto to investigate the methods of Dr. W. H. Hale, professor of psychology, of the University of Toronto, whose study of the mental hygiene of children has in the words of a well-known psychiatrist, "taken him out of the laboratory and into the home and school."

Representatives of such outstanding organizations as the Laura Spelman Memorial Fund, the Julius Rosenwald and McCormack Funds, of Chicago, and the University of Chicago, conferred here with Dr. Hale, carefully examined h s methods, expressed unqualified approval and stated their intentions of encouraging the adopt on of those methods in American cities.

The superiority of Dr. Hale's methods lies in the fact that he works with living material, rather than with theories. For six years he has investigated and cross-indexed the seemingly insignificant vagaries of pupils in a certain public school of Toronto, and plans to follow these pupils through high school and the University, into the workshop, collecting material as they go, which may be of value to students of the mind.

A New Year's Tragedy

Seventy Children Perish In Moving Picture Theatre Fire

Paisley, Scotland.—With 70 of its children dead, 11 fighting for their lives, and 25 others in hospital, this Scottish factory town faced the New Year with a broken heart.

Gone was any feeling in festivities. Not even a message of sympathy from the King and Queen could help much. There was a promise of three investigations into the recent tragedy, in which so many children either by grief during a fire panic at the Glen Cinema, but this could not put joy in bereaved homes.

A movement was started here and in London for a relief fund.

Flowers in bunches from all day upon Paisley. It began last night when its yet frantic parents fought to enter the mortuary and identify their dead. It beat down on Paisley Square, where at midnight, true to Scottish custom, a little group of men and women gathered to sing "Auld Lang Syne" as the clock struck 12. The voices broke and ended with sobs tra ling off in the rain.

It was the tragedy of "door that would not open." When the crush and panic is now said to have been the inability of the assistant operator to open the door when running away with the burning film. Before the door could be opened fumes spread through the building and terrified the children scrambl ng for the exit.

Firemen and helpers found ch ldren piled in heaps, trampled to death in stairways, some in their terror tried to climb the moving picture screen. Many were found in cellars, where in desperation they had descended.

Deputy Firemaster Wilson, "made even seasoned firemen shudder. Forten children were found huddled together in every imaginable position, like a wall of cement bags."

The closing scene of the awful scene of the rescued children will ever fully recover from their experience. One little boy was found in a corner with bodies piled above his wa st. When firemen reached him he was looking through the opening. As if trying to push some horror back with his hands. He still thought he was fighting for his life.

India Nationalist Congress

Serious Split Occurs In Ranks Of Followers At Gathering, At Lahore

Lahore, India. — A serious split arose in the ranks of the all-India National Congress as the gathering concluded amidst cries of "tandema tram" (hail the Motherland).

Pandit Motilal Nehrudrah p. of Brahman Ajyngar and Subash Bose, 33 members of the Congress walked out and, in a protest meeting, formed a "Democratic" party within the congress.

The minority had demanded representation on the new working committe e and when the congress adopted the list as a whole, the disgruntled members walked out, one delegate remarking that the committee could not function with a face the congress had sanctioned such walkouts from the legislative councils.

The dissentient group announced that the work of the congress would be carried on by them in principle.

The list, however, elected the list as proposed by Mahatma Ghandi, Nationalist leader, omitting the names of Vithalbhai J. Patel and Subash Bose. Ghandi, in the congress, had urged the new working committee should include only those who were entirely sympathetic toward the congressional parliament.

The dissentient group announced that the work of the congress would be carried on by them in principle.

Three bodies later broke free from the wreckage on the sea bottom and rose to the surface, a material boat. The doors had been removed from the plane cabins to give camera-men free play and searchers believed all bodies eventually would appear on the surface.

TRANS-CANADA AIR MAIL SERVICE MAY SOON COME

Ottawa.—Canada is rolling her map northward. The cry to go West is giving way to the call of the north. And, in search of the frontier—and with untold millions in riches of the Canadian northland as the magnet — the Dominion's air mail service is playing a leading role. More than 1,000,000 miles has been traversed in the closing year of 1929 by Canada's air mail planes. Nearly another million miles in air mail service will be added to the total by the opening on February 1, of the Winnipeg-Regina-Calgary air mail route with offshoots to Saskatoon, North Battleford and Edmonton.

To 300 miles within the Arctic circle, Canadians mail 'planes will fly. Oil, gold, silver, copper, nickel and fur-trapping centres in Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada today are being served by these aerial mail carriers, mak ng more habitable the bleak wood stretches with little or no road.

In Ontario's northland, the Red Lake and Narrow Lake mining areas have their regular deliveries of mail by air.

Today, twelve air mail routes are in operation: Moncton-Chatham; Montreal-Albany; Toronto-Buffalo; Montreal-Ottawa; Montreal - Rimouski. Quebec-Seven Islands; Montreal-Lacoste; Moncton-Magdalene Islands; Lemington-Pelee Islands; Narrow Lake-Sioux Lookout; Fort Du Desert-Bissette; Port McMurray-Aklavik; Montreal-Saint John, and Oakrange-Chibougamau.

Two great connecting links which would complete a trans-Canada air mail service are needed to-day, it is said from the field crops at Regina.

"If, however," says the latter, "any two members of the Conference of holdings with a view to any possible subsequent purchase they shall have the right to call a quiet caucus of the delegates of the provinces affected at the same time and a caucus of the other provinces at the same time and a caucus of the Dominion Government at Ottawa for a determination of

Canada Exporting More Manufactured Goods

Review Shows Great Increase For Year Just Closed

Ottawa.—Canada is exporting more manufactured goods than ever before, according to figures compiled by the Department of Trade and Commerce.

The review points out that industrial activity, measured by exports, has reached a high level in the year just closed. Industrial employment was at a generally higher level than in 1928, and wage rates and contracts were at a higher peak than ever before; the aggregate value of building operations through chartered banks was the highest in the history of Canada, a new high record of money was invested by the public in life insurance policies and production in basal industries such as iron and steel, newsprint, coal and coke, mining, automobiles and electric energy all showed substantial increase over previous years.

The minister announces further that while the department of trade and commerce has been able to do much to supply necessary channels for Canadian manufactures and producers to export their wares, namely, a trade commissioners' service, further extensions in the direction are being planned for the immediate future

Japan Wants Adequate Navy

But Is Not Seeking Equal Parity With U.S. and Britain

Ottawa. The wave of the Japanese Government on the disarmament conference to be held this month were expressed by Hon. L. M. "The motto expressing Japan's requirements is adequate for defence, adequate for aggression," he said

Japan does not seek equal parity with British or the United States navies," the national defence of Japan is that her minimum defence strength expressed in terms of ratio to the strength of the strength to be maintained by the strongest navy

Japan supposed to the abolition of submarines but the nation are declared. In the first place submarines are a type of warship necessary for the defence of a nation having an inferior naval strength

Japan is willing to abandon the existing agreement for 5 ing more submarines than at present but desires to maintain the relative practically the same strength as she actually possesses

The News says it understands that Prime Min ster MacDonald is enquiring personally into the matter, that foreign office officials are studying the message and a copy of the paper containing it and that the question of any action to be taken will be the subject of conferences in the next few days

The Canadian Conscience

Dominion Exchequer In Receipt Of Money From Assessment Senders

Ottawa, Ont The Canadian conscience is improving. The year 1929 will mark payment into the Dominion exchequer of more than $500 in conscience money Two dollars is the usual amount gnawing at the conscience of the sender.

From east, west, north and south with only the post office stamp indicating the place origin, envelopes containing "conscience money" have been reaching the department of finance. The sender takes little or no chance of his identity being disclosed. Government officials never seek to find out

If his are usually wrapped in blank note paper Seldom, if ever, is the nature of the indebtedness revealed by the sender. But, occasionally, a terse note with the words customs on smuggled goods or income tax accompanies the money

New Year's, Christmas and Easter are the greatest "revenue" periods for Canada from this source.

GENERAL SMUTS HAS FAITH IN THE WORK OF LEAGUE

Ottawa.—The League of Nations and its astounding development along the lines first emphasized by the late Lord Grey, was commented upon by Lieut. Gen. Rt. Hon. Jan Christian Smuts, former prime minister of South Africa, in newspapermen who called upon him at the home of Sir Robert Borden, war-time premier of Canada. The distinguished South African reached Ottawa on the first visit to Canada, and will be Sir Robert's guest during his stay.

Soldier, statesman and scholar General Smuts is one of the romantic figures of empire history. In arms against Great Britain thirty years ago, he is now one of the leaders of Brit sh authority and one of the strongest protagonists of the British connection. General Smuts revealed the Boer War to the newspapermen somewhat whimsically According them permission to smoke, he himself refused the offer of a cigar, asserting his own non-smoking disposition.

"I haven't smoked for 30 years," he said with a smile. "Not since you Canadians and the British made tobacco so expensive and so hard to get during the Boer War"

How do you square your conscience with that attitude?" a general desire of South Africa to bind its labor's products"' asked one of the reporters.

"My conscience doesn't trouble me on that score," replied General Smuts

During the late war General Smuts served with Van Deventer in German South Africa and was later transferred to East Africa to command the British in succession to General Sir Horace Smith Dorrien. This command he successfully carried out. Recalling the phase of his duties Smuts never tired of telling of Lieut. Col. Fred Crerar, now chief of staff, and friend General Currie. Currie's work, he had commanded the Canadian corps in France, he said was one of the greatest things he had ever experienced.

Smuts's conviction that the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States of America should be friends was emphasized by his remarks on the subject of disarmament. He said that the United States should be friendly with Canada and that the United States of America should be friendly with Canada and that the United States of America should be friendly with Canada and that the United States of America

CLOSES EVERY WEDNESDAY AT NOON

SOME SALESMEN speak of the quality of their flour as if it resulted from secret and highly mysterious milling. There are no secrets in milling. The best flour is the result of intelligent selection of the very best wheat, a good mill, skilful milling and constant and never ceasing watchfulness. That combination insures good flour. Nothing else does. MARQUIS FLOUR NEVER VARIES FROM ITS HIGH STANDARD

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to all.

Safeway Store Opens Here Friday Morning

Mr. J W. Allen of Edmonton, Western Divisional Manager of the Safeway Stores, was in town early this week and completed arrangements whereby their local branch will open its doors for business on Friday morning of this week.

Safeway Stores are an international chain of food shops, who operate some 2000 stores and markets serving the great Western American continent. They have now been established for 14 years and sell at the rate of about $100,000,000 annually. Head quarters for the Dominion are at Winnipeg.

Safeway carried a new store in Vermilion, which is ultra-modern, immaculately clean and conveniently arranged. It will contain large assortments of the best known and most popular foods. The choosing of Vermilion for a Safeway store marks another step in the onward progress of the town, and was undoubtedly prompted by the large buying area of which it is the centre.

Mr. Hambly is the local manager of the new store. Attention is directed to the advertisement appearing in this issue.

VERMILION CURLERS TAKE BLAIR CUP FROM ISLAY

Two rinks of local curlers, skipped by Ed. Corby and Jas McKone, lifted the Blair Cup from Islay where it had a short but turbulent stay. The Islay rinkers brought the cup home from Mannville Friday night, defended it against Kitscoty Monday night, and then lost it to Vermilion Wednesday.

Jas McKone, who directed affairs and played lead rocks, along with Fuller-Bissell, Williamson and Dr. Bell, won their game 18-8. Their opponent was Tom MacFadden, skip, Dr. Sharpe, E. Moore and Shaw. The other game resulted in a 14-8 win for Islay, giving Vermilion a margin of 5 points on the round. The personnel of the rinks: Mr. Corbey, skip, Hurst, Denton and P. McVicar; Islay: H. Furnes, skip, Bosecroft, Bristow and Shaw

Talkies Soon To Appear At Vermilion

The Columbia Theatre closes its doors Saturday night for several days to allow for the completion of the 100 per cent talking, singing and musical equipment. The last of this apparatus arrived this morning. The quick changeover is made possible by most of the work being done with an interference to the pictures. The operating room has been relayed, carpets will be laid in the aisles, new projectors have been installed and all is now ready for the finishing touches with the remainder of the talkie equipment, which will place this theatre on a par with any in Alberta. For the last three days of next week one of the best all talking, singing and dancing musical comedies yet produced has been arranged. This is Paramount's production "The Cocoanuts," further particulars elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Pilkie has spared no expense in the purchasing and installation of this equipment to make his theatre one of the best in the province

LOCAL ALL-STARS WIN FROM VEGREVILLE

Ten Minutes' Overtime Played; Score Was 7-6

The first senior hockey game of this year as far as our boys were concerned resulted in a victory for the locals at Vegreville last Friday night. The Vermilion team was one great up with three minutes to go when Vegreville notched the tying counter, necessitating ten minutes overtime which finally ended in a win for the locals. The western town boys scored a couple of "flukey" goals on young Harbey Powell, one high shot rebounding from the wire netting, on to the goalie's back and dropping into the net, while Sailly Lee scored a questionable one when he stuck the puck in mid air

The local line-up was Pow-ll, MacIsaac and White, Wm. Powell, Wallenberger, Barr and Rossbach

Old Style Chinese Lunar Calendar Given Way To Newer Method

China's modern battle between the Chinese solar lunar calendar and the "foreign style calendar" entered a new phase, when by order of the National government cabinet, January 1, according to the lunar calendar became no longer legal.

This is the most concrete attack yet made against the age-old Chinese method of reckoning passage of the months by the moons. Previous efforts to bring about universal adoption of the foreign or Gregorian calendar has proved futile, in spite of announcement of penalties even for the printing or possession of the old style calendar.

Ramifications Of War

Future Wars Will Be Carried On Against Civilians As Well As the Soldiers In the Front

In modern war it is not armies that are mobilized, but nat'ons, and it is as important to a military mas ter to starve or bombard the women who are mak ng shells in the factory as to kill the soldiers who are firing the guns. It is as important to him to cut the food supplies from the people who make the man tions as it is to cut off the munitions supplies from the firing line. War in the future will not be, and cannot be, more humane than in the past, it must be immeasurably more humane. for not only has the "civilian" ceased to exist in the war zone, but the modern weapons of war, the a rplane and the submarine, are especially adapted to carry destruction beyond the theatre of war into the homes of the people.—A. G. Gardiner in the London Star.

Russia's Prove Satisfactory

Experiment Poultry Dealers Planned With Hatching Eggs From B.C.

The Co-operative Association of Poultry Breeders, of British Columbia, reports considerable success in the shipment of hatching eggs to Japan. A report just received from consignees (the Oriental Poultry Exists, Unsexatsuki, P.O. Chiba n, Japan), states that out of the 45 eggs sent from Vancouver by the steamer "Empress of Russia," 43 hatched out good chicks, and that there are now 23 cockerels and 17 pullets, the latter starting to lay. The association believes this to be a record for so long a journey, and says that the result is testify to the great care taken in the transportation of the delicate consignment.

Where Danger Lies

Antitoxin Immunity Offered In Unexpected Ways In Unexpected Places

Those who lack courage for new enterprise, due to fears for the'r physical safety, should take heart from study the records of the Metropolitan Insurance company. If they hesitate before crossing Sixth Avenue at Thirty-fourth street, or hold back from a ride in the'r first airplane ride, a glance at reports of accidents which happen to people in the peaceful pursuit of a humdrum routine should make the avenue and the air seem safe by comparison.

An official of the company was interested in compiling a list of the unusual and unexpected hazards which seem to go far out of their way to find a victim. For fifteen years he kept record of them.

One man hicked a fillet out of his shop and broke the bones in his own foot in the process. A workingman through a barbed-wire fence, and while the fowl escaped, the farmer was painfully hung up. Then there was the sad case of one who was so ardently embraced by a friend that a rib was fractured.

Another unlucky individual put in a cla m for injuries sustained while riding in a taxicab. He had a workingman's handcrown ruthere should make the avenue and the air seem safe by comparison.

Talk'ng quietly to a friend in the lobby of a building in qit ks considered good policy, for it is just as applicable circumstances, the insurance company reports, a horse came charging through the hall, and in the mad rush of one of the talkers. — New York Times.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

DEVIL'S FOOD

½ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
2 cups yolks.
1 cup lemon juice.
2 cups water.
7 tablespoons cornstarch.

Cook all ingredients together to double boiler for 45 minutes.

DEVIL'S FOOD

½ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
2 cups yolks.
1 cup milk.
1½ cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
2 egg whites.

Expense Does Not Count

New York Hotel To Be Built First In Miniature

If the New Waldorf-Astoria, isn't everything it ought to be, architecturally, the fault won't be at the door of Leroy Hutchinson. Behind the project of caravansaria. Blue p nts and arch tectr drawings may be all right, but Hutchinson, Kaighton he plans to build a model of the hotel in a building in 45th street, and over a space of 6,500 square feet, he intended exact duplications, on a smaller scale, of practically every important structural unit of the new hotel. These will be put together and then Old Man Boone will stand off and take a spot at a time, exploring for lodes. Before he dies will be surveyed before it's too late.

Another section of the floor space will be a prismatic stratum where interior decorators, artists and others w ll work out the color schemes of the new hostelry. Entire rooms will be reproduced and destroyed until the complete equipment receives a verdict of "not guilty" from the jury that is to decide how the hotel is to be presented to the public.

The cost of the experimental work will be $300,000.

Device Aids Motorists

To tell motorists whether they are on the road or are headed for a ditch, a device called the "roadmaster" has been invented in England. It contains a bowl, and depends for its operation on the principle that most roads are graded to carry upwards at the centre and slope off at the sides. The inventor claims that it will eliminate most of the accidents due to fog.

A rule may work both ways and cut in a poor one.

New Device For Lifeboats

Five Frightfully Two Hundred Foot and Between Three

Some of the blind implements of the blitz at sea at night is likely to be relieved.

The army, the navy, the steamship inspections service of the U.S. Department of Commerce, and the Coast guard have under development a device to be used in fog.

With it a man can carry in his coat pocket the equivalent of a standard lighthouse, two flashed and high, with a light of fifty thousand candle power, with which to signal for help or guide rescue vessels.

The device resembles a big .45 calibre pistol, although its barrel, is a little fatter. It firse like a pistol and projects upward two hundred feet or more a projectile about the size of a big cannon cracker. This bursts and releases a fifty thousand candlepower flare, suspended from a parachute.

The flare descends more slowly than the projectile because the parachute checks its fall, and two and two for a thousand, and in this final words to His disciples after His resurrection, He had that repentance and remission of a should be preached in His name unto all the nations.

For centuries the Jews had been looking forward to the coming of the Kingdom of Heaven, and for this purpose they meant the restoration of their nation to independence and power under divine leadership and Edgar them to make a radical change in their way of thinking, and that the truth which He sought to teach them. But the Kingdom of Heaven is not merely a geographical nor a political kingdom. It is a spiritual reign, the kingdom of the Father's rule in the hearts of men.

The Threefold Ministry Of Jesus, verse 23-25.—In this verse Matthew makes a general statement of Jesus' work in Galilee—that He went about teaching, preaching and healing. He taught in the synagogue, for while Christians were offered only in the temple at Jerusalem, every town and village had its synagogue for worship. He preached the gospel, or good news of the Kingdom, and healed every kind of sickness. His fame as a Preacher and Healer spread throughout Syria, and He Decapolis, and Judea, and beyond Jordan. Jesus' ministry of healing the sick once for Him to cure. The word "epileptic," in verse 24, is "lunatic" in the King James' version, and by saying the was called a lunatic, from "luna," the moon, because it was thought that his disease became worse during certain phases of the moon. He was grouped with demons and epileptics, and "paralytic" is not found in the Greek manuscript; it may have been added later by a copyist to explain His diseases and torments."

Jesus' ministry as an Itinerant one—His went about from place to place, teaching, preaching and healing. The nature of His work was the fellowship and apprenticeship of disciples necessary. The prophets had had their scholars, and the scribes had their schools. It was not a fixed established custom, but the need of a training school was never so great as now. Jesus had many things to teach that only two had hearing would fathom, many things to do that only these pupils could undertake, a period of service to learn that only shield followers could carry out.

A Mechanical Bellboy

A mechanical bellboy, recently brought over from Europe, was a great feature of New Year's eve festivities at one of the hotels in New York. It was the invention of a deperved genius, made announcements and acted as assistant master of ceremonies during the entertainment.

Teacher—Now tell me, what sort of people will wear the biggest crowns when they go to heaven?

Bright Pupil—Those with the biggest heads.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 19

JESUS BEGINS HIS MINISTRY

Golden Text: "Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."—Matthew 4:17.

Lesson: Matthew 4:13-25.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 9:6-7.

Explanations and Comments

The Kingdom Of Heaven Is At Hand, 17.—From the time of His coming to Capernaum, Jesus began to preach and to say, "Repent ye; change your minds, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. The word "repent" in the New Testament is the word which the disciples proclaim when they are sent out, and two and two by two, and in His final words to His disciples after His resurrection, He had that repentance and remission of a should be preached in His name unto all the nations.

For centuries the Jews had been looking forward to the coming of the Kingdom of Heaven, and for this purpose they meant the restoration of their nation to independence and power under divine leadership and Edgar them to make a radical change in their way of thinking, and that the truth which He sought to teach them. But the Kingdom of Heaven is not merely a geographical nor a political kingdom. It is a spiritual reign, the kingdom of the Father's rule in the hearts of men.

The Threefold Ministry Of Jesus, verse 23-25.—In this verse Matthew makes a general statement of Jesus' work in Galilee—that He went about teaching, preaching and healing. He taught in the synagogue, for while Christians were offered only in the temple at Jerusalem, every town and village had its synagogue for worship. He preached the gospel, or good news of the Kingdom, and healed every kind of sickness. His fame as a Preacher and Healer spread throughout Syria, and He Decapolis, and Judea, and beyond Jordan. Jesus' ministry of healing the sick once for Him to cure. The word "epileptic," in verse 24, is "lunatic" in the King James' version, and by saying the was called a lunatic, from "luna," the moon, because it was thought that his disease became worse during certain phases of the moon. He was grouped with demons and epileptics, and "paralytic" is not found in the Greek manuscript; it may have been added later by a copyist to explain His diseases and torments."

Jesus' ministry as an Itinerant one—His went about from place to place, teaching, preaching and healing. The nature of His work was the fellowship and apprenticeship of disciples necessary. The prophets had had their scholars, and the scribes had their schools. It was not a fixed established custom, but the need of a training school was never so great as now. Jesus had many things to teach that only two had hearing would fathom, many things to do that only these pupils could undertake, a period of service to learn that only shield followers could carry out.

Honor Enrapt Explorer

Memorial Erected In England In Memory Of John Hornby and Companions

The Christian Diary now being published in the London Daily Mail, has attracted deep interest in the Old Country.

A memorial to Hornby and his companions has been erected in the Masetwich parish church, near the old home of s parents. Members of the Hornby family and Mrs. Allard, mother of Harold, were present at the ceremony.

The dedicatory prayer contained the words, "We dedicate this tablet to the heroic memory of thy servants, John Hornby, Harold Adlard and Edgar Christ lives in the cause of duty and honour."

The inscription on the tablet was: "This tablet is given to the memory of John Hornby, M.C., an intrepid explorer, who died on July 21, 1927, was found dead on the bank of the Thelon River, in Northern Canada, with two companions, Harold Adlard, 27 years old, and Edgar Christian, 22 years old. R.I.P."

The hymn, "Fight the Good Fight," was sung. The tablet before the unveil ng was covered with the Union Jack. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend J. Armistead, vicar of Sandbach, and a cousin of John Hornby.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain mineral and dangerous mineral drugs, which rot the joints and cause aches and pains. Cascara and Senna are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe the bowels. Epsom salts and other salts are drastic.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the skin. In a word, nature's machinery to become lazy.

A new, herbal remedy such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently but surely brings relief. It starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are cleansed, constipation and auto-intoxication poisons pass away. The stomach and liver and bowels are now active and the system receives a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

Inoculation For Typhoid

Method Has Reduced Incidence Wherever Typhoid Danger Is Present

There are certain details and practical precautions which the public can, and should, take to protect itself against typhoid fever. One of these is inoculation with typhoid vaccine. This is a very simple process.

When a person gets typhoid fever, his body becomes overrun by typhoid germs. Perhaps it is only a small number that gets into his body in the first place, but these germs propagate rapidly.

They are the army of death, and if it weren't for the fact that there is another army, trying to save the victim's life, every person who gets two or three typhoid germs into his or her system would be beyond saving.

The other army, this army that is on our side, consists of little bodies, or white blood cells, or phagocytes, as the doctors call them, that are born into our bodies by nature for the sole purpose of fighting with the army of disease that would rule over the kingdom of the Father's rule in the hearts of men.

The Threefold Ministry Of Jesus, verse 23-25.—In this verse Matthew makes a general statement of Jesus' work in Galilee—that He went about teaching, preaching and healing. Sounds Like a Parable

Fire Department Pays the Greatest Returns From Info

People generally—and especially those who pay the taxes—are accordingly loth to spend money on fire departments and fire-fighting equipment.

It remains idle so long, and seems to have so little to do under ordinary circumstances, that the unthinking ratepayer—of whom there are a large number in every community—regard such expenditure as the tying up of a huge sum of money which, for all visible results are secured.

It may sound like a paradox, but in reality, the people of any city are getting the greatest return from the money they spend on fire department. It is the fireman and their equipment.

It is the protection that counts, and when protection is needed, it is badly needed. There should be enough fire-fighting equipment and a sufficient number of trained men to put up a reasonably successful fight against any fire which may break out at any time.

Britain's Fowl Population

Outnumbers Human Beings In Proportion Of Four To Three

It might seem a ridiculous task to count the chickens in Britain, but a poultry census is taken every year, and this year the number of fowls in holdings of over one acre. When the last census was taken th's number amounted to 39,000,000. As farm kept in backyards, which are not included in this figure, are supposed to account for about a quarter of the total fowl population, this means that chickens outnumber human beings in Britain, the proportions being approximately four to three. Lancashire, which claims to give England the lead in most things, certainly does lead in poultry. It has a larger poultry population than any other part of the country.

The Heckler Scored

The candidate was encountering unfriendly audience. In a vicious and equally stormy warfare he had come off second best against a reporter, ill-natured, determined band of witty hecklers.

"who brayed them?" he demanded in a loud voice, and paused triumphantly in the silence which greeted him.

As he made to recommence his speech, a voice sang out: "Perhaps it was only an echo, guvnor."

Speeding Up Plant Growth

Electric Flood Lights Used At Ottawa In Growing New Wheat Varieties

Under the glare of electric flood lights, thousands of young wheat plants are growing at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Ottawa. It is the hope of officials of the cereal division, Department of Agriculture, that some of these plants may prove to be the progenitor of new varieties which would add considerably to the monetary returns of Canadian farmers.

The element of time enters into the research of artificial light being used in the experiments, as officials of the cereal division explained recently. Two crops may be grown in a single year under the battery of 300 watt lamps which have been set up.

Thus the development of new creations may be speeded up so that instead of requiring eight years to produce seed enough of a new variety to permit it being subjected to field trials for yield, this may now be accomplished in half that time, generally speaking.

Not only is it possible to grow these plants more rapidly under light, but it also is possible to create new ones during the winter by the process of hybridization or crossing of certain varieties used as parents. The former mature, and their seed is then ready for planting in the field in the spring for summer study.

Besides wheat, other cereal crops such as barley and oats, as well as peas and flax are being grown in the illuminated greenhouses.

New Kind Of Prodigy

Precocity Of Children Is Shown In a Modern Way

Precocity in children generally shows itself in some intellectual way, according to the New York Sun, but recent evidence discloses a new kind of prodigy. A 7-year-old girl who died in Elmira, has left an estate of $13,000, and a man in Chicago, who has been trying to get possession of the child's money for some years, has been informed that the estate has increased to $17,000 since the girl's death.

Such a thing could not happen in a backyards, which are not included in this figure, are supposed to account for about a quarter of the total fowl population, this means that chickens outnumber human beings in Britain, the proportions being approximately four to three. Lancashire, which claims to give England the lead in most things, certainly does lead in poultry. It has a larger poultry population than any other part of the country.

Proper Care For Watch

Your Best Friend When Enemy Heat Threatens Keeping Service

Follow these simple instructions — and your watch will keep good time. Almost any watch will run for months after the last particle of oil on the bearings has disappeared.

And it goes without saying that injury will follow as surely as night follows day. It must be overhauled periodically—then regularly. Surely removing old dried-up oil and dirt; repolishing parts, to prevent them being spoiled for good timekeeping. Oil in a lady's small watch will last about six or eight months. It takes a grain of dirt the size of a needle point to stop the watch. Dirt will get inside. When you buy an automobile, you are told how the machine must be looked after constantly, for which work you pay a service station.

Your tiny watch is a thousand times finer machine running constantly so isn't it reasonable to have it allowed to occasionally for a small service charge?

Be sure to wind your watch up fully before going to the morning). Do not be afraid of overwinding. This is particularly true with the small watch as it runs from 24 hours unless it is wound tightly.

In washing your hands, avoid getting water on the watch.

A severe jar or dropping the watch will bend the balance pivots (axle), which will cause irregularity. Such damage does not always show at the first immediately.

A small watch will give its own warning and stop as soon as the oil thickens, because of the little power required to run it. While a large watch, on account of its greater power, will keep on running, after all lubrication has disappeared, frequently doing considerable damage.

Watch Your Children

More Children Die Between Ages Of One and Six, Than At Any Other Time

Guard your children carefully between the ages of one and six, for statistics show that during these five years, more children die from communicable disease than at any other time. From 50 to 75 per cent. of all diphtheria deaths, over 80 per cent. of scarlet fever deaths, and between 60 and 90 per cent. of deaths from broncho-pneumonia occur during this period. After its first six months, a baby has the comparative immunity to disease, which it inherits from its mother.

Defining "A Few"

Eleven cents seem mighty "few" when one is hungry. Two bells are two too many for one burned in a theatre audience constitute a very few. while a dozen guests at home make a c ' ' ' ' according to the investigations of the third chapter of 1 Peter a few is "eight" and if you don't believe it, look it up

SANTA CLAUS WELCOMED ON SHIP

Scores of happy youngsters received a surprise visit from Santa on Saturday night before Christmas, on the Anchor-Donaldson liner "Athenia" prior to departure from Halifax for Europe. Bearded and garbed in the traditional costume, Santa dispensed gifts to all the boys and girls travelling in the big ship before vanishing as mysteriously as he came.

False Totem Poles

Coast Indian Curios Said To Be Manufactured In Japan

That, purposely or inadvertently, frauds are perpetrated on citizens of Canada as well as foreign guests to western Canada's railroads, steamships, hotels, and curio stores is strongly suggested if not proven by a letter just received at the National Museum of Canada, in Ottawa, from one of the largest Chinese importers of oriental goods on the Pacific coast.

The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Sir:—

"It appears that all Totem poles that we have been able to buy in and about Vancouver, come from Japan. China does not make any Totem poles as far as we know. We have not seen any genuine native Totems except those large ones in the parks and other places of amusement.

"We are forwarding you our catalogue under separate cover."

One of the items in the catalogue mentioned reads as follows:

"Genuine Bird' Totem Pole—A souvenir of Vancouver and the Pacific North West. Entirely hand carved out of logs and painted in gorgeous colors. (sic.) All sizes. 9 inches high. Price 40 cents." Other prices follow up to 24 inches high. Price $5.00. Museums catalogue lists Totem poles made of wood at prices for the cheapest 40 cents, and for the most expensive $1.85

In the same catalogue are listed and priced many genuine oriental products, some of them rare and valuable and many at cheap and reasonable prices considering the excellent workmanship. These last are splendid souvenirs of a tourist trip to Chinatown or the Japanese quarter of our western cities

As to the Japanese made Totem poles catalogued and sold as souvenirs of "Vancouver and the Pacific Northwest," without going into the morals of the matter, it is certainly a poor business to cheat our tourist guests by selling these Japanese Totem poles as souvenirs of our Pacific Coast, noted for its Indian Totem poles which are entirely foreign in Japanese culture. Fortunately the totem poles in question which are so at news stands, curio stores, in hotels, and even on our own Canadian steamships, have not the slightest touch of Indian art. They may be as good as Totem poles made by a young Indian who is not an artist, and who has no regard for the propriety of imitating a totem pole and selling it. Such Indian made totem poles may be likened to a Venus de Milo sculpture by a modern who has no regard for propriety.

If we wish our tourist to speak well of Canada, and no advertise the bad roads, steamships, hotels, parks, etc., when they return home, and possibly to come again themselves, and if we wish them to buy souvenirs of us we should offer genuine articles characteristic of Canada and the people of the various foreign quarters found in Canada, but foreign made goods may be as genuine as Canadian if produced cheap enough for the tourist pocket book it would be better business to make and offer for sale photographs, etchings, paintings and exact replicas on plaster of Paris cements, pottery, and the like. No one objects to buying an honest copy or cast of the Venus de Milo. It is well known the original cannot be sold to tourists. But few realize that genuine Indian totem poles are rare and expensive. Only pseudo totem poles are common and cheap

Why would it not be better business to make and offer for sale photographs, etchings, paintings and exact replicas on plaster of Paris cements, pottery, and the like. Canadian Flour Liked

Scotland Prefers It To All Others, Says Trade Commissioner

For some time past, and continuing until very recently, Canadian flour sales in Scotland were falling off heavily in favor of other flours, and especially those from the United States, says a report by J. F. Pedley, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Glasgow, just received by the Department of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Pedley reports however, that the situation is passing, if it has not already passed. All things being equal, the Scottish consumer prefers Canadian flour to all others Mr. Johnson reports

Irate Boss: Don't you ever do anything on time?

Tardy Clerk: Yes, sir, I bought my car that way.

He: What can you see in Tom? He doesn't like reading, smoking or drinking, sport

She: Ah! But he likes me!

Preserving Historical Objects

Complaint Anent Wholesale Removal Of Indian Curios From B.C.

"At present, in the West there are a great many influential people who do not want any of the objects, mentioned in the Indian Act, removed from the Province of British Columbia," according to a letter recently received in Ottawa, from an official of the British Columbian Government. The objects referred to are totem poles, carved grave monuments, carved rock inscriptions and paintings on cliffs and large boulders

The letter further states that "there is great indignation at" the wholesal removal of certain Indian carvings to the United States; "especially without notifying any of the British Columbian Government departments or asking the wishes of the local authorities."

A retired United States naval officer, collected recently many beautiful carved spindle whorls formerly used in spinning mountain goat wool, and tinted and well executed symbolical designs of the National Museum, of Canada, had been searching Indian graves in the village of Hesilton, British Columbia for two whole seasons, and had not seen a single specimen of the kind from yet. The National Museum has no really excellent specimen of such a carved spindle whorl with as artistically and well executed symbolical designs as adorned the specimens taken out of the Province last years considering the excellent workmanship. These last are splendid souvenirs of a tourist trip to Chinatown or the Japanese quarter of our western cities

As to the Japanese made Totem poles catalogued and sold as souvenirs of "Vancouver and the Pacific Northwest," without going into the morals of the matter, it is certainly a poor business to cheat our tourist guests by selling these Japanese Totem poles as souvenirs of our Pacific Coast, noted for its Indian Totem poles which are entirely foreign in Japanese culture. JUNIOR HOCKEY TEAM TO DISBAND FRIDAY

After what looked like the most promising Junior team collected here for several years, the boys and manager-out have decided to disband the senior. This was due partly to difficulty in securing opposition, and partly because some of the boys were members of three teams; seniors, Juniors and juveniles. Consequently, as the senior and juvenile teams take in all the players it was decided to disband the Juniors. The Juvenile team is entered in the provincial playdowns and with practically all of the Juniors astride, should make their presence felt.

NEWS FROM IRLAY

IRLAY CURLERS LIFT BLAIR CUP FROM MANNVILLE

Two rinks of Irlay curlers lifted the Blair cup from Mannville last Friday night by a margin of one good point. Needless to say the local curlers are out to defend the coveted trophy for the rest of the season. The rink skipped by Cam Mitchell, and made up of McEachern, W. Barnes and Jim Carey won 16 -10. While Skip John Shaw, Al Beecroft, Jack Miller and Jack Pyle constituted the other rink which lost out 15-11.

McFadyen — Autey

A very pretty wedding of interest to Irlay people took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Autey, when their eldest daughter, Doris, was united in marriage to Edmund McFadyen, third son of Mr. and Mrs. John McFadyen of Irlay, on Wednesday, January 8th. The Rev. C. A. Thompson performed the ceremony. Jenny Autey, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. H. Autey supported the groom. Following the ceremony a bounteous wedding repast was partaken of. Only immediate relatives were present. The young couple will reside on the groom's farm, four miles north west of town.

Master Billy Beecroft was a week-end visitor in Vermilion, staying with his sister Jean.

Mrs. M Hopkins and son Elwood are now living in Vegreville where Elwood is taking special chiropractic treatment.

The college students from this district who had extra holidays on account of mumps cases in the dormitory have now all reported to Vermilion. College opened last Thursday.

Mrs. W. Rees returned home from Edmonton last Sunday, 5th inst.

Miss Cleo Kedinsky of Edmonton is visiting her mother in town.

Mr. Harvey Thompson went to Edmonton last Tuesday, returning on Friday.

The attention of ratepayers of the Irlay Hospital district is called to the notice appearing elsewhere in this issue

FAT OR FASHIONABLE

A girl 21 years of age was admitted to a Sanatorium a few days ago. She was a member of a large family noted for their robust health and longevity. This girl was one of seven women patients all under 25 years of age who have come under the care of a chest specialist during the last three months, and the tale of one was, with a few variations, the medical history of them all: No fat, no sugar, no cod liver, (in one instance, no breakfast) light lunch, and dinner consisting mostly of lettuce, fruit or vegetables. This diet, combined with working hard and playing hard deprived the body of all power to resist disease.

There was no energy in reserve to fight infection. A bad cold that would not be shaken off, a nasty little cough especially first thing in the morning, a marked lack of energy accompanied with an irritable temper, and the infection, getting every encouragement developed into active disease. A young life crippled and sorrow and worry turn companion of prolonged sickness brought to the home, and all because my young lady 'must' be 'fashionably thin'. And yet women boll-ves herself an intelligent, thinking being!!

LOCAL SKATING ARENA PATRONAGE ASCENDING

With the installation of the radio phonograph amplifier in the big arena rink, the skating patronage has taken a decided jump. It is hoped that this fact on the Arena certainly deserves liberal support, the building being one of the most commodious in Western Canada.

COMPETITION No. 4 OPENED

Competition No. 4 is well under way at the local curling rink, No. 2 being completed early this week. Burt Duncan, after a string of losses at the beginning of the season, has now got the feel of the ice and won the upper division from the Dr. Rintel rink, while Jack Morison and Cooper reached the final brackets of the lower division, with honors going to the Cooper quartet.

The ladies are now playing a play-all competition.

VERMILION SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE STARTS NEW TERM

The local school of agriculture reopens for the spring term on Thursday, Jan. 9. The attendance is somewhat smaller than usual as students are only straggling in. However, it is understood that a few are quarantined in their homes at present but will join the student body very soon.

Those who remained in the dormitory during the holiday have had a very enjoyable time. Competitive entertainments, amusing stunts, and concerts all helped to pass the time. Many thanks are due to Mr. Horning for his efforts to provide entertainment for the students and to Miss Hiney, matron, for her many attentions

It is with mixed feelings that students received the news of J. F. Anderson, formerly instructor in animal husbandry and also farm manager, appointed to the office of assistant deputy minister of agriculture in the Alberta government. The department's gain is the school's loss, for there is no doubt in the minds of Mr Anderson's many friends that the promotion was merited. His place here is being filled by a brother, D. A. Anderson from the Agricultural College at Guelph, Ontario.

WHEAT POOL NEWS NOTES

Stamp advancement was made by the Alberta Wheat Pool during the 1929 calendar year. The increase in membership reached a total of 4,362, the Pool ending the year with 41,416 members on its lists in view of the fact that all the first series contracts expired in August 1929, this membership record is considered very satisfactory by Pool officials. It shows a tremendous confidence in the Pool on the part of a large proportion of the grain producers of Alberta.

** ** **

At the end of 1929 the Alberta Wheat Pool was operating 119 elevators. During the year 96 new elevators were built and 36 purchased which together with one elevator leased, makes an increase in Pool elevators of 133 for the year. Additional storage was provided for Vancouver terminal No. 1, bringing the total capacity of the plant up to 5 000 000 bushels. The total Alberta Pool country elevator storage is now 31 [illegible],000 bushels and the Pool terminal space on the Pacific coast 6 000 000 bushels

** ** **

Total Alberta Pool handlings from the 1929 crop amounted to over 45 million bushels 72 per cent of which was shipped to the Pacific coast. Nearly 40 million bushels were handled through Alberta Pool elevators, representing 99 per cent of the total

** ** **

The outstanding feature of 1929 in so far as the Wheat Pool is concerned was the steady confidence evinced in the organization by the great majority of the members as well as by the greater percentage of the general public. The Pool encountered difficulties during the year largely due to unusually heavy production of wheat in practically every country in the world in spite of this feature the marketing policy of the Pool maintained a consistent steadying effort on the world price of wheat

** ** **

Alberta Wheat Pool was involved in a notable legal action during the year and successfully carried its defence to the highest court in Canada. The winning of this lawsuit has resulted in the definite establishment of the legal status of the pooling system of marketing as developed by the Wheat Pool. Another lawsuit in which the Alberta Pool was indirectly involved arose over the action on the part of the government to collect in some tax from the three Western Pools. The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool was made defendant in a suit heard in the Exchequer Court and judgment was rendered in favor of the Pool. This case was subsequently appealed and at the present time judgment has not been handed down

A New Year Message of Peace

Radio, as a great unifying force in the national life of Canada, was again demonstrated on the second day of this new year when speeches by Hon W. L. Mackenzie King, Sir Robert Borden, and General Jan Christian Smuts, former Prime Minister of South Africa were broadcast over the Dominion from the Pacific coast to the Pacific enabling tens of thousands of Canadians to listen to hear every word spoken.

The importance from a national standpoint of Canadians being able to listen to such speeches as those given by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, and General Smuts can hardly be over-estimated. Canada is a country of the British Commonwealth of Nations, but they likewise help our people to learn to know Canada itself as it is seen and appreciated by world statesmen.

Many of the problems confronting South Africa in these early years of its nationhood are self-governing Dominion are similar to those which confronted young Canada and the Fathers of Confederation fifty and sixty years ago. In South Africa, as in Canada they have problems relating to the races, one of the latter growing up in the Commonwealth and inherent in which is the good-will, tolerance and understanding of the two great white races which, fortunately we are free of in this Dominion.

In his address which Sir Robert Borden referred to the fact that Canada and South Africa are the two British Dominions appeared to have a clearer perception of the future of the Empire than did others of the Dominions. Canada and South Africa found themselves entirely in accord. Sir Robert Borden did not labor the point, nor did he take time to explain just why this should be. But it was for the reason quite self-evident. Here in Canada, at times when from one cause or another racial and language difficulties crop up, and discussions are made of these differences and difficulties to inflame the passions and prejudices of people the question is frequently asked in the French papers in Provinces Why should Canada be obliged to recognize the French language and continue certain old French laws when Australia is not so bound?

The answer is not far to seek. Canada, like South Africa, is a conquered country. It was by the fortune of war that it was wrested by force of British arms from France just as the Transvaal and the Orange Free State were wrested from the Boers. Australia on the other hand was discovered by English-speaking people from the start and was peopled by men of the same native stock. When Britain's colonies in Australia and when the Boers laid down their arms in South Africa treaties were negotiated between Britain on the one hand and Boers and Australians on the other. In both of those treaties Britain solemnly pledged her national word and honor to the observance of certain things, and among these was recognition of certain racial rights and privileges, rights and privileges

Accorded full liberty to maintain the use and observance both the letter and the spirit of these treaty obligations devolves upon Canada and South Africa. The national word and honor of these two Dominions is pledged just as solemnly as is that of Great Britain itself. And if Great Britain Canada, South Africa, and the whole Empire was prepared to go to war and make all the sacrifices entailed in the great world struggle with Germany in order to keep Britain's pledged word guaranteeing the neutrality and independence of Belgium how much more should people of these Dominions be faithfully prepared to fulfill those obligations which alone made Confederation possible in Canada, and has made South Africa a rival nation in the Empire?

In his speech General Smuts dealt at length upon Canada's leadership in the Empire and the great contributions which this Dominion has made in the cause of national unity Empire unity and world understanding. It was Canada's example which made union in South Africa possible. It was the example of the British Empire which made the League of Nations possible - the League being, as General Smuts pointed out, based upon principles and extension of the principles upon which the British Empire is founded and continues to exist and prosper.

Speaking of Canada, General Smuts used words which every Canadian should take to heart as it were, to memorize this article we quote:

"You have taken the lead in many respects. You took the lead in racial settlement. The Prime Minister has referred to the color dance with our native races. In Africa we have a native problem, and in Canada you have reached a happy solution of our great racial question in South Africa. It is largely due to the precedent you have set. You found the first solution of the racial question and we have followed you, and the precedent you have set and which we are following. I hope will be followed more and more by other nations of the world, so that racial questions will cease to trouble the peace of the world and instead of being a source of division, will become the bond of union between the nations of the earth."

A Consoling Thought

It was necessary for taxation purposes to decide which side of the Canada and United States border covered with thousands of mosaic pieces of farm which an old lady had part of plate-glass mirror which the previously actually lay. Surveyors proctor, Mr Frost, has cut and paint- finally announced that the farm was of in all colours of the rainbow and is just on the American side of the border. The old lady smiled with largest piece of glass is less than an pot of "Tim - a plant I know that" she said "I've heard that winters in about a quarter of a million. Canada are terribly severe"

Too Much ACID

Many people suffer more from acidity, sallow complexion as they call it, when they know this better method. It is usually caused by acid. Correct it, and you will never suffer from nausea even as nausea. The best way, the quick, safe, sure and efficient way, is when you prove out this easy remedy. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 80 years the standard with physicians and druggists prescribed by physicians for 80 years in correcting nausea, stomach acids, and at once. The spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a little water neutralizes many times its volume in

"CANADA 1930"

"Canada 1930" is the title of a new publication just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the nature and purpose of which are described in a foreword by the Honorable Mr. Malcolm, the Minister of Trade and Commerce. The need has been felt for some time for a concise and up-to-date annual review, comprehensive in scope and popular in form, of the current economic situation in Canada, which would serve as a precis and compendium of the more voluminous statistical publications already available.

The Handbook has been prepared with especial care according to the above requirements. In an "Introduction" to the whole, a general survey of the year just passed is given, analyzing its governing influences and the inter-relation of the more important economic developments which it has witnessed. This is followed by nineteen brief chapters devoted in turn to the history and institutions of the Dominion, the natural resources, The National Wealth and Income, Population, Agriculture, Forestry, Mines, Fisheries, Water-powers, Construction, Trade, Transportation, Finance, Labour Conditions, Education, etc. In each of these, up-to-the-minute information is presented, with a descriptive review of the more important past conditions out of which the present has developed. Statistical tables appear in the main in an Appendix which is divided into five parts, the first tracing the progress of the Dominion in its various manifestations since 1901, and the second giving the more important economic statistics from month to month during the year just passed.

To quote from the Minister's foreword;

"The handbook has two immediate practical objects. On the side of Canada it will present a balanced picture of Canadian conditions, with sufficient historical and descriptive background to render them intelligible and interesting in a broad way, at a time when Canada is much in the eye of the world as a field for new enterprise. In Canada itself, appearing as it does immediately after the New Year, and taking the basic form of a review and interpretation of the years just passed, it will assist in that general discussion and appraisement of the situation usual to the occasion of stocktaking, thus helping, it is hoped, to lay foundations for such further measured progress in 1930."

The Handbook is profusely illustrated with rotogravures and diagrams, and while popular in form omits no essential features of the existing situation. It is brief but it is scientifically conceived but easily assimilable presentation of the data essential in forming a measured judgment as to current Canadian progress. A copy may be secured on application to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM GREENLAWN

Mrs. Jack McMullin and family have moved into the village of Holsburg for the winter.

Jim Jones, who had been convalescing at the Islay hospital, has returned to his home here.

The Hotesbere "Comet" has now decided to build their skating and hockey rink on the river instead of completing the one they commenced beside the track.

The weather continues exceedingly cold, jostling by the local thermometers, which range from 42 to 45 below zero. We wonder whose is correct?

The surrounding schools are again in full swing, following the holidays. Most of them opened on the 6th.

Several couples attended the whist drive held in the hall on Friday. Mrs. Rainey and Geo. Lumley received the prizes, while Miss Beth Rainey received the "booby," or rather the consolation prize.

JOHN PITTERSEN

The funeral of John Pitterson who was accidentally killed, was held at the Assumption church on Monday, January 13th. The Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion officiated. The church was filled with sympathetic friends of the deceased and family.

BROWNIE NOTES

The Brown Owl and Puck Leader were waiting in the Hall on Friday, Jan. 10th quite prepared to go away without seeing any Brownies. If now 30 below or more, and so we felt very encouraged when two valiant small people turned up. It was too cold to do much more than learn a few songs and games. But it is beginning, and a very encouraging one. All hoped to bring another Brownie, so if it warm or we hope no new quite a lot of new faces. All recruits are called "Tweenies," and all ten Tweenies passed one test towards being a Brownie, i.e., writing their name and address and age so that the Brown Owl can read it. We shall meet again this week in the St. Saviour's hall and after that hope to be able to go to the Armouries where there will be more room.

BODY FOUND LYING ON RAILWAY LINE

Vermilion Farmer Believed Victim of Heart Failure or Exposure

Dead as a result of heart failure or exposure, the body of a man believed to be Tore Tillberg, farmer of the Vermilion district, was found on the tracks at mile 156 on the Mc Murray line of the Northern Alberta railways, Friday night, according to a report reaching Alberta provincial police, "A" division headquarters.

The deceased had left Tillberg's lumber camp on Sunday, January 4, to walk to a section house, following the railway tracks. He evidently sat down on the rails to rest.

Police investigation shows that a snowplow had struck him on Tuesday and pushed the body off the track, another train crew finding him on Friday.

An inquest may be held. The body has been taken to Lac La Biche by Constable Leyland, of the A.P.P. detachment there.

The man's skull was crushed and a blood clot found in the brain. He was first on a hand sleigh was three quarters of a mile back and near the Assumption church.

Police reports state that it was very cold on the day the deceased started the walk. He had no gloves and used an old pair of socks for mittens.

Tore Tillberg and his brother settled on the land in the north of the Vermilion cemetery a year ago last fall and had made good progress on this land, clearing a large portion of it and breaking it up in time for seeding last year. The brothers had improved the farm, had a large crop and a well along with the breaking.

Canadian Art Shows Distinctive Character In Notable Collection Of National Gallery of Canada

An accession of 20 new pictures to the National Gallery of Canada, the most important group acquired at any time for any collection on this continent, has featured the general activities of that body for the past year. The various schools of ancient and modern art are now represented, to a much more substantial degree than heretofore, with the old masters retaining a prefetal place alongside the enterprising and robust generation of artists whose vigor and daring have exerted distinctive character to Canadian art.

The most recent development of a far reaching phase will be displayed when, on January 23, His Excellency the Governor-General formally opens the Canadian Exhibition at the National Gallery.

It is expressed that this will be the finest representative ever held in Canada, since new arrangements have been made for the assembling of pictures. Some choice plaints were viewed in the House of Commons last session to the effect that in those annual displays of the painters of the central provinces appeared to have entirely crowded out those from the east and west coast and the opinion was advanced that the latter might be due to prejudice on the part of those responsible. In order to obviate any such charge the trustees have completed a scheme whereby outstanding artists of the various cities in Canada may constitute themselves advisory committees and recommend to this institution the works of local painters. This has had the effect of bringing to light artists of hitherto unknown merit, and of assembling a collect on representative of Canadian art from Halifax, N.S. to Victoria, B.C.

Many developments are foreshadowed for the National Gallery in the near future For some considerable time the inadequacy of the present building which is shared with the Victoria museum and the Department of Mines, has forced itself upon the government. The restricted quarters have made it impossible for the gallery to exhibit all its treasures, and thus deprived the people of their right to enjoy their possessions. To this post war generation the most unfortunate element in this is the fact that the Canadian war memorial pictures have been forced from the gallery's walls and are now stored away, out of sight

This collection, valued at over $200,000, and which could not in any circumstances be whatever be replaced, was acquired during the war by Lord Beaverbrook's war memorial committee. The paintings depict every phase of Canadian war activity, and many outstanding battles fought by the Canadian Corps have been translated on canvas Portraits of Canadian soldiers Victoria Cross heroes and well-known officers are numerous in the collection.

Modern artists of the calibre of Sir William Orpen, Augustus John A. J. Munnings, A. Y. Jackson, Cyril Barraud and scores of others contributed to this immense group, which numbers over 1,000 pieces Some old masters are also included such as Sir Romney, Lawrence, West and Reynolds. The entire collection was given to the Canadian people some years ago but due to lack of room it cannot be exhibited.

A Pearl Among Collar Buttons

When Chancery Rundle Watson was 17 years old, he was given a shaggy gold collar button for his birthday He recently observed his 69th birthday still wearing the same shaggy gold collar button He has worn the button continually for 52 years and not even once has it been mislaid, he solemnly declares

A man never really gets an accurate estimate of himself until he wants to borrow his neighbor's lawn mower.

The collection is now shown the tenure of municipality to canoeing and frill Reeves are fitted with darts below the elbows.

It is interpreted in navy blue wool crepe in entirely serviceable but unpretentious occasions

It's an opportunity to have a snappy dress that can be made at a very moderate cost.

Style No. 3115 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Its tweed in Spanish red coloring in new feather weight with matching shade bone buttons at neckline. It is delightfully smart and practical.

Mid-night blue crepe marocain with jade green piping at neckline and edge of jabot is strikingly smart and youthful.

Dark brown ratine crepe with self-fabric piping is extremely fashionable

In lustrous crepe satin in black, it is unusually distinctive with the gold-eye herrings, mixed fish, pickerel, pike sturgeon, millets trout (take), lullines and whitefish, the latter having a market value of $430,975.

Saskatchewan Fisheries

Total Value Of Catch More Than Half a Million Annually

The fact that Saskatchewan fisheries run to a total value of more than $500 000 annually is of particular interest, in view of the negotiations now pending for the return of the natural resources. Fish caught in Lake Athabaska, the greater part of which lies in Saskatchewan are not included

The annual report, issued a substitute by making their reports, give Alberta credit for all the fish caught in that lake, and the value in 1929, the last year for which figures are available was $256,000. Cold Lake is another lake for which Alberta gets full credit, but in that case the greater part of the lake is in Alberta, and the total catch is light.

The varieties of fish caught commercially in the province are gold-eyes herrings, mixed fish, pickerel, pike sturgeon, millets trout (take), lullines and whitefish, the latter having a market value of $430,975.

Tips For the Housewife

Some Measures Which Will Often Prove Helpful

Here are some tips that the housewife should clip and put away in a safe place. Many a time they will come in very useful:

Three teaspoons equal one tablespoon, and sixteen tablespoons equal one cup

When following recipes, make your measures and ingredients level. When heaped, you may use twice the amount the recipe intended and spoil an otherwise successful cake or pie.

Too much flour will make cake dry and crumbly, bread heavy, sauce thick.

Too much fat will make cakes oily and may cause them to fall.

Too much liquid makes cake that will fall easily.

Butter Imports

Imports Of Butter Into Canada Doubled in Past Year

Butter imports into Canada doubled in the twelve months ending November 30. The figure for the period was $11,434,000 as against $5,567,000 in the preceding twelve months. Other imports of milk products remained about the same, bringing the aggregate value of $12,158,000.

In November alone, butter imports were up to $1,000,000 from $667,000 in the preceding month. Figures were made available to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

Broadcasting Time Signals

Wireless time signals emanating from the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, are broadcast daily, except Sunday, through the radio station CNRO from 2.57 to 3 p.m., on a wave-length of 600 meters. Signals are also sent from VIDO station, Prince Rupert, on a wave-length of 46.8 metres.

Going Home On Prize Money

British Boy Successful In Competition, Likes Outlook In Canada

Just to offset the stories of British farm laborers who have become so dissatisfied as a result of their experiences here, that they are demanding deportation the case of Tom Pearson may be cited. Pearson, a stockily-built 16-year-old Yorkshire lad, arrived in Peterboro, Ontario, five months ago, and secured a job with a farmer. His wages were $18 a month and board. There must be more to him than that "13" for Tom. Anyway he has sailed for England to pay a surprise visit to his father, and spend the winter at his old home. And when he sailed he had in the neighborhood of $1 000

Of course he didn't make that much farming, although as a matter of fact he has saved all but a couple hundred of his wages. Tom's little pot of gold came from using his brains. Particulars of a competition conducted by a Toronto firm in which the contestants were to work out a slogan from the name presented as a brick. Their efforts were brought to the attention of the young farm boy, and he decided to enter. In a few days he received word to notice that he had been successful in winning a prize of $1,400.

He has spent the time during the winter to see his relatives and tell them of the land of opportunity out here. Tom is coming back in the spring, there may be other prizes to win—and anyway he likes the outlook in Canada.

Province Developing Resources

Saskatchewan Silica, Coal and Chemical Deposits Being Exploited

The past year has been a busy one for the manufacture of clay products in Saskatchewan according to Professor W. G. Worcester, of the Ceramic Department of the University of Saskatchewan.

A new plant has been started at Prince Albert during the past year for the manufacture of common brick and a plant at Estevan for terra-cotta and floor and wall tile. The company at Estevan has built an additional plant for the manufacture of hollow building tile.

"There has been greater development during 1929 of the mineral resources of Saskatchewan than in any previous year," Prof. Worcester claims. "More than 100 lakes in the province have large deposits of sodium sulphate. At Eaglebright a depth of 150 feet has been drilled without coming to the bottom of the deposit. This chemical is now being used in metallurgical work and the Saskatchewan deposits are beginning to have a value as they are unusually pure. One firm in Canada is using more than 20,000 tons of sulphate a year from their plant near Ormiston. The sulphate is also used in the pulp industry.

"During the year the experimental briquetting plant at Estevan passed into commercial hands and is now shipping out 100 tons per day. A new process of carbonizing the lignite premises to be of great benefit to the Saskatchewan deposits."

Officers Elected

Canadian Sheep Breeders' Association Elect Directors For 1930

Mr. R. W. Wade, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Sheep Breeders' Association, announces that the mail ballot, closed December 15th, electing officers for the Maritime, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, resulted as follows:—Maritimes, Ronald Cowan, Campbellton, N.B.; Manitoba, Georg Gordon, Oak Lake, Man.; Alberta, John Wilson, Sr., Innisfail, Alta.; and George Hall, No. 3, Strathcona, Alberta; British Columbia, Leonard Higginson, R.R. No. 2, Duncan, B.C. The directors for Ontario and Quebec will be elected at the provincial annual meeting of the Association, taking place in February, and for Saskatchewan, at the annual meeting of the Canadian Association, in March.

Isolation Of Fiji Germ Not Yet Accomplished, Says Medical Journal

Publishing the preliminary report of Dr. I. S. Falk, on his isolation of the influenza germ, the Journal of the American Medical Association says that while Dr. Falk's work is of great interest, it does not warrant the assumption that the germ in the influenza vaccine has been found.

The journal asserts that "to isolate" an organism is not to prove its views, editorials and other publicity relative to this discovery, that the work is not for vaccine or anti-toxin or any other specific method of treating influenza is to go far beyond the actual evidence provided by this bacteriological research.

Big Plant For Calgary

Excavation for the foundation of the Canada Gypsum and Alabastine, Limited, plant in East Calgary, will be started at once, according to Mr. W. E. Armstrong, of Winnipeg, western manager of the company.

DOG DERBY CHAMPION

Emil St. Goddard, 24-year-old French-Canadian dog derby champion, hopes to meet Leonard Seppala, Alaskan musher, in the 300-mile non-stop marathon being staged at The Pas next March. St. Goddard, who has won the race for the first five years, is seen with some of his dogs. The black one is Toby, his aged, but still famous leader.—(I.N.S.).

Opinion Favors Movement To Be Made To Settle Arable Lands In H. B. Railway Area

Pacific Coast Headneck

Will Be Important Commercial Tree Of the Future In Opinion Of Lumbermen

The important commercial tree of the Pacific Northwest in future years will be the hemlock, according to Dr. Douglas fir and the cedar, giant trees of the coast forests, is waning according to the Pacific Coast logging congress, interviewed at Vancouver.

"The big stands of timber in this district are slowly going," said Mr. Vinnings. "Thirty years we witness logging operators cutting their last tree and going out of business. One of the outstanding phases of the problem is the increasing hemlock content in our remaining timber stands. As our lumber line recedes higher up the mountain slopes the percentage of this species increases.

"Hemlock will be our Canadian wood, I believe. It has been despised for years chiefly because it was cheaper for us to cut and market the Douglas fir. But now we have got to show hemlock more respect. Hemlock can be glorified and given a commercial position which its inherent worth justifies.

"This is going to result in a revolution in our logging methods and the abandonment of the destructive and much criticised high lead methods. It will mean scrapping much of our present machinery at present in use. But the change, I believe, will be worth it."

Cheaper In England

Summer Bread Made From Canadian Flour Sells For Less

According to the market reports of the Canadian Trade Commissioner at about the same price as we pay for it here. And a good deal of the flour used in England is imported from Canada and the United States. One would imagine that the price of bread there would be higher than it is here, but flour is not the only factor that has an influence on fixing the price. There are wages, rent, patronage and the various commodities besides flour that go into the making of a loaf of bread. But Christmas cakes, plum puddings, cakes of all kinds and pies are cheaper in England than they are here.

Protects Sheep With Plane

Canberra Man Drives Away Wild Dogs With Roar Of Motor

Strange uses for his moth planes are claimed by Arthur Cunningham, a Canberra grazier, who was among the big prize winners in the 3,000-mile air race across Australia.

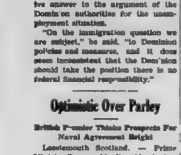
Dingoes (wild dogs), have caused Cunningham a lot of trouble on his station property, and on occasions when he has wished to give special protection to his flocks, he has flown his machine to a certain spot, camped under its wing, and set the engine going at full revolution at midday intervals. Echoing through the still bush at night, the terrific roar of the motor has frightened away every wild dog for miles.

Water-Fowl Of Elk Island Park

Elk Island National Park in the province of Alberta, which is reached by motor car about 20 miles from Edmonton, has become a sanctuary for many kinds of water-fowl and upland game birds. The park provides excellent shelter and natural breeding grounds. Wild duck and geese, blue herons, and sharp-tailed and ruffed grouse have apparently discovered that within this area they are safe from destruction.

"So you want out to meet your uncle's folks and listen to the radio?"

"Yes, but the reception was bad!"



"Congratulations! I have heard that you are to be married."

"I have never thought of such a thing."

"Congratulations."—Gutierrez, Madrid.

One of the fastest known birds is the upland snipe, which reaches the speed of 120 miles an hour over the Straits of Java.

Between miles 127 and 237, on the Hudson Bay Railway, lies a vast belt of clay land awaiting the plough. Small crops for the pioneer who has the courage to go north and homestead. A year ago, Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, declared that the government was ready to help homesteaders get a start in northern Manitoba. But there has been neglect and interest to date among Canadians. Now the suggestion has been made that Mennonites be imported to start agricultural land wagon "north of 53."

Harbored in Germany today there are thousands of Mennonites who are refugees from Russia. Mennonites, who have settled in western Canada in recent years have become known as good farmers, hard-working, husbandlike and peace loving. At the present time prominent westerners argue that federal authorities should modify restrictions to allow these refugees to pioneer in the northland.

The entire matter will likely come before northern boards of trade after new year. In northern Manitoba the opinion is growing that a move must be made soon to settle the agricultural regions in the Hudson Bay Railway zone.

In a recent editorial headed "A Chance For the Mennonites," The Winnipeg Mail, of St. Pau, remarked that "the Mennonites are good farmers and not afraid of work. They are pioneers. If they can show this great belt of northern country early next spring, with its proximity to the markets of the world, its rich clay soil, its lumber, its fur and its bordering lakes and rivers teeming with fish, they could be developed.

"They could start a farming community in the north country, and with ample government assistance prosper."

About 17 varieties of wheat have been grown beond The Pas. Not all of the lands have been successfully successful, but plenty of progress has been made to prove that fortunes in agriculture lie dormant in northern soil.

The clay belt contiguous to the Bay line is an extension of the Ontario belt, right, which is report of the Federal Department of Agriculture. Last summer, an expert agriculturist of the experimental farms branch, made a survey of the territory between Hudson Bay Junction, Sask., and Mile 445 of the Bay Railway.

In a summary of his tour he said: "From Mile 127 to 237 the line passes through the clay belt and there is much good soil not hampered by rock. Last, some desirable homesteads will make good agricultural territory. Most of the mixing people think is open to settlement in the north in the north country to seek agricultural possibilities. Notwithstanding this lack of faith, I have no doubt that when this territory is needed for settlement, the possibilities are there."

Land dairy farming is another industry that would flourish in the north country. Of course, it will naturally follow the settlement.

Wooded terrain predominates from Hudson Bay Junction to The Pas. And the country continues to Cormorant, Mile 43, on the Bay road. There are also many outcroppings of rock

Gardens are numerous at Cormorant, however, and trial plots of wheat, oats and barley were ripe on August 25, when the agriculturist inspected them. Wheat samples included Garnet, Reward, Ceres, Marquis, and Minden. The stems were from 40 to 46 inches in height. Alaska, Gopher, Banner and Victory were included in the oats samples.

At Mile 185, George Cowan boasts a good flower and vegetable garden. The touring agriculturist was surprised at the flourishing fruit trees. The crab apple and the plum trees were in fine shape, and a good crop of raspberries was harvested. Potato yield was again splendid, and Garnet, Reward and Ceres wheats grew well. Oats and barley were more than satisfactory.

Two homesteads are established at Mile 214. Garden plots are good, but conclusions as to general soil fertility cannot be reached until next year. Mile 227 produced a bumper crop of vegetables, including lettuce, onions, peas, beets and potatoes

Vegetables prospered at Mile 227 this season.

General farming has not been attempted beyond Mile 237, but once settlement is under way the march of the agricultural frontiers northward will progress on its own momentum.

THINKS FEDERAL AID SHOULD BE FORTHCOMING

Edmonton.—A statement issued in Ottawa by Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, to the effect that unemployment conditions and relief measures are entirely a provincial and municipal responsibility, is challenged by Premier Brownlee, Mr. Brownlee said that at the Dominion provincial conference in 1927 this position had been recognized by the provinces, whose representatives had made it clear that they did not wish the Federal Government to engage in such measures.

To this Mr. Brownlee answers that he has no recollection of any such attitude being taken in behalf of the provinces, and in fact the latter had strongly objected to the Dominion acting in such questions as unemployment. The position of Alberta in the matter was again intimated to Hon. Mackenzie King on the recent visit to Ottawa.

"Under normal circumstances, says the Alberta premier, unemployment relief might be dealt with as a provincial and mun cipal issue, but there do come times when because of national conditions the provincial governments should jo'n in sharing the burden. The unemployment of the present season is due to the fact that, not due to local circumstances but arises from nat onal conditions and it is therefore a proper matter that the governmental organizations should at such a time forget the nice d'stinctions of the B.N.A. and see that done between the municipal and provincial governments."

Over 72 per cent. of the men now being given unemployment relief have been found to have come to Canada within the past two years, and the majority to have been here less than five years. A fairly large number of these have come from the United States, and the majority have been here less than one year. A fairly large number of these have come from the United States, and the majority have been here less than one year. A fairly large number of these have come from the United States, and the majority have been here less than one year.

Premier Brownlee gives this as the outcome of the inquiry that has been made of the unemployed men who have registered with the relief bureaus and his request for a definite answer to the argument of the Dominion authorities for the unemployment situation.

"On the immigration question we are subject," he said, "to Dominion policies and measures. It is of course inconsistent that the Dominion should take the position there is no Federal financial responsibility."

Optimistic Over Parley

British Premier Thinks Prospects For Naval Agreement Bright

London.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who has returned to London after a fortnight's holiday in the south of France, is full of optimism over the prospects for the five power naval disarmament conference. He is confident agreements were well advanced for the meeting, which opens on January 21.

"I feel very optimistic about the prospects. There is no use in shouting before it's over. There are one or two difficult questions, because of the different conditions of the countries, but see no reason for fearing that an arrangement will not be reached."

Asked whether the government proposed limiting the naval budget to the tonnage of the earliest dreadnought, the prime minister replied: "We shall deal with every class nought reached, the prime minister of warship from dreadnought to submarines."

"Things are very well advanced. We know that there are little's po nts where we have not agreed, but good of them are of such great importance that an agreement is impossible."

Urge Recognition Of Canadian Race

United Farmers Of Manitoba Submit Report At Convention

Brandon, Man.—Recognition of the existence of a Canadian race was strongly favored in the report on legislation submitted to the annual convention of the United Farmers and Farm Women of Manitoba. It was pointed out that, while the word "Canadian" is now to be accepted in census forms under the heading of nationality it is not a permissible entry as a racial or tribal origin. The report contends that many of the races accepted under this heading are "of a more polyglot origin than the present Canadian race."

Four Direct Contracts To Be Established Between Two Countries Of Two Continents

Ottawa.—Closer co-operation between the Canadian and United States postal services relative to Air mail, and an extension of the air mail systems of both countries in the West by measures which have brought W. J. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster-general of the United States to Ottawa.

Mr. Glover, who is in charge of air mail and water transportation of mail in the neighboring republic, was confer-ing with Canadian Postal officials.

Of immediate concern was the inauguration of the new Canadian pacific serv'ce, which goes into commission early in February. Negotiations are on foot to link this up with the United States midwest system and the whole international development, according to Mr. Glover, will be in an air mail flies from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Winnipeg, via Fargo and Grand Forks, N.D.

Subsequently this will be supplemented by flights from Great Falls, Mont., to Regina, Sask.

Four direct contacts will thus be established between the mail systems of the two countr es—Montreal and Albany; Toronto and Buffalo; Winnipeg and Minneapolis, and Regina and Great Falls.

Mr. Glover spoke in terms of high praise of the rapid development of the Canadian air mail service.

The officials of the United States Post Office Department knew Canada was making an aerial enterprise and watched that progress closely and with keen sympathy. But it was under such scattered proportion in a territory that was so vast Canada had accomplished what it has compelled the admiration of the world.

Urges Conference On Status Of India

Gandhi Says Conference Would Respond Gladly To Invitation

Ahmadabad, Bay, India.—"The I ast word has come from there may be a delay in the British with their backs to the wall," declared Mahatma Gandhi, noted Indian Nationalist leader, writing in the newspaper Young India. Gandhi says he believes if the British Government invites the Indian National congress to discuss and form a scheme for independence, the congress would respond gladly to the offer of such a conference."

Dominion Debt Lower

Financial Report Issued At Ottawa Shows Reduction Of $3,000,000

Ottawa.—The three-quarter mark in the present fiscal year finds Canada with revenues largely increased expenditures and a substantial drop in the net debt of the Dominion. The financial statement issued through the Department of Finance shows total ordinary revenue of the Dominion as at December 31 last, $351,277 325 for the nine months of the present fiscal year which closed on Dec. 31 last.

The total expenditure for nine months period of the preceding fiscal year ordinary revenues totalled $343,282,544. The increase therefore amounts to $6 004,781.

Chinese Convicted In Vancouver Traved Over Thousand Miles

Chi-sees—After a thousand mile chase through Western Canada and the western United States, Wong Wa, Chinese, who was convicted of peddling narcotic drugs in Vancouver, in 1923, was in custody here through the efforts of the Royal Canad an Mounted Police. Wing Wa fled from Vancouver after his conviction, forfeit ng $10 000 bail, and fled through Seattle east to Dakota and back into Canada, the Canadian officers said. He was traced to Winnipeg, Windsor, Detroit and finally to Chicago where extradition proceedings will be taken.

Kidnap Chinese Commander

Foo Chow, China.— Yang Shu Chang, commander of the Chinese navy and five members of the Fukien provincial government were kidnapped at an official dinner by a gang of bandits. The bandits entered the dining room and held up the guests with revolvers.

Four Aviators Killed

Members Of Royal Air Force Meet Death In Crash

London, England.—The British Air Ministry announces that four members of the Royal Air Force had been killed when their machine, a Fairey Fox, collided with another machine.

The officers who were piloting the machines were Flight Lieut. Richard B. Cruttenden, and Flying Officer Charles E. Calpin. The two other victims were not immediately named.

The crash was the first fatal one in the Royal Air Force this year. Last year there were 43 deaths in the Royal Air Force in fly ng accidents.

Men Scramble For Jobs

Two Thousand Men In Frantic Fight For Work in Liverpool

London, England.—An answer in those who think the unemployed prefer the dole to work was given in Liverpool, where 2,000 men were as frantic in a fight for the work of unloading the steamer "Oropesa" that they broke up the stands in their rush.

When the foreman appeared there was a struggle for the jobs, so he and scrambled to get in front, and it was some time before order was restored.

OFFICIALS OF WHEAT POOL GOING TO LONDON

Winnipeg.—Officials of the Canadian Wheat Pool are to meet in conference at London, England, with members of the British Government, it was announced recently. Three representatives of the co-operative organizat on are leaving Winnipeg to confer with Right Hon. J. M. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, in the British Government.

According to the announcement from Pool headquarters the London parley comes as result of an invitation extended by Mr. Thomas while in Winnipeg last September, when he conferred with Wheat Pool heads. The Pool representatives at London will be A. J. McPhail, president of the Canadian Pool; D. R. McIntyre, eastern sales manager; and W. A. MacLeod, director of educat on and publicity for the Canadian Pool.

While the Pool statement does not mention the subject of the conference it points out that Mr. Thomas' duties in the Mac Donald Cabinet last summer was to explore every avenue for securing a more uniform flow of seasonal and normal carry-over from Canada and the United Kingdom. Various suggestions, it is understood, were discussed with the Pool representatives for securing a more even and regular movement of Canadian wheat to British ports.

During their stay in the Old Country, the Pool representatives will meet Henry J. May, secretary, and Sir Thomas Allen, director of the International Co-operat ve Alliance, in connection with a proposed conference of producers' and consumers' co-operative organizations to be held next spring.

For the past four years Mr. Van Scoy has been superintendent of Colonization for the Canad an Pac fic at Winnipeg, in charge of Western Canadian and United States offices, and has had seventeen years' colonization experience with the Company.

Parliament To Open February Twentieth

By-Elections Will Then Be Over Before Session Starts

Ottawa.—Parliament will open on Thursday, February 20, or about two weeks later than the opening date last year, in announcing the date of the opening, at the conclusion of a long cabinet meeting, Premier Mackenzie King pointed out that by-elections were pend'ng in three constituencies, and that it was desirable to have them over before the session commenced.

The three constituencies in which by-elections are to be held are Bagot, Chateauguy-Huntingdon, and Hull-Aton. In the latter constituency, where Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways and Canals, is seeking election the contest is set for February 12, while in the two other constituencies the date is earlier. Consequently, it may be possible to have the three successful candidates in the House on the opening day.

Retiring Ambassador Will Visit Canada

Sir Esme Howard To Spend Few Days In Ottawa

Washington.—Before his retirement from the d plomatic service about the 1st of next m February, Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, will pay a visit to Canada to say goodbye.

Sir Esme Howard and Lady Isabella will spend the last few days of January in the Dominion, visiting Montreal, Toronto, and Ottawa in the Canadian capital they will be the guests of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon at Government House. On January 20 the ambassador will dine with the Canadian Club, at Ottawa.

UNDER THE PALMS

His Excellency Viscount Willingdon Governor-General of Canada, under the palms at Dunsiston, British West Indies, with two girls in the old native costumes of the island. Viscount and Lady Willingdon made a cruise of the West Indies on the new Canadian National Steamships now in service between Eastern Canada and the West Indies.

Will Sound Public Opinion

Premier Anderson Considers Natural Resources Question Most Important Problem Facing Saskatchewan

Saskatoon.—Before replying finally to the offer of the Domin on Government to transfer the resources to the province, the government of Saskatchewan proposes to ascertain to a considerable extent the exact state of public sentiment in the province, Dr. J. T. Anderson told a board of trade gathering at luncheon here.

One delegation, he said, had already been interviewed on the subject and another would be seen very shortly.

It was the most important problem facing the prov nce at the moment, he declared, and he held the view that the consensus of opinion of the citizens generally should be ascertained in order that the attitude taken in the reply which would be made, would be representative of the general sentiment in the province.

Pass Canadian Medical Test

Group Of Mennonites May Come To Canada Shortly

Berlin.—"I only wish it were true" was the comment of Dr. Bruno Deputy Mennon te refugee commissioner, when asked regarding a report that 8,000 Mennonites are to be sent to Canada and Mex co immediately.

Actually only 127, composed of 30 families and five single men, so far have passed the rigorous medical examination of the Canadian Pacific physician, Dr. S. Gardner

A cable has already been sent to Ottawa for permission to allow 200 to emigrate. The party will likely be met by Canadian Federal Immigration doctor at Hamburg confirms the medical tests of Dr. Gardner. The first group will likely leave late in January.

U. F. M. WILL STUDY FORM OF CROP INSURANCE

Brandon.—Insurance against agricultural ills as a means of remedying the farmers' financial condition is to be investigated by the members of the United Farmers of Manitoba. The annual convention voted to instruct its board of directors to probe the possibility of crop insurance and similar protection.

Co-operation of the United Farmers of Alberta, and of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan division, will be sought in the investigation. In the resolution approved by the farm meeting it was requested that a report be submitted at the next annual session.

"Every other type of business is able to obtain insurance," declared John Arbuth, of Roblin, sponsor of the resolution, "and none is in greater need of protection than that of agriculture. Uncontrollable weather and crop conditions have caused the present financial situation among farmers. Hail insurance such as is available now, is entirely inadequate as a means of assuring the farmer of a living."

Reorganization of agriculture is the present duty of Manitoba farmers, commented Hon. T. A. Crerar, Dominion Minister of Railways speaking recently before the annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba. Discussion on transportation he considered a "red herring" taken for the progressive farm problem.

"I am first to admit that a new rating in the Maritime King cabinet, the former Premier is better made to relieve the present situation," Mr. Crerar outlined the progress of the United Farmers of Manitoba's movement, and pointed to the recent fight for changes in the Canada Grain Act, additions to the tariff and creation of maritime rights.

"Those matters were taken when the United Farmers of Manitoba was a co-operative unit. Manitoba's success should be demonstrated."

He thought the United Farmers might investigate the advisability of organized farming development, and stress the value of education a matter of supreme importance, he declared. Such schools he considered as vital assuring better means of credit more favorable freight rate and lower tariffs.

"Canada is stepping into the arena of public affairs," the minister of railways mentioned. "On Canadian soil rests the responsibility of laying the foundations of equity, justice and right. I know of no organization which is better fitted the duties in the province than the United Farmers of Manitoba.

NAVAL POLICY OF BRITISH PREMIER CAUSES CONCERN

London, Eng.—A certain amount of uneasiness is expressed in some of the newspaper editorials with regard to Premier Ramsay MacDonald's statement on leaving Lossiemouth for London.

"Britain, with the full consent of the admiralty up to now, is prepared to make proposals which will mean considerable reduct on in the naval program without in any degree impairing the security of the empire."

The Morning Post says: "The country still is in the dark as to what the proposals are," and adds, "while Premier MacDonald claims to be an exponent of new d plomacy, his methods have been at least as secretive as the old."

The Daily Telegraph states: "It must be said that the temper of Mr. MacDonald now discloses and confirms his own as well as the mood that has long been entertained. Does he approach the conference with a clear conception of the country's and the Empire's naval necessities shall be in no way compromised by any forthcoming proposals? What is feared —and the tone of th's new statement confirms the fear—is the prime minister's intention to justify his own optimism by producing the result of the conference, a naval agreement by hook or by crook, and will not be deterred if it is found attainable only through the reckless sacrifice of British naval interests."

Will Introduce Radio Bill

Measure Will Be Discussed At Forthcoming Session Of Parliament

Ottawa.—A bill will be introduced into parliament at the coming session, as a result of the report of the Radio Commission, it will likely be referred to a special committee of the House of Commons before which all interested parties would be given an opportunity of express ng their views

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, whose department is responsible for radio matters, made this announcement recently. The bill will be before the house next week when a final decis on will be made as to the form of it.

"My only desire and the only desire of the government is to provide a board of directors to probe the possibility of crop insurance and similar protection.

Date Subject To Change

Bad Prairie Air Mail Likely To Start February Third

Winnipeg.—Officials of the post office department have tentatively set the date of the inaugurat on of the prairie air mail service on February 3

Word to this effect was received in the Manitoba King cabinet, the former Premier is better made to relieve the present situation, Mr. Crerar outlined the progress of the United Farmers of Manitoba's movement, and pointed to the recent fight for changes in the Canada Grain Act, additions to the tariff and creation of maritime rights.

"Those matters were taken when the United Farmers of Manitoba was a co-operative unit. Manitoba's success should be demonstrated."

Mr. Crerar referred to the question of the Maritime Rights, and declared that the matter should be discussed in the light of the present day conditions.

He thought the United Farmers might investigate the advisability of organized farming development, and stress the value of education a matter of supreme importance, he declared. Such schools he considered as vital assuring better means of credit more favorable freight rate and lower tariffs.

"Canada is stepping into the arena of public affairs," the minister of railways mentioned. "On Canadian soil rests the responsibility of laying the foundations of equity, justice and right. I know of no organization which is better fitted the duties in the province than the United Farmers of Manitoba.

Court House In Saskatoon

Saskatoon.—Saskatoon is to take the first step in asking the province of Saskatchewan for the erection of a court house at Saskatoon. The matter came under discussion at the council meeting this week, and it was decided to bring the matter to the attention of the government.

Shipments Reduced

Washington, D.C.—Official Canadian reports available at the treasury showed that exports of alcoholic beverages from Canada in the United States for November, amounted to 290,456 gallons, a decrease of 228,416 as compared with November of 1928.

Miss Stephens of Toronto, addressed the meeting and gave many interesting facts showing the success of the prohibition movement in U.S. Mrs Cash read a letter written by a distinguished lady visiting in Denmark, recently, which states: "It is now the very smartest thing you can do to refuse a drink. In this country they have no very large gay parties where everyone has how smart they were, by drinking cocktails at lunch, tea and dinner, with champagne, highballs, Rhine wines and beers thrown in. If they were rather smart to get them, and another to themselves green in the face. Fortunately it is the fashion to be in perfect health, which is not possible when indulging in these alcoholic drinks and cigarettes."

John Pitterson Of Auburndale, Killed In Accident

A sad accident befell Mr. John Pitterson, whose farm is away north of town across the river, last week when in some manner he fell or slipped from a load of hay and was dragged to his death.

From information to hand it appears he was hauling hay from the Carlson farm on sleighs and it is supposed that in some manner he slipped down in front of the rig and behind the team. This probably scared the team, which immediately bolted for home. The team and sleigh were discovered standing at the barn door of the Pitterson place, while the body of the deceased was still in under the sleigh. He had apparently been dead for some time before being found. His head was very badly bruised where the king bolt of the sleigh had struck him several times.

After investigation it was decided that the death was accidental and the coroner was not deemed necessary.—Wainwright Star.
